The boys were dresesd up, some ghosts, one skeleton, one policeman and one girl. The girls were dressed up also. Some witches and some clowns. When we got up to her house there was a sign saying "This Way In." We went down cellar and fell over boxes and barrels. Then we went upstairs. Upstairs we played Fruit Basket and other games. We loked for peanuts and ducked for apples and had a fine time indeed.

Kind to Elderly Lady.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you and I hope that you will enjoy my story.

An old lady is very lonesome. Her children are all married. They want her to come to live with them, but she loves her old home and wishes to stay there as long as she lives. Sometimes I stop and talk to her. She tells me stories about when she was a girl and came to this country.

Last December was my eleventh birthday, and I had a party. When we were all having such a good time, I saw her watching us from her porch. I asked my father to go over and get her. He did, and she enjoyed the party as much as the boys and girls did. After lunch she told us such nice stories that the girls say they are going to see her now, so she will not be lonesome any more.

The North Wind.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the fourth time I have written to you I hope you will enjoy my story about The North Wind.

One day the North Wind and the Little Wind started on their journey and wherever they flew they left snow banks. Whatever they touched became icicles.

Brother Wind said, "Let us go southward and see what it looks like." So south they flew. They saw things that they never saw before. "Oh, look at the pretty flowers; let me kiss them." When the cold North Wind's breath had touched the flowers thay turned black and died. "Do the flowers not like the North Wind?" asked Brother Wind. "No, they like better the South Wind."

"I want to become a South Wind," said Brother Wind. "You will become weak, but if you go far south you, too, will become a South Wind."

"Good-bye," said the Little Wind and away he flew.

Likes Wide Awake Letters.

Dear Uncle Jed: My mother takes the Norwich Bulletin and I like to read the letters from other children. We had a nice time Hallowe'en. We dressed up and looked very funny. We went for a ride from the green up to the new bridge. I will watch and see if this in printed in the paper. I have two brothers but no sisters.

A Hallowe'en Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now going to tell you about our Hallowe'en. We went up to a friend's house. When we got out of the car we ran to cellar steps. There was a sign that said This Way In. We had to follow a string. We fell over corn stalks and poles. There was a ghost in the corner of the cellar, and it made a startling noise. When we got upstairs we played games. These are some of the games we played. We played Fruit Basket and Peanuts. The one who had the most peanuts had a prize. We played with the punch board. Then we had supper. Some of the children went home.

Imaginary Story of a Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was a small puppy my master took me hunting. As I was running after a rabbit I got lost in the woods. My master looked for me all day but he could not find me so he went back home. I walked and walked and in a few days I reached a small farm house. I was very glad, for I was very hungry and tired, thinking the old farmer would give me something to eat, but all I got was a small bit of stale bread and water. It made me feel very sad to think that I could not see my good master any more. Now I realized for the first time how good and kind my master was to me. It was very cold that night and I thought I would go in the house and have a sleep, but as soon as I came to the door the old farmer came out with a broom and chased me away. I had to lay on the cold cement steps all night. The next morning the old farmer awoke very early. He milked his cows and put the milk on the wagon. He took me along with him Soon we came to the city. The farmer pushed me off of his wagon, looked and before I knew it I was in front of my old home. I gave one loud bark from delight. Suddenly my master appeared in the doorway. I ran to his feet and licked his hands My master began to pat me.

Thanksgiving.

Dear Uncle Jed: I did not write to you for quite a long while. Thanksgiving will be here soon, so I thought I would write and tell you about it.

When the Pilgrims came to America they worked hard and planted corn, potatoes, etc. In the autumn they were busy picking fruit. So one day the Pilgrims invited the Indians to a party. Just before the feast the Pilgrims went into the woods, hunting. Their wives cooked and baked the turkeys, ducks and rabbits that they killed. When the feast day came which was on the last Thursday of November, the Pilgrims and the Indians had a very jolly time. We will also celebrate Thanksgiving which will soon be here.

A Game I Like to Play.

Dear Uncle Jed: A game I like to play best is "Blind Man's Buff." Sometimes I have a number of friends visit me and we play it. The reason I like it is that many can play it and all have a good time.

It's lots of fun to tease the blind man and then to duck away before he can guess who you are. I hate to be caught because that means that you must be teased for ever so long and be the blind man. EDWINA YORSZ,
Norwich. Age 8.

How I Became a Book

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about the book.

"Hey, John, throw that bale of rags into the machine." "Why, I thought you were not going to use them until tomorrow." "Never mind what you thought—do as I say and be quick about it." Those were the first words I heard since the rag-picker, sold us to the paper mill and dumped us in the store room, so I am starting my autoblagraphy with them.

Yes, these were the fatal words, for it wasn't but a minute, when down a shoot we went, into a set of knife cutters that reduced us to dust. From then on we passed through a number of machines, which made us into paste then into rough paper and finally into fine finished paper. We were then stored in a stock room until some days later we were taken out and brought to a place called the press.

While at the press we were run through machines or presses and made up into a book. Every one was copied from the book written by a well known American author as the second edition of the Camp Fire Girls on the Hike, of which I am one and hope you will enjoy reading me.

FRANCES MARUSIEWICZ, Age 12

A Book

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a book. I was once an old rag lying in an ash can with the rest of the rubbish. From here I was taken in a wagon and brought on the dump.

A small boy who was walking around the dump saw me. He picked me up, put me in a bag with some other rags and sold us to a ragman for a few cents.

From here we were sent to a papermill where we were washed clean. Then I felt a thousand little knives going through me and reducing me nearly to powder. Afterwards I was tken to the boiler where I was boiled in steam until I became pulp.

Now I was put into another machine where I was printed, cut, pasted and made into a book. Every one of us being the same, knew we were all packed in a box and sent to a store where we were unpacked and put into a case for sale.

A young man came into the store and bought me for a few cents. He took me to his children. They played with me, tore some pages out of me and threw me in a corner. At last they put me in a fire and burned me up. This was the end of my life.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

ACIDS IN COMMON FRUITS ARE AIDS TO NUTRITION

Fruits have been recognized increasingly in recent years as important items in the diet, in part because it has been discovered that they are excellent sources of vitamins. However, the fruits have other imperiant constituents, notably the acids, on which much constructive research work has been done in recent years by chemists in the United States department of agriculture.

Citric acid and malic acid, usually both in the same fruit, have been found to be the principal fruit acids. The acidity of oranges, lemons, grapefruit, limes and most of the berries is due almost entirely to citric acid; apples and quinces owe their sour tang almost entirely to malic acid, while peaches, apricots and pears have a mixture of the two. The blackberry acid is called isocitric, and E. K. Nelson of the bureau of chemistry and soils describes this as a "peculiar fruit acid not found elsewhere in nature. Isocitric acid is closely related to citric acid, possessing the same empirical formula but a different structure."

In a table giving the acidity of more than a score of fruits, Mr. Nelson records that the tamarind, with 8 per cent. acidity, is the sourest fruit, more than twice as acid as the lemon, with 3.86 per cent. The tamarind's acidity is due almost exclusively to tartaric acid. The grape is the only other fruit with a considerable content of tartaric acid.

Some of the acids are not beneficial to the bodily well-being of the eater, but these, fortunately, exist in the fruits in such small quantities that they are not dangerous. One of these acids which has a somewhat poisonous effect is oxalic acid, which appears in rhubarb. Mr. Nelson found that 100 grams of rhubarb contained less than 2 grains of oxalic acid. The minimmu lethal dose of oxalic acid is 60 grains.

In the body most of the acids are oxidized readily, the sodium, potassium, or calcium with which they combine remaining to counteract acid conditions in the body and to help prevent excess of acidity.

NOVEMBER SUGGESTIONS FOR PARASITE PREVENTION

In November everyone should continue to take precautions against trichinosis arising from the use of raw pork products, says Dr. Maurice C. Hall of the United States department of agriculture, in the Calendar of Livestock Parasites published recently for free distribution. Two other general warnings are emphasized on the November page of the calendar: "Control worms in chickens" and "make certain that houses to be occupied by livestock during the winter are clean, on well-drained land, and are well ventilated."

"If your chickens have worms," writes Doctor Hall in the text, "as revealed by a post-mortem examination of one or several of them, use 2 per cent. by weight of finely powdered tobacco dust containing at least 1.5 per cent. nicotine in the dry mash to control roundworms and cecum worms in the flock and thus diminish the danger to young chicks and poults next spring. The cecum worm carries blackhead. Consult Farmers' Bulletin No. 1330-F.

"Beware of raw or inadequately cooked pork products. Continue to take precautions to protect yourself and your family against trichinosis.

"November is an excellent month for putting all buildings that are to be occupied by livestock in good condition for the winter. Give special attention to cleanliness, drainage and ventilation.

"Manure is the greatest source of danger from the eggs and young of parasitic worms and the cysts of coccidia. Old and well-rotted manure may be regarded as safe so far as these parasites are concerned, and fresh manure must be regarded as dangerous. If manure is kept until well rotted, it should be under conditions which prevent fly breeding. If it is spread on the fields while still fresh, it should be plowed under promptly."

CORN BORERS FEED ON ARIETY OF WEEDS AND CROP PLANTS

Although the European corn borer is known widely and feared most because of the damage it does to the growing corn crop, corn is not the only plant it attacks. More than 200 kinds of plants have been listed by entomologists of the United States department of agriculture as subject to attack by the borer. It may live and reproduce on several common weeds. It has been known to enter greenhouses and cause damage to chrysanthemums. A number of crops, some not important in New England but of interest in other sections, have been attacked when planted there experimentally. These include the small grains, the millets and buckwheat, the grain and syrup sorghums, broomcorn, Johnson grass, Sudan grass and teosinte, cotton, tobacco, hemp, peanuts, soy beans, cowpeas, okra, white sweet clover and hops. The tests also included several crop plants which were never found to be infested, such as alfalfa, flax, rye, sweet potato, upland rice and veelvet beans. Of those attacked the damage has been inconsiderable in most cases with the exception of hops and hemp.

Many weeds are severely attacked, notably the ragweed, pigweed, knotweed and cocklebur, which are widely distributed. The fact that weeds and other plants are able to support an infestation indefinitely emphasizes the difficulty of controlling the spread of th borer. Some who do not understand the nature of the pest have suggested a wide barrier zone in which corn cultivation would be prohibited as a check on the spread of the borer. The plan would not work. Studies of the feeding and breeding habits of the borer have indicated that nothing less than a desert in which practically all vegetable life had been destroyed for miles would stay the advance of the borer. Severe borer infestations have been found at considerable distances from cornfields. In fact, one of the conditions highly favorable to borer multiplication is the existence of such weedy areas as often grow up near the dumping grounds of cities. In such places a variety of weeds provide a constantly suitable source of food supply for borers.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

If neither silage nor a root crop is available as a succulent feed for the dairy cow, dried beet pulp soaked with about three times its weight of water makes a satisfactory substitute.

The selection of baits for trapping rats is as important as in poisoning. Fresh baits, changed daily, should be used. A variety of baits, such as meats, vegetables and cereals on successive traps usually will give better results than only one kind of bait. Almost any food suitable for human consumption is recommended.

Since the largest part of the return from farm flocks is derived from the sale of lambs, it is important that they be kept in the best marketable condition. Ram lambs and undocked lambs are discriminated against on the market because they are less well developed and lack a uniform and attractive appearance.

To be successful in beekeeping a careful study of bee activities is essential, and the work cannot be done successfully by rule of thumb. Because of the study necessary to success, it usually is advised that the beekeeper start on a small scale and increase his colonies as his experience grows. The alert beekeeper may increase the number of his colonies rapidly and it is a mistake to spend years in preparation for commercial beekeeping.

In the southern states weevils can be discouraged from attacking stored corn by keeping, as far as possible, only those ears which have long, tight shucks. Unprotected ears should be fed or sold as quickly as possible. If necessary to store corn without good shuck protection, it is better if it is shucked, shelled, cleaned and put in closely woven cloth bags.

FARM WOODS A SAVINGS BANK, SAYS FOREST OFFICER

Timber is a farm savings bank, to be drawn upon in times of extra need, says W. R. Mattoon, extension forester of the forest service, United States department of agriculture. The trees are the capital or principal; new growth is the interest. Each day the interest is added—and the cashier cannot run away.

Farm woodlands have many times been the means of lifting a mortgage, or making the difference between profit and loss on the farm balance sheet, Mattoon says. Timber and wood are required for the successful operation of the farm and most farmers have some lands better adapted to tree growth than cultivated crops. The growing of timber is therefore legitimately a part of the regular farm program. Timber conservation has come to be a matter of economic necessity. No farmer can afford to pay taxes on idle land.

If the woods-bank is drawn on only to the extent of cutting the growth, or interes, he capial remains untouched, and the investment continues undiminished. Some useful hints in using farm timber rightly, in cutting for continuous growth, and in marketing farm timber are given in department of agriculture leaflet No. 29, "The Farm Woods—A Savings Bank," just off the government presses.

ARMY PLANE REPORTED AS LANDING IN FIELD

An airplane with motor trouble was obliged to land during the week in the Armstrong lot on the Preston road. When landing a wheel was broken, causing the plane to remain for several days until repairs could be made. A U. S. army plane flew over town Saturday, so low that the report was circulated that it also had landed in the same field, but this was not so.

OBITUARY

Miss Doris Palmer

William R. Palmer has been notified of the death of his niece, Doris Palmer, aged 20 years, in St. Josephs hospital at Willimantic. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Palmer and her home was in Mansfield.

Active at Middletown

A recent issue of The Middletown Press contained pictures of the magnificent new Y. M. C. A. building. Among the photographs used was that of George T. Meech, a veteran Y. M. C. A. official. He was the first president of the association and is still active in it. Mr. Meech was born in Lisbon, where he lived until early manhood. He is a member of the firm of Meech and Stoddard, he later having purchased the interests of Mr. Stoddard, he and his sons conducting the business, one of the grain stores being located in Jewett City at present.

Automobile Dust

It has long been customary to explain the dust-raising properties of automobiles as due to "suction" by the tires. Further study of the problem by certain experts seems to show that there is no such suction, but that the dust and fine articles from the road are thrown up by a combined flicking and kicking action. The flick arises from the rapid recovery of form by the tire as it is released from pressure at the bearing point, and the kick is imparted by the driving wheels when more power is transmitted through them than the adhesion between tire and road warrants. The eddying currents in the wake of the flying car serve to whirl the loosened dust high in the air.

SALVATION ARMY BLDG., NEW LONDON, ORDERED SOLD TO PAY TAXES DUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—In an effort to bring about the additional collection of back taxes due the city, Collector Hibbard N. Alexander Saturday issued four more warrants, one of which calls for the sale of one of the newest semi-commercial buildings in the city. It is the brick structure on Mal.. street erected as the home for the Salvation Army and of three stories, a part of which building is rented for commercial purposes. It is said that the army owes taxes on the building since its completion in 1924, the four assessments on the levies of 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927, not having been paid. The amount of taxes due is $4403.58 and the property is ordered sold at public auction Jan. 19 at 10 a. m.

Thornton Woodbury, former New York police commissioner and for many years a summer resident in this city, owes the city $11,814.50, this amount representing the levies on a house and large tract of land on Ocean avenue, on the assessment of the levies from 1924 to 1927, inclusive. The house and land is ordered sold Jan. 19 at 9 a. m. The property was bequeathed to Mr. Woodbury by a relative for the former's life use; upon his death the testatrix provided in her will that the building and land was to be used in connection with the work of the Associated Charities.

Israel Goldstein owes the city $809.70, this amount representing the assessment on the levies of 1926 and 1927. A house and lot owned by Goldstein on Main street, is ordered sold Jan. 19 at noon.

William M. Vars is indebted to the city $138.12, this amount representing the assessment on the levies of 1926 and 1927. His house at 94 Squire street, is ordered sold Jan. 19 at 11 a. m.

Only two cases were tried in the police court Saturday, both being for intoxication. The accused were fishermen and they received suspension of judgment.

Henry C. Chappell of 107 Federal street; Mrs. Donald Avery and infant son of Norwich and Alex Chernick, 145 North Bank street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital were discharged Saturday.

FUNERALS

Miss Fannie Potter

The funeral of Miss Fannie Potter, daughter of the late Franklin and Samantha White Potter, was held Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at Hallam Memorial chapel, the service being read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Frederick C. Sanders

The funeral of Frederick C. Saunders was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 3 Howard street. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Eider. Business associates of Mr. Saunders acted as bearers. Burial was in Gardner cemetery.

James Magee of New York, pilot of the New England Steamship company freighter Mohegan, struck by an automobile driven by T. B. Parrish, 48 Granite street, at the corner of Bank and Truman streets, Friday and who, it was believed, suffered a brain injury, is reported improved at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Mr. Magee's injuries have been determined to be no more serious than lacerations of the head, face and hands.

Arthur H. Beckman has sold a building lot on Lester street to Frank C. Pierce.

Archibald S. Macfarlane has sold to Michael and Josephine Colandeni, a building lot on Colman street.

HORSE FROM PALMERTOWN CAUSES A SENSATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—A horse owned by John Gallagher, Palmertown started excitement Saturday evening, when it fell into a trench. The horse was being driven along Colman street and when in front of 99 where there is an excavation to permit laborers of the city's water and sewer department to make repairs a passing automobile caused the animal to shy and as it did so it fell into the ditch. A force of city employes lengthened the excavation digging at a grade so that the horse could be driven up to the street surface. Except for a few scratches and bruises the horse was unhurt and was driven to Palmertown.

Elisha Stanchfield, with a police court record, was arrested Saturday night charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. He was taken in by Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Traffic Officer Frank Linehan.

RODE ON COWCATCHER OF PROVIDENCE EXPRESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—Joseph Suzedelis, 11, residing at 238 Chalkstone street, Providence, R. I., if he tells the truth, had a wild and harrowing ride to this city Friday night for he declares he had the ride on the pilot of a locomotive of a Boston to New York express. Suzedelis was found roaming about Golden street early Saturday morning by Thomas Kenure, 175 Montauk avenue. After hearing the boy's story, Kanure accompanied him to police headquarters, where the latter related his experience. The youth stated that in Providence a companion older than himself, induced him to board the pilot of the locomotive as the train was departing for this city. After a ride that gave the youth all the thrills he desired and those he will not probably ever forget, the train reached New London, much to the boy's satisfaction. Here he jumped from the pilot and ran to the street, elated to get his feet on the ground again. He was taken to the Salvation Army lodging house, and provided sleeping accommodations for the night. Saturday forenoon, Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield provided the youth with transportation back home.

Patrolmen George Cockell, William Riordan and Michael Dorsey started on their vacations of two weeks Saturday. Patrolman John Clifford returned to duty after a fortnight's vacation.

Miss Lillian Curley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Curley, of Culver Heights was married to Homer L. Keys, U. S. N., of Georgia, Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. H. Howe officiated. After a honeymoon through the New England states Mr. and Mrs. Keys will reside in Portsmouth, N. H.

Members of Circle No. 4, of the First Baptist church, were entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. George Kopp, Jefferson avenue. Plans were discussed for holding a chicken pie supper.

Directors, officials and employes of the different banks of this city attended a dinner and social held during the week by the Bankers' Athletic association at the Quaker Hill firehouse. The supper was served by the Quaker Hill Sunshine society.

At the session of the Doric club bridge tournament Friday night Herman H. Appiedorn won first honors. Eight tables were in play.

At the annual play of the French club of Connecticut college music will form a large part of the program. The play is to be directed by Dr. Leonie J. Setchanove of the department of romance languages. It will be held on December 7.

William Bauer, professor of pianoforte at Connecticut college, gave an interesting and entertaining recital at the college Friday night. The selections rendered were varied and a large audience gave him hearty applause.

More than 35 tables have been reserved for a bridge party to be held in the Mohican hotel by members of the Alumnae association of Williams Memorial institute. Irma Musante is chairman of the committee arranging the affair.

Members of Wasshefu Girl Reserves held a dance Friday night at the Y. W. C. A. More than 40 couples were present. Music was by the Shepard, Jr., orchestra.

The election of the freshman class of Connecticut college was held Friday night and the following were chosen to office: President, Lois Saunders of Cleveland; vice president, Clark Robertson, Westport; secretary, Manion Nichols of Springfield; treasurer, Ruth Judd of Cleveland.

Hiram K. Crocker of Willets avenue, celebrated his 85th birthday Thursday. He received many gifts and during the day a number of friends called.

Nancy Hempstead council, Daughters of America, will attend an exemplification of degree work and a supper to be given by New Britain council, Monday. About 80 members from this city will go.

Five tables of bridge were in play last night by members of the Crowley club in their quarters on Jay street. Winners of prizes were Bessie Foley and Theresa Smith. Helen Duffy was in charge of the arrangements.

ST. JOSEPH'S PASTOR COMMENDS RED CROSS CAUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—The Red Cross roll call in this city received the endorsement today at the three masses in St. Joseph's church of the pastor, Rev. Father William C. Fitzsimmons, who spoke of the cause as meriting the aid of all. Three hundred and forty-one dollars was turned in at Red Cross headquarters by ward chairmen in the roll call campaign Friday night, bringing the total to $1,150.85. The ward chairman reported as follows:

| Wards 1—Mrs. Herbert Z. Kipp chairman | $ 28.45 |
| Ward 2—Mrs. Fitch D. Crandall, chairman | 162.85 |
| Ward 3—Mrs. Henriette T. Sherman | 17.30 |
| Ward 4—Mrs. James N. Kelley | 11.00 |
| Ward 5—Mrs. Ludwig Mann | 122.25 |

Headquarters at the Connecticut Power community house will close Monday night at 6 o'clock. After that time and durin gthe rest of the campaign, which will last until Thanksgiving, the collectors will turn their money into their ward chairman, who will turn it over to the treasurer, Miss Mildred Keefe. Those whose homes are not visited by a team worker and who wish to enroll, have been asked to bring or send their money to one of the ward chairmen.

WEDDING

Shea-Williams

John H. Shea, Jr., was given a bachelor dinner Friday night by a group of friends. The affair was held in a cottage at Golden Spur. Mr. Shea married Saturday night Miss Ruth Williams daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Williams of 23 Whittlesey street. Mr. Shea is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shea of 17 Vietz street. The marriage took place at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory. Rev. William C. Fitzsimons performed the ceremony. A reception for members of the families and a few friends was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

"Lady Be Good" lives up to the exhortation of its title.

It is good—in fact it is better than any farce comedy that has been screened here in many months. Opening its local engagement at the Breed theatre yesterday, First National's film version of the musical comedy success of the same name brought constant ripples of laughter and won many new fans for Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall, who share co-featured honors in the production.

Mulhall plays the role of "Mysterio," a magician on a second-rate vaudeville circuit, and Miss Mackaill is his winsome assistant who helps him produce rabbits from hats and make plum puddings disappear.

Almost the entire picture takes place backstage in the vaudeville theatres of the circuit, with the other players providing the supporting characters in the story.

James Finlayson as the human target for the expert pistol shot provides many uproarious moments as does Dot Farley as his wife, who shoots apples off his head for the amusement of spectators.

Willys Overland

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 17—The Willys-Overland company reports net profits of $8,557,399.21 for the nine months of the current year ending September 30, after all charges but before federal taxes, indicating that the 1928 business volume of the company as well as its earnings for the year will establish a new high record.

The nine months earnings compare with $7,306,184 for the same period of 1927, an increase of $1,251,215.21 for the first nine months of 1928.

The company's earnings for the third quarter of the year were $2,146,584 after all charges except federal taxes compared with $1,250,631 for the third quarter of last year.

Throughout the current year the Willys-Overland has set new monthly sales and production records and is now nearing the end of the greatest year in the entire history of the company with an indicated output of 325,000 Whippets and Willys-Knights.

Not alone has the Toledo manufacturer of Whippet fours and sixes and Willys-Knight sixes shown a record breaking domestic business for 1928 but the remarkable growth of the company's business in the foreign markets of the world and the wide public acceptance of the Willys-Overland products has been one of the features of the current year's business.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Rusty Bites a Tail

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

One way in will do for me,
But two ways out I want to see.
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

Rusty the Fox Squirrel was in a disturbed state of mind. Yes, sir, he was quite upset. He was in a strange hollow tree. That means it was strange to him. He had taken a nap on a bed of leaves. Now leaves do not get into hollow trees unless they are put there. A few may blow in, but not enough to make a comfortable bed. Therefore, someone had made this bed in which Rusty had been sleeping. When he had first found it he had been quite sure that this hollow tree home was deserted. But now he wasn't so sure. He had been awakened by the sound of claws on the outside of that tree.

A back door is a good thing to have. Johnny Chuck would tell you that. Reddy Fox would tell you that. Old Man Coyote would tell you that. But homes made in hollow trees seldom have back doors. There was no back door to this hollow tree home. There was only one way out and, of course, that was the only way in. Rusty thought of this now as he listened to the sound of the claws on the outside of that tree.

"I guess," thought Rusty, "that it would be well for me to get out of here right away. If there is an owner to this house and he should find me in here, he might make it very unpleasant for me. I'll get out right away."

He looked up at the entrance, and just as he did so the entrance was darkened by someone who thrust his head in. In the dark Rusty couldn't see what that head looked like, but he could see that, whoever it was, he was bigger than himself. Rusty was scared. He didn't like the size of this newcomer and he didn't like the smell of this newcomer. But what could he do? There he was, trapped! He couldn't squeeze past and there was no back door. Rusty was in a panic. Whatever should he do?

But the stranger did not come down to where Rusty was. He turned around and then poked his head outside and there he sat looking out. It was quite evident that this was his home. He had the air of ownership. Rusty waited and waited.

Now, hanging down was a tail. The end of the tail almost reached Rusty. Now and then it moved. Rusty right CUT HERE 1

away discovered that it was a queer tail. It was nothing at all like his tail. Goodness, no; it was nothing at all like his tail! It didn't have any hair on it. Rusty wondered if the hair had fallen from it or if it had never had any hair.

"I don't see what use a tail like that can be," thought Rusty. "Now, when I jump that tail of mine balances me. In winter, when I sit back to the wind, that tail protects my whole back. When I curl up, I curl that nice big tail of mine around me and it helps to make me warm and comfortable. But what can a fellow do with a tail like this one? It looks to me like a useless tail."

At just that moment a thought came to Rusty. What would happen if he should bite that tail? Would it scare the owner so that he would run away? Anyway, it would be almost certain to give him a chance to get out. If he should be ready to dash out of that entrance as soon as the owner went out, he would have a good chance of escape. It was his best chance. Rusty reached out to bite that tail, but just before he set his teeth in it he drew back. His courage was not quite equal to that bite. Three times he started to bite and didn't. But the fourth time he did. Yes, sir, he bit that tail, and right away things began to happen.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's

The Yokohama Maid, one of the prettiest, liveliest, and most tuneful shows that this city has seen will be presented next Wednesday evening at the Palace theatre. With a well trained cast, with good soloists, with costumes which are exceptionally pretty and all hand made, a treat is in store for all who see this play. All should see it. The price of the tickets has been purposely kept low so that everyone may be able to witness this play. No halfway measures have been taken in producing this show—the public already knows that St. Mary's never does a thing half-heartedly, and this means that this performance will equal anything which St. Mary's has shown. Considerable expense has been incurred that the public might have a good show; if you have not as yet bought a ticket, do so at once. The seats are selling rapidly.

Palace Theatre

A romance told amid the crash of machine guns and the uncanny mysteries of the underworld is the unique drama in which Lon Chaney is starring at the Palace theatre, in "While the City Sleeps," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid cross section of the underworld.

The new story is essentially a romance of the "inside" at New York police headquarters, where A. P. Younger, the author, studied it at first hand for weeks. Jack Conway, who directed "Twelve Miles Out," directed the new play.

Anita Page is charming as the blonde heroine, and figures in the "triangle" with Chaney and Carroll Nye, a new juvenile of huge promise. Mae Busch does a forceful characterization as "Bessie," the "moll" of the gangster and unique bits of comedy are injected by Polly Moran as the policeman's landlady, Richard Carle as the inebriated reporter and William Orlamond as the comical undertaker.

Lydia Yeamans Titus, beloved character actress, is at her best in the "mother" role in the gripping story and Clinton Lyle, as the "gentleman gangster" has a unique role that he fills with rare skill.

Esther Ralston's newest cinemadrama, "The Sawdust Paradise," which opened yesterday at the Palace theatre, shows Paramount's glorious blonde in a new and altogether satisfying type of role.

The story has a well knit plot. It concerns Esther, in spangles and pink tights as the ballyhoo and spieler for the Six Diving Venuses; Reed Howes, her sweetheart who is a grafter operating one of the carnival's crooked concessions, and Hobart Bosworth, a he-man evangelist whose tabernacle, across the street from the carnival, houses only a handful of persons nightly.

Reed Howes is excellent in his role which is similar to that of the prize fighter in Clara Bow's "Rough House Rosie." Hobart Bosworth is splendid as the evangelist, a character which he never lets veer from the human. Alan Roscoe and Mary Alden give characteristic strong performances.

No Need to Diet at Any Age

PLENTY of people past "three-score-and-ten" eat what they please without penalty. They don't have heartburn, or flatulence, or any distress due to excessive acid. But they do take care of their stomachs—with "Pape's Diapepsin." Thus, their digestive organs are soothed, healed and strengthened in a wonderful way, and normal healthy digestion results.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions recommend "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and food accessories, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise.

BLESSING OF NEW BELL AT POLISH NATIONAL CHURCH

Blessing of the new church bell took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Polish National Catholic church on Golden street with the services being in charge of Rev. Bishop Wawlewowski of Chicopee Mass., who was assisted by Rev. Joseph Saltysiak of Westfield, Mass. Rev. Peter Lulas of Wallingford and Rev. Father Miklosuaiski of New London. After the blessing of the bell vespers was offered and a sermon given by Rev. Saltysiak, who paid especial tribute in a very fitting manner to the fine work that the pastor of the Polish National church, Rev Pulilt had rendered since he took charge of the parish. He also spoke words of praise of the fine co-operation of the parishioners of the church which enabled their pastor to do the successful work. Only a short time ago you dedicated a beautiful organ in this church of which you can be proud of. Rev. Saltysiak also gave a very clear explanation of the symbols of the bell and of the needs of having one. Among the large attendance at the services that taxed the church to its seating capacity were people from New London, Stonington, Jewett City, Willimantic, Chicopee Westfield, Mass., Wallingford and Westerly. Following the services the out of town guests were invited to the basement of the church where refreshments were served by the ladies of the parish.

REQUIEM MASSES SUNG AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Requiem masses offered at St. Mary's Memorial church the past week were the following: On Monday morning at 7.30 anniversary mass for Patrick and Rose Mitchell: Tuesday morning at 7.30 anniversary for Mrs. William O'Brien. ### NORWICH HOMES WILL ENTERTAIN S. S. DELEGATES

Hundreds of private homes in Norwich will entertain delegates to the Connecticut State Sunday School convention, which opens at the Central Baptist church, Wednesday morning. The delegates will come from almost every city and town in Connecticut, representing some 250 Protestant churches of all denominations. It will be the largest Sunday school convention ever held in this state, according to the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, under whose auspices it will be conducted. Members of the Norwich churches have offered their hospitality to the visiting delegates. Each home will entertain at least two delegates, and some a larger number. As the delegates arrive they will be assigned to the homes where they will stay during the three days of the convention, by the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Emery H. Davis of Norwich is chairman.

An attendance of 1500 is expected at the convention sessions. Each church will be represented by four delegates and as many representatives as it chooses to send. The program this year is especially strong, including many speakers and religious educational specialists of note. It is designed to provide both instruction and inspiration to the Sunday school teachers and those who expect to take up religious teaching. The record registration for the convention is looked upon by the Connecticut Council of Religious Education as another evidence of the growing interest in religion and religious work on the part of the young people of the state. This growth of interest is attributed in large measure to the intensive work of George Nesbitt McClusky, secretary of education for the Connecticut Council of Religious Education.

Increased interest in religious education was first reflected earlier in the year when the number of church vacation school throughout the state jumped from 61 to 79. These schools, which are attended by children of school age, supplement the teaching of the church Sunday schools. Another indication of this tendency was the increased enrollment of the summer school of religious education at Storrs in August and which was attended by teachers. The enrollment was 40 per cent larger than a year ago. Still another evidence is the fact that the number of evening training schools for teachers in all parts of Connecticut has increased 50 per cent during the past year.

The convention will open Wednesday and close Friday evening. Among the speakers will be Miss Margaret Slattery, who has often lectured before clubs and church bodies in Connecticut as well as all over the United States. She has written many articles and several widely read books.

EVENING OF CARDS FOR DEGREE TEAM'S UNIFORMS

The degree team of the Woman's Benefit association had a very successful evening of whist and pinochle at the Eagles' hall Friday night. The prizes were awarded as follows: In whist—ladies, Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Kane tied, Mrs. Kane winning on a cut the first prize, a bed spread, and Mrs. Leonard the second, a bread board and knife. The third prize was also a tie between Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Patridge, with Mrs. Patridge winning a berry set. Gentlemen, first, by G. Fields, a billfold; second, A. Strom, a cigarette case; third, W. Webber, cuff links. In pinochle—ladies, first, Mrs. Walker; second, Mrs. Casey; third, Mrs. Herring. Gentlemen, first, T. John; second Mr. Antessi; third, J. Soles; the prizes being the same as whist. The proceeds of the evening will be used by the degree team for uniforms.

AUTO OPERATOR CHARGED WITH DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

Having his attention attracted by the erratic operation of an automobile on High street about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, Officer Calkins made an investigation and arrested the driver, Andrew Barry, 26, of this city on the charge of operating while under the influence of liquor.

Barry will appear in the city court.

LESSON ON HARMONY FROM MOTION PICTURE

By far the largest audience of the season thus far, attended the afternoon service at the local Young Men's Christian association at 3:30, Sunday. Every seat in the large gymnasium was occupied, and many extra chairs were brought in, and yet quite a number stood during service. The meeting opened with the singing of "America" and this was followed by the Scripture lesson, after Rev. Myron E. Genter, the district superintendent of the Methodist church, offered a fervent prayer. The first half of the famous moving picture feature, "Sorrell and Son," was shown with very impressive and uplifting effect. The second half of the feature will be shown next Sunday at 3:30 o'clock. During the service, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, and he spoke in part as follows: "We read in the Bible, these words, 'Behold how good a thing it is to dwell together in unity (harmony).' During the political campaign recently concluded in the election of Herbert Hoover, there was constant urging for 'party harmony.' The leaders knew that unless there existed harmony in their party defeat would be their lot. In business also harmony is necessary, else the business cannot long succeed. The same thing is true in church life, for unless there is harmony among the members and the pastor there will be little or no success. In the home life harmony must prevail or homes will be broken, and, alas, how many homes are broken today because of discord. This great picture illustrates how discord will smash the happiness of the home. There are harmony makers and there are also harmony breakers. The basis of all real lasting harmony is love, unselfishness and sacrifice. Harmony costs something, but it is worth all it costs. Everything that is worth while, costs something. There are so many in these days hunting for bargains; it is pathetic to see the folks who will walk a half a mile to save a nickle. Generally speaking, there are no real bargains; we pay for what we get, and we get usually what we pay for. Jesus Christ is the great maker of harmony. Behold His love, His unselfishness and His supperlative sacrifice on the cross that we might be saved from sin. Beautiful harmony results from the imbibing of the Christ spirit. No country, no home and no individual can be its best apart from the influence of the great Master. Satan, sometimes called the devil, is the great harmony breaker, and we see plenty of evidences of his work in the lives about us. He sometimes 'appears as an angel of light'; he is deceiving many of our young people today. If we win the mastery over Satan and follow the leading of the great Christ we will banish discord and establish harmony. I hope everyone here today will endeavor to be a harmony maker instead of a harmony breaker."

THANKSGIVING SERVICE TO BE AT UNITED CONG. CHURCH

The union Thanksgiving service of the Protestant churches of Norwich is to be held in the United Congregational church, Thursday evening, November 29th, at half past seven. Rev. Joseph Cooper of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church will preach the annual sermon.

TAFTVILLE

Rev. George H. Reese of Central Village was the preacher at the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday. The anthem after the offertory sung under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader was "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me."

A committee which is to have charge of a dance at the Community hall in the new schoolhouse at Newent under the auspices of the Lisbon Community club held a meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Helmboldt in Blissville. It has been planned to have old fashioned and modern dances at the social. Mrs. Clara T. Caron is the chairman and the other members of the committee include Harold Mell, Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Richard Kyle, Mrs. Adam Leupold and Mrs. George Helmboldt.

The members of the Dramatic club who are rehearsing for a minstrel show and a drama to be given at the annual fair of the Taftville Congregational church held rehearsals at Ponemah hall Friday evening, followed by a business meeting.

LITTLE THINGS OF LIFE MONSIGNOR MAY'S THEME

Taking his text from the gospel which he had read for the twenty-fourth Sunday after Pentecost, Matthew 13: 31-35, the parable of the grain of mustard seed, the rector of St. Patrick's parish, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, preaching to a congregation which filled the auditory at the 7:30 mass Sunday considered the importance of the little things of life. The Saviour spoke in parables, not to confuse and confound the multitude, rather to instruct His hearers. The use of figures of speech was customary in the Oriental period of His work and time, that people might be led to ask questions.

Their inability to understand was like to our own inability to explain the mysteries of Revelation. In all ages there have been pseudo-scientists claiming to know it all; these in their wisdom cannot solve the problems of natural science, yet they will endeavor to solve the riddles of life—something impossible unless man is aided by revelation. The mysteries of the Creator, the Unseen, are revealed to man through the words of God as Christ made clear His teachings through parables.

The mustard seed is significant of the importance of little things. It is the first little thing in the spiritual life that counts—the little thought, the little sin, which begins the formation of a habit. By encouraging the little good things, by doing little things well, in the best manner possible, spiritualizing the little acts, man works toward that perfection which God demands of us all. Be on your guard against the little mustard seeds of evil, was the preacher's admonition, while stressing dependence upon God's help and light to gain salvation. Unaided, our intellect can never accomplish anything; back of what we think and say and do must always be the clearness of the Divine Spirit which illumines life's mysteries.

Later, Monsignor May had the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin in administering holy communion to nearly the entire congregation, beginning with the Rosary society. It was announced that this society has requested a memorial mass for its departed members this (Monday) morning. Tuesday there is to be a month's mind mass for Mrs. Mary Fagan, while on Wednesday the Catholic Women's club, Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh, president, is to remember its dead. Thursday, Division No. 54, A. O. H., will memorialize its deceased members in a similar manner, in accord with the practice of the Catholic church of devoting November, month symbolical of the dying year, to special prayers and works of mercy for those dead who may be detained in the place of purgation until rendered worthy to enter the presence of their Maker.

An invitation was read to all members of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women to attend a meeting of the New London council, Friday at 3 p. m., in the rooms of the Diocesan Bureau on Jay street in that city. There will be addresses on important industrial problems by prominent speakers.

THE YACHT ARA STARTS ON WORLD-ROUND TRIP

W. K. Vanderbilt's yacht the Ara, recently overhauled at the Thames River shipyard, sailed Saturday from Miami, Fla., on a round-the-world cruise of eight months, during which the wealthy owner hopes to capture rare specimens of sea life for his private collection and for American museums. The cruise, which Mr. Vanderbilt has planned for several years, will be the longest of the many he has taken, and scientists believe it will be among the most important in point of marine discoveries made in years. The Ara probably will touch at Nassau and sail through the Panama Canal, returning by way of the Mediterranean and the southern route.

The yacht has a crew of 37 men including Mr. Vanderbilt. Guests on the cruise will include Robert Lancaster of Boston, Mrs. Vanderbilt's brother, and Pierre Merillon of Paris, who will board the Ara at Honolulu. Dr. J. Alexander McIsaacs of New York, ship's surgeon, Captain Charles Thompson, a veteran fishing guide of Miami Beach, who has accompanied Mr. Vanderbilt on cruises for twenty-eight years, and William E. Balanski, artist of the Museum of Natural History of New York city will also be in the party.

MOHEGAN CIRCUIT OF E. L. MEETS AT NOANK M. E. CHURCH

The midyear institute of the Mohegan circuit of Epworth leagues of which Rev. Charles E. Spaulding of the Methodist Episcopal church of New London is dean and Miss Margaret Ungerer of Uncasville, registrar, met at Noank Methodist church Firday evening. Supper was served in the dining room of the church at 6 o'clock and following the supper the party divided itself into two sections, one being taught by the Rev. J. S. Pennepacker of Niantic and the other by Mrs. George W. Potter, wife of the minister of Norwich Town Methodist church. The several churches included in this circuit are Norwich, Uncasville, Gales Ferry, Willimantic, New London, Westerly, Mystic and Noank. A New England supper was served, the chairman of the committee being Mrs. Alice Clark, assisted by Mrs. Helen Phelps, president of the Noank league.

DIVORCE FOR DESERTION TO OCCUM WOMAN

In the superior court here Friday morning, Judge John Richards Booth granted a divorce to Isabelle Wathen of the Baltic road, Occum, from Walter J. Wathen, formerly of Occum, now of Sinking Springs, Pa. The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion since July 25, 1924, and was uncontested. They were married Nov. 25, 1916.

Mrs. Wathen's testimony was that her husband sold out a poultry business, which really belonged to her and departed with the proceeds of the sale, about $1,000. He also took and automobile which belonged to her but she later received this back. Two women friends gave testimony in support of the suit.

STATIONS OF THE CROSS BLESSED AT HANOVER

The blessing of the Stations of the Cross in the new St. Joseph's church, Hanover, Friday evening at 7:30, was attended by many from surrounding towns. Rev. Adelard A. Jalbert and Rev. Bernard J. Foster of St. Mary's church, Baltic, blessed the Stations and Rev. John J. Reilly of Norwich preached the sermon. The devotion of the way of the cross followed, Rev. Father Reilly leading.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Father Foster. The organist, Miss Catherine McMahon, and the choir provided special music during the impressive services.

Only Two Passenger Trains

Under the new ruling there is only one passenger train stopping at this station—the State of Maine express from New York at 11:24 p. m and the same express south-bound at 3:24 a. m., from Worcester.

Compensation is made by bus service from 7 a. m. south to New London every hour and north to Worcester. Agent Herbert E. Hanna is still in the ticket office, mostly selling tickets for the various busses. Miss Isabel C. Murphy continues in charge of the restaurant.

In explanation of the charge there is the brief statement, "The automobile did it!"

NORWICH TOWN.

LOOM IS REPAIRED FOR COMMUNITY USE

The Farm Bureau loom, which is loaned to the Norwich Town club, is now in use after necessary repairs. This loom at present is at the home of Mrs. Everett Rogers and can be used by anyone in the town while at her home.

Mrs. George Kahn of Franklin, recently had as guests for the day Mrs. William Weaver of Norwich Town, Mrs. Donald Bullard and daughter, Nancy Luella Bullard of Montville, Mrs. Weaver accompanying Mrs. Bullard to her mother's home in Franklin.

Services at Congregational Church

"Gifts In Perpetuity" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's Sunday morning sermon at the First Congregational church. The anthem by the choir was "God Of Mercy". Miss Mabel Corrigeux was the leader assigned to the Young Peoples' C. E. meeting, when the topic was "What Practice of Stewardship Would Mean to the World."

Mrs. Luella Tracy Gager of Stonington has been the guest for the past week of Norwich Town friends, calling on other friends and former neighbors. A resident on Washington street for several years, Mrs. Gager, always receives a cordial welcome when coming to Norwich Town for an annual visit.

Having returned from a few days' stay in Willimantic, Miss Annie Ward, a member of the family of Mr and Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green, from April 30th until November 10th, is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stott, of Plain Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Snow of Norwich Town and A. C. Snow of Springfield, have returned from New York and Cranbury, N. J., where they attended the funeral and burial of Mr. Snow's eldest brother, Howard S. Snow, of the former place.

William Burdick has been visiting for a week or more at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burdick of North Stonington.

Death of Rosolvo Fox

Word was received recently by Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of the death of Rosolvo Fox of Natick, Mass., father of Mrs. Charles Senter, Mr. Fox has frequently visited at the Weaver home with his son-in-law and daughter. Mr. Senter is Mr. Weaver's nephew.

Tonight at Congregational Chapel, 6-7:30, pancake and sausage, 35 cents. —adv.

WALCOTT SPENT $3,063 FOR ELECTION EXPENSES

United States Senator-elect Frederic C. Walcott expended $3,063 to secure his election, according to a statement of expenditures filed in the office of the secretary of state at Hartford. The principal expense was a contribution of $3,000 to the republican state organization. The balance was for personal expenses during the campaign.

The second largest contribution to the republican state central committee was recorded Friday in the statement of Helen Hartley Jenkins of Norfolk, a republican presidential elector. A contribution of $5,000 to the state campaign fund was her only expenditure.

George Lewitt of New Britain, democratic candidate for secretary of the state, spent $810.43, according to his statement. Of this amount $400 was a contribution to the democratic state organization and $100 for the New Britain town committee.

Hudson B. Hastings of New Haven, treasurer of the Hoover advertising committee, reported expenditures of $810.48 towards the election of Herbert Hoover. All of this money was spent for newspaper advertising in New Haven.

Statements were filed Friday by Nicholas Rago and Milton D. Newman of Hartford for the fifth and third ward republican organizations. Both listed expenses of $400 which was contributed by the republican town committee.

Robert C. Stoddard of Milford reported the expenditure of $25. His statement reported that he was a candidate for "the presidency."

A certificate of appointment for Edward P. Anderson, treasurer of the prohibition committee of Connecticut, was filed by Emil H. G. Hohenthal. The statement of the committee was not filed, however.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

When the Supper-bridge club met Saturday with Dr. and Mrs. William W. Leonard, of Julian street the prizes at cards were won by Mr. and Mrs. Weston C. Pullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, who have been guests at the Mohican hotel since the close of the cottage season at Watch Hill, are expecting to return to their home on upper Union street Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Miss Mary E. Richards and Miss Virginia Chase of Norwich, with Frank Richards of Montville, were members of a family dinner party of ten, Saturday evening at the home of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, at The Pequot.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Powelson had as week end guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Smith and children, Marjorie and Allan, from Pawtucket.

Rev. and Mrs. Elwood G. Tewkesbury, of Shanghai, were guests for a brief time during the week of Mrs. Charles S. Holbrook.

Lieut. Frank Virelli, of the state police department, in command of the Westport barracks who suffered a nervous breakdown last week, was reported at St. Vincent's hospital, in Bridgeport, as being considerably improved.

DEATHS AND DESTRUCTION BY FLOODS IN FIVE STATES

Heavy Rains Have Brought Kentucky and Illinois Into the Flood Belt—Along the Borders of Missouri and Illinois the Mississippi River is Out of Its Banks—17 Deaths Have Been Reported—Property Damage is Estimated at More Than $10,000,000—Several Thousand Families Are Homeless With a Cold Wave and Snow in Some Places.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19—(AP)—Overflowing streams were spreading death and destruction in five states tonight and the mighty Mississippi river itself was out of its banks along the borders of Missouri and Illinois.

Rainfall of unprecedented proportions for this time of year brought Kentucky and Illinois into the flood belt during the day and increased the seriousness of the situation in Missouri, while communities in Eastern Kansas and a portion of Oklahoma were slowly recovering from the most disastrous November flood on record.

Three deaths in Kentucky, where the Cumberland river was on a rampage, and two more reported in Kansas brought the total known dead to seventeen.

Property damage already was estimated at more than $10,000,000. Several thousand families were homeless with a cold wave and snow in some places, adding to their misery.

Three employes of a coal company were swept to their deaths near Pineville, Ky., when a bridge over Cumberland river was carried away. Swollen by 36 hours of rain the stream invaded the business district of Middleboro and flooded dwellings in the low parts of Pineville, Harlan and Barbourville. More than 700 persons were forced to flee their homes in Harlan.

At Quincy, Ills., the Mississippi river had reached flood stage and was pouring through broken levees, inundating thousands of acres of farm land. There were unverified reports that three persons had drowned. The flood from the Mississippi and its tributaries had taken a heavy toll in livestock and damage to farm lands in this area was estimated at $1,000,000.

The Missouri river was reaching the flood stage across the whole Missouri and threatened inundation a large acreage of bottom land in the vicinity of St. Louis. The Grand river and other streams were on rampage and many rail lines and highways were blocked.

At St. Louis the Mississippi was rising rapidly and with a crest of 16 feet, two feet below flood stage, predicted for Thursday.

Refugees in the flooded areas were being cared for by local organizations, but the cold wave and snow made further aid necessary to battle against the threat of disease.

At Ottawa, Augusta, Winfied, Arkansas City, Neodesha and other places in Kansas hard hit by the floods, the water was rapidly subsiding. Churches, schools and lodge halls were concentrating places for refugees, and the American Legion and Salvation Army were lending a hand to make them comfortable.

While the crest of the flood had passed from east and north central Kansas, it was spilling out in diminished force in the southern part of the state.

Train schedules still were in a state of disorder, and rail officials characterised the tieup here as the greatest in history. It was expected, however, that most schedules would be back to normal by tomorrow night. Several towns in Kansas have been without train service since last Friday night or Saturday, and hundreds of travelers are stranded at various places.

In Missouri the damage to highways was immense, officials estimating the loss in Jackson county (Kansas City) alone would amount to more than $100,000.

THREE PERSONS DEAD 1,000 PERSONS HOMELESS

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 19—(AP)—The wrath of the Cumberland and Kentucky rivers tonight had cost the lives of three men, driven approximately 1,000 persons from their homes, flooded the low-lying sections of five communities and caused untold property damage in eastern Kentucky. Reports from the flooded areas tonight indicated that the torrent had not reached its crest, and at Pineville the water still was rising at the rate of eight inches an hour.

The three victims were swept to death on the crest of the flood waters about sixteen miles from here. They were Lawrence Miles, Melvin Tatron and C. E. Saylor all employes of the Virginia-Harlan Coal corporation, at Tejay, Ky. The three were standing on a bridge over the river attempting to salvage bits of wreckage when a huge tree was whirled against the structure, carrying it away. They have not been found.

The flood brought a story of devastation throughout this region. The water in Pineville had ooded all number of houses late today and was reported to be from six to eight inches deep on the floors of some business houses.

In Georgetown and Sunshine, suburbs of Harlan, it was reported today that some 700 persons had been forced to flee from their homes. The Main street was under water in Harlan at last reports.

At Barbourville, a few families were forced from their homes. At Middlesboro the business section was inundated. Residents of low-lying sections had deserted their homes.

Roads leading from Harlan, Pineville, Middlesboro and Barbourville were under water.

FOGGY WEATHER CAUSE OF COLLISION OF TRAINS

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 19—(AP)—Collision of two passenger trains in the Boston & Maine railroad yards south of the Lowell station today resulted in the injury of 25 persons. Two railroad employes were taken to hospitals in a critical condition.

A south-bound train, which had been switched to the north-bound track because of repairs, was struck by a north-bound train as the former was going back on its own track. The engine of the north-bound train struck the fourth car of the other train, causing two cars to topple over and two others to leave the rails.

Twenty-two of the injured persons were on the south-bound train which had just left the station on its way to Boston. The two trains were traveling between Boston and Woodsville, N. H.

All the injured except two were taken to three hospitals.

Railroad officials said that the wreck was caused by the apparent failure of the engineer on the north-bound train to see a signal which would have held his train until the other had passed to its own track. Foggy weather was advanced as the cause for poor visibility. Estey Eames of Medford was the engineer of the north-bound train. He was not injured.

The two most seriously hurt are J. J. Hart of Stoneham, conductor of the Boston-bound train, and Samuel Lucas, of Lowell, fireman on the same train. Hart is in the Lowell General hospital and Lucas in St. John's hospital.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW BORDER CROSSING CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—At the request of the government, the supreme court today reversed a previous decision and consented to decide whether persons domiciled in Canada can cross the boundary to work, or in search of employment, without passports and visas or otherwise complying with American immigration laws.

The court recently had declined to review a case in which the circuit court of appeals for New York had held that Mary Cook and Antonio Danelon had the right, under the Jay treaty of 1794, to enter the United States at Niagara Falls and Buffalo without passports and visas, both being domiciled in Canada.

This case will now be reviewed.

WILLIMANTIC MAN HELD FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 19— (AP)— Frank Nycek, 36, of 49 Brook street, Willimantic, Conn., and Joseph Makara, 44, of the same address, were arrested tonight by state police on a charge of illegally transporting liquor. Police claim they found six ten-gallon kegs filled with liquor in the car when the machine in which the men were riding was stopped just over the city line in North Providence. The men were turned over to federal authorities.

EVILS RESULTING FROM GOVT. CONTROL OF LIQUOR

BOSTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—Miss Rosamond Duff of Toronto, speaking tonight before the 54th convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, said that under government control in Canada "the increase of facilities for the sale of liquor means an increase in liquor, increase in drinking, increase in drunkenness, increase in accidents and increase in crime."

Miss Duff, who is secretary of the Ontario Woman's Christian Temperance union, declared that government control had failed to prevent bootlegging or the sale of poisonous liquor in Canada.

"We are told," she said, "that when 'good' liquor could be obtained no one would want the poison stuff, yet with all the enormous quantity of liquor sold by the government in Canada, so great is the use of rubbing alcohol as a beverage that one of the government liquor officials declared that 75 per cent of all the rubbing alcohol now sold is being bought for drinking purposes."

STEWART DEFENSE HAS PRESENTED ENTIRE CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19— (AP) — Stressing particularly the question of whether a quorum of the senate Teapot Dome committee was present when Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, is alleged to have committed perjury, counsel for the oil man today presented its entire case within one day's session of the District of Columbia supreme court.

Stewart took the stand in his own defense together with more than a dozen character witnesses. Three of the witnesses gave evidence intended to support a statement by Stewart that a question forming the basis of one count in the perjury indictment was not asked in the course of the oil man's appearance before the senate committee.

Late in the day, Justice Jennings Bailey, who is presiding, excluded from the evidence a government exhibit previously admitted in a resolution adopted by five members of the senate committee last December declaring that five constituted a quorum.

GALE CROSSED SCANDINAVIA AND THE BALTIC SEA

LONDON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The great tempest which devastated portions of England and northwest Europe late last week, moved across Scandinavia and the Baltic sea and tonight was spending its force in the sub-Arctic regions of Russia.

Tales of marine disaster and of property damage on land came from the wake of the storm and additional reports were also received of probable loss of life both afloat and ashore.

The gale took a toll of more than two score lives and it was possible that this might be nearly doubled when details are received of some of the wrecks on the wave-lashed coast.

The fate of 11 of the crew of the steamer Feltham, wrecked on the coast of Cornwall, remained in doubt tonight.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Nov. 19—(AP)—Official denial was made that the Council of Ministers on Oct. 29 had discussed plans for holding an athletic meet for girls and women in Rome next spring.

BUSHIRE, Persia, Nov. 19—(AP)—Capt. Frank Hurley, flying the "Spirit of Australia," en route from Australia to England, passed over here and disappeared in the direction of Basra.

BERLIN, Nov. 19— (AP) —Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld, with his Swedish pilot, K. Lindner, arrived home from Tokio by way of the Trans-Siberian express, well satisfied that his flight to Tokio had demonstrated the aviation possibilities between Europe and the Far East.

PARIS, Nov. 19— (AP) —Georges Scapini, war-blinded deputy, returning from a tour of the United States where he had represented the French war veterans at the American Legion convention, described it as a "stupendous country." "Friendship such as exists between the French and American war veterans," he said, "is the basis upon which to build a real and lasting peace."

GOV. TRUMBULL PROCLAIMS NOV. 29 THANKSGIVING DAY

Our generation has made good use of the gifts of God. All about us are evidences of the ingenuity and the industry of men of our own time, by whose accomplishments the opportunities of life have been multiplied and enriched. We may with propriety honor our scientists, our statesmen and our pioneers for their devotion to the cause of human progress; but we may not with justice fail in our gratitude to God, by whose providence all such progress is made possible. Our New England forefathers first gathered together to give voice to their thankfulness for the simplest blessings; for food and shelter and for freedom to worship in their own way. The occasion for such expression has not lessened as the measure of God's gifts has filled to overflowing.

In conformity with ancient custom, therefore, I designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, next, as a Day of Thanksgiving.

And I urge the people of Connecticut to gather on that day in their several places of worship, and in their homes, there to give thanks to Divine Providence for the many benefits with which He has blessed the least of us. It should be a day also for visiting the sick, for relieving the needy and for befriending the homeless. By such good works is God praised most sincerely and most effectively.

Given under my hand and seal of the state at the capitol, in Hartford, this 19th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-third.

Signed: JOHN H. TRUMBULL.

By His Excellency's Command,
Francis A. Pallotti,
Secretary.

COMMON STOCK SPLIT BY DU PONT DE NEMOURS & CO.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 19—(AP)—After declaring the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share and an extra dividend of $4.75, or a total of $7.25 a share on the common stock, the directors of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., today decided to split up the stock of a basis of 3 1-2 to 1 if the shareholders approve.

The dividend declarations on the common stock will mean a total disbursement of $20,380,000.

Of the extra dividend of $4.75, it was announced that $3.25 represents the distribution of General Motors recent extra dividend, of $2.50 a share on the stock held by the Du Pont company.

A special meeting of the Du Pont stockholders has been called for December 14 when the shareholders will be asked to readjust the capital stock by changing the authorized common stock from 5,000,000 shares of no par value to 15,000,000 shares of $20 per share par value.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR MAYOR OF JERSEY CITY

TRENTON, N. J. Nov 19—(AP)—The legislature in a concurrent resolution tonight ordered a warrant issued for Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, directing that he be brought before the bar of a joint session next Monday at 2 p. m.

This action gives him an opportunity to answer a charge of contempt placed before the senate as a result of his refusal to obey a subpoena ordering him to appear on October 29 last before the case legislative committee investigating alleged irregularities in local government.

POLICE GIVEN MORE TIME ON ROTHSTEIN MURDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker today gave the police department a little more time to produce some developments in its efforts to solve the Arnold Rothstein murder mystery.

Last week the mayor said that unless the police had uncovered "something further" by today, he would take action himself. However, at the conclusion of an afternoon conference with Joseph A. Warren, the police commissioner, the mayor said he was willing to wait for developments which the commissioner had told him were expected soon—possibly not until tomorrow.

Rothstein was shot in the Park Central hotel two weeks ago last night and died on election day.

CHARGED WITH SEEKING TO INFLUENCE A JUROR

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 19—(AP)—John H. Potter of Barrow county and B. F. Collier, former sheriff of Jackson county, were arraigned before United States Commissioner J. E. Brown of Newnan, here today, charged with seeking to influence a juror in the coming trial at Gainesville, Ga., of Forest Adair, Sr., and three others on charges of using the mails to defraud.

FAILED IN EFFORTS TO FLOAT FISHING SCHOONER

WELL FLEET Mass., Nov. 19—(AP)—Efforts to float the fishing schooner Virginia, which went ashore here last night, failed today. After the last three members of her crew of 17 had been taken off by coast guardsmen and brought to Provincetown, one of the masts was pulled out in an attempt to glide her into deep water.

She is believed nearly a total loss. She was loaded with 10,000 pounds of fish.

Severe Arraignment Of The Ku Klux Klan

Its Purposes and Activities Sharply Criticized in Supreme Court Decision.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)— The purposes and activities of the Ku Klux Klan, were criticized in severe language by the supreme court today in an opinion sustaining the New York state law, which requires klan and similar oath-bound secret associations to file reports concerning their membership with the secretary of state.

Quoting other judicial decisions and a hearing before congress, the court said it was clear that the klan belonged to that class of societies which made the "secrecy surrounding its purposes and memberships cloak for acts and conduct inimical to personal rights and public welfare."

The opinion held that this warranted the states in aiming at such organizations laws different from those applying to organizations which had no such tendency.

In the opinion, which was handed down by Justice Van De Vanter in a case from Buffalo, N. Y., the Ku Klux Klan of today was described by the court as "a revival of the Ku Klux Klan of an earlier time, with additional features borrowed from the 'Know Nothing' and the A. P. A. orders of other periods that its membership was limited to native born, gentile, Protestant whites; that in part of its constitution and printed creed it proclaimed the widest freedom for all and full adherence to the constitution of the United States; in another exacted of its members an oath to shield and preserve 'white supremacy,' and in still another declared any person actively opposing its principles to be a dangerous ingredient in the body politics of our country and an enemy to the weal of our national commonwealth."

The opinion declared that the klan was conducting a "crusade against Catholics, Jews and Negroes and stimulating hurtful religious and race prejudices; that it was striving for political power and assuming a sort of guardianship over the administration of local, state and national affairs; and that at times it was taking into its own hands the punishment of what some of its members conceived to be crimes."

These facts had been clearly brought out, Justice Van De Vanter asserted, before a committee of the house of representatives and all who desired to be informed on the klan should be thoroughly advised by this time. He quoted a court as declaring of the klan that "it is a matter of common knowledge that this organization functions largely at night, its members disguised by hoods and gowns and using means calculated to strike terror into the minds of the people."

There was good ground to differentiate such organizations, Justice Van De Vanter continued, from Masonic lodges, Knights of Columbus and other organizations exempted from making reports to the secretary of state, because the purposes of the exempted organizations were well-known. While many of them are oath-bound and secret, the supreme court cited with approval the declaration of another court that "we hear no complaints against them regarding violations of the peace or interfering with the rights of others."

The case was brought before the supreme court in April in the case of George W. Bryant, a member of the Buffalo provisional klan of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan who was convicted for failure to file a report required under the Walker law.

Hoover Sails For Central America

Battleship Maryland Left San Pedro, Cal., at 11.08 A. M. Yesterday.

ABOARD THE S. S. MARYLAND, off San Pedro, Calif., Nov. 19—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, president-elect, boarded the Maryland at 10:02 a. m., today as the start for his journey to Latin-American countries.

EVERY HONOR EXCEPT THE PRESIDENTIAL FLAG

ABOARD THE U. S. S. MARYLAND, at sea, Nov. 19—(AP)—With every honor except that of the presidential flag Herbert Hoover today left United States soil on a mission of friendship and understanding to the sister republics of the western hemisphere. This battleship, which is to be his headquarters until the trans-Andean journey from Chile, steamed steadily southward tonight through the calm Pacific.

The Hoover party was cheered from its arrival on a special train at San Pedro to the dock where it boarded the barge of Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States battle fleet. They were carried two miles across the harbor to the waiting Maryland under escorts of navy launches filled with cheering officers in full dress.

Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commander of the battleship division, Rear Admiral William C. Cole, and other high ranking naval officers stood at the gangplank to receive the president-elect while the guns of the Maryland and of nine other battleships boomed out a salute of 21 guns.

The men of the Maryland lined the deck at attention and a full guard saluted while Mr. Hoover passed. The band gave four ruffles and a flourish and a boatswain piped him over the side. As soon as the guests had been escorted to the suites which had been made ready for them, Captain Victor A. Kimberly ordered the battleship to get under way.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood on the quarterdeck with Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher as the ship moved away from its anchorage at 11:08 a. m. They watched with interest the escort of naval planes overhead and the slim destroyers which cut through the water alongside. Then Mr. Hoover mounted to the bridge and stood beside Captain Kimberly to watch the operation of the great battleship.

Six destroyers of the 32nd division continued as honorary companions of the Maryland until nearly off San Diego. With all farewells then receding in the distance, the Maryland took up its course for Corinto, Nicaragua.

DARTMOUTH MAN TO LIVE IN THE "NORTHERN WILDS"

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Curtis H. Glover a Dartmouth college junior, tonight was believed to be on his way to the "northern wilds" to lead a "life described by Thoreau," after having addressed an open letter to the college daily expressing his disgust with the methods of civilization.

Investigation reveals that Glover had resigned from the college on Saturday without revealing to his classmates the details of his plan. His letter to "The Dartmouth" the college paper said that he had left to prepare himself for a "higher life than college leads to" the life described by Thoreau in 'Walden.'"

"I have existed in your civilization now for 20 years. I have existed merely as a spectator," the letter read. "You have forced me to do certain things and I have done them—reluctantly, always inwardly rebelling. Now I have decided to give expression to my wild nature and to try whether it be possible to live humanly."

In another part the letter read:

"You will see the price you pay by looking around you in any lecture room. Professors, pale-faced, eyes glazed—truly hopeless students—dull, tired, yawning, chafing at the systems they are entangled in."

BUSINESS SESSION OF THE NATIONAL GRANGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19— (AP) — Preparatory work in the formulating of a national policy on methods of farm relief marked today's business session of the National Grange as it began the second week of its annual convention here.

A resolution dealing with farm radio programs was introduced today to be considered in addition to the several proposals offered last week affecting its legislative program. Today's resolution, "deplored the curtailment of radio farm programs and demanded full protection of the limited number of established radio channels specializing in farm programs."

TO REMAIN AS DEPUTY SECRETARY OF STATE

A. F. OF L. WILL COMBAT MACHINERY WHEN IT ENCROACHES ON WORKMEN

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, gave notice here today that the organization would fight to the last ditch in combating the displacement of workmen by machinery.

Speaking before the forty eighth annual convention of the federation which opened here today he asserted that the American Federation of labor will never permit a human scrap heap to be created in America."

"Our philosophy and objective throughout the world," he said, "is human betterment and it is our aim always to protect humans before machinery.

"We want a higher standard of living for the workman, shorter working hours with more time for recreation and to devote to his family. Under present day conditions we must carry our fight along many lines.

"We must watch convict labor, child labor, mass production, the displacement of men by machinery and the attempt to destroy the labor movement by use of injunctions."

He hurled defiance also at the National association of Manufacturers and the communists.

Mr. Green said that recently the National Association of Manufacturers held a meeting in New York city at which, he was informed, speakers denounced the federation as a "menace to American institutions."

"We challenged them to produce the evidence," he exclaimed.

RADIO RECORDS EXONERATE OWNERS OF THE VESTRIS

Officers of the Steamer Made No Report to Their Superiors on Land That They Were in Trouble Until After They Had Sent Out a General S O S—In Several Instances After the Ship Had Begun to Keel They Reported "Nothing to Communicate" to a Sister Ship Approaching Them.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—The records of two commercial wireless telegraph companies produced in court today indicated that officers of the steamer Vestris made no report to their superiors on land that they were in trouble at sea until after they sent out a general S O S, which was hours after there were definite signs that they were in serious danger.

And on several instances after the ship had begun to keel it also was shown, they reported "nothing to communicate" to a sister ship approaching them.

Officials of the Radio Marine corporation and the Marconi Wireless company occupied the stand for most of the fourth day's session of the federal inquiry into the sinking of the Vestris off the Virginia capes a week ago today with the loss of more than 100 lives.

Nothing they testified indicated the captain of the ship delayed his S O S until 10 o'clock Monday morning, almost a full day after he had had to leave the Vestris, on any authority other than his own.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, conducting the inquiry before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill, had subpoenaed the radio records to determine the truth or falsity of rumors that during those long hours when the Vestris was keeling over Capt. William Carey had asked for instructions from ashore as to the advisability to asking aid and had been told to make every effort to get along without a distress call.

The only other important witness of the day was Herbert G. Welland, 23-year-old third mate of the Vestris, who had charge of launching the lifeboats. His testimony of the launching was at striking variance with previous testimony of passengers and members of the crew that inefficiency was shown in getting the boats into the water and that they were found to be unseaworthy when they were launched.

The fourth and only other witness of the day was a 20-year-old steward in the second cabin who told of being assigned to investigate a leak in the side of the ship.

At the close of today's session the federal attorney said that he still had some radio records to be produced but he intimated that he believed those already read from the stand were fairly conclusive evidence that Capt. Carey withheld his S O S as long as he did safely on his own responsibility and not in submission to instructions from ashore.

The first witness today was Arthur J. Cotigan of the Radio Marine corporation, who had conducted a search through the files of several of his company's coastal stations. He read the log of the station at Tuckerton, N. J., and such parts of that of the Chatham, Mass., stating as were not duplications of the Tuckerton messages. The logs of the other stations, he said, merely duplicated the Tuckerton and Chatham logs.

The detailed reading of the logs showed that on Sunday, Nov. 11, the day the Vestris had to heave to and began to tip, there was no record of any message from the ship to its fine offices or from the line to the ship. There was no record of any interchange between the two until after the S O S when the line wirelessed the ship for details and the ship replied with a brief description of its perilous condition.

The reading of the log gave as terse a description of the disaster as there has been, in the following entries:

9:10 a. m. today—the Vestris informed the Tuckerton station that it was keeling over and might need help. Tuckerton broadcast the message as a "CQ" stand by warning to all ships.

10:58—Vestris reports condition getting worse.

11:00—"Oh, please come quick," pleads the Vestris.

12:15 p. m.—The Vestris says "can hardly stay and receive."

1:10—Vestris reports steam going and shift to emergency radio set.

1:29—In rapidly fading signals Tuckerton gets from Vestris: "We are going to abandon ship soon."

1:30—Vestris reports ship being abandoned.

And at 1:35— Commercial wireless traffic permitted to resume, the radio stations keeping ships speeding to the rescue informed of each other's progress and receiving their reports of speeding to the scene, and later, of their rescue of more than 200 of the Vestris survivors.

Costigan's reading of the various logs developed the information that at the time of the S O S the steamer Georgia Olsen was apparently only 36 miles from the Vestris, but no testimony was given to show when she reached the scene of the sinking or if she ever got there. The ships that did save about two thirds of those on the Vestris—The American Shipper, the Berlin, the Myriam and the Battleship Wyoming—were all more than 100 miles away from the Vestris at the time of the S O S and did not reach the scene until after nightfall.

GOVERNOR SMITH IS REGAINING HIS ENERGY

EDGWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 19—(AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York is rapidly regaining his vitality and energy here, it was announced by his associates today, as the governor continued his program of sleep, solitude and golf.

The defeated presidential candidate, his friend said, was "a tired man" when he arrived Saturday. Today after 18 holes of golf with J. J. Riordan and William F. Kenny he was in excellent spirits.

Governor Smith will continue his program of seclusion for several days, it was said. An expected exception is a reception for democrats of the section here, perhaps the latter part of this week.

The men were manacled and taken to jail where they were held without bail until today. They are V. V. Dart, Oakland; James Arneth, Redwood City and James Jones, Pasadena. They had carried banners, one of which read "Down With Imperialism."

OBITUARY

Dr. George T. Harding

SANTA ANA, Cal., Nov. 19—(AP)—Dr. George T. Harding, father of the late President Warren G. Harding, died here early today as a result of a paralytic stroke last Friday. He was 84.

After funeral services here tomorrow morning, Dr. Harding's body will be sent to Marion, O., to be laid at rest in the family plot.

Death came for the aged physician quietly while he was unconscious. About his bedside, where they had kept an all-night vigil, were his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Caroline Votaw, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, in whose home he died, and other relatives.

Dr. Harding's fatal illness came upon him Friday as he stood ministering at the bedside of a sick comrade whose friendship dated back to Civil war days. Despite his advanced age, Dr. Harding insisted on maintaining his practice although he had been suffering many years from a chronic malady. When he was stricken he was taken to the home of his daughter here, where he lapsed into a coma.

The physician came here from Marion, Ohio, two weeks ago to spend the winter and visit old comrades. He was born June 12, 1844, in Morrow county, Ohio. He was the only son of Charles A. and Mary A. (Crawford) Harding, pioneers of that section of the state.

Cong. William A. Oldfield

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19— (AP) — Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, democratic whip in the house, died today following an operation two days ago.

The Arkansas representative, who was 54 years of age, suffered an attack of gall bladder trouble last week in his office at the house and underwent an operation Saturday morning. He, however, failed to rally from the operation and succumbed early this afternoon.

His body will be taken tomorrow evening to his home at Batesville, Ark., where the funeral will take place. The body will arrive at Batesville on Thursday morning. Arrangements were being completed today for the usual congressional escort for the body.

Representative Oldfield has been one of the leaders of the democratic party in national congressional campaigns. In 1924 and during the past campaign he headed the party's congressional campaign committee.

The Arkansan was completing his 20th year of service in the house and was considered one of the most important and active members of the democratic delegation in that branch of congress.

STANNARD NOT GUILTY OF RECKLESS DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19—Warren G. Stannard of West Hartford, driver of a roadster which struck and injured Robert B. Gardiner, 26, of Mansfield, retail milk dealer, on Main street here on the morning of September 4, last, was found not guilty of a charge of reckless driving in police court this morning. Gardiner had started across Main street from his truck at a point near the junction of Windham street, to make a milk delivery when Gardiner drove down the main thoroughfare in easterly direction. Through his attorney, Stannard entered a plea of not guilty. Police Officer Pierre E. Marrotte who investigated the accident testified that Gardiner was knocked down some 170 feet from the corner of Windham street. From this point the roadster went over the curbing and came to a stop after straddling a stone walk leading into a residence on the south side of the street. Gardiner's truck was parked on the right hand side of the street facing east.

Gardiner said that he had delivered milk to two customers on the south side of the street and was returning to the truck to get another bottle of milk for one of these customers. He said that he took the precaution to look up the street to see that no car was approaching within a reasonably near distance and he then started to jog, or "dog trot" across the street at an angle. He said that he did not see the roadster at all. He was a patient in St. Joseph's hospital for 14 days. Mike Tomasco, 17, a Windham High school student employed by Gardiner and who was seated in the truck at the time of the accident said that Gardiner was about half-way across the street when the roadster struck him. He said that the rear right fender or mudguard of the machine struck his employer near the hip while the latter was standing in a rigid position. Gardiner, he said, was tossed some feet into the air.

William H. Malley of Uxbridge, Mass., testified that he was driving behind the Stannard car which he estimated was traveling about 30 miles an hour before the collision. He believed that Gardiner had started across the street without looking out for cars. He believed that Gardiner was about in the center of the street when hit.

Pierre E. Gagnon of this city said that he got a fleeting glimpse of the accident from where he was seated in his car some distance away on Main street. He judged that Gardiner was in the center.

Henry Monast and Miss Dora Miles the latter a resident of the locality were the next witnesses. Miss Miles said that the roadster was traveling at an "awful" rate of speed when it neared a point approaching the scene of the accident. She noted that Gardiner had looked up the street before starting across for the second time and she believed that he was more toward the north side of the street than the south when struck. She fainted when she saw Gardiner run down and when she revived the roadster was on the steps of her home.

Stannard was the first defense witness. He said that he did not believe Gardiner had looked in his direction before starting across the street. He said he applied the brakes at once upon seeing the impending danger and pulled sharply to the left in an effort to avoid striking the man. He managed to clear Gardiner with the front of the car and at first believed that he had avoided hitting the man. He estimated his rate of speed at 30 miles an hour.

William H. Kellogg of West Hartford, who was a passenger in Stannard's car corroborated the latter's testimony. After rebuttal testimony by Officer Marrotte the court announced its decision.

DRIVER OF CAR HITS TWO GIRLS AND ESCAPES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19—A search for a hit-and-run driver was started here this afternoon by the local police and officers of the Danielson state police barracks after a Ford truck bearing the Connecticut registration numbers 48-403 had climbed onto the sidewalk on Main street and pinned two girls against the brick front of the Eagle Shoe store. The girls, the Misses Allison of 1704 West Main street and Yvonne Desrosiers of R. F. D. No. 1, Windham Road were slightly injured and taken to a physician's office for treatment. A young man riding beside the driver of the truck got out onto the sidewalk and after giving directions for backing the truck back onto the street the machine was driven away in an easterly direction. The two men did not inquire as to the extent of the injuries caused the girls. Two witnesses secured the registration numbers and one of them gave them to the girls who in turn gave them to the police. A communication with the motor vehicle department at Hartford disclosed that the truck was registered in the name of Blanche Brouillard, 38 Church street, Moosup. Captain Frank McLean notified the Danielson state police barracks and an arrest in the case was expected.

A request for sealed proposals for carrying mails on the four state routes out of the local post office for the period from July 1, 1929 to June 30, 1933 has been made by the fourth assistant postmaster general at Washington, D C.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Girouard had as week end guests Mrs. Charlotte Gottschalk and Miss Charlotte Kutchler of Jersey City, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Livezly are entertaining her father, George Birch who will return to his home in Brattleboro, Vt., Tuesday.

Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings and daughter Miss Carolyn Cummings, a student at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., have returned from a stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Washburn and infant daughter of Providence, R. I. have moved their household goods into an apartment in the house occupied by Albert J. Welck and family on Windham Road.

Mrs. William A. Buck and Miss May E. Davison have returned from a short visit with the former's sister, Miss Clara Phillips of Springfield, Mass.

Word was received by Captain of Police Frank McLean this evening that Frank Nizek of Chapman street this city had been arrested as rumrunner in Pawtucket, R. I., when 40 gallons of moonshine were found in his car. The machine which Nizek operated was a Nash touring car, bearing the Connecticut registration numbers SX-2278 and is registered under the name of Auburn-Morse, 138 Elm street, this city. Nizek has a record at local police headquarters as an alleged liquor law violator.

New Hair Mode from Broadway

"Everyone admires my hair, now that I'm doing it the new way that nearly every really smart girl I know is using," says Miss Agnes Traney, popular dancer, now appearing in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita." "My hair doesn't need shampooing more than once a month, now. My scalp feels better than it ever has felt. I have gotten rid of all my dandruff. My hair is much easier to arrange, and it stays that way. All I do to keep it like this is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. It's wonderful how Danderine adds to the beauty of your hair, makes it look so silky and lustrous."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair and restores the natural color and lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragranced. The big bottles are just 35c. at all drug stores. Beautiful, smooth, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

NORTH STONINGTON

Mrs. H. M. Pendleton and Miss Delia A. Wheeler were guests of Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee of New London, last week, and attended the convention of the League of Women Voters.

A party of local people saw Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Broadway theatre last week and greatly enjoyed it.

Mrs. George W. Tryon spent last Friday with her aunt, Mrs. A. B. Maine, in Norwich.

Mrs. Lucian Drury was a business visitor in Norwich Friday.

Charles Goss of New London, accompanied by Mrs. Goss and his two sisters, visited his cousin, Mrs. C. C. Gray last week.

The roof of the Congregational church is being newly covered.

The Women's league of the Baptist church gave a 4 o'clock tea Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. Ernest Gray. Salads, sandwiches, cake and tea were served.

Beverly Gray, 7-year-old daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. C. Ernest Gray, hearing "Uncle Don" invite his little friends over the radio, to write him of their pets, responded with a letter about her collie, Tom. Among the hundreds of letters received, the local child's letter was considered one of the five best and she was awarded a prize. Her letter was broadcasted.

DRESS AND CLOAK WORKS ARE HAVING DULL SEASON

The local dress and cloak factories have been operating only part time during past few weeks due to the fact that this is the usual between season period for the clothing business. The Cohen Bros. shop has been shut down for the past two weeks and the Levine Cloak Factory is only furnishing work for a small proportion of their usual force.

Emil Geoffrey, owner of Hillside farm located four miles north of the village reports that dogs killed six of his valuable sheep last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins of Sachem Terrace, Norwich, were guests Sunday of Mrs. Higgins' parents, Mr and Mrs. Thomas S. Rathbun.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb of Willimantic were guests at the Fred O Brown home Sunday.

Many of the older residents were saddened to hear of the death of Judge George E. Parsons and George L. Randall, both of Norwich. Judge Parsons was prominent in Masonic circles throughout the state and was widely known in New London county. Mr. Randall who has been a resident of Norwich Town for a number of years was a resident of Colchester about thirty-five years ago.

AN ASHAWAY R. I. COUPE IN ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Nine o'clock Sunday morning a Chevrolet coupe driven by Nelson J. Griffin of Ashaway, R. I., left the highway on Norwich avenue at Fette's Corner, in an effort to avoid a collision with another car entering the highway from Pleasant street, in swerving his car off the roadway Mr. Griffin drove head-on into a U. S. mail collection box at the edge of the sidewalk and then jammed into the side of the Alpert store building.

Miss Janet W. Pendleton, teacher in Coventry schools was at her home here Sunday.

Employes of the C. C. P and L. Co. have begun setting new poles along the highway through the Main street. The new poles are higher and are being set nearer the concrete road than formerly. It is reported that larger, more powerful street lights are to be furnished.

Israel Felden of St. Augustine, Fla., a former local resident is visiting relatives here for a few days.

Misses Agnes and Cecelia Smith of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., were week end guests of friends and relatives here.

Miss Anna W. Avery made a week end visit with friends in Orange, N. J.

Tax Collector Harold Clark has sent bills through the mail for the personal tax which was due and payable, Nov. 15.

SILVER WEDDING SURPRISE FOR MR. AND MRS. C. L. HINCKLEY

One of the most enjoyable events in a long time was the silver wedding Friday evening, Nov. 16, at Spring Hill farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hinckley. About 75 were present, including friends and neighbors from Goshen; there were relatives and friends at the surprise party from Westchester, Willimantic, Marlborough, Colchester, Hartford and New Haven. The evening was pleasantly spent with selections from piano, mandolin, violin, also with singing. Games were enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Hinckley received many gifts in silver, also an up-to-date radio set, and a gift of $17 in silver coin. Among the great number of loaves of cake was a bride's cake with the words Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary and wedding cake. It was a coincidence that Nov. 16th was the bride's birthday also.

It was interesting to hear the voice of Rev. Billy Sunday over the radio from WJZ, New York, one day recently.

J. A. Randall observed his 80th birthday Nov. 16th. He remembered that 25 years ago, Nov. 16, 1903, it was a cold, rainy day.

An Armistice day sermon was given by the pastor Sunday and in the evening World Peace was the subject of the C. E. meeting, led by Mary Varnish. Stephen Gorski sang Kipling's Recessional.

Walter and Clara Hyde reached Washington Wednesday, after stops at Gettysburg and other places en route, and are attending the national grange convention.

A. J. Randall of North Haven was a caller at Maple Hill farm last week.

Deacons J. Y. Thomas, J. A. Randall and the superintendent, Miss Annie Gillett, are delegates to the state Sunday school convention to be held in Norwich Nov. 21-23.

Miss Dorothy Davies spent the week end in Natick, Mass.

Miss Annie Gillette entertained the Ladies' Aid society Thursday.

LONG SLEEP MAKES BABY HAPPY AGAIN

"Our baby kept waking us several times a night, until we started giving him a little Castoria after his last nursing," says an Iowa mother. "He slept soundly from the first night and it made him look and feel worlds better." Baby specialists endorse Fletcher's Castoria; and millions of mothers know how this purely-vegetable harmless preparation helps babies and children, with colic, constipation, colds, diarrhea, etc. The Fletcher signature is always on the wrapper of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations.

SEA SLED FIVE LOSES GAME TO OILMEN FROM NEW LONDON

The basketball season opened in the fishing village Saturday evening when the Acmy team of New London came over to play the Sea Sled Five in Corona hall before a crowd of 200 fans. The team from New London had tire trouble on Fort Hill and came down to the hall on three wheels and said "Here we are!" Sea Sled was the first to come on the floor with yellow suits and "Sled Sea" across the jerseys. Mintue F. Brewer was in front and the fans gave them a real "Lindy" reception. Acmy followed with green suits and the name on the jerseys and a few shots at the round loop. Referee Fitzgerald called the game. Sea Sled was trying its luck on the east basket while the Acmy was on the west basket and in several minutes of play Express Papp made the first field goal for the season of 1928. When the first quarter was over the score was Sea Sled 9, Acmy 8. The second quarter was soon under way and the pass work of the Acmy team was like clock work and it was a pretty sight to see the ball go around the hall and Lanky Trude was dropping them in for New London like hailstones on a tin roof. But the Sea Sled carpenters were putting up a hard fight. When the first half was over the tally was Acmy 35, Sea Sled 13. Third quarter was soon going like a house afire. The players in the green jerseys were trying long shots and getting one out of three while the Sea Sled players were catching the ball off the backboard. The floor was slippery and hard for both teams to keep their feet. Timer Robberton blew his whistle for the quarter and still the Acmy was in front, 52 to 16. With the fourth quarter around the door both teams went at it hard as the sharp-shooting forwards were dropping them in for New London, one little fellow said, "Get an adding machine to keep score!" When the smoke of battle was over it was a sad story to tell of the Sea Sled carpenters as read by Scorer Griffin: Acmy 62, Sea Sled 26 Referee Fitzpatrick; scorer, Griffins; timer, Roberston.

Old-Time Dance

An old timers' dance was given by the American Mechanics in their hall Saturday evening where a crowd of 150 came from Ledyard, North Stonington, Mystic and Noank. The hall was decorated with orange and black. Zerin Bang's orchestra of three pieces of Mystic gave the old-time dancers plenty of Turkey in the Straw music when ten sets were on the floor at once. Prof. Mansfield of Cow Hill called off. It was an invitation affair and another one will be held in two weeks. At 10:30 o'clock. Sandwiches and cake with coffee was the lunch.

Later Claire and Margaret Scott of Ledyard, teachers, put on a country school act. Miss Nellie Hubbard as Marg, was the teacher and Peter Grant with overalls on and a straw hat in the winter time was the late pupil. The act went over big. Then the sisters sang "school days" with Stretch Morrison tickling the ivory.

Mrs. Frank Trahan spent the week end with Stamford, Conn., relatives.

Saved Blazing Car

Kenneth Steele went in his automobile to New London to attend the show Saturday evening. He went to park his car and saw a man in trouble, his auto being afire. Steele is a smoke eater of the village fire company, and he rushed up with a fire powder can and working fast. In 17 minutes he had the blaze out and saved the stranger's auto from a total wreck but spoiled his top coat and Smoke Eater Steel said that is nothing, but the owner took out of his pocket a roll of bills big enough to choke an ox and paid for the top coat also thanked the village fireman for his quick work.

The black fish season is the poorest in many years. The men are sitting all day in their boats at Fishers Island; the Race and Gull Island but get only about 75 or 80 pounds of fish. Where have they gone to? Is what the fisherman are asking at the docks did they go south for the winter or have they left the Race for Massachusetts water?

Gold Piece in This Fish

Saturday noon one fisherman, Spike Panciera was with Capt. M. Oviatt on the boat Paint Brush. They had a good catch for the day, getting 128 pounds of black fish. Mate Panciera wanted a few fish for a chowder for friends that were coming from Chicago for over the week end. Putting on his white coat and sharpening up a knife to clean the fish in one fine he saw something shining like a penny. Calling to Capt. M. Oviatt who lives next door to see what he had found in the fish, it was a $2.50 gold piece. The date read 1909 but the coin looks as though it had been in the water a little while. Capt. Oviatt cannot see how the black fish swallowed that gold piece. "Next thing you will find, mate, will be a trunk with Capt. Kidd's gold inside some fish!" Spike only smiled and said, "I will keep it for a while and show it to my friends. Then I will give it to my cousin, Leland MacGrath in New Hampshire!"

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatmens of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"OVER THE COUNTER"

Dear Dot:

Want to join us at a mighty fine funeral? Old King Coal has been mortally wounded in combat with King Oil and the grand old Black Monarch is surely going back into the ground from whence he came. The King is Dead. Hail the King!

King Oil is surely coming into his own as ruler in the modern home. Give him the right equipment to work with and he beats King Coal forty ways.

Now, that equipment for the best performance for Oil is worthy of much consideration, but after a careful investigation thousands of the great mediocre and small people, including yours truly, have agreed on THE SUPER AUTOMATIC OIL HEATER SOLD BY HOLLIS H. LYMAN, whose offices are on South Park Street, Willimantic, as their choicee.

Very remarkable facts await you in regard to the Super Oil Heater economy of operation. A housewife who has just had one installed told me that, much to her delight, she found that the Super Heater not only freed her from the drudgery of a coal pile but saved her money as well.

The Super Oil Heater is installed wholly inside of your present coal furnace. From a standpoint of safety it is absolutely guaranteed. In this respect it has the hearty endorsement of a long list of insurance commissions, safety boards, public safety committees and, last but not least, its principles have been endorsed by the Government of the United States.

The fuel it burns is of low grade and, according to the tests by the U. S. Government Engineers, the savings in cost by burning the low-grade oil might be as high as 30%. And the burner is designed to realize on the maximum heating value of fuel.

You wouldn't burn whale oil as your great-grandfather did, to light your home. There is a much better way. Then, why cling to antiquated and outworn methods in heating your home? They are slow, inefficient and expensive these days.

The wise, thrifty home-owners of America are quick to profit by the tremendous savings of manual labor and dollars in the use of Automatic Oil Burners.

Get busy today. Call Lyman's. Phone 64-12. If a common sense talk does not fully convince you, Mr. Lyman will gladly give you a Trial Offer. That, I know, will convince you.

Faithfully,
JANE.

The Best Is the Cheapest When Buying Rayon Jersey Underwear

Underwear has very little style value; fit and service being the main considerations. And in every case where style value is eliminated quality is what counts. We carry only one grade of rayon undergarments, because we consider that the best is the cheapest and most satisfactory in the long run. And we believe that those who have experimented with garments of the lower grades of rayon will agree with our statement.

POETRY

Free

An undawned morning, wet and cold,
With leaden sky,
A thrush, audacious, jaunty, bold,
Sang clear and high
From a twig of our bare little apple-tree:
"I am free! I am free!"

His bright eye scanned the murky rain
With dauntless cheer
His pure, sweet challenge rang again
To far and near,
In exultant, lilting rhapsody:
"I am free! I am free!"

With wistful wonder I caught the lay
From the wind-rocked tree,
A cumberless rapture, as wildly gay
As song could be.
Then sweet, new notes thrilled the ecstasy,
And suddenly hope was singing to me:
"You are free! You are free!"

The herald sang on, for all who would hear
His jubilee;
No leafage or sun to make him cheer
On the wet, brown tree.
He poured forth song unfraught with pain,
Unsaddened, unhindered by cloud or rain;
From measureless joy came the pure refrain:
"We are free! We are free!"

—Florence E. Buck, in Christian Science Monitor.

To Youth

Where art thou gone, light-ankled Youth?
With wing at either shoulder,
Until the Hours grew colder;

Then somewhat seemed to whisper near
That thou and I must part;
I doubted it; I felt no fear,
No weight upon the heart.

If aught befell it, Love was by
And rolled it off again;
So, if there ever was a sigh,
'Twas not a sigh of pain.

I may not call thee back; but thou
Returnest when the hand
Of gentle Sleep waves o'er my brow
His poppy-crested wand;

Then smiling eyes bend over mine,
Then lips once pressed invite;
But Sleep hath given a silent sign.
And both, alas! take flight.

—Walter Savage Lando.

BETTER REGULATIONS NEEDED

Had the good intentions of 1914 been carried out the loss of the Vestris, or at least some of the conditions which have been reported as existing when the ship sank, might have been prevented.

That was soon after the Titanic disaster, when it was recognized that there was need of establishing greater safeguards for passenger ships by more careful inspection. This country and Great Britain had arranged a conference to decide upon more rigid regulations but it was interrupted by the war and has never been held. The loss of the Vestris has brought the need of such an arrangement to attention again and it is interesting to note that an announcement has been made that plans for a conference have already been made and there will be a session in this country next April to determine upon the terms of unrestricted inspection of ships controlled by either nation in ports of either country.

Inspections are made at the present time, but British ships in American ports do not get the same rigid looking over as to seaworthiness and equipment that American ships do because an agreement to that effect is lacking.

The full details of the real circumstances surrounding the sinking of the Vestris are being sought. Whatever is learned will serve as a guide for the new regulations. The conference will probably work on rather broad lines consider such matters as ship construction, equipment for life saving, the inspection of such equipment and the determination of the seaworthiness of vessels. Radio is another matter which will get attention and it would not be surprising if all vessels were required to carry such means of communication for the purpose of putting them in touch with others so that they could give as well as seek aid in time of need.

Sea tragedies reveal surprising conditions. Frequently does it appear that conditions exist which it is believed have been prohibited or are guarded against by means of thorough inspection. If nations can work together and by so doing insure greater safety on the high seas it is the thing to do. Apparently the United States and Great Britain believe that they can do much to prevent another Vestris.

RHODE ISLAND IS RIGHT

Rhode Island isn't a big state but it has thousands of acres of what are termed abandoned farm land and brush land. This means that such land is not making a very big return to its owners and the suggestion has been advanced by the Rhode Island department of agriculture that this land ought to be put to work for the production of timber. It is set forth that there is a market for soft and hard woods for the making of boxes and for a hundred and one different uses for which it is now necessary to import the timber.

Here is a suggestion that did not originate with Rhode Island. It is a means of solving a problem that is common in many of the states. Just why this land should be allowed to continue its non production is hard to understand, but it will be even more so if the owners are appraised of the importance of the suggestion and then continue to ignore it.

Many are the states where the same idea has been advanced, where interesting responses have been made, where states have established demonstration forests and where it is possible to show that the idea is practical.

Crops of timber cannot be harvested the same year as planted and the entire woodland cannot be cut over each year, but woodland becomes an increased asset each year which cannot be said of the waste and idle land which produces nothing more than brush or weeds. Furthermore the setting out of trees on waste land or where the wood has been cut off involves little expense and their care is virtually nothing. Few crops require so little attention.

It is natural that Rhode Island like other states should recognize the importance of protecting such woodland as it has and at the same time encourage the development of more. It is in keeping with the effort that has been repeatedly made in Connecticut. This state has a large acreage that ought to be utilized in just such a manner for the benefit of the owner and as a means of increasing the productivity of the commonwealth. It is one way in which we can profitably decrease our imports.

WHERE LLOYD GEORGE IS WRONG

From across the water there come expressions which indicate that there are those who look with alarm at the Armistice day address by President Coolidge. Either they do this or else they are trying to bring others to a realization of the situation through their statements. And yet it is a situation in which overstatement is easy.

When, for instance, Lloyd George expresses his conviction that the Coolidge address means that this government is ready to participate in a naval construction race he must be regarded as basing his views upon other than what is contained in the address itself. He gives the impression as taking advantage of the opportunity to attack the present British government for it will be noticed that in reaching his opinion he attributes the trouble to the recent pact which was negotiated between the English and French and which has now been abandoned after much criticism. He thus joins with others in worrying the Baldwin government.

There is no doubt but what the agreement which was given up served to create distrust and uncertainty, but he might also have added that the failure to get together at Geneva in regard to a further limitation of armament didn't help the situation any. It showed the reluctance of European countries to meet the situation.

But as for the United States, or the Coolidge administration, being anxious for a resumption of a naval construction race nothing could be farther from the facts. This country seeks nothing of the kind. It is bound to look out for its adequate defense but it would welcome an agreement with other nations for further limitation of naval vessels. This country has taken a leading part in that direction. Had it gotten the right cooperation more progress would have been made, but in view of the balking in Europe it must of necessity give due consideration to the situation and build cruisers that are needed to look after its scattered interests. This country doesn't want to resume the old plan of trying to see which country can build the most naval vessels regardless of what Lloyd George may think or say about it.

NEW ENGLAND SALES PLAN

It is an ambitious but none the less worthwhile undertaking which has been voted by the New England council in annual session. This is the plan to sell New England through an advertising campaign which will continue over a three year period and involve an expenditure of $200,000 a year.

New England has industrial and recreational resources which have long been kept out of sight. That is, little or no attention has been paid to them. If there was a desire to search for them and find them all well and good, otherwise there was little effort put forth to present those attractions to the great number of people who might be interested.

It is a logical idea that if advertising and publicity are good for business and other sections of the country are employing it with good results New England ought not to be backward in promoting its interests and development through such a channel. The New England council has decided that it is worth trying. The idea has appealed to the various representatives and it will be carried on in addition to other similar activity already underway.

While New England is being set forth as a unit there is nothing to stand in the way of the various states clearing down as heavily as they desire on their particular advantages. The plan was thoroughly set forth to business interests represented in the council. The requirements were explained and the readiness with which the plan was adopted indicates thorough approval and a corresponding willingness to meet the expense that will be involved. It is a strong bit of evidence that the New England council has thus far made good in its endeavors.

MACHINE VOTING

In the state of Pennsylvania the amendment of that state's constitution which will permit voting machines to be used was given approval at the recent election. It indicates the sentiment of the people of that commonwealth and shows that they are convinced that this method of voting should be permitted in those communities which desire it.

As time goes on there will be similar action taken in states where it is necessary, while more and more attention is bound to be given to the advisibility of using such a method by cities and large towns.

For a period of possibly three weeks following election the work of finding out just what vote was received from the various candidates for office on the sixth of November will continue. In many instances changes are recorded, one candidate gains and another loses and uncertainty prevails in case of close votes, until the recounts have been completed. This means no small amount of expense to find out the correct figures. At the same time there is always talk about the breaking up of voting districts which means more voting places, more officials, more counters and consequently more expense.

And yet one of the objections that is raised to the acquisition of voting machines is the purchase price. The initial outlay involves a considerable sum but it means that many other expenses can be eliminated on election day while it gives assurance that votes are counted as cast, that there is a correct count, that voters are not being disfranchised and that recounts are unnecessary. It is not surprising that sentiment in behalf of voting machines is spreading.

HIS BIRTHDAY GIFT.

His birthday!

She hadn't thought of a thing to buy him. She hadn't even remembered it was his birthday until he had reminded her, and then she had been too busy. She must get him something—something he would like. But she didn't have much time.

"Shucks!" she thought. "I'll just chuck the work and go downtown. After all, it's important—to him."

She looked at the orders, piled in confusion on her desk, at her unmade bed and her clothes scattered about on chairs, at her easel where the bare carcass of a new magazine illustration reminded her of the labor it still required.

Upstairs a soprano voice was rehearsing scales, to the right next door somebody else was practicing Czerny on a rented piano, in other studios other ambitious young women were trying to carve out careers in their chosen art. Like herself, they had sought and found freedom to express themselves—and some of them, she reflected gloomily, were certainly doing it now, with gusto!

"Are you really happy, dear?" he had asked. That plaintive question was partly why she was forgetting about the work this morning to go downtown for his birthday present.

"Yes," she had answered. "Of course I'm happy. Oh, of course, why not?" Here was everything she had bargained for—a studio, a career, no domestic worries. And she was certainly making money.

"I must buy him something very nice," she thought as she boarded a street car for the short ride to the loop. Seated with her hand on the window sill, her thoughts returned again to that meeting yesterday with her husband. He was a good sort, Harold was. He "understood."

He had met her half a block from her studio as she set out for lunch. He had said it was an accidental meeting. But he looked so wistful—she knew it wasn't accidental.

"Tomorrow's my birthday," he had said. "Can't we do something together?"

She had said she was so busy it would have to be postponed. She was busy, too. She was about fifteen orders behind. But her refusal had hurt him. They went together to a tiny bohemian eating place with gingham curtains and pewter dishes. He said it reminded him of home, eating in such a place with her sitting across the table.

"Gee, you look fine," he said, admiring her new clothes. She thought how marvelous he looked, too, but she thought it silently. "Are you still so terribly busy?"

"Yes, very busy," she had answered. "Are you still terribly happy?"

"Yes," she had said. "Very happy, of course."

"I saw your illustration in a program at the theatre. It was a knockout," he said.

At the theatre? With whom——

"It was a good show," he was saying, "but you can't enjoy it alone!"

"No," she said, "you really can't—enjoy anything—alone."

After luncheon they had parted at the corner. Neither had mentioned another meeting. He hadn't even repeated that tomorrow was his birthday.

Catherine climbed off the car and walked through the men's section of the nearest store. What did he need, anyway? Handkerchiefs, probably, and socks and ties, things men genuinely need—but they seemed so impersonal. She felt she wanted to give him something from herself, something to make him recognize how she felt. Anniversaries "got" one, she decided.

"Do you wish attention, madam?" She glanced up embarrassed to find a clerk waiting to help her.

"No, thank you," she murmured. "I'm just looking around." And she went quickly on. What about a muffler? But before the clerk arrived she had gone on. She was still going on, from one counter to another.

Harold was 30 today. Thirty! She gasped. Thirty opened on a vista of years leading to old age. Incredible! And she was 27! They weren't children any more. And they were homeless! That was what brought the wistful look to Harold's eyes. But their small flat had seemed such an impossible place in which to be artistic. Their neighbors had been so—commonplace. Five cramped, stuffy rooms—parlor, dining room, bedroom, with a sunroom leading off the kitchen—she wondered if he had remembered to clean it out. She reflected glumly on her present girl neighbors struggling for colorful expression—on her cubbyhole of a room that cost as much as their whole flat. That room wasn't any bigger than her studio—why, her storeroom was a good deal lighter——

An idea! Her first today. In that maze of trying to think of a suitable birthday gift! Why wouldn't the storeroom make a fine studio? She could move her easel over by the south window, hang her two pen oriental rugs on the bleak back walls, set her imitation Dante chair in the middle, arrange her drawings along the walls——

"At least," she said, "I'll just go out to the apartment and look things over. Harold won't have left yet. Besides, it's his birthday. Why—I might just give him a home for a birthday gift!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Autumn Days

Mr. Editor: Now is rapidly approaching one of those days that were dear to the hearts of the boys of yesterday, who were the worry of the older ones, who were kept ever on the move to watch the younger generation from moving everything portable to make the annual Thanksgiving bonfire for which the finely situated city of Norwich was well adapted. Weeks before that occasion the young scamps would gather barrels, boxes, and in fact everything that had any resemblance to wood to create a fire to properly celebrate the one day in the year in a manner befitting that holiday. After it was over what comments were made regarding our personal appearance, dirty faces, and hands, and bloodshot eyes from the fires. Our clothes smelled of smoke and altogether the anvil chorus told us we were everything that was disreputable. But let them say what they liked. We had a good time for we would take some salt in a paper to use on the half baked potatoes that we would roast in the fire, and these self same potatoes by some hokus, pokus, we found in our pockets after we had arrived with the gang at the hangout.

As I think it over now, we weren't any little angels, for many times when we would sneak quietly into someone's yard, where some one of the bunch had located a very likely looking barrel, some one would be lying in wait and put after us. All would run, not walk, like a flock of frightened sheep. And did they catch us! Well, I for them will answer no, not so that you could notice it. And now if any of the boys of today were to go it to us, we would think it was something terrible.

Say, it makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored. Isn't that so?

Reynolds hill, at one time, used to be a wonderful place for a Thanksgiving bonfire, for it was at a fine elevation and a blaze at night could be seen for miles, more especially if the night was dark and dreary. The only drawback was the inconvenience in getting there, for this being over in Preston it made quite a trip. But some of the fellows didn't care, for with them it was anything to be different. Any one of those days will recall when we had a bonfire on the top of Thayer's hill far from the top of this elevation a light could be seen all over the city and its beams of light were cast far and wide. All these fires were made from material that belonged to others that had come into our possession—but how! I don't think any one of us kids were mamma's boys. We were just a bunch of wild Arabs, nothing more, nothing less. But after all we were young and carefree and may I here quote once again John Burroughs:

Oh, the eagerness and freshness of youth. How the boy enjoys his food his sleep, his sports, his companions, his truant days, his whole life is an adventure. How cheap are all his pleasures. How ready his enthusiasm In boyhood I have had more real pleasure on a haymow with two companions and a bit dog than I have in all the subsequent years of my life. And when youth is gone. We exchange it for a life of trials and duties for the youth enjoys what the man cannot understand, but later it is gone.

When we're young how we would go on a foraging expedition for apples. Did we steal them? Perhaps we did. That was youth, for the apple is the fruit of youths and as you get older you crave them less. A sign of age.

Another place where we would often have a bonfire to celebrate any unusual happening was in that section bounded by 11th and 12th streets, Central avenue and Prospect street, exactly where is now located St. Andrew's church. This was one of the wide and open spaces and when the fire was at its height we would dance around it like a band of howling dervishes, keeping time by beating our imaginary tom toms (tin pans). But those happy days are gone and may I here quote just a few lines from "Dream Life" that was written in 1851 by one of Norwich's famous sons, Donald Grant Mitchell who was born in Norwich April, 1822 and wrote under the pen name of "Ik Marvel". He died Dec. 15, 1908.

Gone. Did it ever strike you how much meaning lies in that little word. Gone? Say it to yourself when the day is done and the sun has sunk in the golden west, the day is Gone. Say it to yourself when the night is past and you wake from pleasant dreams, they have Gone. Say it when you go into some little churchyard and you see some loving companion fading from your sight. Gone.

And think of the loving mothers who saw their boy go from them when he has arrived at man's estate. The boy who ran to mother when something went wrong while he was at play and she consoled him as only a loving mother could and now she looks after him as he leaves her home. He is gone and when she goes to the room where his boyish treasures were kept she sees him still in memory as a boy and now he is gone.

And so it is with every one of us, we think, we dream, we fancy, we see ourselves once again a boy, youthful and carefree but those old days have vanished, they are passed and gone but not forgotten.

Now, dear reader, I will close. And some day I want to try and tell you of some of the winter sports of long ago, for now we have November and winter is just peeking around the corner and although we must have it I cannot say I like it But after all it will come and soon it will be gone, and then the spring with its flowers and sunshine will greet us again.

C. H. "DAD" SHAW

Passaic, N. J., Nov. 17, 1928.

YOUR HEALTH

TUBERCULOSIS MAY LURK UNPERCEIVED

By James M. Anders, M. D., Philadelphia.

It is frequently difficult to recognize tuberculosis in its earlier stages, since it manifests different modes of onset. In the majority of cases, this disease begins with a cough that does not yield to the remedies usually prescribed for a "cold." At first there is but little sputum; later it increases in amount, if the complaint be not arrested. The afternoon temperature is early found to be slightly elevated. Invariably it should be taken regularly in suspicious cases. A gradual loss of weight and strength soon follows. It should be recollected that a "cold" is particularly menacing when one is in a rundown condition or has occupied infected rooms for a considerable period of time.

Not infrequently the onset of tuberculosis is characterized by symptoms of chronic or persistent disturbance of digestion and anemia. The cough in this class of cases, is in abeyance for a considerable length of time, hence the disease may be overlooked. There are cases of tuberculosis that are ushered in, as it were, by an attack of pleurisy, although it is to be recollected that pleurisy is, in the immense majority of instances, of tuberculous nature.

The first symptom to attract attention to this dreaded disease may be a bloody sputum. When blood is coughed up, the family physician should be consulted at once. The symptom of blood-spitting is not always caused by tuberculosis, but it is in the majority of the cases, hence a physical examination should be undertaken by a competent physician at once.

An attack of tuberculosis may be ushered in by chills and fever, or at all events these may be the first symptoms to call attention to the illness. In these circumstances a physical examination sometimes reveals advanced lesions of the lungs. In such instances, the cough is so slight as not to attract attention, in many cases at least.

I am not trying to teach the public the modern scientific methods of making a diagnosis of tuberculosis, this being the province of the family physician or tuberculosis expert, but I am trying to point out to the laity the importance of recognizing the perversions of the general health that so commonly precede and accompany the development of active forms of tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis often lurks in the system unperceived, except to the physician trained in the making of physical examinations. My plea on this occasion is that young adults, especially, and also middle-aged persons submit to medical examinations immediately, if any obscure disturbance of the general health arises. Persons who have been in contact with cases of tuberculosis for any considerable period of time should not fail to have a careful physical examination, since implantation of the tubercle bacillus often occurs in such an environment. In this connection be it remembered that tuberculosis is a house disease.

A high authority, Dr. Hawes, of Boston, has summed up the important signs and symptoms of early tuberculosis, or consumption, with which the layman should be familiar. They are as follows:

1. "A cough with or without sputum lasting over four weeks. 2. Blood spitting. 3. Unexplained fever, especially if associated with a rapid pulse. 4. Unexplained loss of weight and strength. These may not mean tuberculosis, but in the great majority of cases they do, and therefore require thorough investigation. Do not neglect them."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 — Any reasonable man would admit that it's a tough job to dig up the wherewithal to meet a deficit in political funds when the campaign for which the money went ended in smashing defeat.

Mr. John F. Costello, democratic national committeeman for the voteless District of Columbia, is not the only party wheelhorse going about that distasteful business these days, but he has the dubious distinction of being the only one of his national committee colleagues compelled to pry at folks who had no vote anyhow in order to foot the political piper's bill and, at the same time, who must add to the total of his deficit the cost of headquarters equipment gathered in by a heartless robber.

Democrats Lose Even Radio

Costello came down to his committee headquarters just over the way from the white house the day after election to find the place thoroughly looted. It was a democratic center for receiving radio returns election night. What the radio had to say was disappointing enough; but after the committee shut up shop and went home, an enterprising thief saw his opportunity and seized it. He got away, as one reporter said, with everything but the wallpaper. Almost everything movable departed with him, including the borrowed radio set of such doleful tidings, and the loss of which set the committee back an additional $175.

"That is what I could call kicking a fellow when he is down," he said, after a mournful contemplation of the stripped office and an equally dismaying glimpse of an electoral balance sheet that showed four once solid southern states wandered from the democratic fold for the first time since reconstruction days.

Voteless Voice Raised

The national committeeman had one consolation. It is to be assumed that the office machinery will not be urgently needed until the next presidential campaign comes along. Local republicans and democrats who fail to retain voting connections with their home states have no franchise to exercise except as to selection of delegates to the two party nominating conventions. So there will be plenty of time in which to meet the current local deficit of the democrats even with the high cost of thievery added.

Between conventions and subsequent election campaigns, Washington national committeemen have little to do. The city has no direct interest in bye elections to senate or house as it has no elected representation in either body. That is a fact which leads to loud charges of political slavery in the very city where the Declaration of Independence and the constitution are kept, surrounded and displayed with fitting pomp and circumstance, as the most precious possessions of the American people. It amounts, Washingtonians hold, to taxation without representation, and a lot more will be heard about that when congress reconvenes.

As a matter of fact, Washington's protest against disfranchisement in federal elections, at least, is growing more strident year by year. It is not impossible that the constant and incessant dropping on the stone of congressional resistance to remedial legislation of some sort will wear it away at some early day.

Stories That Recall Others

On a Diet

Noticing a friend had been coming to the restaurant regularly, which was unusual, the waiter inquired:

"Isn't your wife home now?"

"Oh, yes, she's home all right, but she's gone on a diet to reduce again and whenever she does I have to finish out down here. When she gets to thinking she's been eating too much herself, she starts to half starve the rest of us."

Not at Home

Little five year old Marian, whose family is not noted for early rising was visiting her grandparents in the country. Awakening early one morning she looked out an east window to see the sky all resplendent in the most gorgeous colors.

"What is that, grandma?" she inquired.

On being told that it was the dawn, she reflected a moment, then said: "We don't have any dawn at home."

Burgess Bedtime Story

What Happened in the Hollow Tree
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Think quickly, and as quickly act,
But do it with the greatest tact.
—Old Mother Nature.

Rusty the Fox Squirrel had been trapped in a hollow tree. He had gone into that hollow tree for a nap. He knew that it had been the home of someone, but he thought it was deserted. When he awoke it was to discover that the rightful owner had come home. The rightful owner sat in the doorway with his tail hanging down—a queer tail without any hair on it. There was no way for Rusty to get out excepting by means of that doorway. What to do? That tail hung tantalizingly just in front of him. Three times Rusty reached up to bite it, but his courage failed. But the fourth time he set his teeth quick and hard on the end of that tail!

Things happened then. The owner of that tail, and the tail itself, disappeared from that doorway as if by magic. Rusty followed the tail. He didn't know who might be waiting for him outside, but he hoped that, if he got outside quickly enough, he would be able to escape. So the owner of that tail was barely outside when out popped Rusty. Out popped Rusty and almost thrust his own face into another face—a sharp face that was hissing and snarling and showing a set of the sharpest looking teeth. It was a Possum. Yes, sir, it was a Possum, and he was a thoroughly angry Possum. You could hardly blame him.

He moved quickly, but Rusty was even quicker. He whirled around to the back side of that tree. He was safe. He knew that no Possum that ever lived could catch him once he had his freedom. So he peeped around the front of the tree at that angry Possum. "I beg your pardon," said Rusty. "I didn't mean to."

"Then what did you do it for?" demanded the Possum, bringing his tail around so that he could look at the end of it.

"What I mean is," explained Rusty, "that I didn't know anyone lived in this house. If I had known you lived here, I wouldn't have thought of going to sleep in here. In fact, I wouldn't have gone in at all. I thought it was deserted and so I took a nap in there."

"What's that got to do with biting my tail?" growled the Possum.

"Oh," explained Rusty, "I didn't CUT HERE oodem know whose tail it was. I wanted to get out and I was afraid that if I let whoever owned that tail know that I was there he might keep me a prisoner. I bit that tail to make you get out. I'm sorry I had to do it, but there was no other way. Don't you see that?"

"No," growled the Possum. Ah don't see that. If Ah could get my paws on yo', you'd never bite anybody else's tail."

"I don't want to bite anybody else's tail. I had to bite yours," said Rusty, speaking very earnestly. "By the way, what good is that tail?"

The Opossum was so astonished that he forgot his anger. "What good is mah tail?"

"Yes," replied Rusty, "what good is your tail?"

"What good is your tail?" demanded Mr. Possum.

"Why, my tail is a very useful tail," exclaimed Rusty, and spread it out proudly. "When I am jumping from tree to tree, it helps me to keep my balance. When I sit up to eat, it shuts off the wind. When I curl around me for a nap, it keeps me warm. So you see, mine is a very useful tail. But

"Yes, sir, it was a possum, and a thoroughly angry possum"

uses a cup of SUGAR in boiling ham

A famous cook gives his recipe

A MAN, famous among his friends for his fine cooking, was asked the secret of his delicious boiled ham. He gave this simple recipe: Put a cupful of sugar in the water that boils an average size ham. Also one-half cup of vinegar. Try this and see how much it improves the taste and flavor of the ham.

Every good cook knows that there is no substitute for sugar in improving the enjoyment of other foods. Whether in preparing fresh vegetables, fruits or meats, sugar is the secret of successful cookery.

Sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. It is also the cheapest nutriment that you can buy.

Health comes from eating good foods, flavored to please the taste. Beware of extreme reducing diets. They are dangerous. Eminent medical authorities warn us that permanent injury often results from starvation diets.

Be sure that you and your children are properly nourished. Eat enough of varied foods, sweetened for enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

STRESEMANN PRAISES KELLOGG PEACE PACT

BERLIN, Nov. 19—(AP)—Laudation of the Kellogg pact and restatement of the German view that because of that treaty the neighbors of Germany could now disarm to a police basis, even as has this country, were contained in a half hour address made in the reichstag today by Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister. He coupled these points with reiteration of German's demand for evacuation of the Rhineland and early determination of a new total which must be paid to the allies—particularly France—in the way of war reparations.

FINED ON THEFT CHARGE JAIL SENTENCE SUSPENDED

In the city court Monday morning Harry Smith of Hartford was fined $25 and costs, a total of $36.54, and given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days on the charge of theft of a hat at a West Side restaurant Sunday night.

He was arrested as he was riding towards Hallville in a Hallville man's machine, in which was found a blanket which had been stolen earlier in the night from a parked automobile. There was also an overcoat which the police believe Smith stole somewhere. The driver of the car stated that Smith brought these articles to it and placed them in the machine.

FUNERAL
James Kellas
(Contributed)

The funeral of James Kellas took place from his late home at 1189 Whalley avenue, New Haven, Wednesday, Nov. 14th, with a large attendance of relatives and friends, some coming from Norwich and New York.

Mr. Kellas, formerly a resident of Norwich, had lived in New Haven for 32 years, and in that time had gained a wide circle of friends who will sincerely mourn his loss.

Ever a thoughful and loving brother, his passing away has left an aching void in the hearts of his sisters and brother.

While in Norwich he was a member of the Greeneville Congregational and joined the Westville Congregational church when he moved to New Haven.

Mr. Kellas was married in Norwich to Elizabeth B. Gillan by Rev. L. U. Barney. She died fifteen years ago. There was a wealth of beautiful floral pieces at the funeral, coming from friends and relatives in Los Angeles, Cal., New York, Norwich and New Haven.

Mr. Kellas followed the trade of paper making, and when in Norwich worked in the Chelsea Paper Mill and Hubbard's. Since going to New Haven he has worked for the Joseph Parker Paper Co.

WEDDINGS

At 8 o'clock Monday morning Miss Margaret M. McVeigh, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John F. McVeigh of No. 15 Hill street and Edward Duclos, son of Mrs. Thomas Brown of No. 36 Spalding street, were united in marriage by Rev William A. Keefe, at St. Mary's Memorial church. Many relatives and friends of the couple were present.

Miss Catherine McVeigh, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Wilfred Duclos of Bennington, Vt. brother of the groom was the best man. The bride was attired in a gown of pink georgette, trimmed with lace and carried an arm bouquet of chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was gowned in pale blue georgette and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at the Wauregan hotel and a recention followed at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the day the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York city, Atlantic City and other places. On their return they will reside in a newly furnished apartment at No. 89 Cliff street.

The bride received numerous and useful wedding gifts. Her gift from the groom was a diamond studded wrist watch and her gift to the groom was a traveling set. To the bridesmaid she presented a traveling set and the groom presented the best man a pair of white gold cuff links.

Mr. Duclos is a salesman for the Continental Bacon Co. Both the bride and groom have many friends who extend them hearty good wishes for a happy married life. Guests were present from New York city, Newark, N. J., Bennington, Vt., North Adams, Mass., Pawtucket, R. I., Westerly and New London.

OBITUARY.
Mrs. Charles W. Grant

Following a brief illness, the death of Isadora M. Staples, widow of Charles W. Grant, occurred Monday at her home, 25 Scotland road. She was born in Norwich, Jan. 15, 1844, the daughter of the late Elias W. and Abbey Stanton Staples, and was united in marriage, Nov. 8, 1869, with Charles William Grant of Taftville, who was one of the founders of the Congregational church there and at the time of his death its oldest member.

Mrs. Grant was of colonial ancestry and a direct descendant of Myles Standish. She leaves four children, George G. Grant, Mrs. Abby G. Sharples and Walster S. Grant, all of Taftville, and Miss Bessie M. Grant, residing at home at Norwich Town; also five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Appealed Breach of Peace Fine

Mrs. P. J. Whalen of Quarry street was presented in the city court Saturday morning on a breach of the peace charge and a fine of $15 and costs, imposed two months ago on a like charge, payment of which was suspended at that time, was ordered into effect. Mrs. Whalen, through counsel, took an appeal to the common pleas court.

Mrs. Whalen was arrested following a complaint by a neighbor, Anthony Jabuleiski, who claimed she hit him with a club following an argument over a property line. The accused and members of her family claimed that Jabuleiski was the cause of the trouble. She admitted hitting him with a club, but said that the blow was struck after he had thrown stones at her. The trouble is over a right of way.

STATE HOSPITAL EMPLOYE SUFFERS SERIOUS INJURY IN MOTOR CRASH

James Turnbull, an employe at the Norwich State hospital, was seriously injured and Herbert Campbell of Bolduc lane, Taftville, salesman for the Rosoff Motor Mart of this city, sustained cuts and bruises when automobiles which the two men were driving collided about 7:15 Monday evening on the Military highway at a point about half a mile south of the city line on Laurel Hill. Both were taken to the Backus hospital after they had first been taken to the Norwich State hospital by Paul Collins who happened to come along in his machine immediately after the accident.

Turnbull was driving his own machine, a Dodge sedan, and was accompanied by John McHale of 264 West Main street, also an employe at the hospital. He was driving towards the city and when he reached a point where the old road turns off towards the Cecelia Lester place it is understood he attempted to turn into the old road just as the Dodge coupe driven by Campbell came from the opposite direction. Turnbull's machine was hit squarely in the middle of the left side by the car Campbell was driving, and the two came to a stop approximately in the middle of the road. The side of the Turnbull car was crushed in and the Campbell machine had the front end badly wrecked. Both cars had to be towed away by wreckers.

Mr. Collins took the two injured men to the tuberculosis colony at the state hospital from where they were transferred to the Backus hospital when the ambulance from there had been called. Turnbull has a fractured pelvis and torn bladder but Campbell has lacerations of the face, abrasions and contusions on his hands and legs.

State Policeman Webber made an investigation of the accident and kept traffic moving past the point where the two machines stood, almost blocking the road.

Turnbull is known as a snake charmer, having handled the reptiles at Clark's pet shop in this city.

LINK FORMER NORWICH MAN WITH DIAMOND SMUGGLING

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Customs inspectors acted today to stop what they said was a conspiracy to smuggle diamonds worth half a million dollars into the United States.

The chief steward of the Cunard liner Berengaria, a New York traffic officer and a John street jeweler and his 20-year old daughter were held in bail for the federal grand jury charged with conspiring to bring in the stones. The arrests followed the reported discovery of diamonds in the stateroom of William Ballyn, the steward, by a squad of sixty customs men who searched the big liner last Saturday.

The other defendants were John T. McIntyre, the policeman; Morris Landau, the jeweler, and Miss Frances Landau, all furnished bail.

George H. Pike, treasury department agent who made the formal complaints, alleged that gems had been coming in illegally at intervals since January 1, 1927. Alvin M. Sylvester, assistant federal attorney, who arraigned the four prisoners, said Ballyn on ten occasions had brought diamonds to the United States, receiving them from a Southampton consignor whose name was not divulged.

McIntyre, the attorney explained, was the go-between in the smuggling operations. The officer had been stationed at the Cunard docks for several years. He denied complicity after Ballyn had implicated him. Landau is said to have received the diamonds.

Sylvester said Ballyn had ben paid $100 and McIntyre $200 for each delivery. The attorney told United States Commissioner G. W. Cotter that he expected other jewellers would be connected with the conspiracy by investigations now in progress.

The customs agents who searched the ship reported finding two packages of stones, worth $50,000 in Ballyn's cabin.

The steamship employe is known as "the singing steward" for he has sung in many ship's concerts and in numerous radio broadcasts ashore.

McIntyre, the accused policeman, is well known in this city where he formerly resided and to which he frequently returned on visits to relatives since he has been in New York. He was born in Greeneville about 55 years ago and has been on the New York police force about 24 years. He made a great impression upon patrons of the Cunard line by his uniform courtesy, which obtained expression when Mr. Leeds, the tin plate magnate, took Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre on a trip to Europe a few years ago entirely at the expense of the tin plate millionaire.

FACT FINDING COMMITTEE LOOKS FOR COOPERATION

The fact finding committee in the matter of the revision of electric rates has now been fully organized and has notified the gas and electrical commissioners of its readiness to meet with them in order the reach the purpose for which the committee was constituted, viz. to arrive at an agreement as to a fair and equitable charge for electricity.

The fifth member of the committee, chosen to fill one vacancy remaining because of resignation, is Martin Cohen, head of an accounting firm which bears his name.

Albert Boardman, proprietor of the Household, has been elected chairman of the committee and Mr. Cohen secretary. The other members of the committee are Adelard Morin, vice president of the Plaut-Cadden company; John A. Holland, a boiler inspector for a Hartford company; and Morris L. Bergstresser, superintendent of the Schwarzenbach-Huber silk mill.

The following letter has been sent by the committee to the commission:

November 17, 1928.

Dear Sir:

We, the fact finding committee, appointed by a city meeting held November 8, 1928, being fully organized, beg to inform the board of gas and electrical commissioners that we are now ready to co-operate with them in every way we can to come to an intelligent understanding, and would ask if we are right in assuming that the gas and electrical commissioners are ready to meet with us and furnish all information the committee may think necessary to make it possible to reach an intelligent conclusion.

ALBERT BOARDMAN, Chairman,
MARTIN COHEN, Secretary.

The committee is expecting ready cooperation on the part of the commissioners as the appointment of a fact finding committee was a suggestion which the commissioners themselves had made before the city meeting voted to have such a committee.

An estate which is estimated at $100,000 is disposed of by the will of George E. Parsons, former judge of probate and clerk of the superior court for many years. The will was filed Monday with Judge Nelson J. Avling of the probate court, having been found laid out with all his papers on Judge Parsons' desk at his home on the day he took his own life at his home.

The will makes his wife his chief beneficiary and provides for trust funds after her death which shall ultimately come to the Masonic Charity Foundation at Wallingford. The will was drawn Sept. 5, 1928, in this city and was witnessed by Eileen Driscoll, Lillian B. Hawes and Attorney Andrew B. Davies. It was sworn to before Attorney Charles L. Stewart and constitutes Harold N. Christianson a New London broker, as executor.

"I am making certain provisions in this will for Dr. Emma K. Dunham of Norwich as a practical expression of my appreciation of the valuable and devoted professional service which she has rendered in my family, and more particularly the loving care which she gave my dear mother in her last years."

To his wife, Vinne E. Parsons, is left the use and income of all the remainder of the estate of every description, both real and personal, of whatsoever the same may consist or wheresoever it may be situated, for and during the term of her natural life, and if at any time such income should be insufficient for her reasonable and comfortable support, the trustee of all the trusts created in and by the will is to use so much of the principal of the remainder as in his opinion would be necessary to give her a reasonable and comfortable support; if she should not leave sufficient estate at the time of her deceased to pay her funeral expenses and erect a suitable marker at her grave, the trustee is authorized to expend whatever amount may be necessary, either from income or principal, as the situation might require, for her reasonable and proper funeral expenses and for the erection of a suitable marker at her grave.

To Doris C. Parsons, daughter of his brother, $100, outright; To a cousin, Maurice C. Parsons of Newburgh, Maine, $100, outright; to Faustina E. Parsons, wife of his cousin, $100 outright; to Laverna A. Parsons, daughter of the cousin, $100, outright.

"I have thus far made no provisions in this will for the care and support of Lucy A. Sparks because of the knowledge that my wife will give her a daughter's devoted care and support during the life of my said wife. If the said Lucy A. Sparks be living at the time of the death of my said wife, I give to her the use and income of $25,000 for and during the term of her natural life; if she should not leave sufficient estate at the time of her death to pay her funeral expenses and erect a suitable marker for her grave, I direct that said trustees expend whatever amount may be required, either from the income or principal of said trust fund, as may be necessary, for her reasonable and proper funeral expenses and for the erection of a suitable marker at her grave.

"I direct that whatever remains of the trust fund created above after the termination of the trust, be added to and made a part of the trust fund created in the following paragraph."

I hereby provide for the disposition of the use and income of the remainder of the estate after the death of my said wife, subject to the provision of the preceding clause, as follows:

"If my said brother and said Emma K. Dunham are living at the time of the death of my said wife, I give to them the use and income of all the remainder of my estate for and during the term of their natural lives, the same to be divided equally between them.

"If either my said brother or Emma K. Dunham should die prior to the death of my said wife and the said Doris C. Parsons be then living, I give the survivor of them and the said Doris C. Parsons the use and income of all of said remainder for and during the term of their natural lives, the same to be divided equally between them.

"If both my said brother and said Emma K. Dunham should die prior to the death of my wife and the said Doris C. Parsons be then living, I give to her the use and income of all of said remainder for and during the erm of her natural life.

"If at any time, whether at the time of the death of my said wife or subsequent thereto, there should be surviving but one of said James Adrian Parsons, Emma K. Dunham and Doris C. Parsons, then in that event I give to the one so surviving the use and income of all of said remainder for and during the term of the natural life of such survivor.

"Upon the termination of all the trusts hereinbefore created, I give, devise and bequeath all of the residue of my estate, of every description, both real and personal, of whatsoever the same may consist or wheresoever it may be situated, to the Masonic Charity Foundation of Connecticut, located in Wallingford, this state, in trust, the same to form a fund to be known as and called 'The George E. Parsons fund,' and to the income therefrom to be used for the general purposes of said corporation. If said residue should consist in whole or in part of real estate and the same should not have been sold by the trustee of the trusts created in this will, or by the executor thereof, prior to the delivery of said residue to said Masonic Charity Foundation of Connecticut, then in such event I authorize and direct the said corporation to sell said real estate if it deems it expedient and proper so to do, to give a sufficient deed therefor through its president, secretary and treasurer, and to add the proceeds of such sale to said fund.

"I have made this disposition of the residue of my estate as a practical expression of my appreciation of the honors which have been conferred upon me by my Masonic brethren."

Harold N. Christianson of New London is made sole executor and trustee of all the trusts and he is to have full power and authority, without any order of any court, to sell and transfer any property belonging to the estate for such a price and upon such terms as in his judgment may seem best, and to invest and reinvest the proceeds thereof in such other property, real or personal, as in his opinion may seem wisest. The interests of any moneys borrowed by the trustee for any of the trusts, and the broker's fees in connection with the sale or purchase of any property for such trust, shall be a charge against the principal of such trust.

In case or death or unwillingness of the New London man to act as trustee and executor, the Hartford-Conn Trust company is named.

THREE TRAVEL TALKS FOR CLUB'S LADIES' NIGHTS

Ladies' night was held Monday evening by the Men's club of Park Congregational church at the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial parish house. The 200 men and women enjoyed a delightful supper menu served at 6:30 o'clock under the direction of a committee comprising members of the club. During the supper hour, pleasing selections were given by a quartette. About 7:45 o'clock adjournment was taken to the parish house parlors where an entertaining programme was given.

Samuel F. Smiley, president of the Men's club, presided. In his opening remarks President Smiley said the members of the club are the finest group of men he has ever met and that it is a pleasure to work with them. Principal Henry A. Tirrell gave a brief address of welcome, after which there was a selection by the quartette. In the Gloaming. Three interesting travel talks followed. Miss Hannah M. Crowell spoke of several of her experiences while she was on a tour of India. She told of picturesque scenes on a walk from the compound where she was staying to a nearby Indian village. On one side of the road were men and women displaying their wares. There were combs, there was soap, she said. There were various European products which are highly esteemed. There were foods, fruits and sweets, covered with flies. On the other side of the road were two shrines. Miss Crowell told of seeing a holy man, "an object of veneration to his followers but an object of pity to us." In her talk Miss Crowell vividly described street scenes and energetic sales methods of the numerous street mongers, young and old.

Miss Amy L. Coggswell gave in her travel talk, a glimpse of Norwich, England. She told of visiting E. Yale's tomb while in England. Miss Coggswell gave a description of the industries of the English city that bears the same name as this city, and said that it is a musical center. She spoke of the cathedral as a little disappointing, because of its surroundings. It is in the heart of the city. Edith Cavell, who was a Norwich (Eng.) woman, is buried there. One of the distressing things about Norwich (Eng.), Miss Coggswell said, was the large number of saloons she noticed.

Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen gave the third travel talk. Her talk was largely devoted to a recent visit to Yellowstone park. Before describing her visit to the Yellowstone, Mrs. Van Wagenen told of the sensations she experienced when she took an airplane trip from the mainland of Europe across the English channel to England. After visiting in England several days she made the return trip across it was last summer that Mrs. Van Wagenen visited Yellowstone park. After describing the approach to the great national park, Mrs. Van Wagenen spoke of the numerous hot springs, geysers, mentioning particularly Old Faithful and one or two of the other large geysers, and gave a most interesting description of the marvellous scener yof the grand canyon of the Yellowstone.

George A. Turner then entertained with a vocal selection after which James Morton gave a humorous talk bringing his remarks to a close by reciting an original poem. The Days Gone By. A solo by Joseph Hynd brought the evening's programme to a close about 9.45 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the evening's arrangements comprised: George Johnson, Geotge L. Ingalls, Edward J. Graham, Eben Learned and Joseph Hynd. The waiters were Bruce Rogers, chairman, Eben Learned, Jr., Raymond D. Sherman, H. Downer Johnson, Jr., David Morton, W. Manley Eastwood, Harry Prentice, Howard Collins, Walter Turner and Clinton Atterbury.

BEQUESTS MADE IN WILL OF MISS MARY M. RING

By a will made Nov. 9 1923, a week before her sudden death at her home at 49 Broad street Miss Mary M. Ring disposed of an estate estimated at $50,000. The will was filed for probate Monday with Judge Nelson J. Avling. It names Miss Lillian O'Brien as executrix and the witnesses are Attorney William H. Shields and Thomas M. Shields and Miss Julia Sakek.

To her brother, Charles B. Ring, of Springfield, Mass. she left the sum of $50 and to her two other brothers the real estate on Chestnut street opposite the fire station, two-thirds to Bernard M. Ring and one-third to Joseph F. Ring.

Margaret M. Murphy, daughter of Michael V. Murphy, is bequeather the sum of $1,000 outright.

RIBS FRACTURED IN COLLISION AT CORNER

As the result of an automobile collision at the corner of Sachem and Washington streets, Monday morning, Jacob Filan of Franklin hill, town of Franklin, received fractured ribs and is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital. A machine operated by Mr. Filan collided with a machine owned and operated by Robert Pizzo of Preston City. A rear wheel on Mr. Filan's car was damaged and some glass in the car was smashed.

NORWICH AMATEURS SHOW TALENT GIVING PLAY

Under the auspices of the Children of Mary a three-act play, The Charm School, was very accentably given Monday night at St. Patrick's parish hall before an enthusiastic audience of close to 1000. The cast was well chosen and the capable work by the principals received much well deserved applause, the parts being taken by Walter LaFountaine and Miss Katherine Dutton, the former as an automobile salesman who quite unexpectedly becomes the hed of a fashionable girls' school and the latter as one of the liveliest pupils whose charms work havoc with the heart of the principal and others of the teachers who were on salesforce in the automobile business.

The following was the cast: Austin Berana, Walter LaFountaine; David MacKenzie, James Fitzgerald; George Boyd, Anthony Kaier; Jim Simpkins, John Tingley; Jim Simpkins, Raymond Coyle; Homer Johns, James Casey; Miss Hayes, Miss Margaret Sullivan; Miss Curtis, Miss Clara Dubaime; Elsie Agnesotti, Miss Katherine Dutton; Sally Boyd, Miss Anna Coleman; Marie Doughty, Miss Mary Foley; Ethel Strevin, Miss Flora Woodmansee; Anis Mercier, Miss Aline Morin; Lillian Stafford, Miss Alice Murphy; Madge Bent, Miss Teresa Cunningham; Charlotte Gray, Miss Margaret Coleman; Flossie, Miss Sally O'Neil; Constance, Miss Dorothy O'Neil; Celia, Miss Magdalen Lynch.

The production was staged under the direction of Miss Catherine Dodd, with the arrangements carried out by a committee consisting of Miss Abbie Sheehan, general chairman; the Misses Mary Sheridan, Grace Christian, Katherine Hanrahan and Margaret Burns.

Music was furnished by the Harmony Boys, Raymond Coyle, pianist and director, Francis McCarthy, drums, James Dutton, violin, Thomas McCarthy, cornet, Charles Leone, William Bernarde, saxophones. Courtesies were extended The Plaut-Cadden Co., The Porteous and Mitchell Co., and John H. Carney.

BARROW HAS LITTLE TO SAY ABOUT YANKEE-NASHVILLE CONNECTIONS

By BRIAN BELL.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—E. G. Barrow, business manager and secretary of the New York Yankees, is perhaps baseball's greatest economist—of words.

Mr. Barrows was questioned today as to a possible connection between the world champion Yankees and the purchase of the Nashville, Southern Association club by Rogers Caldwell, well known southern financier.

"Have the Yankees an interest in the purchase of the Nashville club?"

"No."

"Rogers Caldwell has bought a controlling interest in the club?"

"Yes."

"Yes."

"The Nashville folk think that the Yankees may become a partner to this enterprise."

"No."

Mr Barrow is interested, as are other major league executives in the meeting of the minor leagues at Toronto next month where the relations of the minors and majors on the draft will be an important topic. An effort was made to draw the Yankee official out on this subject.

"Are you going to Toronto next month for the meeting of the national association?"

That is Mr. Barrow's forecast of the meeting in the Canadian city which is expected to be as important to baseball as any held in the last decade.

The Yankee business manager holds one record which has not been equalled in the game and probably will not be in his day and generation. He has twice redeemed world series tickets in November bought for personal consumption of fans in October.

Without batting an eye he returned nearly $200,000 in the autumn and winter of 1927 when the Yankees won the world series in four straight games and made tickets for a third New York contest only scraps of paper. When the baseball lightning struck twice in the same place he was an experienced hand at returning money and he still is mailing checks for tickets bought for the third game of 1928.

Until he became known as the best wholesale redeemer of world series tickets in the world Barrow's baseball claims to fame were divided between his discovery of the great Hans Wagner and his development of Babe Ruth while manager of the Boston Red Sox.

In 1918 he sat on the bench in a world series as manager of the Red Sox and saw the last team to win an American league pennant for Boston make it a world championship as well. Earlier he had been president of the International league.

Since joining the Yankees as the right hand man of Colonel Jacob Ruppert he has remained very much in the background. Few of the fans who attend games at the Yankee stadium day in and day out could identify the impressive figure sometimes seen about the stands as what amounts to the "head man" of the Yankees. Mr. Barrow looks like a bank president, a congressman or a lawyer, surgeon or engineer.

There are some who do not want. These are the gamblers. The secrete to see him or be recognized by him. tary of the Yankees has the camera-eye of a detective in locating men who make a business of betting on baseball games. He is said to be able to spot one of these undesirables with the naked eye from the grandstand to the far away bleachers, and once spied a well known gambler wearing false whiskers and blue spectacles just in time to have him ejected before play began.

Mr. Barrow knows a lot of baseball but he doesn't say much—in fact, hardly anything.

NATIONAL MARATHON RACE AWARDED TO BOSTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—After a spirited contest, which was a repetition of that waged last year the A. A. U. convention, awarded the national marathon championship to Boston in preference to Baltimore. The title will go to the winner of the classic Boston A. A. long distance race in April. The vote was 42 to 20 in Boston's favor.

The board of governors adopted a recommendation of a special committee that the membership of the Connecticut association be forfeited and the association dissolved. The chairman was authorized to appoint a commission to form a new association around ten clubs, members of the former association. Yale univerarity heads this group.

YALE TEAM HAS DAY OF REST BEFORE HARVARD

Loeser, center, and Hubbard, right halfback, who were the only casualties of the Princeton game, were greatly improved today and will probably get into practice tomorrow. Loud, Garvey, Ellis, Hoben and Decker, who have been on the injured list, will all be used in the Harvard game.

It is expected that practice this week will be confined to signal drills, forward passing and dummy scrimmage.

BELDING BLUES TAKE GAME FROM FITTON A. C.

PUTNAM, Nov. 19—Local professional football enthusiasts were afforded a treat Sunday afternoon on the Adam's field when the Belding Blues, Putnam pro team, emerged victorious from their encounter with the fast Fitton A. C. of Worcester, by a score of 6-0.

The local eleven, composed of the cream of Putnam high school's gridiron stars of by-gone days, fought a hard tilt from the beginning to the finish. Only one touchdown was scored during the fray, that coming in the first quarter when Rip Nelson, flashing Putnam halfback, crushed the Fitton line in an off tackle play, running about ten yards for the only sextette of pointers made. The locals failed on the goal kick, thereby losing all other opportunities to chalk up more scores.

The game contained plenty of action, though neither side threatened to cross the scoring stripe. Lou Phaneuf, Putnam Frontiersman, has gained a reputation of blocking punts. Yesterday he continued his valuable work, using his eye as a tool and receiving in exchange a beautiful "shiner." A punt was blocked by him, and the ball was recovered by Farquher. This act was followed by a line plunge by Applin, bringing the ball to the one-yard line. A desperate effort to score was made by the local eleven in a series of end runs which proved to be fruitless.

AGGIES GIVEN DAY OF REST BEFORE HARD PRACTICE

STORRS, Nov. 19—The undefeated and unscored upon Connecticut Aggie football team was given a day of rest this afternoon by Head Coach Sumner A. Dole following the strenuous Rhode Island State contest last Saturday in which the Nutmeggers remained holders of a clean slate by the score of 24-0. As a result of the traditional contest with Rhode Island, the Aggies are the only team in the country with its goal posts uncrossed and one of the few remaining elevens without losing a game.

The main reason for the respite today was to give the members of the varsity a chance for one solid day of rest before active preparations are started on Tuesday for the final game of the year with Boston college next Saturday at the Hub city. Although the drill sessions this week are to be very active and prolonged, Coach Do'e announced that there would be no scrimmaging or live tackling of any sort. The Nutmeg mentors will rely upon the condition of the eleven mostly in making a showing against the hardest team on the schedule.

There is very little probability that any injuries will crop up this week in practice and as a result the Nutmeggers will all be in shape for the climax contest of the year. William McCombe, injured in the New Hampshire contest, will be back into the fold Tuesday and ready to resume work on the squad. His return will strengthen the Nutmeg backfield considerably on the defense, since he is rated as one of the best interfering and defensive backs to ever wear an orange jersey for Connecticut. That department of the Nutmeg makeup will have to function at its best Saturday against the Boston Eagle in order to keep the Nutmeggers' record untarnished. What part of the Blue and White offensive that is expected to work best against the Boston college aggregation is not known but it is very certain the Aggies will present everything known to them in matters of football, especially because it is their final contest.

FEAR FOOTBALL PLAYER HAS FRACTURED VERTEBRAE

CLARION, Pa., Nov. 19—(AP)—Alden Hunt, 20, of Cambridge, captain of the Clarion State Normal school football squad is unconscious in Brookville hospital owing to injuries sustained in a football game Saturday.

Hunt, who was carrying the ball was tackled and in being downed his head struck the head of another player. Hospital officials say he suffered a fractured vertebrae in the neck and that his spinal cord is injured. His condition is regarded as serious.

Races at Olympic Rink

Four races were put on at the Olympic Rink Monday evening, ten laps each. One, a challenge race between Daigle and Starr was won by Starr by a wide margin. The second race between Harry Cooke and Johnny Savage was the closest of the four, Savage winning by a horsehair. The third race between Jimmy McGregor and M. Falcone was won by McGregor, and the last race was between Johnny Savage and W. Aborn, Savage winning by a narrow margin.

A thirty-five lap race will be staged Wednesday evening between Johnny Savage and Jimmy McGregor, Harry Cooke racing the winner Friday evening. Another, a challenge race between West Side and Greeneville will also be staged Wednesday night.

Lions Beat Trojans

Scientific playing overcame brute strength in a hard fought game Monday afternoon between the Lions and the Lake street Trojans in which the former won 18 to 12.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Saturday's was the largest score the Academy has run up this year.

It was quite a mystery to the large turnout how Stonington had remained undefeated, if their game Saturday is their standard. They were outclassed all the way.

Now things are a bit more even with Stonington for the Academy. The defeats in football in 1927 and baseball in 1928 stung quite a bit around the Wildcat camp and it remained for this year's grid edition to square things.

The Academy now rules quite a heavy favorite over Bulkeley in the clash this Saturday. However, that was also the case last year and what happened?—a tie game.

Had Saturday's game been a scheduled league tilt, the Academy would now be reposing in first place.

The Stonington game crowd was just a bit larger than the one the week previous, the Hartford game. Next Saturday, however, should shatter some kind of a record.

The dope on the Academy and Bulkeley tilts at the week end went quite awry. The Academy was supposed to have a tougher time with its opponent than the Whalers but Bulkeley lost to Ansonia 19 to 0 and the Academy won.

ACADEMY STARTS PREPARING FOR BULKELEY CLASH

This is the week of the Academy-Bulkeley game. Therefore it is the week for the "Beat Bulkeley" signs, also the "Beat Academy" ones, the week of intense practice by both elevens, the week for another chapter of this ancient rivalry, in general, the greatest week of the season for both Norwich and New London.

The game Saturday at the campus is expected to draw a record-breaking attendance. Once again the Academy comes to this contest as the favorite and once again comes that great danger of over-confidence to them. That the Academy has a better record is easily seen, even though the Wildcats have lost three out of their last five games, but in recent seasons, the Academy has been considered just as much better than their rivals, yet only on one occasion in the past eight years have the Red and White succeeded in downing the Orange and Black, that in 1926, at the campus, 6 to 0. Last year's game ended in a 6-6 tie, which in reality was a great moral victory for Bulkeley, Bulkeley had not scored up to that time but on the turf of Mercer field sailed into the locals and put over a touchdown on a fumbled punt to offset six points made previously on another fumble.

The stiff work for both teams is scheduled to start this afternoon. Rain yesterday would have hampered practice had either team been so inclined. In all probability, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be stiff ones, although it is doubtful whether any of the first-stringers will be subjected to any long scrimmage sessions. Their work will be mainly to brush up on the formations. Friday will be given over to the usual "pep meetings" and then everything will be in shape.

The officials will be neutral men, probably selected from a distant point in the state or from another state. The work of Central Board men the past two years was without reproach.

Yellow Jackets and Crescent Play Tie Game

Another hard fought struggle was staged at the Olympic Rink Monday evening, the Yellow Jackets tieing the Cerscents 2 to 2. The two centers, Cooke of the Yellow Jackets and Cloutier of the Crescents were given a hard run, both showing the effects of hard playing by the end of the game. Good goal tending kept the game to a tie score.

Averill Sold to Indians

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18—(AP)—Earl Averill, crack outfielder of the San Francisco Seals was sold today to the Cleveland Americans for an unannounced price but believed to be around $50,000 and two players, Billy Evans, manager of the Indians, and Charley Graham, vice president of the Seals, completed the sale here.

Longo Challenges

Those desiring to meet Tom may get in touch with Joe Besade at the Duwell A. A. or Monday evenings at the Armory between 8 to 9.45.

Yale Football Star Married

LATHAM, N. Y., Nov. 19—(AP)—Charles M. O'Hearn, Yale quarterback from 1921 to 1924 today married Ann Virginia Curtis of Wellesley Hills, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Michael J. Dwyer of St. Ambrose Roman Catholic church of this village. The bride is the daughter of John Duffield Curtis. They will live in Akron, Ohio.

CONN. A. A. U. IS ORDERED DISSOLVED AT MEETING OF GOVERNING BODY

By F. G. Vosburgh
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—A burst of oratory out of which came a steady stream of rejected or accepted records, awards of championship events, disciplinary and administrative acts and changes in policy marked the opening of general sessions of the 40th annual convention of the National Amateur Athletic union today.

Boston and Baltimore waged a pitched battle over the award of the marthon championship with Boston winning out by a vote of 42 to 20 in a stormy session of the board of governers after the long distance running committee had reported in favor of Baltimore. Boston also gained the national senior boxing championship which it has held for 28 years. New York and Chicago lost out.

The present Connecticut association of the A. A. U. was ordered dissolved and a new one built around Yale university and nine swimming or track and field clubs in the state this action being an outgrowth of President Murray Hulbert's suspension of the association for alleged violations of the amateur code by certain boxing clubs.

Argument on a constitutional amendment looking toward greater cooperation with colleges and universities precipitated a statement from L. Di Benedetto of New Orleans, secretary of the Southern association, that college men "all over the country" are receiving "as much as $150 a month for playing summer baseball." There following a frank acknowledgment from J. Wyman Bingham, graduate manager of athletics at Denver university, that summer baseball for pay is allowed athletes of that institution.

After once being rejected in a fight led by Di Benedetto the amendment was adopted in clarified form. Proposed by Gustavus T. Kirby of New York it provides that local A. A. U. registration officials may enroll as amateurs such athletes as are certified by a "well-recognized university or college which has and maintains a system of investigation and record of the amateur status and other sports competitive qualifications of its students" without obtaining further information as to their qualifications. This privilege previously has been allowed only the United States military and naval academies. With the new rule in force, it was brought out the A. A. U. must decide what colleges it believes come up to the standard outlined, it is at liberty to reject certifications of colleges of which it does not approve.

Di Benedetto's attack on college men who play baseball for money was intended to show that not all such institutions compel their athletes to follow strictly the amateur code, and also to point a contrast between the "$150 a month college vacation ball player" and the boy who once took $5 for engaging in a boxing bout. Such cases as the latter arose and the boxer's amateur status was not restored. Whereas Di Benedetti said the college ball player is getting away with more.

Bingham said that although Denver university sees nothing wrong, with allowing boys to pick up needed money for summer baseball, he never would attempt to certify them as A. A. U. athletes as they clearly violate the organization's rules.

Nearly 200 records, most of them in track and field and swimming, were accepted but most interest centered on those rejected and the reasons for denying them.

Lee Barnes' application for 14 feet 1 1-2 inches in the pole vault which would have been the best ever recorded was turned down because the pegs supporting the bar were two inches too long, but the 400 meter record of 47 seconds flat by Bud Spencer, another Californian, was accepted. This is in the running for world's record recognition.

Frank Hussey's 70-yard dash indoors in 6 4-5 seconds at Hartford was referred back to the record committee for further investigation after the committee had figured it out that this pace would mean 100 yards in about 8 1-2 seconds and would be impossible.

George Simpson of Ohio State university lost out on an application for a world record—equalling 9 3-5 in the 100 when the committee found the track was under four inches of water which obscured the finish line and made accurate timing impossible this was held for "further investigation."

Flatly rejected were applications by Charley Paddock and Fred Alderman for records at 175 yards. They were turned down as "trick records" at odd distances.

The awards made today at the A. A. U. convention, together with dates when specified follow:

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR STATE HONORS

Naugatuck, Hartford and Harding coasted along with easy victories as the state high school football season drew to a close Saturday. Harding defeated Central in the annual city title game at Bridgeport, 25 to 6, Hartford beat Weaver, 25 to 0, in another intra-city clash and Naugatuck had no trouble at all in getting the decision over Crosby, 39 to 6. Lesser lights, which however, have very strong teams turned in sizable victories Saturday when Manchester stopped Windham at Willimantic in their annual game, 12 to 6, and Putnam beat Northbridge (Mass.) 32 to 0. Hillhouse and New Britain played to a 7-7 tie in a triangular league game.

The title situation in Eastern Connecticut is not settled as yet with but one more week of the season remaining. Stonington was shunted from the unbeaten class Saturday by the Academy, leaving Putnam the only team with a spotless record this side of the Connecticut river. However, some will question Putnam's claim on the strength of her opponents and the presence of Massachusetts teams on her schedule.

The Academy has lost but one game in Eastern Connecticut, while winning three, Stonington has lost one, tied one and won three.

Putnam has one more game, meeting Killingly Thanksgiving day and, of course should she come through that unscathed, then she surely will have to be considered for a lone undefeated team deserves mention.

Gross Kayoes Humback

VELVETMEN WIN CLOSE GAME FROM COTTRELL

Before a good sized crowd on the home grounds Sunday afternoon the Velvetmen defeated the fast Cottrell F. C. of Westerly 3 to 2 in an exciting game. Both teams showed some excellent combination with the J. B.s having the better of the first half. F. Thompson opened the scoring within a few minutes of the start from a penalty kick and the second tally was made by B. Labenski with a beautiful shot from 30 yard range F Thompson finished the scoring for the first half with a terrific drive from close in. The Westerly boys showed up better in the second half, keeping the J. B.'s on the defensive most of the time and reducing the lead eventually when Yates got 2 pretty goals for Cottrell.

The feature of the game was the masterly exhibition of goal tending of Jesse Greenhalgh for the Velvetmen stopping shots from all angles in big league style for which he was heartily applauded by the crowd. The lineups were as follows:

J. B. Martin F. C., Greenhalgh rhb, Troeger lfb, Headon rhb, Joubert chb, Eccleston, lhb, Penin orf, Hargreaves irf, Thompson c, Houston, ilf, Decelles olf

WHIRLWINDS AT PLAINFIELD WED.

The annual feud between the Boston Whirlwinds and the Plainfield Pros will be resumed on Wednesday evening at the Plainfield Community House. When these two clubs get together there is always plenty of basketball, basketball of the highest order, for the Whirlwinds are classed as the leading basket-tossing outfit in New England. This Boston club led by Leo Martin and Fiddie Morley have been at the top of the basketball heap in New England for the past six or seven years and it takes a mighty good club to beat them.

Plainfield has never been able to take a series from the Whirlwinds but expect to do it this year as the Pros got away to a flying start in their game last week against the Detroit club of the American league led by Johnny Beckman. Playing as brilliant basketball as was displayed against Beckman's club the Plainfield team should be able to bring about the defeat of the Whirlwinds and take a long stride forward in claiming the New England basketball honors.

The Whirlwinds lineup the same as last season with Riorden and Crotty playing the forward positions while Martin will be at center with Morley and Kyley doing the guarding. Martin and Morley are perhaps the best known of the Whirlwinds as both have played from coast to coast with the leading basketball teams of the country.

Plainfield will have the same team that defeated the Detroiters last week. Kasper and Bruno will be in the forward line with Whitey Bernot in the pivot position and Dissinger and Tisdell playing the guards.

DUWELLS PREPARING FOR AMATEURS

The task of moulding together the first of the Duwell indoor amateur boxing shows to be presented at the state armory on Tuesday, November 27 has begun and the boxing committee of the local athletic organization has already lined up a number of the most prominent of simon pures in this vicinity. The first team to be signed up is that under the direction of Mickey Rossi of Westerly, one of the three fighting brothers from the city across the border.

Rossi reports that he will bring up a team of five boys ranging in weights from 110 to 165 pounds. Most prominent of the Rossi stable is Angelo Gengarelli, middleweight, who at the recent outdoor Duwell shows outpunched Ben Herr of Danielson, and Frankie Brown, midget scrapper, who at the same time won a sensational battle from Willie Thiebeault also from the mill village. Stanley Wuchik, a third member of the stable, and two other new boys who have not performed here as yet, but who have been going great around Providence completes the Westerly lineup.

Several local boys have begun to train for the coming show and may be found working out every night over at the Duwell gym. It is expected that Norwich will be very well represented at the first indoor bill, at least half a dozen wielders of the mitts are working in that direction at the present time.

Although the main attraction has not been decided upon as yet, it is expected that one of the most prominent teams in New England will be brought in. The boxing committee is in communication with several outfits at the present time and it will be but a matter of a day or so before an official announcement in regards this matter will be made.

As has been the custom in the past there will be five headline bouts on the bill with an equal number of bouts for novices. About the only change in the Duwell policy for the first indoor show is the matter of seats. A year ago it will be remembered that the armory was packed for every show and a good number of fans had to remain on their feet during the entire performance. In an effort to accommodate those who wish to secure seats in advance arrangements are being made to provide for 300 reserve seats. These will be in addition to the 1000 regular general admission seats.

The entry list for the coming show will close Sunday and only those registered at that time will be allowed to box Tuesday. Entry blanks may be obtained by applying to Sports, Duwell A. A.

A. L. POST LAUNCHES DRIVE FOR MEMBERS THIS WEEK

DANIELSON, Nov. 19—This week finds the mebership drive of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, getting into its stride. It will cover the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn and is expected to bring in from 150 to 200 additional members, making the local post one of the strongest in this section of the state. Past Commander Arthur DeForest is chairman of the post organization that has the drive in charge, and the committee is made up of World war veterans who have been assigned various sections of the borough to cover and interview men who are eligible for membership. That the drive holds promise of good success is forecast by the statement of Mr. DeForest that he personally already has obtained 15 members.

Arthur Barnard will have charge of the recruiting in what has been designated the first district and which includes territory in the central section of the borough. Mr. Barnard also will cover the Connecticut Mills and Elmville territory. Lucien Lambert is covering the second district, which includes the Riverview section and Maple street. The third district will be canvassed by James Harney, he having the Dyer and Franklin street section and the Green Hollow road. Commander Joseph Burton will cover the Broad, L'Homme and Reynolds streets section. Mechanic street to North street will be canvassed by James J. Regnier. Almour Grennon will cover the West Side. Bernard Casey will seek membership in the town of Brooklyn, while Postmaster J. J. O'Neill will conduct the canvass in Dayville. In Wauregan the new members will be sought by Messrs Messier and Benoit. Robert Ralston will cover Goodyear.

Dayville Man Fined

Solomon Gordon of Gordon Brothers at Dayville was before the town court this morning to answer to a charge that a truck owned by the firm of which he is a member had been operated without proper lights. Mr. Gordon was represented by Judge Sabin S. Russell as counsel. Judge W. Fenner Woodward found Mr. Gordon guilty and imposed a fine of $5.00 and costs, a total of $15.37, which was paid. It is understood that Mr. Gordon was not operating the truck at the time the light violation occurred, but that it was in charge of one of the employes of the Gordon firm. However, it was felt that the firm was responsible for the faulty lighting equipment of the vehicle, so one of the members came to court to answer to the charge.

OBITUARIES

Hartwell B. Shippee

Hartwell B. Shippee, 54, died today at his home in Elmville after an illness of between two and three years duration. During his active years Mr. Shippee was engaged as a carpenter and contractor, [illegible] a wood-working plant at Elmville. He was a native of this town, [illegible] Willis H. and Laura Greves Shippee, and had always lived within its limits. For years he was a resident in the Mashentuck district of the town. Mr. Shippee leaves his wife and the following children, all resident at the home in Elmville; Alvin H., Edna E., Edith L., Melvin W., Eva F. and Hazel I. Shippee. Mr. Shippee was a member of the Union Baptist church of East Killingly. His fraternal affiliations were with the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, and the Fraternal Benefit league, of which he was a charter member here. William H. Shippee of North street is a half-brother of Mr. Shippee's.

Miss Florence L. Brayton

A death at the Hope Street hospital in Providence today was that of Miss Florence L. Brayton, 55, a native of Foster, but for years resident in this town. The body was brought to Danielson in charge of A. F. Wood and is now at the Wood Funeral home. Miss Brayton had been in failing health for a long time, and entered the Providence hospital to undergo an operation.

Miss Brayton was a daughter of Olney and Amanda Wright Brayton of Foster, where she spent such years as she was not resident in Killingly. She was born Jan. 5, 1873. Miss Brayton leaves two sisters, Mrs. Arnold Battey, of Elmville, with whom she made her home while resident here, and Mrs. Harriet Wood of the Green Hollow road. In addition she is survived by Miss Flora Battey and Miss Florence Wood, nieces and Howard Wood, George Wood and Clark Wood, nephews, Clayton F. Wright of Danielson and Fayette L. Wright of St. Petersburg, Fla., uncles of Miss Brayton's.

Over $140,000 in Christmas Club

In approximately three weeks the flood of money that hundreds of Christmas club members have been accumulating in Danielson banks for 50 weeks past will be paid out. This year this money is estimated to amount to between $140,000 and $150,000. The Christmas club idea was first put into operation here more than a dozen years ago, and the passing years have witnessed a constantly increasing appreciation of it, and a steady increase in both the number of club members and the amount of money paid out in early December of each year. All of the local banks have clubs. The members of them are representative not only of Killingly, but also of all the communities of the town of Killingly, as well as communities of the towns of Brooklyn, Plainfield and Sterling and all the country districts for miles about. The success of the club idea seems in large degree due to the fact that it relieves what used to be a yearly worry—where to get the funds promptly for Christmas shopping. The arrangement not only provides the money just when it is needed, but makes the saving of it easy, for the amounts that go to make up each member's annual check is paid in as deposits in small amounts each week.

The club checks vary in amount, running from $12.50 upwards. Some clubs in the past have had members who drew checks at Christmas time for $1040, plus interest, this representing a saving of $20 a week.

There appears little doubt in the mind of the average business man here that the Christmas clubs help boost the holiday trade. Experience of the past at the banks has shown that about 85 per cent of the amount paid out comes back for redeposit in savings accounts. The assumption is, therefore, that 75 per cent of the Christmas club money quickly flows into trade channels.

Case Again Postponed

Again today the case of the State vs. Solvarius Hicks of Norwich, scheduled for a hearing in the Killingly town court, was postponed for a week. Today's was the second postponement of the hearing. When he does eventually make his appearance in court Hicks will face a charge of transporting intoxicants illegally. When arrested by a state officer at South Killingly one week ago last Saturday morning there was 20 gallons of alleged moonshine in his car. He was bound from Providence to Norwich.

At this week's meeting of the Civic federation scheduled for Wednesday afternoon the speaker will be Robert W. McLaughlin, D. D., noted lecturer and author. His subject will be Education Through People.

Mr. and Mrs. John Newell of Boston were week end visitors at Mrs. Newell's home here.

Tax Collector James R. Walsh is leaving Tuesday for New York, where he has been called by the death of a relative.

Today a crew of the S. N. E. Telephone company was replacing overhead wires with an underground cable from Main at Academy street to a point opposite the public library building.

Charles Young of South Killingly is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

A basketball team to be known as the Armory Five is being recruited from among the military organizations with headquarters at the state armory here. It will be coached by Sidney P. Marland.

Material for the vault to be installed in the new Brooklyn Savings bank building was being unloaded at the structure here today. The main door of the vault weighs 23,000 pounds.

Tuesday afternoon members of the Ladies' Prayer circle are to meet with Mrs. V. H. Wetherell of Main street.

Paul Warren, formerly an employe at the Orpheum theater, has returned from a stay of several months in California.

Members of Danielson chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, have been invited to be guests of Radiant chapter of Willimantic Friday evening of this week.

Returns from the Red Cross annual roll call of the past week will be tabulated Tuesday morning. It is anticipated that between 1,000 and 1,200 persons have been enrolled.

Deer are reported so plentiful in territory near here this fall that herds running from 6 to 12 are often seen, and in many instances the animals appear to be quite tame.

It is state that through the Windham County National Farm Loan association, which recently held its annual meeting at Brooklyn, loans totaling $291,000 have been made to 152 farmborrowers of the county, and of this number 22 have repaid $65,000.

New Ford roadsters are being supplied to state officers stationed at the Danielson barracks from their headquarters at Hartford, and ultimately all the old machines will have been replaced.

Among the things that the standing committee of the Westside Congregational church will consider when it meets Thursday evening will be a report of a committee on revision of the rules and the matter of arrangements for the every member canvass.

PUTNAM BANK TARGET OF MALICIOUS STORIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 19—Unfounded rumors regarding the financial condition of the Putnam Savings bank are termed by the officials of the bank as the cause of many depositors withdrawing their savings from the bank late this afternoon. These rumors, labeled as utterly false by the bank authorities, created a mild apprehension among some of the depositors and they withdrew their funds. Those that demanded their money were not in such numbers as to cause the bank any alarm. The origin of the rumors is being investigated by the bank officials.

Treasurer Daniel J. Byrne, acting head of the institution, issued the following statement here tonight: "The state's attorney will be asked to take action against those responsible for spreading unfounded rumors regarding the Putnam Savings bank." Mr. Byrne also assured the depositors that the bank was financially sound in every respect.

The rumors first became current late Friday afternoon and many skeptical depositors appeared at the bank Saturday morning, demanding their savings. Business at the bank was resumed Monday morning with indications that the detrimental rumors had subsided and the depositors' faith in the safety of the institution had been restored. It was apparent that malicious rumors were again circulated during the banking hours this morning and many withdrawals were made during the last hour of the day. The bank's surplus at the close of business amounted to over $300,000 and the rumors of Friday and Saturday, referring to the bank as being unsafe, were termed by Mr. Byrne as being ridiculous.

Authorities believed tonight that the source of the rumors causing the mild run on the bank were of a political nature. During the day bank officials were engaged in sifting the destructive stories down to their origin. It was said tonight by officials that persons responsible for the rumors gaining circulation had been discovered and state action towards their prosecution would be taken up Tuesday morning by the state's attorney, which will result in their arrest.

The October statement of the bank showed total assets of over $3,500,000. The surplus is over $300,000.

CHARGES AGAINST WEBSTER MEN NOLLED ON COST PAYMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 19—A light session of police court was held Monday morning with Judge M. H. Geissler on the bench. Three cases dealing with the theft of lumber from a wood lot in the vicinity of Quadic village were settled when Anthony Nrbavouski, Edward Shebeness and Charles Nrbavouski, all of Webster, were discharged upon payment of costs of $17.77 each. The three men were arrested by Sergt. George Gardner of the Danielson state police barracks early Sunday morning. The state and local police have been engaged in an effort to trace the lumber thieves for the past week, when the mysterious disappearance of the boards and other building material was reported.

Joseph Belemare of 167 Providence street, Putnam, was arraigned on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws. Belemare was arrested Saturday evening by Officer Alpherie Sponcey of the local police, after a wagon which Belemare had been operating without the proper lighting facilities had figured in an accident at the intersection of Woodstock avenue and the Springfield highway. Belemare's case was granted a continuance until Saturday morning upon a plea of not guilty.

Protests from the merchants having business establishments situated on the right hand side of Main street, from the Second Congregational church to Bosworth's grain store, where the city has set that side of the street off as a fire lane and has abolished parking entirely, were up in arms today as the police continued to enforce the orders of the city council and order the motorists to vacate at once. One merchant located at the northerly end of the fire lane stated that her business enterprises during the week-end had dropped 50 per cent since the council ordered the ordinance pertaining to the parking strictly enforced. Mayor Charles A. Richard is not behind the recent parking disturbance caused during the past week-end. It is an order from the common council and all complaints should be entered before the monthly meeting of the aldermen, where they will be dealt with accordingly.

The benefit performance held Friday evening at the Bradley theatre for Putnam's Boy Scout band of St. Mary's church was announced today as being a huge financial success. The attendance was a citation of the community interest in the boys' musical outfit that is the work of Rev. Joseph D. Casey, curate at the church and director of the band. The funds derived from the performance will be devoted to the purchasing of equipment and supplies needed for the band.

The public school teachers of the town's educational system will have a visiting day on Friday, Nov. 23. All schools in the city will be closed during the day and will reopen on the following Monday.

Officers of this vicinity were today organized in a systematic hunt for Earl Jacobs, who escaped from the Webster jail Saturday evening, he sawing his way to freedom and then disappearing. He was arraigned in the Webster district court on a charge of theft of an automobile, Saturday morning and was bound over to district court on bonds of $500, which he could not raise. He was returned to the Webster police station to await trial. At 5:15 in the afternoon, a Webster cell officer discovered the clean-cut job of Jacobs. Word was dispatched to various police departments in southern Massachusetts and in Windham county. Saturday evening a warrant was picked up in Putnam on suspicion. Two Webster authorities appeared to identify the man, but it was not Jacobs, however. In addition to being an automobile thief, Jacobs is a deserter from the 13th Infantry stationed at Camp Devens, and at the time of the discovery of the jail break army officials were on their way to Webster to return him to the camp where charges of court martial were pending. A search was continued today without success.

Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, pastor of the First Baptist church in Danielson, preached yesterday at the Second Congregational church in this city, while Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Putnam church, occupied the pulpit at the Danielson church. Another pulpit exchange in Putnam yesterday was that of Rev. John E. Duxbury, pastor of the Methodist church, who occupied the pulpit of the Thompson Methodist, while Rev. E. S. Lyon, Thompson pastor, delivered the sermon at the Putnam church.

Two Sunday accidents occurred yesterday in Pomfret. The first happened about 4:30 in the afternoon when a large car being operated by William Smith of Providence struck a fence in the vicinity of the Hattin farm and uprooted two fence poles. The car continued in its wild plunge for about a hundred feet, turning over and then righting itself. The driver, who was alone, escaped without injury and with only slight damage to his vehicle. The second mishap occurred in Phoenixville late in the afternoon, when a Rhode Island car failed to make the turn on the steep incline near the village and crashed a fence. The driver was the sole occupant of the car. He escaped with slight injuries to the face, although his car was severely damaged.

Collection of War-Time Posters

With the armistice day more than ten years passed, the collection of over 100 war-time posters, owned by E. H. Hiscox, is of increased interest.

Besides all the four Liberty loan sets, there are those issued in the interest of the Red Cross, the Federal Food commission and Salvation Army. There are the victory editions, together with those issued during the U-boat activity by the German navy, which, with those appeals from the government relative to fuel and food conservation go to make up a collection not to be duplicated.

The Red Cross lithographs, issued just after the United States entered the war, by such noted artists as Harrison Fisher and Howard Chandler Christy, are recognized now as they were in war times, as outstanding works of art. In addition to these are the posters authorized by President Wilson in his appeal to the country in "Buy War Stamps." Not a few in their stirring and unmistakable titles, issued directly by the war department, especially recall the threatening times when France was fighting with her back to the wall. Some of those editions will be remembered even now. Among them were "Hun or Home." "Remember Belgium," and "Blot it From Our Land," included in those of special appeal and attractiveness are the admonitions to "Join The Marines"—especially the issue "If You Want to Fight, Join the Marines."

To Add Photophone

John F. Barnett, manager of the Finn theater, has made arrangements for the installation of a modern photophone, which he expects will arrive this week. This device will furnish all the musical accompaniments and sound effects for the high grade bookings for the coming holiday season. It is to be a permanent addition to the theater's up-to-date equipment.

Much of interest was to be noted last week by those who visited the partly wooded grounds at Dr. Jennings' home on the East Main street highlands. A good sized flock of wax-wings were enjoying the feeding there for several days.

Miss Annie Fitzgerald has returned from a three months' stay at the home of her sister, Mrs. Patrick Shea, in Pawtucket.

Robert Olson returned Friday from Bethlehem, N. H., where he has been manager of the Central House and Hillside Inn. During the winter he is to locate in New York as night manager of a Bickford restaurant.

PIMPLES CAUSED DISFIGUREMENT

On Face. Smarted Terribly. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with pimples for about two years. My face was the only part affected. The pimples festered and scaled over causing disfigurement. When I washed my face they smarted something terrible.

"I used other remedies but none of them proved successful. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Dorothy Brown, 19 Union Ave., Jamaica Plain, Mass., April 6, 1920.

Use Cuticura to heal skin troubles.

Hunting for icebergs

Hunting out these icebergs, so that giant liners may be forewarned, is a cold job if ever there was one. On lookout duty in dirty weather, in freezing sleet and great sea winds—no wonder the men take instant precaution at the very first hint of a cold.

The old reliable remedy is GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. How good for a cold it is, you may judge from the fact that 22,000,000 boxes were bought last year. It doesn't merely eliminate symptoms. Its tonic and laxative ingredients help nature to help you. Thus you either side-step the cold entirely or throw it off quickly.... Be sure! Emphasize GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

WHIRLWIND OF BUYING FOLLOWED A FLOOD OF PROFIT-TAKING SALES

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—The stock market managed to absorb a flood of profit taking today without much wavering, then was thrust forward by a whirlwind of buying which carried some two score issues to new high ground. Radio was sent soaring 40 points from its lowest level of the day. Total sales were carried across the 5,000,000 share mark for the seventh time in the market's history, and it took the ticker an hour and a quarter after the close to print the final transaction.

The selling depressed the majority of active stocks 1 to 10 points early in the day, but trading slackened as prices sagged. The upturn came in the last hour when Radio, which had fallen more than 6 points to 296, was hurled up to the record price of 336, and Wright, which had sunk nearly 10 points rallied and wiped out most of its loss. The profit taking was inspired by fear of a fairly sharp reaction after last week's sweeping advances, the sort of reaction that was followed such advances in the past.

Call money held as 6 1-2 per cent. throughout the session, although banks called $10,000,000 in loans. The day brought an assortment of bullish news. Dupont declared the expected extra dividend of $4.75 and recommended a 3 1-2 for 1 stock split, and Kennecott advanced its annual dividend rate for the second consecutive quarter, raising it to an $8 basis from a $6 basis.

The price of stock exchange seats approached the $500,000 mark in response to the record volume of commission business and talk of 10,000,000 share days in the future. Three sales were arranged one at $480,000, the previous high figure, then one at $490,000, and another to $495,000. The exchange reported an increase in the ratio of member borrowings to the total value of listed securities for October which was generally regarded as moderate, and disclosed that the average value per share has increased 49 cents to $83.82 during the month.

The gyrations of Radio were accompanied by an assortment of rumors. The decline early in the session was attributed to reports that the Fisher interests had disposed of their large holdings in the company. The upturn was accompanied by further unconfirmed reports that a working agreement would be reached with Western Union which would not be in violation of the White act. Radio made a net gain of 30 points, while Western Union closed a point lower.

The rally embraced the shares of a number of companies representing industries which have been having rather hard sledding in recent years. American Piano moved up 4 points, American Woolen common and preferred went ahead 2 1-2 and 4 1-2 points to new peaks for the year, and International Paper made an extreme gain of nearly 5 points.

Case Threshing shot up more than 19 points to a record price at 449, while American Home Products, Archier Daniels, Midland, Columbia Carbon, Federal Mining and Smelting, S. S. Kresge, Liquid Carbonic, and May Department Stores climbed about 5 to 8 points to new high levels.

In the coppers, Anaconda jumped more than 5 points to a new peak, and Magma and Chile achieved new high ground. Kennecott lost 2 points in the traditional "selling on the good news" of the higher dividend rate. Amerada led the oils with a 3 point jump to a new top, while Transcontinental went to a new high at 13 1-2 in heavy buying. Mexican Seaboard fell 8 points but recovered 5 points of its loss.

New Haven was a conspicuous strong point in the rails, climbing nearly 4 points to 72 1-4, the highest price it has achieved in about 12 years. Canadian Pacific also went ahead nearly 4 points.

Bethlehem Steel fell 2 points, then rose nearly 6 to a new peak at 84 1-2. Steels generally yielded to profit taking, however, U. S. Steel and Vanadium losing about a point each. Motors were also inclined to heaviness. General Motors again lost about a point, and Chrysler closed 1 1-2 points lower. Packard broke into new territory, then eased.

National Tea closed about 8 points lower, and A. M. Byers, International Telephone, Interborough Rapid Transit, and Mathieson Alkali were among issues closing about 2 to 5 points lower.

The commodity markets were generally steady, cotton responding to better Liverpool cables and cold weather in parts of the belt.

Foreign exchanges also were steady, sterling again improving.

FELL ON BROOM HANDLE— H. C. LANGWORTHY DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 19—Following injuries received in a fall, the death of Howard Clark Langworthy, well-known Westerly farmer residing on the Shore road, occurred on Monday morning at the private hospital, where he had been taken with a blood infection about two weeks ago. The infection came from a wound caused when Mr. Langworthy fell on a broom handle while engaged in work at his farm. Mr. Langworthy was born in the old family house at Langworthy Corners, April 5, 1871, the son of Albert and Melissa Langworthy. He learned the carpenter's trade, which he pursued for 15 years, after that devoting his entire time to farming. Thirty-one years ago, Oct. 12, Mr. Langworthy married Isabelle Roberts Syme. They have one child, Clifford Langworthy.

Mr. Langworthy for years has served as deacon of Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church. Mr. Langworthy is survived by his wife; his son, Clifford; his father, a brother, Edward, and sister, Mrs. Raymond Barber, all of Westerly.

In its annual appeal for Thanksgiving day contributions and donations, the People's Mission Sunday requested assistance to help in the care of the needy of the town and vicinity. This year 40 families must be cared for by contributions of food, money and clothing. Mrs. Alexander Smith, superintendent of the mission, made the appeal through the press and at services of the mission Sunday.

This will be the 20th annual Thanksgiving appeal of the mission.

INDICTMENTS IN FIVE CASES BROUGHT BEFORE GRAND JURY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 19—The first day's session of the November term of superior court for Washington county was a short one Monday at West Kingston, adjournment for the day being taken shortly after 1:30 p. m. With Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence on the bench court opened at 11 a. m. Third Assistant Louis V. Jackvony appeared for the attorney general's department. The 29 grand jurors under summons appeared, were examined by the attorney general and were administered the oath by Judge Sumner.

Five cases were brought before the grand jury after they had retired to their room on the first floor. With William C. Clarke of Westerly as foreman, the following served on the grand jury panel: Eugene H. Dora, Walter H. Perry, Timothy H. Roughsam, James A. Stanton, William S. Webster, South Kingstown; Richard I. Arnold, John Chambers, Nelson W. Dawley, Irving S. Hazard, North Kingstown; William C. Clarke, Arthur Clemens, Fred D. Sisson, James Smith, John E. Sullivan, Westerly; Ellery F. Barber, Edward G. Crandall, Hopkinton; Hiram L. Wright, Richmond; Reynolds L. Searle, Exeter; Albert E. Brown, Charlestown; Theodore H. Bliss, Narragansett.

Judge Sumner took up the assignment docket, in which 57 cases were marked passed. At this November term of court one case was assigned for trial at the Kingston sitting and two to the Westerly adjournment to follow; two were passed to the February term at the Westerly adjournment. Fifty-six of those cases passed were action brought by Lewis Solomon of Westerly against as many insurance companies, which grew out of an alleged backfire of an oil burner at Solomon's store at Westerly, having damaged his stock.

The final decree was entered in the divorce action of Sophie Schwartschild vs. Max Schwartschild, and the petitioner was allowed to resume her maiden name, Sophie Seidner. Plaintiff resides in Pawcatuck.

When the grand jury reported, Monday afternoon, true bills were found in all but one of the cases brought before it. Indictments were returned in five cases, in which there were concerned nine persons. In the case of Deputy Sheriff Fred W. Bull vs. Lisel, commorant, of South Kingstown, charged with breaking in the night time on Sept. 23 in the dwelling of Hannah W. Lewis at Peace Dale, and the larceny of silver coin valued at $26 from Joseph Johnson, the respondent was sentenced to five years in state prison by Judge Arthur P. Sumner. Another indictment was returned in the case of State Police vs. Clifford Jordan and Herbert Waite, commorants of South Kingstown, charged with breaking and entering in the day time the unoccupied dwelling of Harold A. Hazard in South Kingstown on Oct. 28 with intent to commit larceny. They both pleaded not guilty and bail was fixed at $5,000 each, trial next Monday. Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge of Westerly was appointed counsel by Judge Sumner.

Joseph William McTurk and Howard Milton Cole, inflicted on a charge of breaking and entering Nov. 14 an unoccupied dwelling of Mrs. Charles Pieree on the Tower Hill road, North Kingstown, and the larceny of a flat iron valued at $7.00, pleaded not guilty and bail was fixed at $10,000 each for their appearance on next Monday. The court appointed Attorney Benjamin Case to represent them.

Kenneth Cook and Andrew DiOrio were indicted on two complaints, one charging them with breaking and entering in the day time, Sept. 27, the unoccupied dwelling of Edward Doris at Barber's Pond in West Kingston and stealing a jacket, shirt, two hunting knives and a leather bag, valued at $20; also breaking and entering in the night time the occupied dwelling of William H. Howard at Barber's Pond, and the larceny of goods valued at $43. Both respondents pleaded guilty to both indictments, but at the request of Attorney General Jackvony, a plea of not guilty was entered and the pair was ordered committed to Providence county jail for examination, particularly DiOrio.

That completed the work for the grand jury and they were excused at 1:30.

Lewis R. Greene, worshipful master, and Past Master Clarence A. Vars, chaplain, represented Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., of Westerly Monday at the semi-annual communication of the Grand lodge, which met at 10 a. m. in Freemasons' hall, Providence. There was an attendance of 186 representatives from the 43 lodges comprising the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island. Most Worshipful Grand Master Edwin O. Chase presided. Constructive action was taken for a uniform system of membership cards. At the close of the grand lodge meeting a turkey dinner was served.

Palmer chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons, of Pawcatuck, George Smith, excellent high priest, held a convocation Monday evening. A report of progress was made in the furtherance of a movement for the establishment of a DeMolay chapter for boys in Westerly.

SOCONYLAND SKETCH

in "David Harum's Christmas Gift"

Arthur Allen, as he appears off stage. He is a western New Yorker of New England descent. A veteran of the New York stage, he has now become deeply interested in the possibilities of the new radio drama. His success has been phenomenal in character roles.

HERE comes a real treat! Arthur Allen, famous character actor, goes on the air tonight in the best Soconyland Sketch you ever heard, "David Harum's Christmas Gift."

You mustn't miss this. You'll say that "David Harum's Christmas Gift" is just about the best radio drama you ever heard—a real, Christmasy classic, like Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

Thousands of people who have heard Arthur Allen in his previous successes say he is one of the finest, humanest personalities they have ever met over the radio. Not for anything would they miss hearing Arthur Allen in any one of the typical down-Eastern parts which he loves to play.

And now, tonight, from the stations listed below, you have another opportunity to hear Mr. Allen in the best part he has ever created—David Harum, the quaint country banker who had a box full of mortgages and a heart full of kindness.

What Socony Fans Say about Arthur Allen

"Arthur Allen in 'David Harum's Hoss Trade' was fine. With his voice and peculiar 'twang' Mr. Allen is a perfect type of New England Yankee." H. A. B., New Milford, Conn.

"Arthur Allen, who played the part of Maule in 'The House of Seven Gables,' was, as ever, perfect." Mrs. B. R., Worcester, Mass.

"The Soconyland Sketch on Sebago Lake was very, very good—but most anything would be good if Mr. Arthur Allen had a part in it. We do enjoy him so!" Mrs. T. A. J., Locke, N. Y.

GALES FERRY

Solicitors for the annual Red Cross roll call have been appointed by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, local chairman, and include Mrs. D. C. Perkins and Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt for the village, with Mrs. C. Alton Chapman, Mrs. James A. Stoddard and Mrs. Joseph A. Clark for their sections of town.

The postponed session of the local Woman's Home Missionary society auxiliary was held Friday afternoon at the vestry of the M. E. church at 1 o'clock. Two order quilts were tied for the church budget pledge of the auxiliary. Ten members were present. Mrs. Jerome Greer presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. George H. Wright. The meeting opened with the hymn, 'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt accompanying at the piano. The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, who also read the roll call and minutes of the last meeting. A report by the treasurer, Mrs. Courtland E. Colver, was read, also a letter stating the needs of the new Browning Home. It was voted to give $2 towards the furnishings of this home. An interesting report of the sessions of the annual conference of the W. H. M. S. held recently in New Bedford, Mass., was given by Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt, who attended as a local delegate. A review of the chapter, The Social Principle of Jesus, of the study book, Youth and the New America, was given by Mrs. Nelson Parker, chairman of the program. The Enigmas were conducted by Mrs. Hurlbutt, who presented the selections with Thanksgiving cards. Mrs. Colver was hostess for the session and served coffee, sandwiches and filled cookies. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Greer and Mrs. Parker.

Fishers of Men was the theme of Rev. Jerome Greer for the Sunday morning sermon at the Community M. E. church. The offertory selection, "At the Name of Jesus," was a duet by Miss Grace A. Chapman and Courtland E. Colver.

Banners for attendance at the church school session were secured by Mrs. Andrew P. Miller's class of girls, this class having a perfect record for the day, the attendance roll being marked with all gold stars, and Mrs. Avery Main's class in the junior department. The Men's class and Miss Emma Beth Bennett's received the banners for offering. The memory contest, which was continued for one month following Rally day, ended at this session. Elizabeth Main, who led the school with the highest number of points, was presented a dollar by Dudley C. Perkins, who offered the prizes. Miss Ethel Main and Harold Hurlbutt were winners at the Rally service and Ruth Allyn stood second in the continued contest. Delegates to attend the state Sunday school convention, to be in session Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Central Baptist church, Norwich, were named at this session—Mrs. Avery Main, Mrs. Andrew P. Miller, Mrs. Jerome Greer, Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt and Misses Emma Beth Bennett and Ethel Main were elected to represent the school.

The pastor was leader of the Epworth league Sunday evening meeting, the topic being What It Means to Be a Christian. Junior girls sang at the offertory, The Lord Is My Shepherd.

Two sessions of the Ladies' Aid society have been called this week, Monday and Friday afternoons, to complete work for the annual Christmas sale.

Courtland E. Colver, Jr., president of Gales Ferry chapter of the Epworth league, his sisters, Misses Helen and Margaret Colver, and Miss Lillian Atkins, were attendants at the Mid-Winter institute of the Epworth league held at Noank, Friday evening. The second in a series of institute meetings will be at the Norwich Town M. E. church on Friday evening of this week.

Rev. George H. Wright has been confined to his home by illness during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearce and children, Alice and Henry, Jr., of Wakefield, R. I., were guests Sunday of Mrs. Pearce's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt.

Mrs. Ellie Stoddard visited for a few days over the week-end with Mrs. Isaac G. Geer at Geer Hill, Ledyard.

LAUREL GLEN

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gladfelder, Mr. and Mrs. John Geer and son Bourden attended the masquerade at Grange hall last Friday evening.

Miss Hattie White was a guest of friends in Westerly Saturday.

PLAINFIELD

J. plans a bean and salad supper with Mrs. Everett L. Dawley in charge and a harvest supper is to be served by a special committee of women with Mrs. Thomas Cooper chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bradford have returned to Boston, after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs John Gallup.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips entertained at bridge Saturday evening. The prizes were won by Mrs. Wallace Payne of Jewett City, Mrs. John Kingsley, Cecil Bradford and Wallace Payne. Chicken salad, rolls, olives, cake and coffee were served.

Mrs. Ernest Plassman was in Norwich Saturday.

Mrs. Annie Cullen of Baltic spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Stubbs.

George Dawley continues ill at his home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Conicts are Among Lon Chaney's best critics.

Among the most interesting of his fan mail are letters from various prisons throughout the United States, where convicts are shown pictures in recreation periods, and Chaney says that some of the most valuable hints as to characterizations come from these men behind bars.

Chaney plays the opposite in a way, as he appears as a police detective in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "While the City Sleeps," now playing at the Palace theatre. The new picture is a vivid, modern world drama in which Chaney as a plainsclothesman is pitted against the hordes of a gangster band. Thrilling machine gun battles between police and gangsters, and other vivid detail marks the mystery romance.

It's a Paramount offering called, "The Sawdust Paradise" and you are caused to forget your joys and sorrows as those of Esther Ralston, Hobart Bosworth and Reed Howes, unfold before you.

Miss Ralston and Reed Howes are ballyhoo girl and grifter respectively with Hobart Bosworth as the aged revivalist. First and foremost it is not a religious picture, though it has a religious angle. It is a chunk of life from the colorful career of a carnival girl. It capitalizes the present public interest in evangelism without treading on anyone's toes. It has the novel angle demonstrating how a girl with a real showmanship ability uses a circus ballyhoo—steam calliope and all the trimmings—to put over an evangelist's meeting, and how she incidentally accomplishes a great deal of good.

Broadway Theatre.

Mothers when kids comes into the life of your daughters don't stifle it or you may suffer the consequences.

That is the thought conveyed by "Mother Knows Best." Fox films visualization of Edna Ferber's popular and internationally discussed story of the stage child and her stage mother.

"Mother Knows Best" was first shown in this city Sunday at the Broadway theatre and remains today and tomorrow is one of the most entertaining pictures ever to show here, a thought concurred in by the throngs which witnessed its premiere. It might be said that on the screen, the story reaches dramatic heights far above the printed story.

Its unfolding Jewel Madge Bellamy, first as a mere child struggling through audience ridicule on amateur night, but with a mother played by Louise Dresser undaunted by her failure. Then we see the sacrifices the mother and daughter make the baptism of fire and eventually success, Broadway, the lights, the theatre named after the girl and then—disillusionment for after reaching the goal, success and all else is but tinsel to the girl into whose life has come her first romance—a boy and love. Then comes the fight of the mother to stifle that love. Her success is costly for the girl and for her.

It is a human document that is poignant drama splendidly directed, notable for the fine dramatic work of Madge Bellamy a revelation when one considers that hitherto she has been limited to light and frivolous roles; emphasizing the versatility of the charming actress for she gives marvelous impressions of famous stage stars, and highly colored by the superb portrayal of the mother role by the always accomplished and wholly adorable Louise Dresser.

In addition to the splendid feature showing there is an admirable Vitaphone playlet with the title Solomon's and an all star cast also a selection by Giovanni Martinelli, the famous Metropolitan house tenor from the opera of "La Juive" and the popular M. G. M. Synchronized News

NEW LONDON COUNCIL ADOPTS MOTIONS URGED BY EX-MAYOR MAY

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—A spirited meeting of the city council lasting an hour and a half was held this evening Ex-Mayor May, a member of the council asked some pertinent questions. He wanted to know what the reason was for the delay or apparent abandonment of the claim of the city to title of that portion of the highway known as Pequot avenue, now occupied by Lucian E. Whiton or by others to whom he may have bartered or sold the land. He said an explicit rather than an evasive reply is due the citizens of New London, without further delay or excuse and expressed the opinion that otherwise certain persons will be permitted to scoop in parcels of city property now and then for their personal gain and profit, as against public policy. He asked that a reply to these questions be presented to the council at the next meeting.

He also queried as to the total amount received by the tax collector for delinquencies in back taxes and interest thereon. He asked what amount in addition to taxes and interest had been paid the tax collector for searching titles; to what person, resident or taxpayer of New London this amount had been paid; whether it was a matter of fact that, in the event of notices that a taxpayer may be in arrears to the amount of $25, he or she must pay about $64.50 if a warrant or lien is filed ordering the sale of the property. The city of New London, he declared, of that $64.50 received $23.88. The pay for searching the title is $15, the fee charged by the town clerk and tax collector is $3.50, the tax collector's commission is $1.12, cost of advertising $21, making the total $64.50. Thus tax delinquency rises from $25 to $64.50. The method of collecting taxes has decreased the number of building permits applied for and he made a motion, which was adopted, that the city manager make a report on these questions at the next meeting.

Fifteen building permits were applied for and granted tonight. A question came up about a removal of a temporary building of steel construction at the corner of Tilley and Bank streets, ostensibly for the sale of fruit. It has never been occupied and the claim is the owner exceeded authority given him by the building inspector to erect the structure. Unless it is made to conform to the title of a stand it will be removed, as its erection conflicts with the terms of the building and zoning ordinances.

A water boiler was ordered for Nameaug school at a cost of $1,028; a printing machine was ordered for the engineer's office, to be of the Underwood pattern; 300 linear feet of tile pipe was purchased for the Riverside sewer. The city voted to sell a quantity of scrap iron at $9 a ton and bought a bookkeeping system for instruction in the schools at a cost of $499.50.

An ordinance providing for the construction of the Riverside sewer was given its first reading. W. Z. White was employed to audit the city's books for a year. Permission was given to W. C. Smith to remove a story and a half frame building from Maple avenue to a lot on Bildenburg avenue.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any druggist has the genuine, prescriptional product.

FIRE COMPANY SAVES THE HARKNESS COTTAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Shortly after noon today fire broke out in the cottage owned by Edward S. Harkness, located at Goshen Point, and had it not been for the prompt and efficient action of Fire Chief Thomas Shipman and members of the Pequot Hose company the cottage must have burned to the ground. As soon as the alarm was given the firemen rushed to the house and by the use of chemicals were able to get the flames under control. Damage to the property, however, is estimated at $4,000.

Shortly before noon yesterday an alarm was turned in for a chimney fire at the residence of Fred Lewis of 66 Connecticut avenue. The call was answered by members of Northwest Hose company who were able to extinguish the flames quickly. No damage to speak of resulted.

Patients dismissed today from the Home Memorial hospital were Mrs. Thomas Casey and daughter, 40 Reed street; Walter H. Senner, of Mystic Oral school.

Announcement was made today that the body of Guiseppe Tudisca, prominent fascist of Providence, which was found floating in the Mystic river sometime ago, had arrived in Italy and that elaborate arrangements are being made for its burial by members of the society to which he belonged.

At the annual meeting of Thames River lodge No. 496, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, held yesterday afternoon, Harvey A. Haynes was elected president for the 21st consecutive time.

THREE MEN AND TWO WOMEN ADD $1,600 TO COURT TREASURY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—The three men and two women arrested by the local police Saturday in a series of liquor raids resulted in all of the cases being disposed of. As a result the city treasury was enriched about $1,600 for all of the accused paid fines and costs. Nostrailio Facchini, 37 Willetta avenue; Sava Skreigan, proprietor of a restaurant at 128 North Bank street; Nicolo Palladino, 12 Home street and Mrs. Olga Boski, 92 North Bank street, pleaded guilty on two charges. Each was fined $200 and costs on both counts. Mrs. Josephine Collino Battalis, 14 Shaw street, was charged on one count and was fined $200 and costs.

Earl Sherman, 276 Montauk avenue, was charged with passing a danger signal set against him on Bank street, also driving without a license. Judgment was suspended.

Charles W. Chapman, Mystic, charged with violation of the law in passing a traffic signal on Bank street, set at danger, had his case continued to the 21st.

Peter Brouwer, 148 Gardner avenue, also charged with violation of the traffic law, did not present himself in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Vito Del Priore, Waterford, charged with violation of the city's parking laws, was discharged.

H. A. Rogers, Ridgewood park, Waterford, charged with passing a danger signal on Bank street set against him was fined $5. It was the first fine imposed for this violation since the automobile traffic signals were put into operation a month ago.

James Haddad, of Chestnut Hill, employed in Mystic and Welly Hillmer, of Westerly, were charged with violation of the city's parking laws on Main street and both forfeited their bonds of $2 by failing to appear in court.

Mrs. George A. Benner of Gardiner avenue, entertained the Saturday club at her home. Sixteen members were present and a Thanksgiving program of entertainment was carried out.

Members of the New London lodge of Elks are to hold a Thanksgiving dance at the Hotel Mohican.

The auxiliary to Murphy-Rathburn post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held a card party in the post rooms on State street Saturday night. Seven tables were in play and prizes were won by Mary Perone; Mrs Asa Barnes, Morris Balcom and Mrs. Herbert Harvey.

Members of Osprey Ladies' Aid society held an all-day meeting Saturday at which two quilts, which will be donated to the Odd Fellows' home at Fairview, were tied.

Women of Mooseheart Legion are to hold a school of instruction tomorrow afternoon in Moose hall. Mrs. Ida Geer Weller, deputy grand regent of New York city will be chairman of the event.

Mrs. Frances G. Connor of Niantic, was hostess Saturday evening at a miscellaneous shower given for Miss Lila C. Hoffman of that town, who shortly will become the bride of Beckwith A. Brown, of Crescent Beach and Florida.

The fourth series of sewing lessons, conducted by the Connecticut Power company, will be opened tomorrow night by popular request. A limit of fifteen members to a class has been set and instructions will be given every Tuesday night during the winter. Mrs. ames W. McKenna will be in charge of the classes which will meet at the Community house on State street.

THOUGHT HIMSELF A COP AFTER A SWIG OF BOOZE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Milton Whipple of Groton, experienced a peculiar effect from bootleg whiskey yesterday morning. After having imbibed too freely of alcoholic refreshment he stood at the junction of Pleasant Valley and Center Groton roads, and after the fashion of a cosmopolitan policeman began to direct auto traffic. His gyrations did not meet with the approval of Trooper John H. Smith of the Groton barracks who happened to pass and noted the volunteer service of the traffic officer. Trooper Smith pulled up alongside of Whipple and placed him under arrest. He was presented in the Groton town court this morning and was fined $5 and costs on a charge of intoxication. He did not have the money to pay the fine and arrangements were made whereby he is to pay it in installments to Prosecutor Harry C. Brogan.

A hearing of facts surrounding a fatal auto accident in Groton November 6 which cost the life of Louis Mattison Jr., 22 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mary F. Mattison of Ledyard avenue, this city, was held this afternoon in Groton town court.

FORGOT FIRST LESSON— IS FINED SECOND TIME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Albert Josslyn, 50, of this city, a mechanic, was in the Waterford town court today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. It was Josslyn's second offense on this charge for he was arrested four years ago in this city on the same charge at which time he was fined $100 and costs, but $50 of the fine was ordered remitted. Josslyn was arrested a week ago in Waterford by Lieutenant Bushey, state police at Centerbrook, when the officer, in driving to New London, came upon Josslyn driving his car in a manner that endangered other autoists.

BOOTLEGGING COSTLY FOR MRS. C. H. MILLER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Mrs. Catherine Homan Miller, of Waterford, was presented on a charge of violation of the liquor law on three counts, actual sale, possession and reputation. The last charge was nolled, but Mrs. Miller was fined $200 and costs on each of the other two counts, so that she paid about $460 into the court treasury. Mrs. Miller was arrested last Tuesday when Constables F. L. Peabody and Chester Brigham obtained evidence of an actual sale of liquor by Mrs. Miller and going to the house Mrs. Miller was arrested after a search had revealed other liquor being stored there. The arrest of Mrs. Miller last Tuesday was the third offense she has been prosecuted on for liquor law violation.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against John and Angelina Tortora, of Hempstead street. A warrant was issued several days ago calling for the sale at public auction of the Tortora home because back taxes had not been paid.

Mrs. George Steele of Niantic; Mrs. Cecil Wheaton, Meriden; Augustus Hess, United States Coast Guard academy; Mrs. Emma Firmin, Groton; Mrs. Andrew Larsen, 63 Raymond street; Frank Porter, 159 Baker avenue, Groton; Charles Muscarella, Waterford, and William McGuire, 6 Latham street, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week-end.

Alexandro Rossi, 50, of 55 Shaw street, died this morning at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, death being caused by erysipelas, followed by pneumonia. Mr Rossi had been a patient at the hospital several weeks.

Miss Sarah Blodgett, about 76, of Chappell street, a life-long resident of New London, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Sunday night. So far as is known she leaves no relatives.

Henry Sweet, about 65, died Sunday night at Hillside Home, where he had been a resident for several months. He was formerly employed by Samuel M. Prentis, undertaker.

Griswold Avery, Broad street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman John Sullivan and will be in the police court tomorrow. Avery was seen by Officer Sullivan to accompany a youth of 15 to the rear of Williams Memorial Institute and the officer made an investigation. What he discovered caused him to arrest Avery, who, at police headquarters, made a complete confession. He was turned over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

The tenth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Sinclair Grimstead, at the Shiloh Baptist church was celebrated Sunday with services in the morning and afternoon.

An automobile owned by Joseph Amorel, Broad street extension and employed at the plant of the American Fisheries company, Groton, was stolen early Sunday morning while parked at the plant. The discovery of the theft was made at 2.30 o'clock and the police of New London as well as the state police were notified. The auto carries Connecticut markers, M-5288.

Walter Luske, radio operator at Fort Wright, Fishers Island, reported to the police Saturday night that while he and Herman Zehnder, chief petty officer, attached to U. S. S. Falcon, submarine base, were sharing a bed at the lodging house, 109 Golden street, the former discovered that his money, consisting of $16, had been stolen from his trousers pocket. Luske suspected Zehnder of committing the theft, but would not accuse him. Zehnder was taken to police headquarters by Patrolman George Laboue, but as there was no evidence upon which to hold Zehnder he was discharged.

Twenty-five cases were tried in the police court today, 20 of them being cases of violation of the liquor law and intoxication; 15 of the cases were for intoxication over the week-end. In some of the cases of intoxication, a minimum fine was the penalty or a minimum jail sentence was imposed, although most of the cases were disposed of by discharge or suspension of judgment.

ENRAGED CITIZEN SEEKS ARREST OF MUSICIAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—William E. Russell, 24, a musician, residing at 15 Grand street, was arrested tonight by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, driving without having a license in his possession and indecent exposure. He was held in bail of $100 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Russell was arrested upon complaint of Theodore Tucker, a barber, residing at 278 Connecticut avenue, who alleges that Saturday afternoon Russell drove his car to a point opposite the Tucker residence and there exposed himself within view of complainant's wife and daughter, the latter a girl about 13. Tucker became so enraged at the alleged act of Russell that the latter's arrest was sought. Russell denies the indecent exposure charge.

Angelo Filosi, P. O. Box 123, Lyme, was arrested by Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh this afternoon charged with passing a traffic signal set at danger on Bank street. He furnished bail of $5 for his appearance in court tomorrow.

Charles B. Schneider, 16 Denison avenue, Mystic, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer John Courtney charged with violation of the city's ordinances in parking his car in front of a fire house. He furnished a bond of $2 for appearance in court tomorrow.

WOMAN ABANDONS CAR— SCARED AFTER CRASH

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—An automobile driven by Miss Josephine E. Gifford, 237 LaGrange street, West Roxbury, Mass., figured in a serious accident late Monday night. After the crash, the woman driver disappeared and is now being sought by the state police, Groton, on a charge of reckless driving, also a charge of evasion of responsibility. Her Studebaker car, which she abandoned, has been seized and is now in possession of the state police pending her giving herself up. Miss Gifford was driving to Boston from Princeton, N. J., where she attended the Yale-Princeton football game Saturday. Near Mossbroker's corner, Waterford, the car collided with a Ford auto, driven by Henry E. Tipper, 35 Wright street, New Haven, en route from New London to New Haven. After the crash, Miss Gifford vanished, leaving her companions, H. M. Dater, 17 North Atwood street, Larchmont, N. Y.; J. E. Willard, Manchester, Me.; H. J. Crawford, Hancock street, Lexington, Mass., all Yale students and Miss Ruth Rogers, at the location of the crash. Tipper escaped injury, but his wife suffered lacerations of the legs and bruises.

An automobile driven by Leonard Smith, 6 Rose street, New Haven, collided with a machine driven by Joseph Schmidt, of Crescent beach, between Oswegatchie road and Golden Spur on the Boston Post road, Waterford, last night. Schmidt's car was left a complete wreck and has remained beside the highway since the crash. Smith was arrested by State Police Officer Johnson on a charge of reckless driving.

Smith was driving in a westerly direction and attempted to speed up by leaving the line of traffic, intending to drive around the cars in advance of him. In doing so he met other cars traveling in the opposite direction and one of them was Schmidt's. Smith was unable to get back in traffic and the cars crashed head-on. Mrs. Julia Schmidt and Miss Martha Gaillard, the latter of 325 Lafayette street, New Haven, were injured slightly, sustaining bruises and contusions. The women were taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where their injuries were treated, after which they returned to their homes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall are featured in the picture as a magicians' act, and the supporting cast includes dancers, tumblers, blackface comedians and all the other familiar figures of a variety show. John Miljan, Dot Farley, Yola d'Avril, James Finlayson, Aggie Herring, Jay Eaton and others are in the cast.

The reports are already around that The Yokohama Maid will be one of the season's best plays. There is ground for such a statement. The play has a real plot, lovely music, good comedy, handsome costumes, a fitting setting, and a capable cast. If such a combination does not guarantee a good show, what does? Some of this cast the public has already seen, others are newcomers. All have worked hard and faithfully and are now ready to give a performance which is up to the standard required by St. Mary's—and this is saying a lot. A good show and a good cast. Does not this stir up any interest among the theatregoing public? It should. If you have not a ticket, get one today.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

A disturbance that developed over Alabama and Mississippi Sunday afternoon has moved rapidly northeastward and increased greatly both in extent and intensity and it is centered tonight over the upper St. Lawrence valley. This disturbance has caused rain over the eastern half of the United States. Pressure is abnormally low from Alaska eastward over the British Northwest territory to northern Hudson bay. The temperature has fallen east of the Mississippi river, except in New England.

Except for light rain or snow flurries Tuesday near the northern border, generally fair weather will prevail east of the Mississippi river during the next two days. The temperature will be lower throughout the Washington forecast district Tuesday and will not change materially during Wednesday.

Winds

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Strong west or northwest winds and mostly overcast weather Tuesday.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Cloudy and much colder Tuesday; Wednesday fair.

Observations

The maid of honor wore orchid georgette and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids wore Nile green nile pink and green crepe decene gowns respectively. Each of the bridesmaids carried a bouquet of red roses. The newly married couple left in the afternoon for a two weeks' honeymoon trip to New York city. Including the guests were people from New Jersey Providence, Stonington Worcester Jewett City, Branford, Saybrook Mriden and New Britain. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful wedding gifts.

MOWRY AVENUE RESIDENT SUED IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 19—Merton P. Rainsford of 39 Mowry avenue, Norwich, Conn., is named defendant in a suit for $2,000 brought by Anna Stimson of Worcester in the superior court here. The girl, who is 10 years old and sues through a next friend, claims to have been struck and injured on Sept. 11 at Orient and Grafton streets by an automobile operated by the Norwich resident. She seeks to recover for personal injuries.

In a report filed with the police department traffic bureau at the time of the accident, Rainsford stated that he was driving slowly at the time, and that while the girl was knocked down, she was not injured.

PROF. ERB TELLS BROTHERHOOD THAT ALL SHOULD HAVE MUSIC KNOWLEDGE

A supper and two talks featured the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church at the Community house Monday evening. The supper was served at 6:30 o'clock by a committee comprising Walter F. Lester, Cyril E. Fitch, Ernest L. Latimer, Willis Rogers and the menu was fruit cocktail, veal loaf, vegetables, ice cream, cake and coffee.

After supper President Harold E. Robbins introduced as the first speaker Joseph Peck of New York, representative of the Treadway Inn organization, who spoke upon the inn project here. Norwich appeals to us very much, said the speaker. Norwich is a larger community in which we are operating. Naturally a community with 30,000 people within an area of summer playgrounds and tourist trade, we are confident it is an ideal spot to locate, if we can get a site away from the noise and dirt.

Fortunately we have a site at the Norwich Golf club, one and one half miles from the city, and is only six or seven minutes drive to the city. The tax rate there is lower and it is a beautiful site. With all the projects we have brewing we have not anything with such a fine southern exposure, having a view of the Thames river and hills. It means that on many days in the fall on the sunny side it will be a delightful place to sit and enjoy. Walter F. Pilcher deserves credit for thinking of the site. You have a good golf course on the site and it is the kind of course that should interest and hold patrons.

It is really an ideal situation. You will find the golf course will be a great asset to the inn and the inn a great asset to the golf club. There is the Connecticut college a few miles to the south. These colleges produce lots of business for inns of our type. Our inns also furnish the ladies of the community a place in which to give entertainments, etc., a place where the surroundings are like at home.

You have a great opportunity to capitalize historic interest. Some one suggested Indian traditions and lore for the inn. One room can be decorated with Indian nature and with a collection of early historical things. You might have one room called the Uncas room devoted to Indian interests and traditions. These things will give the public something to talk about.

The real success of our inns is due to two things, good management as to food and beds and real beauty. Something that is so fine that people will go away and talk about it. At Middlebury the traffic was detoured around the inn. In spite of that people know of the Treadway Inn there. The house was practically filled all summer long. The people who stayed there went away and talked about it.

An inn has an effect upon the real estate value of the community. In a certain place where one of our inns are located the real estate value jumped 25 to 50 per cent, concluded the speaker.

Address on Music

Prof. J. Lawrence Erb of Connecticut college, was introduced by President Robbins as the main speaker of the evening, addressing the gathering on "What the Average Man Should Know About Music." One of the things that we constantly hear, said the speaker, is that all foreigners are musicians and no Americans are. Don't believe all the stories you hear. The American composers are equal to the others. We are made up of every musical nation of the earth. Don't believe all the freak stories musicians have done. These are for publicity purposes.

Don't believe that in order to be musical you must be acquainted with the great artists. That isn't essential at all. Don't believe that all good music is necessarily difficult and that difficult music is good. You hear people say that I don't know anything about music, but I know what I like. If you don't know anything about music, you ought to reserve judgment. Every man ought to know enough about music to follow the funny little jiggers. He ought to know that there are a great many varieties and styles of music.

An important thing to know is that taste is an individual thing and cannot and should not be standardized. Supposing I should play for you a composition of pure music and not tell you of it. Each one is bound to have a certain reaction to it. I am sure it will not mean the same thing to two persons. There would be as many different conceptions of the music as the number of people in the room. Don't let anyone tell you what music ought to mean. Don't let anybody impose upon you his taste. It will standardize it. Don't feel ashamed of your taste. Don't apologize for it.

There is not anything about music that is morally good or bad. There is nothing degrading about jazz. Music is to be made or heard, but you don't get anywhere by talking about it. That doesn't make you musical or musicians when you talk about it. You should know that the most important thing in music is the tone, or melody. That is the idea. The tone itself is the idea. The next thing is rhythm. Then there is harmony, but harmony need not exist. Harmony is a late element in music. You can have good music without harmony. Tone color and quality are two things that have recently entered music.

An average man ought to make it his business to become acquainted with music. Music is a universal language. It deserves your interest as well-informed people. In conclusion Prof. Erb said that you can think tunes and other things at the same time.

The two speakers were given a vote of thanks for their interesting talks, after which a "Question Box," a third feature of the evening, was conducted and several questions from the members were answered by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, to the pleasure of all. The question box and brief remarks pertaining to the Brotherhood and church brought to a close the most delightful meeting of the society.

MAINE MAN FINED AND GOES TO JAIL

At the Monday morning session of the police court Saromon Lapointe, 41, of Sanford Me., entered a plea of guilty to a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses and was fined $100 and costs. Unable to pay up he went to jail. He is charged with $113.91 on the court's books.

Lapointe was charged with disappearing with a Chevrolet machine which he agreed to purchase from Abraham Kriever of No. 118 Franklin street last May at a price of $400. He pair about $150 on the machine and then disappeared.

Sunday it was learned that Lapointe had come to Norwich to visit a sister who is sick at the hospital. The police were notified and Sunday evening Lapointe was arrested at a house in Taftville by Constable Louis Paquette.

Lapointe said in court that the Chevrolet he purchased here had burned up and that he bought another one in Maine. It is understood that Lapointe told his wife when he brought the car home in the summer that he made a big clean up in a poker game and had used the money with which to buy the machine.

COST HIM $160.50 FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

It cost Dewey H. Woodward of Versason avenue, Norwich Town, $150 and costs for failing to stop after his machine collided with two other machines Sunday night, one at Franklin square and the other on Washington street, near the city line. He was fined on two counts in the police court Monday morning, $100 and costs for reckless driving and $50 and costs for evading responsibility. The total was $160.50, which he paid. The police spent a good part of Sunday night looking for Woodward. Monday morning he presented himself at police headquarters, informing the police that he was the man they were looking for. A short time later he was presented in court.

While driving through Franklin square Sunday evening his machine collided with one operated by Elias Rutchik of No. 57 Mechanic street. The machines locked bumpers and had to be pulled apart. Rutchik is said to have requested Woodward to draw up to the curb for a conference on the damage. When Rutchik looked around for Woodward the latter had driven away.

Later in the evening, while the police were looking for Woodward, a report was received from Joseph T. Beausoleil of this city that a machine had sideswiped his automobile, upsetting it, near the city line on Washington street and that the driver failed to stop. He got the number of the machine, which turned out to be the same car the police were looking for.

Mr. Beausoleil's machine was damaged to the extent of about $250. He had to crawl through a window to get out but escaped unhurt.

EXHIBIT TO ILLUSTRATE ART IN THE THEATER

The fall exhibition of the art committee of the Woman's City club will open with a private view for the club members, on Thursday, Nov. 22, from 2:30 to 5:30, and from 7:30 to 10.

It will illustrate "Art in the Theatre." It will be noticed by the members that a change has been made from the subject announced in the calendar, due to an opportunity which offered to secure the original designs made for Walter Hampden's theatrical productions.

Walter Hampden's contribution to modern drama is too well known to need much comment, it has been one of the most potent influences towards finer theater during the last ten years. Claude Bragdon is the designer of all Mr. Hampden's productions from the time when he became an actor manager, and this exhibition includes scene and costume sketches for many of his plays.

The sketches are not only interesting in portraying characters with whom the public has been long familiar, but are most colorful and lovely bits of wall decorations, the whole making a beautiful gallery.

To add to the interest, with the pictures will be shown a series of the miniature theatres made under George Pierce Baker in the Yale Dramatic school, showing the development of stage sets, from the Greek theatre to the present day. This is the first time these models have ever been loaned.

Mrs. Richard Mansfield has loaned all that she still retains of the costumes of her famous husband, with some character photographs of him.

After the opening day, the exhibition will be open to the public through Wednesday, Nov. 28, on school days from 10:30 to 5:30 on Saturday and Sunday from 2:30 to 5:30. It is put on in co-operation with Slater Memorial museum.

OPENING SHOP MEETING OF PRESENT SEASON

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices, the weekly noon meeting at the Richmond Radiator company was inaugurated at 12:30 Monday with a good attendance of the employes. Secretary Edwin Hill told the men that the Y. M. C. A. was glad again to be of service to them, and that he was greatly pleased that Rev. C. H. Ricketts had again consented to speak at these noon meetings. Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows: "I want to speak to you today on the topic, 'What a man owes to himself.' From every point of view, unless a man has a favorable attitude toward himself, no one is likely to assume that attitude toward him. One of the greatest fatalities is when one loses faith in himself; when a man does this it is easily noticed. A man does not need to be boastful, but it is better to boast than to utterly lose faith in oneself. When one loses faith in himself, he slumps right down and feels that he is nobody and others think the same regarding him.

"To succeed a man must have a strong faith in himself. As a wise man once said, 'A man is not to blame if he fails, but he is to blame if he stays down.' Your success is largely with yourself; it is from the inside rather than the outside, though of course environment may help.

"You men have many discouragements right here in these shops, but you do not let it master you, you master your problems, because you have faith in yourself. No man can master his surroundings unless first of all he can master himself, and when he has done this he can be of real help in helping others to master themselves.

"When the liquor habit gets the mastery of a man, he is quite unfit to do any job well; he must master his habit of drink before he is of much use in the world. So long as a man is mastered by a bad habit he is to that extent a slave, and God Almighty never intended that any man should be a slave to anything or anybody; God wants men to stand on their two feet and look the world square in the face and go forward.

"The prodigal son of Bible story, went to the limit mastered by a vile habit, but there came a time when 'he came to himself,' and then he said, 'I will arise and go home.' He tired of the hog pen, and took the proper attitude and became a man again. I wish some of our young men would come to themselves and leave their prodigal living. A man cannot be untrue to himself without paying the price which is a heavy price.

"A man who puts forth a real effort to help himself, will quickly find that others will be glad to help him; he doesn't stand alone; there are plenty who will be glad to help him rise. The head of a large university said at the beginning of the term to some 3,000 students, 'This university will never allow a student to leave this university because he lacks money to carry him through; if that student really means business, we will gladly help him.' Everywhere in life you will find those who will help you if only you do your best to help yourself, and yet I cannot close my talk to you today without reminding you that the great God stands ready to help us in every time of need, and in every time of discouragement, if we will but look up and do our best."

The men were greatly interested in the very practical talk.

GEO. L. RANDALL'S FUNERAL HELD MONDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for George L. Randall were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home 81 West Town street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church conducted the service. A former pastor of this church, Rev. Jerome Greer, of Gales Ferry offered prayer and Rev. Wallace T. Bull of North Waterford, Maine, read a poem "Recompense." Mrs. William Crowe Jr., sang "Abide With Me," during the service. There were beautiful floral emblems. The bearers were a son George Randall, of Lebanon, Rev. Wallace F. Bull, North Waterford, Me., Francis Lathrop, Bozrah, Herbert Mitchell, Norwich and Lucius Fenton and Herbert L. Yerrington of Norwich Town. Burial was in the family plot in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was conducted by the three clergymen, Rev. Messrs. Potter, Greer and Bull. Undertaker Charles A. Gager, Jr., was in charge of the arrangements. Relatives and friends were present from North Waterford, Maine, Newtown, Penn., Brooklyn, N. Y., New London, Lebanon and Bozrah.

"Jesus Going About Doing Good," was the theme at the meeting Sunday afternoon in the Congregational chapel of the Junior Intermediate C. E. society. Miss Louise V. Sterry was at the piano and Miss Sadie J. Dawson was in general charge. The leaders were Edward Jordan and Robert Barber.

CHURCH PANCAKE SUPPER HAS GOOD PATRONAGE

The pancake supper in the First Congregational chapel brought out a good number, Monday evening from 6 to 7:30, in spite of the rainstorm. A. L. Myer with the assistance of a couple of cooks prepared the supper, which comprised pancakes with syrup, sausage, doughnuts and coffee. The supper, which was given in conjunction with the supper committee of the League of Service was in general charge of Mrs. J. L. Browning. Her committee included Mrs. Walter Hitchon, Jr., Mrs. Fred Ross, Mrs. Marcus Grady, Mrs. Ronald Nelson and Miss Scott, assisted by Mrs. Charles Barber and Mrs. Henry Eccleston. Long tables were arranged in the auditorium and in the parlor. Taking orders were Misses Dorothy Waterman, Eleanor Smith, Lucile Browning, Eleanor Moore and Ruth Hyde. The proceeds are to be added to the treasury of the League of Service, through the efforts of the supper committee.

It was reported Monday that Mrs. John Stott's condition showed much improvement and that she is gaining each day, following illness that has kept her confined to her bed for several days at her home on Plain Hill.

Activities At M. E. Church.

"From the Earth" was the theme of the sermon Sunday morning in the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, took for his text St. John 12:32 "And I if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto me." The Junior choir under direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich sang. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter told the children a story entitled "Apron Strings." Margaret Phillips was the leader at the Junior Epworth league meeting and her subject was, "My Crowd and My Code." Effie Ladd, assistant Junior league superintendent was in charge.

Mrs. William Weaver led the C. E. meeting with the topic "What the Practice of Stewardship Would Mean to the World." Mrs. Weaver substituted for Mrs. Potter who was at the bedside of her mother Mrs. J. Elbert Haviland who is in a critical condition at Backus hospital. There was an attendance of 36.

The lecture given by the pastor at the evening service and attended by a large congregation was in the World Service series and was entitled "The Indians of the Southwest." There were 70 slides shown by Ralph Smith who operated the stereopticon. The Junior choir under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich sang.

The Norwich Town Boy Scouts connected with the Methodist church held a meeting Friday evening at the parsonage with an attendance of 17. Arthur Bennett was elected a patrol leader. Four boys applied for membership which will make up two full patrols and no more will be received into the troop at present. The patrol in charge of Donald Waterman will be the Flying Eagle and that in charge of Arthur Bennett will be the Wolf Patrol. The drill period was in charge of acting Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith. Following the song period a new game was introduced by Scoutmaster Potter. The next meeting will be held Thursday night. John Everberg, senior patrol leader of Troop 12 was a visitor at the meeting.

The Norwich Town Wolf Cub pack enjoyed a hike Saturday afternoon in charge of Assistant Cubmaster Richard Cormier. At their meeting in the morning there was an attendance of 19. Cubs Ellis Pentlev and Clifford Smith were successful in passing their test on knot-tying given by Assistant Cubmaster Cormier. The opening ceremony was in charge of Cubmaster Potter who read a part of the ninth bite and the fame period. Two boys applied for membership.

Reginald Avery of West Town street is in Hartford, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bailey.

Mrs. W. S. Lee, of Hanover was the guest for a few days last week of Miss J. G. Bonney, of Harland road.

Miss S. C. Hyde of Washington street is visiting friends in Boston. Before returning home she will be in New York for a stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Holm and son George, Mrs. Corrigeux and daughter Miss Mabel Corrigeux, of Harland road, motored to West Haven last week to attend the funeral of James Kellas. Mr. Kellas was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Corrigeux.

WEDDING

Bagley-Marsan

The most brilliant of the fall weddings was solemnized Monday morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church when Miss Annalee Marie Marsan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clement Marsan of Hunters avenue, became the bride of William Leo Bagley, son of John Bagley of Blackstone, Mass., at a solemn nuptial high mass, in the presence of many relatives, friends and invited guests. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick R. DesSureau, pastor of the church, who also was celebrant at the nuptial mass which followed. The other officers of the mass were Rev. Francis X. Chicoine, deacon; Rev. Omer T. Mandler, subdeacon, and Rev. Leo Lavalle of Grosvenordale, master of ceremonies. The bridal party entered the church as the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Alice Frechette, the church organist. The bride was beautiful in a Louise Belanger model gown of crinquette chiffon with tulle. Her veil of lace was caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. The maid of honor was Miss Muriel LaRue of Woonsocket, R. I., who wore a gown of coral transparent velvet with hat to match and carried rose chrysanthemums. The best man was Joseph Einstein of Woonsocket, an intimate friend of the bridegroom.

Miss Agnes M. Dougherty and Miss Imelda Raymond, acting as representatives of the Children of Mary sodality, removed the bride's insignia of membership in the society before the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary. She was then escorted to the main altar, beautifully decorated with giant chrysanthemums, where the wedding ceremony took place. The ushers at the church were Dr. Ian McGregor Hay of Woonsocket, R. I., and Charles McNally of Norwich Town.

For the music of the nuptial mass, Miss Frechette played the Missa de Angelis, and at the offertory, Arthur DesSureault of Occum sang Ave Maria. He also sang O, Promise Me, just before the recessional.

A wedding breakfast and reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marsan on Hunters avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bagley received in the living room, assisted by the members of their bridal party. The dining room color scheme was yellow and with chrysanthemums of those shades being used in the decorations. There was a display of a wealth of wedding gifts.

During the afternoon the newly married couple left for a wedding trip to New York, Atlantic City and Washington, D. C., and upon their return they are to reside in a newly furnished apartment in Providence, R. I., where the groom is employed as a civil engineer by the city government. For a traveling costume Mrs. Bagley wore a gown of blue satin-faced crepe and lace with hat to match. Her black coat was trimmed with kit fox.

Goldpieces were the gifts of the bride and groom to their attendants. Both bride and groom are well known and popular among the younger set and have many friends who extend to them their wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

The out-of-town guests at the wedding included Raymond Bagley and Edward Bagley of Blackstone, Mass., Dr. and Mrs. Ian McGregor Hay and Miss May Green of Woonsocket, R. I., Mrs. Fred De Moulin and Mrs. Clement Rousseau of New Bedford, Mass.

R. W. STEWART ACQUITTED OF CHARGES OF PERJURY

Verdict Reached by Jury in Less Than an Hour—The Oil Man Was Surrounded by Friends Offering Their Congratulations at the Outcome of the Trial—Members of Jury Entered Agreement Not to Reveal How the Discussion Went or How Many Ballots Were Taken.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20— (AP) — Reaching a verdict in less than an hour, a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court today acquitted Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, of charges of perjury, which followed his appearance last February before the senate public lands committee.

Frankly and exuberantly happy at the outcome of the trial which stretched through a week and a half, the oil man with his chief of counsel, Frank J. Hogan, at his side, was surrounded by a throng of friends offering their congratulations. He thanked the members of the jury individually and bestowed upon each of the women who served on the panel a hearty hug.

The case was given to the jury at 2:30 p. m., with instructions from Justice Jennings Bailey to consider first of all whether there was a quorum present at the session of the senate committee at which Stewart gave his testimony. This point was the subject of a bitter dispute from the very beginning of the trial.

The minutes of the committee were introduced into evidence by U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover, who is prosecuting the government's case, with the contention that they reported eight members of the committee's 15 to have been in attendance and that the meeting therefore was valid.

This was disputed by Hogan, with the assertion that of the eight reported by the minutes as present some were actually elsewhere and were included in the roll call by a telephonic request to the clerk of the committee. Witnesses for the defense testified that at no time were more than five members of the committee actually in attendance.

In his instructions to the jury, Justice Bailey ruled that before a meeting of a senate committee can become valid a majority of its members must be actually and physically present. With a majority present at the outset, he said, one or more might withdraw without impairing the validity of the session, unless a specific point of a lack of a quorum should be raised.

He told the jurors to settle the quorum question first of all and, if it was agreed that these requirements were not fulfilled, it need go no further, but return a verdict of acquittal at once.

What happened in the jury room remained a secret, guarded closely by the members of the panel. One said that an agreement was made before reporting the verdict, under which all promised not to reveal how the discussion went or how many ballots were taken.

Stewart's acquittal on the perjury charge spares him of the last indictment pending against him as the result of his testimony before the senate committee. A charge of contempt of the senate, arising from the same appearance at which it was alleged that he committed perjury, was brought to trial late in May of this year and also resulted in an acquittal.

The perjury indictment was based upon three specific counts which the government asserted were propounded by the committee and which, it was charged, Stewart answered with deliberate falsifications.

These questions were whether he knew anything of the distribution of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, which the committee was attempting to trace; whether he received any of the bonds, and whether he had had any conversation or had any knowledge that would lead him to believe that any individual or organization had received the securities.

It was charged that Stewart answered all three questions in the negative when as a matter of fact the president of the Continental had given him bonds to the value of $759,500.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

UIJI-Yamada, Japan, Nov. 20—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito and the empress arrived here from Kyoto to worship at the shrine of the sun goddess. Despite the rain, crowds at many points between Uiji-Yamada and Kyoto cheered the imperial train.

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 20—(AP)—Princess Chichibu, the former Tsuneo Matsudaira, was suffering from a cold yesterday. She did not accompany her husband, who is heir presumptive to th throne, to Ueji-Yamada where the emperor and his court went to worship at the shrine of the sun goddess.

VIENNA, Nov. 20—(AP)—Franz Schubert, who died in penury and obscurity in Vienna just 100 years ago, was honored yesterday by music loving Europe as few composers of any age have been. With natives leading an international chorus of praise in appreciation of the man who in a short life of 31 years gave the world more than 1,000 vocal pieces of every variety, every country in Europe joined the movement to give that recognition to his genius which the Europe of a century ago denied him.

FARMER MUST WORK OUT HIS OWN PROBLEMS

DENVER, Clo., Nov. 20—(AP)—Predicting that the creation of a federal commission for handling the nation's crop surpluses would be the answer to demands for farm relief, Charles S. Barrett, veteran president of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, declared here today that the farmer would still have to work out his own problems, even with legislative aid.

"I am going to make you a prophecy," he told the annual convention of the union. "I am neither advocating nor criticising, but just telling you what we are going to get. What we shall get we could have had two years ago, a commission and a few hundred million dollars to be put in the hopper.

"With this money and the commission, the problem will have to be worked out. The trail already blazed by the farmers' union will of necessity be the trail to be followed then. It will still be the farmers problem which we must work out for ourselves. If the commission is good, it will be a great help. If the commission is not a good one—God pity not only the farmers, but every class and calling dependent on agriculture for security and prosperity."

EVILS OF MAD GAMBLING IN STOCKS AND COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20—(AP)—The bulls and the bears were targets of an attack at the governors' conference today, by Gov. Graves, of Alabama. Other governors joined in the assault and the U. S. supreme court and the federal reserve board were caught in the backwash of public criticism.

"There is nothing wrong with America except the evils of mad gambling in stocks and cotton," declared the Alabama executive. "Gambling is the most serious menace to American civilization and progress. Right now there is more money being put up by financiers of long and shorts in cotton and with the bulls and bears than is actually loaned to farmers to produce the cotton crop. The legitimate cotton and stock exchanges have their proper places but the nation cannot afford to stand by and permit wholesale gambling."

Gov Graves said the federal reserve board was sincere in its efforts to halt speculation, but its raising of the rediscount rates to 5 1-2 per cent has stopped much legitimate business.

Gov. John Hammill, of Iowa, agreed with Gov Graves, and Gov. Adam McMullen, of Nebraska, chairman of the conference, said an uneconomic situation was caused by gambling in wheat, cotton and stocks.

O'Hara, New Orleans newspaperman was arrested here late today by operatives of a private detective agency in connection with the embezzlement of $176,000 in Liberty bonds from the First National bank of Los Angeles in April 1926. O'Hara was held by police on a charge of being a fugitive from justice.

Ridicules Charge Of Drunkenness

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—An accusation that two government inspectors were drunk when they examined and passed the liner Vestris five days before she sank with a loss of more than 100 lives, was read today at a department of commerce inquiry, but immediately drew a shouted denial from Captain Edward Keane, one of the examining officers. Both Keane and his assistant said they had found the Vestris seaworthy.

A letter containing the liquor charge was read at a hearing in the customs house before Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector-general of the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce. The letter, signed "Samuel Lawson" and dated November 14—two days after the Vestris foundered—was received by the steamboat inspection service in an envelope in which was printed, "United States lines." The United States lines, outside the hearing, said no Samuel Lawson was employed by them.

The letter said that a four day examination of the Vestris by Captain Keane, assistant inspector of hulls, and Frank N. Bruning, assistant inspectors of hulls and life saving apparatus, included "swilling whiskey and beer in the ship's bar," by the inspectors.

"The inspectors left in the afternoon with a certain weakness in their legs and each with a package under his arm," the letter said, concluding that these were "the kind of murderers" comprising the personnel of the steamboat inspection service.

"The whole thing is the most outrageous lie I ever heard," said Captain Keane who is 62 years old and the holder of a master's certificate. "I am the fourth generation of my family which has never touched a drop of any stimulant."

As to the mention of the packages, Captain Keane said:

"There were customs men and prohibition men in plain clothes on the pier. You don't suppose that we would take any chance of being picked for bootleggers?"

VESTRIS TESTIMONY AT THE FEDERAL INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—A saloon mate and a waiter from the crew of the steamer Vestris testified today at the federal inquiry into the sinking of the ship with the loss of more than 100 lives that it always leaked at ports and doors when there was heavy weather and that nothing was ever done about stopping the flow of water.

Previous witnesses have testified that on its last trip the water poured into the Vestris through these ports and doors so fast that the combined efforts of the steam pumps and bucket brigades of seamen could not keep up with it.

The testimony of the saloon mate and waiter came but an hour or two after two inspectors of the United States steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce had testified at a separate inquiry going forward in the customs house that they had inspected the Vestris a few days before it sailed and found it seaworthy in all respects.

The inspector of hulls mentioned in particular the ports and doors through which other people say the sea poured in streams, and said he had found them fit.

One of today's witnesses who told of the leakage, which both asserted was customary whenever the ship struck a storm, said he had reported the defects in writing, telling the land officials of the line that the ports and doors needed to be re-rubbered. The other said he had made no report as the leaks were a matter of common knowledge. Both said that no repairs had been made prior to the last voyage of the Vestris, which sank off the Virginia Capes a week ago yesterday.

ACTOR JOHN BARRYMORE TO WED DOLORES COSTELLO

For Lasting Peace Strip War Of Profits

Com. McNutt Asks Union Labor to Unite With Legion For Peace.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20—(AP)—Union of labor and the American Legion to support legislation to prevent war was urged today by Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the Legion, in an address before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Shoulder to shoulder, labor and the legion can do this service together for our country," he exclaimed amid applause from the labor leaders.

Appealing for labor support for universal draft legislation backed by the legion, McNutt said it would be a "service for all, creating an equal responsibility in citizenship, eliminating the slacker, eliminating privilege, profit and plunder when the emergency arises."

Declaring that at the close of the World war "a new millionaire's mansion could be checked against every white cross and star on the battlefields," he asserted that the legion was convinced that the "greatest insurance for permanent peace is the taking of profit out of war."

Commander McNutt declared that a "better method than war must be found for settling international disputes. Such a method must be practical and must be accepted by all nations. Until such a method is found and accepted this nation must provide an adequate defense."

"We of the legion who have experienced the horrors of unpreparedness in war have in our hearts but one reason for demanding an adequate protection for our country. That reason is peace."

Colonel C. B. Ross, representing the secretary of war, said the army "is preparing for war but it is not preparing a cause of war."

"We are preparing for war because that is what the army exists for. If war comes that is the country's war and not the army's war. The army is merely the weapon of the country in enforcing its will."

GOV. SMITH TO HOLD OLD TIME LAWN INSPECTION

EDGEWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 20—(AP)—An old time lawn reception will be held Friday afternoon by Governor Alfred E. Smith on the terrace of the hotel for all those wishing to meet him.

Rested by his several days relaxation, the governor again is the "happy warrior" and expects to shake hands with all who call on him.

He has expressed appreciation of the consideration of Mississippians in permitting him to sleep, play golf and trawn without molestation and he is described by Senator Pat Harrison, "major domo" of the party, as having "the time of his life".

Senator Joe Robinson, Governor Smith's running mate in his losing race for the presidency, and Governor Ritchie of Maryland, who is recreating in Florida will be invited to attend the reception Friday. Governors, legislators and other officials from nearby states are expected to be there along with farmers, merchants and fishermen.

The ever mounting pile of mail is reaching staggering proportions and since the secretary was not included in the party, no attempt will be made to answer the letters and telegrams, it was announced. Governor Smith made it plain that he was physically unable to accept any invitations and would spend his entire time along the Mississippi coast.

TWO TRUCKS WERE BADLY DAMAGED IN COLLISION

MERIDEN, Nov. 20—(AP)—Trucks owned by the Hartford Despatch and Warehouse company and the Woodland Transportation company, were badly damaged at 8 o'clock tonight in a collision on the Meriden-Hartford highway, near the Meriden-Berlin town line, which resulted in minor injuries to two men.

Abe Katz, 26 Winthrop street, Hartford, and his helper, F. H. Higley, 19 Cluen court, East Hartford, were cut by flying glass. They were in the Hartford Despatch and Warehouse company's truck. John J. Zieminski, 7 North Bank street, New Haven, driver of the second truck escaped injury. The injured men were treated at the Meriden hospital.

STOCK MARKET SWAMPED BY VOLUME OF BUSINESS

Total Sales Set a New High Record of 6,811,900 Shares—Small Traders and Investors Were Frightened Into Selling by Violence of the Trading—Ticker Ran From 30 to 100 Minutes Behind the Market—Du Pont Advanced 63 Points to 603 and Dropped Back to 492—Sales in Curb Market Crossed 2,000,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)— With four high priced issues skyrocketing $35 to $63 a share, and at least 50 others climbing $1 to $10 a share to new high records, Wall Street today witnessed the wildest stock market in its history. The violence of the advance scared many small traders and investors into liquidating their stocks with the result that many of the gains were cut down, and a number of issues showed losses of $1 to $5 a share.

Total sales set a new high record at 6,811,900 shares, which contrasts with the previous record of 6,714,400 established last Friday.

Orders poured into the market in such gigantic volume that the ticker ran from 30 to 100 minutes behind the market during the greater part of the day, the usual last minute rush of orders delaying the printing of the final transaction until two hours and 42 minutes after the market closed, the longest delay on record.

Forced by the thousands of complaints against the present service and the widespread confusion caused in brokerage houses throughout the country to take drastic action officials of the exchange today decided to drop all sales volume from the tape, except for a few minutes after the opening, beginning Thursday. Under the new plan, only stock prices will be printed on the ticker, and it is expected that the quotation service will be speeded up at least 25 per cent. Arrangements are being made by the exchange to supply sales volume of individual stocks to press associations and newspapers, pending the installation of special telegraph printers which are being provided for this service, but the details have not been worked out.

It was originally intended to drop all sales volume below 100 shares and to delay the inauguration of the change until the special telegraph printers had been installed in newspaper and press association offices next month, but the extreme delays of the past few days have necessitated a further curtailment in ticker tape characters and an advance in the date of the beginning of the new plan.

Based on an average price of around $85 a share for all listed stocks, today's tremendous turnover involved an exchange of securities valued at nearly $600,000,000.

The average of 20 leading industrial stocks, compiled by the Associated Press: Advance $2.71 a share today to a new high record at $952.67, which compares with the year's low of $178.84, and an average of $224.45 at the end of last month. The average of 20 leading rails advanced $2.51 a share to $155.30, but is still about $1.75 below the year's high.

Speculative interest in today's market centered in the sensational advances in Case Threshing Machine, Dupont, International Harvester and Radium Case soared $51 a share to $500 and dropped back to $494.75; International Harvester jumped $63 to $494.75 and fell back to $378 and Radio ran up $55.50 to $367 and fell back to $358.

Curb Market

Total sales on the New York curb market crossed 2,000,000 shares for the second time since that exchange moved indoors, practically all the active oils setting new high records.

The following table illustrates the extent of the day's trading in 10 of the most active issues:

| No. Shares Stock | High | Close | Net Change |
|---|---|---|---|
| 202,500 Stand Oil NY | 40⅞ | 40⅝ | up 1⅝ |
| 119,500 Transcon. Oil | 14⅝ | 14⅜ | up ⅜ |
| 112,000 Sinclair .. | 44⅞ | 44½ | up ⅝ |
| 85,900 Park U Mln. | 12⅝ | 12⅜ | up 2⅛ |

Such intense interest has been aroused in the market during the past few days that several of the large commission houses have been forced to remove chairs from their customers rooms, and even then, standing room has been at a premium. Where chairs are provided, they are filled long before the market opens and generally occupied until the word "close" is printed on the tape. Several small traders have been bringing their luncheons with them and eating them as they watch the tape in order not to lose their chairs.

Downtown restaurants have been forced to engage extra employes, not only to handle the large crowds which now throng the financial district, but also to handle the immense volume of orders carried out to brokers and employes who are too busy to leave their offices for their meals. Some of the large wire houses have engaged suites of hotel rooms for employes forced to work long hours overtime in order to keep their records up to date.

SEARCHING IN OMAHA FOR HATCHET SLAYER

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 20—(AP)—Two hundred policemen and officers and as many citizens were on watch in all parts of the city tonight seeking the trace of a maniac hatchet slayer who police are convinced, is responsible for the death of three persons, and the wounding of two others probably fatally.

Not since Frank Carter, the sniper terrorized the city several years ago with his silencer-automatic rifle, has interest and excitement been so tense. Carter shot several persons to death.

The latest victims of the "hatchet maniac" were revealed today when Mrs. Harold Stribling, wife of a former high school football star, was attacked, and struck in the face with the hatchet. She was taken captive by him and led to a lonely spot in a swamp not far from their home, which is in Iowa, just across the state line. Stribling, struck first the fiend, is not expected to live. His skull was crushed.

Leaving the wife in the swamp the man, described by Mrs. Stribling as a negro of light complexion, about 21 years of age, disappeared. Her face bleeding from wounds, Mrs. Stribling wandered to a street intersection and there met a policeman who summoned aid.

Rewards for his arrest offered now total $9,000.

Two women and a man are dead, presumably victims of the same man. The first was J. W. Blackman, 73 year old express man, found dead in his bed Sunday morning. Yesterday about 2 p. m. Mrs. Waldo Resso, 21, and her sister, Creta Brown, 18, were found slain, hacked to death by an ax or hatchet.

The blunt end of the hatchet was used to kill Blackman, examiners found, but the sharp edge ended the lives of the women. Likewise the sharp edge was used on the Striblings. Mrs. Stribling's nose is broken and her right eye cut, but physicians said she would not lose the sight.

All day long Negroes were herded into the bull pen of the police station to be interrogated by Inspector of Detectives Ben Danbaum.

HOOVER TO INDULGE IN FISHING TODAY

ON BOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND, EN ROUTE TO AMAPALA, HONDURAS, Nov. 20—(AP)—Herbert Hoover intends to engage in his favorite sport of fishing tomorrow morning on the sea off Cape San Lucas, the extreme southern tip of lower California.

During the day the Maryland was speeded up two knots so that it was cleaving the calm seas at 17 knots in order that the president-elect might not lose any time on his good will mission to Latin America by his deep sea fishing. The waters off the cape abound in large fish.

After the battleship lays to, Mr. Hoover with other members of the party will put off in the admiral's barge for the fishing grounds. It is probably, in event of suitable weather conditions, that they will keep their lines out most of the morning.

Mr. Hoover was up early this morning. He walked the quarterdeck at a brisk pace in the bright sunshine before going in for breakfast. Later he discussed with Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher the details of their itinerary.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE WAS RECORDED IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 20—(AP)—A severe quake was recorded on the seismograph at St. Xavier college here at 3:45 p. m. eastern standard time today, V. Herr, seismologist, said. The maximum disturbance was reached at 4:03 and vibrations of the seismograph lasted until 5 p. m. indicating the shock was severe. Mr. Herr estimated it took place about 4,000 miles away, in a southward direction, probably in Peru.

FEAR HOPE VALLEY GIRL HAS MET WITH FOUL PLAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 20—(AP)—Two days of investigation have brought the state police to the suspicion of foul play as the most tenable explanation of the disappearance of 18 year old Bertha Piascik, of Hope Valley, who has not been seen since she left her escort, Bennie Haberek, 21, also of Hope Valley, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning to try to "sneak in the house" without attracting her parents' attention.

Haberek today was arraigned in third district court at Westerly, on a statutory charged, pleaded guilty and was committed to Washington county jail pending action by the February grand jury. He was unable to furnish bail of $5,000 set by Judge Oliver S. Williams.

Search of the woods, swamps and underbrush in the neighborhood of the girl's home has been conducted by state troopers since Bertha's disappearance was reported, but no clue to her whereabouts has been discovered. An organized hunt will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, in which the troopers will be aided by civilian posses and Boy Scouts in scouring between six and eight square miles of the lonely territory in which the secret of the girl's fate is thought to be hidden.

Rumors that the girl might have taken refuge from the expected wrath of her parents with friends in Jewett City, Conn., New Jersey or New York, have been investigated by the state police, who report that the rumors are without foundation so far as they can determine.

COOLIDGE PREPARING LAST ANNUAL MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—A number of old and some new problems are before President Coolidge as the time approaches for him to send his sixth and last annual message to congress.

The president's final communication of this character will be read on Capitol Hill two weeks from today and the prospects are that he will have it completed well in advance of his departure from Washington next week for a Thanksgiving vacation in Virginia.

He already has the material before him upon which he may base his recommendations for legislation respecting Boulder Canyon dam, a project which figured to some extent in the presidential campaign and over which there has been a great deal of discussion during almost all of the Coolidge administration.

What the message will have to say in connection with finances remains to be seen, but in view of his repeated declarations President Coolidge is expected to urge congress to remain well within the government's income in dealing with appropriations. It is not expected that this time will be propitious for further recommendations on tax reduction.

80 CANADIANS ARRESTED NEAR ST. JOHNSBURY, VT

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 20—(AP)—The arrest of approximately 80 Canadians at Fifteen Mile Falls, near St. Johnsbury, Vt., resulted from failure of Fraser Brace & company, which has a contract for the construction of a power dam, to petition the secretary of labor for permission to use Canadian workmen, United States Immigration Commissioner Landis said here today in an interview.

"There are instances every year," the commissioner said, "where the immigration department assists in permitting Canadian lumbermen to cross the line and work in the pulp and lumber districts of Northern New York and Maine. All that is necessary is a petition to the secretary of labor."

The commissioner said a complete history of the St. Johnsbury case would be presented to the secretary of labor for a decision whether the men still held should be deported.

GOVERNORS INVITED TO MEET IN NEW ENGLAND

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20—(AP)—Invitation to the nation's governors to hold their 1929 conference in New England, was extended today by Gov. Huntley N. Spaulding of New Hampshire at the opening session of the present conference of governors here. Speaking on behalf of the six New England governors, he pledged "not only New England hospitality, but an historic background that needs no reciting, recreational and scenic attractions that are unsurpassed and a picture in close up of industrial activities which produce something like 11 per cent of this country's manufactured goods."

The New England delegation included Gov. and Mrs. Spaulding, Gov. and Mrs. Norman D. Case, of Rhode Island; Gov.-elect and Mrs. W. Tudor Gardiner, of Maine; Gov. and Mrs Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine; Gov and Mrs. J. H. Trumbull, of Connecticut and Miss Florence Trumbull; John C Hull, speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives, representing Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, and Dr. William T. Foster, of Newton, Mass.

VIENNA SHOCKED BY CRITICISM OF SCHUBERT

VIENNA, Nov. 20—(AP)—Musical Vienna was shocked today when Dr. Robert Lach, professor of musical history at Vienna university, told a distinguished audience that Franz Schubert was "a self satisfied, bumdrum individual, a harmless little school master, conscious of his own deficient ethics and moral qualities and of the inferior value of his soul."

Dr. Lach declared that it was only when Schubert, whose centennial is being celebrated this week, began to suffer and to realize his inferiority that his music became lofty. He characterized the famous composer as a "limited genius" and added his opinion that the symphony in C major which the world has generally accepted as a masterpiece is "a quite formless composition without air or plan."

Throughout the city for several days choruses have been singing the works of Schubert and all Europe has united for special programs commemorating the young man who died here in poverty at the age of 31. The harsh criticism today of Dr. Lach made a painful public impression.

AWARDED $15,000 AGAINST MOREHOUSE BROTHERS CO.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20—(AP)—Miss Edna Morehouse, of Meriden, was awarded $15,000 by a jury in superior court today in her personal injury suit against the Morehouse Brothers company, of which her father is president.

Miss Morehouse was injured on June 22, 1921, when an automobile owned by the defendant company and driven by a brother of the plaintiff crashed into a tree in Wallingford. She claimed that her left leg was made shorter by reason of her injuries.

In March, 1923, a jury awarded Miss Morehouse $12,500 but the judgment was set aside by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin as evidence tended to show that Miss Morehouse's father was not acting in his capacity as president of defendant company when he permitted young Morehouse to drive his sister to a party at Momauguin in the company car.

Today the plaintiffs withdrew appearance.

TRACING MAN WANTED FOR ROTHSTEIN SLAYING

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker announced today that, while he was not satisfied with the work done by detectives in attempting to solve the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, before making changes in the police department he must consider their possible effects in the midst of an important investigation.

The Brooklyn Eagle published a Philadelphia despatch saying a staff reporter had traced George McManus, sought by police for questioning, to that city and had learned his every move.

McManus, who police believe may have been an eye-witness to Rothstein's slaying, the Eagle's despatch says checked out of the Hotel Stenson in Philadelphia yesterday, after attending the Penn-Columbia game and visiting with a business friend in the Hotel Vendig Saturday. The Eagle reporter says he has learned where McManus is going from Philadelphia, where he expects to stop and whom he plans to meet.

The private safe of Rothstein, in which police hoped to find clues to his murder and to his reported connection with gambling, narcotic and other underworld activities, was opened by supreme court order, it yielded nothing helpful, investigtors said.

VICE-PRESIDENT-ELECT CURTIS ADDRESSED GRANGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Vice-President-Elect Charles Curtis advocated cooperation between members of congress and farmers' representatives in an effort to solve the agricultural problem today before the National Grange, declaring that farm relief was "a very serious situation facing congress."

In a short speech, Senator Curtis told the delegates to the grange convention that he could not make a formal address because of doctor's orders to take care of his voice, strained by political campaigning.

"But I do want to say a few words to members of the Grange," he said, "because I feel that their representatives can do a lot to secure the measures that will bring actual relief to farmers. Congressmen and farmers should meet around a big table and discuss the situation, with a view to securing relief.

"I pledge my support for any legislation that we may agree upon for relief that agriculture is entitled to," he concluded.

LEOPOLD MURDER CASE WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

WATERBURY, Nov. 20—(AP)—Louis N. Leopold, president of the Waterbury Furniture company, who has been on trial for the past six weeks in the local superior court on two counts of first degree murder, two counts of causing death by wilful burning of a building and arson, may know his fate tomorrow. When court adjourned this afternoon, Attorney John Cassidy had made all but 35 minutes of the four hours allowed the defense for argument. State's Attorney Lawrence Lewis has two hours left for the state. Leopold was arrested following a fire in a Baldwin street building owned by Mrs. Ida Leopold, his wife, on February 5, in which John and Joseph Royston, two children, were burned to death, as was Sam Weisz, a friend of theirs.

FORMER CLERK DONAHUE IS ARRESTED IN PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 20—Former City Clerk and Treasurer James S Donahue, Jr., was taken into custody in Providence, R. I., this afternoon by Officers Arthur M. Hurley and Joseph Lariviere of the local police department on a charge of embezzlement. He was returned to this city and held under bonds of $5,000. The case, which dates back to the resignation of Donahue on Sept. 23, 1927, will come up for trial in the police court within a few days, probably Wednesday morning, when the accused will be bound over to superior court. Donahue's arrest has been pending since the date of resignation while an audit of the books of the city clerk and treasurer was being conducted. The audit was completed May 9, last, and showed an approximate shortage of $7,010.90, divided into the following departments: Water rents, $2,515.73; water service, $187.95; sidewalks, $747.28, and miscellaneous, $1,559.94. The warrant was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher following a request for action in the matter made at the November meeting of the common council. Donahue was first elected to office in 1923 and served under the administration of the late Mayor Hormisdas Dion. He was re-elected in 1925, serving under the administration of ex-Mayor John C. Tracy up to the time of his resignation. It is understood that Donahue has been employed in Providence.

NO CASES TRIED IN SUPERIOR COURT YESTERDAY

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 20—None of the three cases assigned for today's session of the Windham county superior court was heard, the attorneys in each case presenting excuses for not being prepared for trial. As a result of this, Judge Yeomans ordered the session adjourned until Wednesday forenoon. The defense attorneys in the case of the Jordan Hardware Co. vs. Nathan Gilman of Norwich gave notice that they were unable to be in court today but would be present Wednesday, and that an agreement to that effect had been made with the plaintiff attorney. This case was assigned as second for Wednesday.

The defense attorneys were also unprepared in the case of Mary Lusoko vs. George Morin, et al. and the court announced that this case would go over for reassignment. In the case of Benjamin Prague vs. Herman Prague, Max Lehrman and Sadie Rosenthal all of this city, the attorney for the plaintiff informed the court that he had not received notice of the assignment of the case until late and, owing to this fact, he was unable to reach an important witness from Boston in time to secure his attendance at court today. The defendants were ready for trial. A request for a reassignment was made of the court and Judge Yeomans asked the opinion of the defense on this matter. Attorney Arthur T. Kelley stated that the defendants were ready to proceed and that one of their witnesses, also a Boston resident, was present, as well as another witness from another city. Attorney Kelley said that he considered it unfair to his witnesses to be put to loss of time and money. Judge Yeomans then stated to the plaintiff attorney that he would reassign the case, if agreeable to the defendants and on condition that the expenses of the defense witness from Boston who attended court today be paid. This was agreed to. Court was then adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the first case scheduled to be heard is that of the Schofield Willington Co. of Springfield, Mass., vs George J. Kirby of Mansfield Hollow

DIRECTORS OF METAL SCREEN COMPANY ARE ELECTED

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 20—In the organization of the Willimantic Metal Screen, Inc., the following directors have been elected: J. M. Trombly and Keith Trombly of Hinsdale, Mass. William P. Jordan, George H. Gurley and Kenneth N. Hillhouse of this city. Stanley J. Sumner acted as chairman of the organization meeting and Kenneth N. Hillhouse, temporary clerk. Attorney E. Frank Bugbee presented the by-laws drawn up by a committee and they were accepted. Papers for the corporation were prepared by Attorney A. T. Kelley. The directors elected as officers: President, J. M. Trombly; vice-president, Kenneth N. Hillhouse; secretary, Keith Trombly; treasurer, George H Gurley. Mr. and Mrs. Trombly and their two sons, who have been associated with Mr. Trombly in the manufacturing of metal screens, have been visiting in this city this week and inspected the S. C. S. Box Co. building where the new business will be located. Local stockholders in the concern are highly enthused over the prospects for the new company, which will make a new metal window screen invented by Mr. Trombly and believed by those who have seen it to be far superior to anything of its kind on the market today. Secretary Keith Trombly of the new concern will move to this city next month and about that time shipments of machinery from the Hinsdale plant as well as special new machines necessary for the work will begin arriving.

Mrs. Dorothy Marion Whitney of 34 Hewitt street died in St. Joseph's hospital late Monday afternoon. She was born in New London, July 2, 1895, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lussier Cayonette. The deceased leaves her husband, Raymond Whitney; a daughter, Ruth Whitney, of this city; her father, two sisters, Mrs. Louise Burns and Miss Alice Cayonette, and a brother, Arthur Cayonette, all of New Bedford, Mass.

General Secretary Albert B. Smith of the Y. M. C. A. stated today that preliminary plans for the passing of a torch by "Y" boys of Connecticut through this city in December call for the use of 50 local boys to cover one-half mile each of the distance from Rockville to Putnam. The torch, which was presented at Hartford to the Middletown "Y" by Gov. John H. Trumbull and started on its statewide journey Nov. 10, is due to arrive here Dec. 17 on its way from Rockville to Putnam.

Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, affiliated with the First Congregational church, has been notified through Scoutmaster Robert C. Rose that it is entitled to the 15-year scout service honor troop emblem. The troop, however, has been organized for 16 years. Scoutmaster Rose has notified New York headquarters that the troop selects an emblem to be placed on a large troop flag. The troop now has four patrols with a full membership of eight scouts each, a total of 32 scouts. The assistant scoutmasters are, Attorney John B. Harvey, William D Talcott, Maurice Hanna and Holbrook Yerke.

The recent filing of warranty deeds at the office of the town clerk shows the following real estate transactions of interest: American Land Co. of Providence, R. I., to Existe Mondor of this city, five building lots on Ash street plat; Enterprise Development Co., Inc., of New York city, land and buildings on easterly side of West Park street to Eugene J. Dion; Enterprise Development Co., Inc., tract of land with buildings on highway between Windham Center and Scotland road; Henry Lavigne and Pierre Lavigne, tract of land on Prospect street, 120 by 60 feet, near Mansfield avenue, to William L. Chappell of Windham.

In preparation for the fourth annual Willimantic Exposition to be staged in January by the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association, D. D. Cavanaugh, general manager of the exposition, is already busily engaged in preparing the premium list book which will be sent to every family residing within a radius of 25 miles of this city, as well as to the many exhibitors throughout New England. Earl J. Arnold, secretary of the chamber of commerce and chairman of the industrial division of the exposition, reports that many requests have already been received for floor space by exhibitors on the drill shed floor of the state armory. An additional room has been reserved at the armory for exhibits for furniture and men's and women's furnishings in which live models will appear.

The funeral of John William Wood was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon with services conducted at the home, 318 Valley street, by Rev. Harold H. Critchlow of the Methodist church. Burial was in the new Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Dwight W. Ide, Howard Haling, Fred Woodward and Leslie King. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

MOOSUP TRUCK NOT ONE THAT HIT GIRLS

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 20—Somewhat of a mystery has developed in connection with the police hunt started Monday afternoon after a Ford truck had climbed the sidewalk on Main sreet, opposite the foot of North street, slightly injured two girls and was then driven away in an easterly direction before the extent of injuries to the girls was established by the driver. Although two local people secured the registration numbers of the truck as Conn. 48-403 and a truck so registered was determined to be the property of Blanche Brouillard of 38 Church street, Moosup, the police are not as yet fully satisfied that the Brouillard truck was the one which figured in the mishap here. According to the state police officers from Danielson, who were called into the investigation, the Brouillard truck bearing that number had been parked in a garage for several days and was not the one in this city Monday afternoon. On the other hand, the local police have some confidence that the numbers taken by two people were probably correct and plan to continue the investigation.

The semi-annual Ladies' Night of the Willimantic Rotary club was held this evening with an attendance of over 75 Rotarians and lady guests. The program opened with a duck dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel at 6:30 o'clock, after which the meeting adjourned to the Country club, where dancing, bridge, entertainment, etc., were the order of the evening. The committee in charge consisted of William A. Dawson, chairman, and Harry W. Standish.

During a recruiting drive being conducted here by Sergt. John E. Perry of the Providence recruiting office of the U. S. Army, four local young men, all close friends, have enlisted to date for the Seventh Field Artillery, stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. They are: Clayton Andrews, 260 Summit street; Eldred French, West Main street; Ernest Desrosiers, 37 Broad street, and Rudolphe Ducharme of Mansfield Center.

Past Exalted Ruler John J. Mack of Hartford lodge, No. 19, B. P. O. Elks, district deputy grand exalted ruler of Connecticut east, is to pay his annual visitation to Willimantic lodge, No. 1317, at the regular meeting in the home Wednesday evening. An entertainment to the district deputy and his staff will follow.

A statement from Columbia today was to the effect that the funds announced in Tuesday's issue of The Bulletin as having been sent to national headquarters from the Columbia chapter of the American Red Cross, including the towns of Hebron and Andover, was not for the annual roll call but for the Porto Rico and Florida relief fund. The annual roll call drive is now being conducted under Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, Columbia chairman.

Mrs. Stanley J. Sumner is making good recovery at St. Joseph's hospital, following a serious operation. She has been confined to bed at home for several months.

Miss Angie A. Snow has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. F. M. Whittemore, of New London.

The annual exhibition of garments of the local branch of the Needlework Guild of America is to be held at the Woman's club rooms Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. M. F. Ladd of 150 Church street is showing improvement at St. Joseph's hospital, where she underwent an operation.

Postmaster Frank M. Smith, who was injured in an automobile accident in West Springfield a few weeks ago, has been ordered to return to bed for prolonged rest upon an x-ray disclosure that he had a severe fracture of the left hip.

Mrs. Henry R. Lincoln has returned from a several days' visit with Mrs. C. H. Parsons in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Arthur S. Wheelock, wife of the pastor, Miss Ethelyn Nichols, director of religious education, and Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings, will represent the local Congregational church at the meeting of the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut in New London Thursday.

Mrs. Margaret Daugherty of Philadelphia, Pa., one of the victims of the Vestris disaster, was a first cousin of James, P. Mustard of Windham road.

STATE OFFICIAL INSPECTS LOCATION OF NEW POLES

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Nov. 20—Borough residents are commenting on the action of the C. C. P. & L. Co. in setting new poles so near the concrete road running through the village main street. The old poles, which were located further from the roadway, were much less conspicuous. It is the opinion of numerous residents that the new location of the poles will prove a source of danger to motorists passing through the village at night. It is reported that larger and more powerful street lights are to be furnished in the future, in which case the danger to motorists will be lessened, but from the viewpoint of improving the appearance of the borough's main thoroughfare the work now in progress is a step in the wrong direction In response to a protest by local people, several officials of the tree division of the state highway department were in town Tuesday, looking over the situation and it is reported that as a result of their visit, the poles will be moved further back from the road.

REWARDS ARE OFFERED FOR CHICKEN THIEVES

Thefts of chickens are complained of about the village. A week ago, 25 hens were stolen from Jacob Rubin's poultry house, Linwood avenue. Sunday night, about 40 hens were stolen from L. Bernstein's coops on Windham avenue. Charles T. Williams and the town of Colchester each has offered $100 reward to the person furnishing information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for chicken thefts about the town during the past few months.

Theodore W. Doberenis of Marlborough was a local visitor Monday.

Mrs. Raymond O. Kendall has returned from a few days' visit with Massachusetts relatives.

JEWETT CITY

VOLUNTOWN P. O. AND STORE ENTERED MONDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 20—Sometime during Monday night burglars entered the Voluntown postoffice and general store kept by Fred Dawley. Both the post office and store cash register were rifled, which act netted the burglars less than ten dollars. The post office safe gave no evidence of having been tampered with. Some few small articles were taken from about the store, also perhaps a dozen stamps, left out after the safe was closed.

Entrance was gained to the building through a back cellar, after which the store and office were reached through a trap door in the floor.

The state police of the Danielson barracks were notified also the post office inspector at New London. The opinion seemed to be that the robbery was the work of novices.

ELECTRIC ORGAN BLOWER GIFT TO BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Baptist church Sunday, the morning service contained several special features in connection with the formal acceptance of the new electric blower for the church organ, given by Charles Edward Prior, Jr., of Bridgeport as a memorial to his father and mother. The musical numbers were Charles Edward Prior's compositions. Miss Margaret Jordan sang "Only a Cup of Water". "The Heavenly Land" words by the well known blind hymnwriter, Fanny J. Crosby, was sung by Miss Verna Tarbox. The choir gave a selection, "Come to The Saviour," both the music and the words having been composed by Mr. Prior, the latter being written under his pen-name "Sylvia".

George H. Prior, a nephew of Charles Edward Prior, has superintended the installing of the motor and he gave a brief address in regard to the history of the organ and the appropriate selection of the gift.

The fund for the church organ was started in June, 1891. The original subscription papers, headed in Mr. Prior's own handwriting are still in existence. Many of the donors have passed away and others have moved from town. The organ was bought in 1893 and has been in constant use for thirty years, the motive power during this period being the faithful boys who one after another outgrew the duty.

During the residence of Mr. Prior in Jewett City he was in charge of many of the musical interests in the town. He formed and conducted a choral union which was greatly enjoyed both by its members and the general public. Of especial value to the Baptist church was a choir of young people trained more than forty years ago by Mr. Prior. Never since that time has there been a Baptist choir without one or more members of that group, although the personnel has changed frequently in the four decades.

Of Mrs. Prior it can be said that her sweet, consistent Christian life endeared her to everyone. While she took no active part in the musical program of the church, she ably assisted Mr. Prior by being a frequent hostess to the young people of the choir.

Rev. Mr. Scates, the pastor, taking for his text Sunday "Behold, I make all things new," spoke of the value of modern appliances even to the betterment of church services and the ease with which they are carried out. The new electric blower is of the latest type, a valuable addition to the church equipment. The organ will bear a bronze plate with the inscription:

MARY ELEANOR CAMPBELL PRIOR
The Electric Blower for this Organ was Presented to This Church
By Their Son
CHARLES EDWARD PRIOR, Jr.

A very successful chicken supper under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Phillips was held in the community house Thursday evening. The menu consisted of chicken pie, mashed potato, turnip, squash, pickles, cake and coffee. One feature of the evening which proved very entertaining was a grab bag. After the supper the young people had an hour of dancing. Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Oatley of East Killingly. The proceeds from the supper, $32.25, will start a fund which the ladies hope to raise to a sufficient amount to pay for installing electric lights.

Mrs. A. E. Hall, Ruth and Beatrice Coffey called on Mrs. Cosmer Young and daughter Alice Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Young and daughter left Sunday night to spend the winter at their home in New Smyrna, Fla.

NEARLY a hundred years old . . . and then came another romance . . . another era of that eager enthusiasm and happiness that goes hand in hand with achievement and prosperity!

Next year a famous old New England textile mill will complete its first century . . . doing a better business, a broader business, a more up-to-date and profitable business than ever before. Eight years ago this company turned the searchlight of modern research and merchandising analysis into the dark corners of their own business . . . and discovered a new fortune in profits.

REPUTATION vs. FAME

For nearly a hundred years this New England mill had been building a fine reputation "in the trade." They worked constantly to improve their products. Competition was not keen. Quality sold the goods. Like most textile concerns, they had not bothered much with marketing.

Their products were webbing and similar types of woven fabrics. When the automobile came in, they saw possibilities, but limited ones, in brake-lining. When the sale of automobiles grew with constant improvement in speed and power, this company, as usual, did its job well and matched this improvement, by research and experimentation, to improve the quality of their brake-linings.

Then came the great awakening . . . Eight years ago, they saw that the automobile market, their own product and their manufacturing methods were far ahead of their marketing methods. At the time they had only a few salesmen. All their products were sold through jobbers. The retailers and consumers knew little or nothing about them.

First of all, they applied modern fact-finding research to the nation-wide retailer and consumer market for brake-lining. As a result, a definite and modern program of marketing was developed.

With two salesmen and a small local newspaper campaign of advertising, the new program was launched in Springfield on September 1, 1921. They sold direct to Springfield retailers . . . Today approximately 200 salesmen, under 9 division managers, cover the entire United States.

Local newspaper advertising, extended from city to city, was used for five years. Three years ago national distribution was completed when they topped the king market, New York City. Then national magazine advertising was added to newspaper advertising, with billboard posters following later.

THE MODERN ERA

Six years ago brake-lining represented 15% of this company's total volume of business. Last year it contributed 33.1% of a steadily growing volume and was responsible for more than 36% of the company's net profits. This year the percentage of earnings will be even larger . . . and another modern fortune (which means employment for many citizens, profit for investors, wealth and prosperity for the community) has been discovered by marketing research in an old New England textile mill!

A Word About 20% Sales

In 1916 the first real 20% Sale took place at the Tubridy-Weldon Store in Willimantic, Conn. At that time it was considered a great folly by some merchants. Nevertheless it proved a great success. In fact the response was so great and the method of merchandising so appealing to the public, that Tubridy's Original 20% Sale has been imitated by many merchants.

We are justly proud of our 20% Sale, in view of the fact it is so different from others. It has been proven that this event is not a folly but one of great advantage both to the public and to ourselves.

No matter how many or at what time, other so-called 20% Sales take place. The Tubridy-Weldon Co. will continue to carry on the Original 20% Sale.

During our 20% Sale in 1916 we allowed a 20% reduction on every item in our store, from a Hair Net to a Fur Coat. We have continued the same policy throughout all our 20% Sales. There will be no change in this respect in 1928.

To those who are not acquainted with our Sale we wish to say: we do not change tickets, you merely deduct 20% from the regular price on the original tickets. This one feature alone makes Tubridy's 20% Sale different from others.

LOCAL BANKS SHOW CONFIDENCE IN PUTNAM INSTITUTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 20—The offer of Danielson banks, among others, today to accept all pass books of the Putnam Savings bank at 100 cents on the dollar for all deposits shown had the immediate effect of greatly stabilizing a situation in Putnam that for the time being was somewhat disconcerting. The fact that local banking institutions asserted their complete faith in the sound condition of the Putnam Savings bank was sufficient guarantee of that soundness to the average depositor in the Putnam institution. Notices to the effect mentioned when posted at the Putnam Savings bank this morning established to the satisfaction of numbers of worried depositors that there was no real reason for their being doubtful of the ability of the Putnam bank to meet its every obligation.

Danielson bankers were a unit in deploring the unfortunate situation that had arisen in Putnam and collectively and individually declared that there was no good reason for it. They pointed out their own complete confidence in the Putnam Savings bank by asserting that they would accept every deposit book of that bank that might be presented to them without question, and pay on it to the last cent of credits shown.

FUNERAL

Paul A. Reeves

This morning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gareau on Potter street the funeral of Paul Alexander Reeves was held, with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. The large funeral congregation, representative of many communities in eastern Connecticut, included delegations from the Union St. John Baptist and from Rose of Lima council, K. of C. Three requiem masses were said simultaneously. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, with Rev. J. C. Mathieu of North Grosvenordale and Rev. Fr. Boulanger, M. S., of Enfield, N. H., as deacon and sub-deacon. The mass at the Blessed Virgin's altar was said by Rev. Ignatius Kost of Dayville and the mass at the Sacred Heart altar by Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Mollard and Rev. Fr. Mathieu. The bearers were Paul Dubuc, Gaston A. Maindon and Michael Cronin, representing the K. of C., Damase Boulais, F. X. Mailhot and F. X. Lemieux, representing the Union St. John Baptist. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

OBITUARY

William Barlow

A death last night about 9 o'clock at the home in South Killingly was that of George William Barlow, 82, after a long period of feeble health. Mr. Barlow had been a resident of this town for many years. He was a Civil war veteran who saw three years of service in that great conflict, serving as a member of a Vermont infantry regiment.

Mr. Barlow was born at Enosburg, Vt., December 20, 1845, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Barlow.

Mrs. Barlow leaves his wife, three sons, George Raymond and Herman E., of South Killingly, and Winsor H., of Hills Grove, R. I., and two daughters, Mrs. Neva L. Place and Mrs. Edith I. Coffey, both of South Killingly. There are also seven grandchildren.

Department officers will come here Thursday evening for the annual inspection of Mary A. Livermore Tent, No. 18, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Mary A. Yale of Bridgeport is the inspector. Others expected to be present are Mrs. Jennie S. Newbury, Norwich, department president of the Daughters' organization; Mrs. Minnie A. Mathieu, Willimantic, senior vice-president, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury, Norwich, and Miss Lillian E. Bailey, Danielson, president of the Connecticut department, W. R. C. A supper is to be served prior to the meeting and inspection.

$1,200 Expected in Red Cross Drive

With returns incomplete this afternoon, it was evident that the annual roll call of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross the past week was a very creditable success. Additional returns are yet to be received from Brooklyn and Goodyear. Wednesday morning the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander is to be canvassed for memberships, so the prospect is that when final returns are in the receipts will run between $1100 and $1200.

It is of interest to note that since the roll call of a year ago Danielson chapter contributed $300 to the relief of sufferers in the Porto Rico disaster, and also received an additional $125 in volunteer donations to be applied for the same relief a total of $425. In the past year the chapter has contributed between $600 and $800 toward the support of disabled veterans in Danielson and vicinity. It also made its annual donation of $200 to the Civic federation, an organization doing excellent work here.

Miss Lillian E. Bailey, department president of the Woman's Relief corps in Connecticut, returned today from official visits to Hartford and New Haven. With past department presidents, secretaries and treasurers. Miss Bailey and the members of her official staff attended an informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. William B. Denning in Hartford Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Denning served as department president in 1925, and is well known in Danielson, as throughout the state. Saturday evening Miss Bailey was in New Haven and spent the week end as the guest of George A. Tucker, department commander of the G. A. R., and his sister. Monday Mr. Tucker and Miss Bailey were entertained at a dinner and reception in their honor by Admiral Foote, W. R. C., No. 3, of New Haven.

Up to late this afternoon there had been no arrest in connection with the accident at Willimantic Monday afternoon when a small car mounted a sidewalk in Willimantic and injured two girls. The two men in the machine, said to be owned in Moosup, drove off following the accident, but observers of the incident took the registration number of the machine.

Certified public accountants, working at the offices of the selectmen, are now going along steadily with the audit of town accounts recently undertaken. The prospect is that several weeks will be required to complete the work that is underway, and a final report is not looked for, it was said today, until some time in December.

There is a prospect, it was said to-day, that Brooklyn will undertake during 1929 the construction of a state-aid highway northward over a route that runs past the historic Putnam farm to the Pomfret line. This is part of the proposed all hard-surfaced route from Norwich to the Massachusetts line through Canterbury, Lisbon, Brooklyn, Pomfret and Woodstock.

Alma Forcier of Goodyear, is one of the delegates appointed by the supreme bureau of the Union St. John Baptist, was at Fall River Monday to attend the funeral of Judge Dubuque of the superior court of Massachusetts, one of the distinguished jurists of that state.

Miss Lillian E. Bailey, Broad street, president of the Connecticut department, Woman's Relief corps, and other department officers, will be guests of Francis S. Long, W. R. C., Wednesday evening at a supper and regular meeting in G. A. R. hall, Willimantic.

The stretch of improved highway on which a contractor is now engaged in grading, and making good progress, in Canterbury is to extend southward a distance of 4.7 miles from the Green to the Lisbon line.

One heard this morning of negotiations being underway for the hire of a public service car here for what is probably the longest proposed trip ever made in such a machine—from Danielson to St. Louis and return, a round trip of more than 2500 miles.

Wednesday of this week the county commissioners, county treasurer and other county officials will assemble at the county jail in Brooklyn for the transaction of business incident to the making of the annual county reports. The officials will be entertained at dinner at the jail.

Surplus material lining the shoulders of the new road on the West Side is being removed rapidly now, and trucks are hauling it to the Stearns street section for use in grading.

Walter L. Hoyle will be among those from Danielson in attendance at the Yale-Harvard football game in New Haven next Saturday afternoon.

Joseph Higgins of Elmville is posses-sor of a violin having every appearance of being very old that has within a label bearing the following inscription, as nearly as it can be deciphered: "Antonius Stradivarius—Cremoneus—Faciebat—Anno 17." The inscription also includes a circle within which are the letters A. and AS.

Announcements relative to Thanksgiving services will be made in local churches on Sunday.

Schools throughout the town of Kil-lingly will close next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 28, for the Thanksgiving recess, which will extend to Monday, December 3. This will give non-resident teachers an opportunity to go to their homes in various parts of New England for the holiday.

Attention is being called to the fact that boys who apparently are not over 10 years of age have gone in for smoking in numbers here, apparently without the knowledge of their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bard, Miss Laura M. Pike and Mrs. Ella Lathrop were en route to Danielson today from Washington, D. C., where they have been attending the sessions of the National Grange the past week.

PLAINFIELD

The calendar was given Sunday at the First Congregational church by the Ladies' Aid society.

The Lucy Webb Hayes circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will hold their meeting Friday in the vestry of the Central Village Congregational church, at 2:30. The inspector is expected to be present.

RUN ON LOCAL BANK OVER; CONFIDENCE RENEWED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 20—Statements from State Bank Commissioner Lester Shippee, Former State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne and from many of Putnam's leading business men expressing confidence in the bank were made this morning to the depositors of the Putnam Savings bank, which for the past 48 hours has been the target of malicious rumors.

When the bank opened its doors this morning at 9 o'clock, prepared financially to meet any emergencies, about twenty people whose savings rested in the vaults of the bank appeared ready to sign orders for withdrawals. Within a few minutes the number steadily increased until the lobby of the bank was filled to capacity with depositors who had become alarmed by the false statements.

Shortly before 10 o'clock a Bulletin representative was admitted to the treasurers office and the following statement from State Bank Commissioner Shippee was given out: "The Putnam Savings bank is in a sound and solvent condition. The run, which it is experiencing is apparently the result of vicious rumors and the state will undertake to place the responsibility for the statements being circulated and punish the offenders. There is no cause for the slightest concern as to the safety of any depositor's money. To indicate their confidence in the Putnam Savings bank, two other banks in Putnam, as well as several banks in Danielson have offered to purchase at 100 cents on the dollar any book on the Putnam Savings bank."

President Samuel Reynolds of the Citizens National bank of this city make a brief review of the statement issued by Commissioner Shippee, to the group of citizens who had gathered in the lobby of the bank. His words were absorbed by over three fourths of those then inside of the institute, who left with renewed confidence and a feeling that their money was absolutely safe.

During the morning hours printed statements to the effect that the Citizens National Bank and the Cargill Trust company of this city would accept the savings bank books as would all banks in Danielson, at their face value of 100 per cent. on the dollar were received with new vigor on the part of the curious crowd of spectators who had gathered on the outside eagerly watching all who passed through the doors of the bank. The statements signed by the associate banks in Putnam and Danielson also served to substantiate the previous announcements that the Putnam Savings bank was safe.

At three o'clock this afternoon the "run" was practically subsided and the banking business at the Putnam Savings bank, for the first time in 24 hours began to resume its normal courses. The curious crowds lurking at the front doors on Main street, typical of the stirring morning hours had disappeared and only a few patrons of the institution entered the building with intentions of withdrawing their funds and many of these realized the sacrifice of long accumulated interest they would make if they did close their accounts, and left the bank satisfied that everything was in a sound condition.

PARENTS ABANDON CHILD ON PUTNAM DOORSTEP

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 20—Sergt. George Liard of the Putnam police was called Monday evening to the home of David Grauteau in the Manhasset village, where parents of a four months old child had deserted their baby, leaving it on the doorstep on Sunday evening ringing the doorbell and disappearing into the night.

The baby was abandoned Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. The child was taken in by its temporary foster parents and word of the incident did not reach the police until this morning.

Sergt. Liard went to the home early this morning and was told of the facts. Upon opening the door one of the residents found there a babe, wrapped in blankets and on the verge of tumbling off the steps. Mr Grauteau told Sergt. Liard today that he obtained a glimpse of a fleeing car in the distance, but was unable to say whether or not the parents were riding in the vehicle. The child is now being cared for by Mrs Grauteau, who is the mother of fourteen children, but Dr. E. F. Perry who is rendering medical attention to the infant stated today that it was impossible for the mother to care for the child, because of her present physical condition. The selectmen of the town are to assume charge of the case and will soon find a home for the child. Sergt. Liard was unable to find any immediate clue to the parents who had deserted their child, in the vicinity of the village. Sergt. Liard was looking up several suspects today whom he thought might be the parents of the infant but until tonight was unsuccessful.

Dr. Perry said that the child is getting along well and has the "makings of a fine young man". The physician said that he believed the baby to be about four months old. It is of a light complexion and has a mass of golden hair. "It smiled at me this morning," said Doctor Perry, and it is apparent that the deserted youngster appreciates the attention be devoted to its physical welfare by Putnam's leading physician.

The search for the parents of "Sunnyboy" is to be continued by the members of the state and local police and every effort will be made to learn why the parents resorted to such a method of disposing of their unwanted child. Announcement as to where the child would be placed and in whose hands the livelihood of the infant would depend upon was not ascertained today.

A duo of hunters appeared in the business section of the city this morning with a beautiful buck deer that had been shot in the Maine woods. The animal was about fifteen hands high and possessed a pair of antlers. On Sunday morning an out of state car stopped in the business section, with two bucks of a larger size fastened to the body of the car. The successful huntsmen stated that they had obtained their prizes in the woods of southern Canada. They intimated that the deer are plentiful and many are being killed off daily because of the absence of protective game laws, such as prevent the "killers" from taking the deer in Connecticut.

There will be a meeting of the Child Study group of the Parent-Teachers association of this district on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 22, at three o'clock in the opportunity room of the Israel Putnam school. All parents interested in the training of children are invited to attend. The programme for the year is based on the book by Dr. Douglas A. Thorn entitled "The Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child."

Alexander Maitland of Thompson has been elected vice chairman of the county committee of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Ralph C. Jenkins former superintendent of schools. Another appointment in the organization was that of Harry Richardson of Moosup being designated to head the "On to Bridgeport." committee, to take charge of the Windham county delegation at the annual state convention to be held in that city on Jan. 12 and 13. The Windham county organization have also began their work on the repairing of the equipment at Camp Woodstock, the tri-county camp situated on the shores of Black pond in Woodstock. A committee to direct the work of repairing the camp is comprised of Mr. Buck of Hartford; Albert Williams, Woodstock and George S. Brooks of Rockville. Another committee consisting of C. D. Arnold Putnam and Philip Howe of Rockville was appointed to secure adequate camp directorship for the next season at Camp Woodstock. Both committees will report at the annual meeting in January.

Also of interest to members of the local Y. M. C. A. organization is the report that Frank Condon, Y leader in Rockville, and well known in this city is fast regaining his health after a long period of illness, which for several weeks confined him to the hospital. Mr. Condon was director of Camp Woodstock two seasons ago and was well liked among the boys of this city who will regret to hear of his illness.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Wallace Jones

From the home at 9 o'clock this morning the funeral of Mrs. Wallace Jones of School street was held with a solemn high mass of requiem being celebrated at St. Mary's church. The mass was officiated at by Rev. U. O. Bellerose celebrant; Rev. J. D. Casey, deacon and Rev. Ernest Boileau, sub deacon. The congregation included the many friends and relatives of Mrs. Jones. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Edward Keane, Vincent McAvoy, Fred McCullough, Eugene LaParle, A. G. Lucier, and Thomas McCone, all members of the Hook and Ladder company of the Putnam fire department of which Mr. Jones is a member. The firemen were attired in dress uniforms. Mrs. Jones died Friday evening after a long period of illness. She was widely known in Putnam and the great number of friends and acquaintances which were hers was indicated by the many and beautiful floral tributes that were present.

The members of the Putnam lodge of Elks again matched indoor sport strides with the so far victorious Masons in their third weekly encounter of the winter tournament season and at the end of the evening's play had defeated the flying Masons by a scant margin of but two points, the score being 9 to 7. The score in detail is as follows: At bridge whist the Elks won and lost as follows: Milot and Lewis won from Sherman and Stanton; A. Brousseau and Miller won from Prince and Dow; Duvert and P. Gagne won from Morse and Geissler; J. Murray and Cotter won from R. Diamond and Medbury; Champlain and Averill won from E. Moss and C. Moss; Hogan and Charron won from King and Wologin; Burgeouis and Wheatly lost to Schonover and Shaw; Freeman and E. Gagne lost to Holden and Miron; S. Diamond and McIntyre lost to Baldwin and Merriam; Myers and Kerouack won from Nickoloff and Seward; Lucus and Mansfield won from Brousseau and Miner.

At bid whist Berth and Cavanaugh lost to C. Talbot and Tourtellotte; at cribbage Tetreault and Berthiaume won from Robbins and LaRose; J. Raffery and Welch won from Marcy and Gallant. The fray was held at the Elks club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Bolton of Hartford were calling on their cousins J. White and Clement M. Sumner.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic?

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the manmade purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. Jut at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

MAKING A GOOD THING BETTER

Five years ago we created a balanced Ration which, when submitted to Dairy Specialists, received complete approval.

We marketed this feed under the name:

Big (Y) Dairy Ration

Today the status of:

BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION

has reached the enviable point of being unquestionably the

STANDARD OF COMPARISON

of all Dairy feeds sold in Eastern Connecticut.
To meet the idea now established that MOLASSES added to a good feed increases its palatability, we are adding MOLASSES to

BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION

In doing so we are in no way sacrificing any qualities which have given to the feed the popularity it has justly earned.
The particular advantage of added palatability will assure keener desire among your cows to clean up the feed—act as a conditioner—and show decided sleekness in their appearance.

Uncas Dairy Feed

is the 20% protein feed made of exactly the same ingredients as BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION, and, with good clover hay or alfalfa hay, is the proper feed.
Like the remainder of our plant, the Molasses unit is modern in every way. In point of size, thoroughness and efficiency, it is first in this state and among the best in New England.
Make us a visit. You will be pleased to see the efficient up-to-date methods, the cleanliness and the care, which assure the safety of feeding feeds made in our plant.

THE VISIT IN NICARAGUA

On his good will tour to Central and South America Mr. Hoover has decided to make his first stop at Nicaragua. That decision is unquestionably a wise one. His plan is to put himself in close touch with a country in which we are particularly interested. That it is a small republic is no reason for ignoring it. That it is one where there has been much trouble and where we have undertaken at various times to give friendly assistance is probably the underlying reason for his decision.

It is known what the situation has been in Nicaragua, what this country was asked to do and what it has done. It is possible to obtain prompt and first hand information through our representatives there but there is no better time and no better way of demonstrating the interest on the part of the next administration than by such a personal contact as Mr. Hoover proposes. He will be able to get acquainted with the country and its people and to know its officials. He will unquestionably have something to say to them which will disclose his attitude relative to Nicaragua, and in view of what service has already been rendered there can be no question but what Nicaragua is going to be as deeply interested in the visit of Mr. Hoover as Mr. Hoover himself.

It is realized of course that there has been much criticism because of the policy which has been pursued by this country relative to Nicaragua. Much of it was the result of misunderstanding. Much of it has been upset as the result of developments. Much of it was without any foundation. There are always opportunities for differences of opinions and misrepresentation is ever abroad.

If Mr. Hoover utilizes this chance to so present his views as to break down wrongly held ideas and to strengthen the confidence in the altruistic attitude of the United States it will be in keeping with expectations. We have done much for Nicaragua for the sake of helping a little republic that needed help. Our object is open and above board and the president-elect's visit should be productive of only the best results for all concerned. Certainly Nicaragua will have reason to feel honored at the visit.

REAPPORTIONMENT

Had there been a close result in the recent election so that there were but a few votes difference in the electoral college trouble might have been expected because of the fact that there has been no reapportionmnt in congress as the result of the 1920 census. It would have been possible to have resorted to legal measures that might have been bothersome in the event of the electoral votes being so close that the change by reapportionment would have reversed the situation. It was made clearly evident election night that the possibility of trouble from that source had been taken care of by the voters. The outcome was so decisive that reapportionment would have made no difference.

And yet there are states which believe that they ought to have such representation in congress as their population under the last census entities them to. Efforts to bring about reapportionment have been repeatedly made. Each time they encountered difficulty because the democrats opposed any change. The fact that it was called for by the Constitution has made no difference. There was an unwillingness to accept losses by the democrats and by those other states where population changes call for reduced representation. This made it impossible to get the necessary votes to put through the change that is demanded by law.

According to the manner in which plans are being made at the present time it can be expected that there will be a renewal of the demand for reapportionment when congress resumes its work next month. Congressman McLeod of Michigan has been a relentless backer of this action. He has had support in the past but not enough to overcome the opposition. With the presidential election over there are not the same objections that there have been in the past. There will have to be another reapportionment within a few years but there are eight states which are entitled to increased representation. Some care for it more than others, but congressional leaders agree that the requirements of the law should be met whoever is affected. It is a matter which rests with congress which is certain to have a busy short session.

HANDLING THE BOLTERS

It is inevitable that interest should attach to the action that is taken in regard to the bolters among the members of congress in the two political parties. As it happens there are two in each. Senators Norris and Blaine, always rated as insurgents, broke away from the republican party and actually threw their support to the democratic candidate. Senators Simmons and Heflin, democrats, did the same thing.

In recent years it has been the disposition of the republicans to deal more severely with such recalcitrants. At the opening of a recent session of congress republican insurgents were read out of the party, denied places on committees and soundly spanked for their conduct in giving support to the enemy. It appears to have its good effects later on for there was a change of attitude on certain of these and the ban was lifted. Now the group of insurgents is less powerful. The republican majority does not depend upon them, or will not after the fourth of March. Norris and Blaine have hurt themselves more than they have injured the republicans. They failed to have any effect upon the outcome in Nebraska and Wisconsin. Norris has nothing to show for the fact that he came out for Smith and neither has Blaine. Their own constituents repudiated their efforts. They stand humiliated as the result of the course they adopted and their prestige must necessarily suffer. Possibly the republicans will figure that it would be quite as well to ignore them the same as was done by the voters which the senators thought they controlled.

On the democratic side there has not been the disposition to deal so harshly with those who have transgressed. Senator Wheeler it will be remembered deserted the party to run for vice president on the progressive ticket with LaFollette but after the contest was over he was welcomed back with open arms. Possibly that is what will be done with Simmons and Heflin, and yet conditions were not quite the same in the respective cases although it may be figured that the least said the soonest mended everything considered.

THE EARLY CASE

In view of the publicity which he has gotten in the past and the restraint that has been placed upon him as a protection to others, it is fitting that John Early should now be discharged from the National Leper home in Louisiana as cured.

Opinions have differed as to whether Early had leprosy. There were doctors who maintained that he was suffering from that disease. Others took a contrary view. Early was, however, required to submit to treatment. He gained added attention from the fact that he ran away, later because his wife sought divorce because of desertion while he was hiding from the authorities and again when he was returned to the colony.

Possibly the dispute will continue as to whether Early had leprosy, but it is a fact now that those who maintained that he had the disease are convinced that it has been cured. He is once more a free man and until it can be shown to the contrary must stand as an example of what can be accomplished with chaulmoogra oil.

A disease that was once believed to have no cure can be conquered. It makes much difference whether treatment is given in early stages as to whether a cure can be effected or the disease checked. In either instance there is benefit for the person afflicted. The treatment holds out hope for the stricken and assures protection to the general public. This is by no means the only case where chaulmoogra oil has accomplished a cure, but the Early case must serve to demonstrate the wisdom of the course pursued in this instance. It is evident that the Early case has yielded to the treatment given.

THE SCHUBERT CENTENARY

In view of his contributions it is not surprising that there is widespread observance this week of the 100th anniversary of the death of Franz Schubert. He may not rank among the greatest of the German composers but his work has made a deep impression and a world wide circle of friends. It is being interpreted constantly by the great orchestras and it is certain to have a lasting place among the great compositions. It has been well said that it is to him that we owe "the introduction of music of a particular quality of romance, a particular addition of strangeness to beauty." His melodies have an appeal and are characteristic of the man who is referred to as the poet of music.

Schubert died 100 years ago, November 19, 1828. His life was a short one, death having taken him away when he was but 32 but that short life was crowded with suffering, hardships and humiliations. And yet during it all he was able to produce those wonderful compositions that still awaken so much admiration and bring so much pleasure.

In spite of all his handicaps and misfortunes he had a sunny disposition and this is ever reflected in his music to which he was devoted. He had the benefit of a circle of attractive men whom he attracted by his accomplishments and manner and to whom he must have been a great delight. One in his circumstances and suffering as he did might have given expression to it in his music. Not so with him. Rather did he display the opposite inclination. He could not cover up his happy disposition and he didn't try. Because of it his compositions, which yielded him only slight compensation, have gained their prominence and lasting recognition.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: It is not simply those who like red that should help the Red Cross.

"President on War," says a headline but that is far different from being on the warpath.

Save a life by being careful at railroad crossings and by refusing to run your auto engine in a closed garage.

There are 283 Americans who have incomes of a million or better. There's no harm in trying to make it 284.

That doctor who says men should wear less clothing in winter probably refers to those who are already wearing heavy overcoats with the collars turned up.

With Messrs. Smith and Roosevelt both going south right after election, some attention is being given to the democratic break in that part of the country.

HIS BIRTHDAY GIFT.

Mary St. John O'Shea disappeared into the chaste solitude of her 5 by 6 boudoir and emerged in the garish livery of Omara the Infallible. The change was truly amazing. She had entered the walled corner of the tent marked "Private. Keep Out!"—a maiden whose drooping mouth and badly assorted freckles were totally lacking in appeal: she returned bewitching. It wasn't entirely costume that did it, although that helped. It was the fact that Mary's pathetically plain face was concealed, all but the eyes and forehead, behind a mystic veil, and Mary had piercing black eyes and a beautiful brow.

Before the sideshows were opened for the day, Mary had business to attend to. She drew fro munder the shawl-draped divan, on which, in an attitude she deemed appropriately oriental, she sat for eight hours a day and told fortunes, her savings of three years. They had been long, hard years, and Mary cherished these savings as so much insurance against lonely old age. Mary was, if the truth be known, a bit of a miser. By dint of careful self-denial she had saved $500.

Mary had only time to recount her hidden treasure and do her simple bookkeeping when the voice of the barker outside announced that the shows—need it be remarked that they were, like the biz show in the main tent, the greatest on earth? — were open. It was Mary's boast that she was always ready on time. She sat, chin in hand, listening to the voice of the siren:

"Don't miss having your fortune told, ladies and gents. You can believe what Omara tells you of the future. Time and again high-born ladies and gents, with big limousines parked outside, have come in to consult Omara." They listened to what she said, and later on they come back just to tell her how it all come true, and how they wished they'd believed her in the first place. Remember, ladies and gents she's infallible. Infallible."

Funny thing about the spiel of the barker was that it was true. They did come back. Omara had an uncanny prescience. Infallible? Funniest thing of all, Omara was beginning to believe it herself.

The boy with the little cough shambled into the tent of Omara, slumped down on the stool to which the oracle waved him, and stuck out his paw. Omara considered him with a practiced eye. But anybody who has ever been within 500 yards of a police court could tell his fortune.

She started to speak, but the words stuck in her mouth. Something maternal welled up in her lonely heart and stuck in her larynx. He was so young and so hopeless.

Now Omara had professional pride, as already had been pointed. It went sadly against her grain to besmirch her reputation for accurate and conscientious seering. But somehow she just couldn't—simply could not — tell this boy the truth. He seemed such a baby, and—well there was something about him that reminded her.

"You are going," said Omara, biting her lips, "to strike it rich soon. Your hard luck is nearly at an end. Avoid temptation and a sudden windfall will come your way."

The boy smiled at her, comforted. She knew it was all humbug, but he, the poor lamb swallowed it whole, and when he had gone her bright black "oriental" eyes moistened as she thought of him.

After the long hours of prophesying good and evil, dark women and light ladies, sea voyages and automobile trips (a modern touch), Omara turned herself once again into Mary St. John O'Shea and set out for a bit of air and exercise before going to bed.

There was a large moon and she wandered farther than she did most evenings, rant romantic. She indulged in a hundred ifs and make-believes. Soon she had wandered to the edge of the town where the girders of a big steel bridge loomed up ahead in the moonlight like the legs of a giant spider. She walked out to look at the river glistening below. Suddenly, in the darkness, she heard a peculiar sound. Startled, she held her breath. It sounded like somebody snoring. It was somebody snoring.

She knew him as soon as she caught sight of him lying in the shadows next to the bridge. It was the boy with the cough. He looked peaceful as he slept, but he was so thin, so uncared for, so down and out.

Rapidly Mary retraced her steps to the tent of Omara, as rapidly was once more at the side of the sleeping boy. She placed something in his hand and fled.

And soon Omara the Infallible was back at her bookkeeping. But there was no more savings to count.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Plans of President-elect Herbert Hoover for a good will pilgrimage of his own to Latin-America before his inauguration, via the battleship Maryland, were interesting at Washington, mighty interesting from several points of view. But of far more interest to the capitol city, socially and commercially speaking, was disclosure of the Hoover notions on what his inauguration itself should be like.

His edict was awaited with bated breath. After a half century of such functions tuned to a scale of elaborate pomp and ceremony, Washington's socially elect and the city butchers, bakers and candlestick makers are fed up on the era of inaugural simplicity that came in with Harding, was rendered even more frugal by Coolidge and which has all but struck off the date books Washington's one great quadrennial fiesta.

Inaugural Hopes.

Unofficial Washington never did like that old myth about Jefferson having just jogged up to a hitching rack, tied his horse and then walked up to the capitol to take his oath of office as president simple and easy as you please.

For one thing, it never happened that way, and for another, it would be a very bad precedent in the eyes of Washington's civic organizations if it had. They want their day in the sun, both for sentimental and highly practical, dollars and cents, reasons. The last full whack they got at inaugural splendor was the first Wilson installation.

What local lights like John F. Colladay, republican national committeeman for voteless Washington and Samuel J. Prescott head of the republican district committee, were prompt to say when Hoover's election was assured was that they hoped he would be more liberal as to the scope and show of his inaugural ceremonies than their previous acquaintance with him would forecast.

They had in mind no doubt, revival of the once famous inaugural ball. Also, return of immaculate and starchy West Point cadet corps and the middies from Annapolis to the inaugural parade scene their only public appearance for many, many years, would be desirable, and other past glories in proportion.

Jefferson's Ceremony.

Chances did not seem very good as this was written that Mr. Hoover would display sympathy toward revival of inaugural stage effects discarded a dozen years ago. If he should do so, he could hark back to that very Jefferson of mythica, simplicity of installation by way of justification.

The Virginia cavalier history records, planned to make the trip from his lodgings on New Jersey avenue, hardly a stone's throw from the east steps of the capitol where the Hoover inauguration will take place, behind a spanking team of four handsome bays ordered from his home, Monticello, for the purpose. His kinsman, "Jacky" Eppes, failed to get through with the team in time, it being a three day journey, so Jefferson walked the hundred yards or so, escorted by friends, saluted by a paraded company of riflemen and "entered the capitol under a discharge of artillery," according to the National Intelligencer of that date.

Gonorrhea May Cause Blindness, Babies May Be Safeguarded

(By S. A. Agatston, M. D., New York City.)

Blindness has already been greatly reduced by preventive or prophylactic medicine. Of the great number of cases of blindness, one-third to one-half are caused by early infections of the new-born. Gonorrhea is responsible for approximately 40 per cent of these infections.

Other germs besides the gonococcus may cause conjunctivitis of the new-born. Amongst the most prominent of these are: Staphylococcus, aureus and albus, staphylococcus pyogenes, pneumococcus, bacillus coli communis, micrococcus catarrhalis, etc.

Before birth, inflammation of the eye may be caused by a diplococcus or staphylococcus. It is very unusual for any but the gonorrhoic infection to cause destruction of sight by ulceration of the clear part of the eye over the pupil. Hence, phophylactic treatment is directed mostly against this dread disease.

During pregnancy the mother should be examined by her physician at frequent intervals to make sure that she follows proper sanitary rules and is free from infection.

Infection may enter the baby's eyes possibly during labor but more likely two or three days after labor. The first sign of disease is a slight discharge from the eyes and pasting together of the lids. Within two or three days after the onset of the trouble, the lids show a very marked swelling, so that the child cannot open its eyes. On opening the lids forcibly, yellow pus extrudes.

In treatment, our main concern is to prevent ulceration of the cornea, which is the clear interior surface of the eye. The doctor always bears in mind the possibility of this infection, and makes use of the so-called "Crede method" of instilling a weak silver nitrate solution into each eye immediately after birth. The acute stage of the disease may last five days to two weeks, depending on when proper treatment was instituted. The total destruction of the disease is three to eight weeks, according to the severity of the infection.

Sight is unquestionably the most important sense, as without it the human being is helpless and dependent. How unfortunate is the individual who grows to adult life with conceptions formed through other senses and who never has a chance to see the beauty and wonders of nature. What a handicap to normal mental development! For this reason, it is our duty to give the new born baby the greatest care in order to conserve the sense of sight. Unfortunately, it is not always possible.

Stories That Recall Others

A Weather Report

George had just hurried home from kindergarten through the cool, crisp air. His mother opening the door to admit him ventured the remark, "It's pretty cool outside, isn't it?"

With the gravity of a seer giving the latest weather reports, he replied: "Oh, about 20 disease."

Confident

During the summer two elderly men were sitting at a bathing beach.

"I haven't been in the water for 20 years, but I believe I could swim just as well as I could then," said Mr. A.

"Oh, come now," replied his friend "You're spry enough, but it's absurd to say you could go in the water and swim as well as you could in the old days."

"I feel confident I could," persisted the white haired veteran. "I couldn't swim at all then and I guess I could do that well enough now."

Mr. Possum Shows Off His Tail

By Thornton W. Burgess

That good for you, with me might fail;
Each needs his own peculiar tail.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

Rusty the Fox Squirrel was feeling better now. He was outside that hollow tree in which he had been trapped by the Possum whose home it was. He was outside and so no longer worried. Now fear had given way to curiosity. Yes, indeed, fear had given way to curiosity. He was curious about that tail that Mr. Possum possessed. He was so proud of his own tail and he found it so useful that he couldn't imagine Mr. Possum's queer tail with no hair on it as being useful at all. Back in the Green Forest, from which Rusty had made a long journey, he had met Unc' Billy Possum, but never had been really acquainted with him. He had never noticed Unc' Billy much. He hadn't noticed him enough to wonder at all about Unc' Billy's tail, which was exactly lik the tail of the Mr. Possum whom he had just met. So Rusty had been asking questions.

Now, Mr. Possum had recovered from his anger over having had his home occupied by Rusty and had listened with some amusement to Rusty as he bragged about his own beautiful tail. "Your tail many suit you, Mr. Squirrel," said he, "but Ah wouldn't have such a tail as that. Ah don't jump from tree to tree, so Ah don't need anything to balance me. Ah don't sit up to eat, so Ah don't need a tail to shut off the wind. Ah wouldn't have such a tail as yours if Old Mother Nature would give it to me. Ah wants a tail that is useful and Ah reckon that is the kind of a tail Ah has."

Rusty looked at that bare, tapering tail, and for the life of him he couldn't see of what possible use it could be. He said so. Mr. Possum's small eyes twinkled.

"Ah will show you," said he. "Yo' see that tree right over there. That's a persimmon tree. Ah's right fond o' persimmons. Yo' watch me get some of those persimmons."

Mr. Possum climbed down from the tree in which he and Rusty were sitting and leisurely went over to the persimmon tree. Up this he climbed. By and by he got out to where the branches were small. They bent under his weight. Rusty began to wonder if Mr. Possum wasn't in danger of falling. Then he made a discovery. That queer tail was wrapped around one of those small branches. It was wrapped around that branch tightly. Mr. Possum let go with both his forefeet and reached out to pick a persimmon. He didn't fall, because he was held in place by that tail. He picked the persimmon and ate it. He smacked his lips over it. Then he discovered a particularly nice presimmon hanging from a branch a little below it. He couldn't reach it, although he tried. Then he did what to Rusty was an astonishing thing. He let go entirely with his forefeet and hung head down, so that he had hold of that branch only with his hindfeet and his tail. Rusty saw right away how very handy that tail was. He even let go with one hindfoot. Then he reached and stretched and stretched and reached until finally he got hold of that persimmon. Then he pulled himself back upon that branch. He looked over at Rusty.

"It's a splendid tail," replied Rusty.

"I wish I had a tail like it."

Mr. Possum gave a pleased sort of chuckle. "Yo' wouldn't like it," said he. "It is all right fo' me, but yo' wouldn't have any use for it. The kind of a tail yo' need, you've got. The kind of a tail Ah need Ah have. But don't make fun of anybody's tail. Find out about things before yo' make fun of them."

This, I think you will agree, was very good advice.

Little Talks on Thrift

Waste Through Traffic Delays.

We are indebted to Mr. A. M. Barber of the National conference on street and highway safety for some data that gives a hint as to the vast losses sustained by the public through traffic delays. He finds for example that in downtown Boston delays in traffic cost the community $24,500,000 a year in addition to losses from accidents which approximate $2,000,000 a year. Chicago's loss is approximately $220,000,000 a year and New York's tribute to traffic problem is more than $350,000,000 a year or approximately $1,000,000 a day.

Mr. Barber concludes that $2,000,000,000 a year is a conservative estimate of the nation's bill for traffic delays. This figure does not of course include losses from accidents which must run high into the millions of dollars.

There is, however, another side to the picture for as Mr. Barber points out, "San Francisco found that its new traffic code resulted in reductions of accidents ranging from 30 to 40 per cent in the records of companies operating 50, 100 and 400 motor vehicles. One street railway company reported a reduction of 74.7 per cent in pedestrian accidents. A saving of $2,000,000 a year in the cost of automobile accidents is being made for San Francisco motorists. Los Angeles reports an increase of 30 per cent in the movement of street traffic after revising its regulations."

It is generally agreed that the traffic situation is one of our great problems. Few of us have thought of it, perhaps, in such definite terms of dollars and cents. But the figures here quoted give an idea of the heavy financial drain which these conditions are imposing on the public.

It is a matter, therefore, not only of public safety and convenience but of public thrift that traffic problems be taken up with vigorous attention. There is not an urban community in the United States or Canada today that is without a serious traffic problem.

Thrifty communities will make a serious study of their traffic situations, for in doing so, they will effect a tremendous saving of money and prevent accidents that are costly to life and limb.

A Substitute for Dieting

PARTICULAR people do frown on those who "pick and choose" at the table. A "diet" is often embarrassing and always a hardship. And nine times out of ten it is unnecessary.

Try this simple experiment; see if that "indigestion" doesn't disappear from the very hour you first take Pape's Diapepsin. To restore good digestion just eliminate excess acid. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders. You may have decided that nothing could give you a "strong" stomach; just make the diapepsin test!

BUILDING LOAN VOTES TO OPEN NEW SERIES

At the regular meeting of the board of management of the Norwich Building and Loan association Tuesday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms, which followed the shareholders' meeting, it was voted to open the 28th series of shares in January, 1929, and President E. O. Rodier was empowered to appoint a committee to arrange for the issue of this series.

At the shareholders' meeting, applications were received for mortgage and shareholders' loans, which were referred to the board of management, and in turn referred by the board to the appraisers.

DEFENSE CONTENDS HEART DISEASE NOT INJURY WAS DEATH CAUSE

Testimony to support the claim that heart disease and not injuries through being hit by an automobile was the cause of the death of Benjamin F. Bradford, 70, the hunchback crossing tender at John street in New London, was introduced by the defense in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon in the trial of a $10,000 suit against Maurice J. Druker of New London, driver of the machine which hit Bradford.

Bradford was hit by the machine on the night of Dec. 31, 1926, at Montauk avenue and Alger place. He died Feb. 14, 1927, and his son, Frank A. Bradford, as administrator, has brought the suit, which went on trial Tuesday morning before Judge John Richards Booth and a jury, of which the members are: Herbert W. Lucas, John P. Corcoran, David R. Kinney, Norwich; John F. Richardson, Erva L. Barnes, Russell M. Brand, Preston; Albert R. Button, Griswold; John Clarke, Lebanon; Clifford B. Thompson, North Stonington; Thomas Newman, Franklin; Thomas A. Day, Salem, and Albert R. Dawley, Voluntown.

Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, counsel for the plaintiff, brought to the stand Frank A. Bradford, the administrator, as the first witness and he was followed by Mrs. Lucy Bradford Bryant, daughter of Benjamin Bradford. Ralph James Talbot, a boy who took Mr. Bradford home after the accident, was the next witness and he was followed by the widow, Mrs. Eva J. Bradford.

Dr. Charles J. Satti testified to being called to see Mr. Bradford and finding him in a serious state of shock so that the doctor administered a stimulant with a hypodermic before he gave the man an examination. The doctor described injuries to Mr. Bradford's chest and leg and told how he treated him. The doctor also described Mr. Bradford's condition when he made a call on him in January and then when he was called to see Mr. Bradford on Feb. 14, the time Mr. Bradford died. The doctor gave it as his opinion that the death of Mr. Bradford was an acute heart attack, of which the accident was the premeditated cause. The doctor described the general physical characteristics of Mr. Bradford at the first time the doctor saw him. He said Mr. Bradford was humpbacked from curvature of the spine, had myocarditis, or a weak heart, collapsed chest wall, varicose veins in both legs, feet swollen and puffy and toes of the "claw hammer type." This was in March, 1925.

On cross examination Dr. Satti told of giving Mr. Bradford heart medicine at this time and said Mr. Bradford's heart weakness was such that he was liable to die at any time. He said that all the marks of injury from the accident were on the right side of Mr. Bradford's body.

Dr. Satti denied that he had told Dr. Kaufman, the medical examiner, about ten days ago that the accident was not the cause of Mr. Bradford's death, but the most he (Dr. Satti) could say was that the man steadily declined after the accident.

Attorney Hull put in as an exhibit the photostatic certified copy of the report on the accident made by Mr. Drucker to the state motor vehicle department, after which the plaintiff rested.

Dr. Charles Kaufman, medical examiner in New London, was the first witness called by the defense. The medical examiner's official report on the death of Mr. Bradford was produced, signed by Dr. Kaufman, which gave the cause of death as acute dilitation of the heart with chronic myocarditis as secondary. Dr. Kaufman testified that Dr. Satti told him he thought Mr. Bradford had made complete recovery from the accident injuries.

Court adjourned late in the afternoon after Dr. Kaufman had concluded his testimony and the trial will be resumed this (Wednesday) morning.

SPEAKERS ON IMMIGRATION AND AMERICANIZATION

Miss Bernice Willey and Mrs. Charlotte P. Gilman addressed the members of the local League of Women Voters at their meeting Monday evening. Miss Willey told of the work that is being done in classes in Americanization in the city and town. She encouraged the women to visit the night school to see the interest the classes take in their work. Miss Willey said she felt that there should be a closer contact between the foreign people and Americans in order to help the foreign people to become better citizens.

Miss Alif Stevens, the league president, called a short business meeting after Miss Willey's talk and the report of the treasurer showed an encouraging balance with which to start the league's year of activities. It was announced that Mrs. Earle Taggart will serve as the league's secretary for the coming year.

Mrs. Charlotte P. Gilman was the next speaker and spoke in her usual charming way on Immigration. On Dec. 17 the speaker will be R. L. Morrow, who will talk on The Progress of International Law. The meeting will be held in the evening in Slater hall annex.

A. ORNEY BENT ELECTED BRIDGEPORT PROBATE JUDGE

A former Norwich resident, Attorney William W. Bent, of Bridgeport, a faithful worker in the democratic party, was elected judge of probate by a large plurality in that city in the election. He graduated from Norwich Free Academy and was captain of the football team. After graduation from college Attorney Bent entered law offices in Bridgeport and has since lived in that city. He is a son of the late Martin F. Bent of this city and a brother of Francis P. Bent of New York, a then mayor of the city at one time.

SAYS CIVIC IMPROVEMENT FOLLOWS INN LOCATION

When Joseph A. Peck, vice president of the Consolidated Hotel Service, builders and operators of Treadway Inns, comes to town he always brings some interesting facts regarding the progress of towns in which Treadway Inns are operating said an official of the Norwich Inn Builders organization Tuesday. These facts are doubly interesting to Norwich people at this time, as they are on the threshold of the campaign which will doubtless assure a Treadway Inn as one of Norwich's civic assets in the very near future.

"It is quite true," said Mr. Peck, "that civic improvement follows the establishment of Treadway Inns. In Middlebury for instance, six major real estate operations carried through during the past year are directly traceable to the establishment of the Middlebury Inn. It is an interesting fact, substantiated by the evidence in hand, that the proprietor of one of the two hotels in that town was able to sell his property, which had been on the market for a number of years, only after the Middlebury Inn had opened for business. He succeeded in getting his price too and it is equally interesting that his successor is operating the old hotel and is doing a fine business.

"When the inn came there, the second of the two hotels was purchased by the Inn corporation, renovated and used particularly to house the help, but our growth has been so rapid and the demands for additional guest space so insistent that further improvements were made and now some of our guests are housed therein.

"Experience in Middlebury has demonstrated that the Inn has brought the town into the limelight in no uncertain way. It draws people and people spend their money in Middlebury to the advantage of the local merchants. The Middlebury Inn is a strong social magnet, being used more and more for the social affairs of the townspeople and the college set, students and faculty alike.

"I have the authority of a man who successfully operates a bureau in New York for the sale of Vermont real estate, farms and summer homes that six farms he has but recently sold in Addison county would not have been sold were it not for the near presence of the Middlebury Inn. The architect of an operation being carried on for a wealthy Cleveland man who has bought and is developing a beautiful country place of 1500 acres on the mountains east of Middlebury informed me that the presence of the Inn had much to do with his determination to locate at this particular spot.

"You may not know it, but William Hazlet Upson, the short story writer in the Saturday Evening Post, who writes about the Success of the Worm Tractor salesman, has used Middlebury for the scenes of some of his stories. Since the advent of the Inn he has bought a place seven miles east of the town and fitted it up as a beautiful summer home.

"Two real estate operations involving twelve acres near the college are being developed along highly restricted lines, limited to twenty building lots that will be devoted entirely to residential uses. This property will be landscaped with serpentine drives and many other features that are expected to attract a highly desirable type of summer residents.

"F. D. Abernethy proprietor of a department store in Burlington, Vermont, told me that he regarded the quality and tone of the Middlebury Inn as distinctly educational, offering an opportunity to live in an atmosphere of great advantage. He has felt the benefit of attracting a high grade class of buyers to his store and finds that he has many of his best and biggest accounts with families outside of Vermont who have sojourned at the Middlebury Inn."

What is true of Middlebury and other localities housing Treadway Inns can surely be true of Norwich, declares Mr. Peck. Merchants here may feel much encouraged at the prospect of improved conditions that seem of certain assurance when the Norwich Inn is a fact.

WAS BRIDESMAID AT HER CLASSMATE'S WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Laura E. Belden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Belden of Hatfield, Mass., and Alfred B. Howard, also of Hatfield, took place there last Saturday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Albert P. Watson of the Congregational church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anna H. Belden, as maid of honor, and Miss Marjorie E. Coates of Niantic, Conn., a former classmate, as bridesmaid. George H. Howard, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man and Little Joyce Belden, three years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison R. Belden, and a cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Two Counts Against Auto Driver

James Lee Johnson, 21, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on charges of driving without a driver's license or auto registration. The case was continued until Wednesday in order to allow him time to secure the license and registration which he claims he has at his home in New York. He was stopped by Officer Peter Vuone at Thames square Monday night for not having his lights turned on, and the officer learned that he did not have a license or registration with him.

GOT SIX OUT OF BURNING AUTOMOBILE

Two sailors, stationed at the United States submarine base at Groton, were placed under arrest Tuesday morning by Sergeant Albright of the state police and held on charges of taking an automobile without permission of the owner, reckless driving and evading responsibility. They are Ernest Ford and John Dudinyak, assigned to the U. S. S. Camden. The accused will be arraigned in the Waterford town court.

The sailors were involved in an accident near Lake Konomoc early Sunday morning. Robert Hanson of No. 345 Garden street, Hartford, probably saved the lives of a half dozen persons in one of the cars by his quick action. Mr. Hanson was driving through on the Salem-New London turnpike in his own car when he witnessed the crash which occurred between a Packard, which had been stolen in New London, and in which the sailors were riding, and a Chevrolet with New York state markers, in which six persons were riding. The Chevrolet was wrecked and the occupants unable to get out until Hanson broke a handle off one of the doors and aided in getting the people out of the car. The car had started to burn and the imprisoned occupants were suffering severely from the fumes which were rapidly filling the closed car. The rescued New York people were attended by physicians living not far from the scene of the accident. The New York car was owned by Michael P. Bologna and operated by Michael Poppo of New York.

The sailors abandoned the stolen car immediately after the smash-up and disappeared. One of them, however, forgot his cap, which was discovered by the police in the car. The police finally succeeded in locating the owner of the cap, who happened to be Ford, and it was subsequently learned that the other man was in his company when the accident occurred, according to a report filed by the state police.

All cases arranged on or before said meeting will be considered as assigned for trial Nov. 28, without further notice.

Boy's Head Scorched

A small son of Michael Froscello had the hair scorched off the right side of his head, Tuesday afternoon, as the result of a fire at his home, No. 93 School street. The fire department received a call for assistance at 5:02 o'clock and responded. It was learned that the boy had secured matches and set fire to the mattress, which was burned. There was little damage. The building is owned by Catherine Frascelli.

Continuance In Automobile Case

When Robert Pizzo, 23, of R. F. D. No. 1, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of failure to grant the right of way the case was continued until December 4, pending the recovery of Jacob Filan of Franklin, who is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital. Filan was injured Monday morning when a machine driven by Pizzo collided with his truck at the corner of Sachem and Washington streets.

Bread Truck on Fire

The bread motor truck owned by the General Baking Co., Albert Burdick, operator, was discovered ablaze at 6:05 o'clock Tuesday morning, in front of 197 Main street, and an alarm was dispatched to the fire department, which responded. The cause of the blaze was found to have been due to gas dripping from the tank onto the hot exhaust pipe. The damage was slight.

FAST GAME EXPECTED TONIGHT WHEN WHIRLWINDS MEET PLAINFIELD

Basketball fans who attend the Plainfield Pros-Boston Whirlwinds game at the Plainfield Community house this evening will see the cream of the New England basketball teams in action. Boston has a team that has been ranked high for several years while the Plainfield team has been a

Tonight's game marks the first meeting of the clubs this season and Plainfield enters the encounter with high hpes of getting the jump on the Beaners in this initial contest. A victory tonight will give Plainfield an edge on the Wihrlwinds that will be hard to overcome in games later in the season. Plainfield is pointing toward the New England championship as its objective for this season and indications at the present give the Plainfield club better than an even break to cop it. Opening their season against the Detroit team captained by Johnny Beckman the Pros got off on the right foot and in so doing gave the fans an insight into what may be expected during the coming season.

Plainfield has one of the best balanced teams ever to represent the little mill town. It is fast, every man a star, and is playing in mid-season form. Kasper and Brusso, the midget forwards, give Plainfield as strong a forward line as any team in New England. Whitey Bernot in the pivot position for Plainfield gives the Pros one of the best centers in the country. Roy Dissinger and Tisdell in the guards are as god as any playing in New England. Dissinger showed his ability last week when he held the mighty Beckman to one field basket.

As usual Boston is depending on its two stars, Leo Martin and Fiddle Morley, to carry them through to victory. Supporting these nationally known players are Crotty, Kiley and Riorden who round out a snappy aggregation.

Thep reliminary which goes on at 7:30 brings together the Buddies and the C. L. A. A. team of Danielson. The big game starts at 9 o'clock and dancing will follow.

ACADEMY PUT THROUGH STRENUOUS SESSION

Preparations for the Academy-Bulkeley game Saturday at the campus got underway in earnest in both camps Tuesday. At the campus Coach Courtland Whitney sent his men through a long drill, their first one of the week while at Tercer Field a hard drill was on after a lighter session on Monday afternoon.

The Academy is guarding against over-confidence as work goes on for the most important game of the year. The stiff practice is expected to continue through today (Wednesday) and Thursday with Friday witnessing but very light signal work.

The Academy is brushing up on its formations, and it is reported that the locals have some new ones to uncover against the Tigers. Twice in the Stonington game the locals pulled off new plays, one a lateral pass and the other a triple pass. Whether these will see action against Bulkeley is not known.

Coach William R. Canty stressed interference and is preparing for the possibilities of a wet field. Bulkeley has shown a tendency to fumble this year and extra preparations are to be made to remedy that situation.

A few Bulkeley cripples are back in harness after layoffs and Bulkeley is practically sure of presenting a full front. The Academy, in the past few games, has come through unscathed after a succession of injuries in the early part of the season so that the Wildcats will also be in full force.

Bulkeley has formed a 30 piece band and it is expected that it will be at the campus on Saturday to help on the Tigers. A large cheering section will also be on hand for Bulkeley while it is fairly certain that hundreds of townspeople will come up for the renewal of this great old rivalry.

The Academy has no band as yet but the cheering section, which has awakened in the past few games will be in action on the week end. A "pep" rally will be held at the school Friday.

This game closes the season for both teams so that there will be no plays to cover up, each club letting out its entire catgory of formations for this battle.

HAGEN APPOINTED LEADER OF RYDER CUP TEAM

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 20—(AP)—Walter Hagen was endorsed by the Professional Golfers' association of America today to captain the United States Ryder cup team of professional golfers which will go to England next spring for the biennial meeting with the Great Britain team.

The honor went to Hagen when Leo Diegel, who defeated the former P. A. A. titleholder, demurred in favor of him. Notwithstanding the fact that he took the national pro championship from Hagen after the latter held it for four consecutive years Diegel said he considered Walter the logical man to head the American team.

Gaeen was captain of the American outfit that defeated the Britons in this country last year.

The association also recommended a list of twelve leading professionals of the United States from which the American team, numbering ten members, will be selected. In addition to Hagen and Diegel, they are: Gene Sarazen, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Farrell, William Klein, Billy Burke and John Golden, all of New York; Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., Al Espinosa of Chicago; Ed Dudley of Los Angeles and Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Final choice of the team members will be made in April.

J. B. Mackie, Inwood, New York, secretary, said that more than half the money necessary to defray the expenses of the Ryder cup team has been raised.

The association will meet in Atlanta, Ga., next year.

National Hockey League

A Challenge

The Lions challenge the team of Troop I of the Boy Scouts for this Wednesday afternoonat Chelsea parade. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Last week-end finished the grid season for two Eastern Connecticut schools, Windham and Plainfield, and the coming week-end marks finis for some more, notably, Chapman Tech, the Academy and Bulkeley, Westerly, Stonington, Putnam and Killingly end things Thanksgiving.

Bacon academy was the first school in this section to break out with basketball practice, when work started Monday. The Colchester school lost three stars from its 1927-28 team, that beat the Academy twice, but anticipates another good year.

This winter, which will open the new conference to basketball should see more activity among the high schools in this section than in many years. The Academy, Windham, Stonington and Chapman Tech are sure of court teams and there is a possibility that Westerly and Bulkeley also may play after a lapse at the court game for a few years.

Hartford-New Britain and Academy-Bulkeley are without a doubt the feature grid attractions in the state this week-end.

The cross-country season in this Westerly undoubtedly the champion, section is practically finished with Westerly undoubtedly the champion. Westerly carries the hopes of the conference to Newark Thanksgiving that she will be victorious.

ACADEMY vs BULKELEY

This is the first of a series of three stories concerning the principals in the Academy-Bulkeley football classic Saturday at the campus. Today's deals with the teams in general, tomorrow's will touch on their records this season and Friday's with past Bulkeley-Academy games.

Any Academy fan who will go to the campus Saturday cocksure of an overwhelming victory had better tone down his feelings. Bulkeley, while admittedly the weaker team on paper this year, has in years past been known to make it quite interesting for the Academy.

This year's Bulkeley team is some what of that kind of an aggregation. Bulkeley has been badly manhandled by some of the supposedly weaker teams in the state, with last week's 19 to 0 defeat by Ansonia being quite a setback.

Bulkeley can make its season at least not a complete failure by beating the Academy Saturday and that is what the Whalers will be after. Since it became certain that Bulkeley would have no chance at any title this year the New London boys have set their heart on the Norwich game, determined to get some measure of satisfaction. A victory Saturday would be quite sweet to the New Londoners, all the more so because of their dismal doings to date in the campaign.

Bulkeley lost Frank Locke by graduation and Locke, it will be remembered was their mainstay in the 1927 Academy game, his spectacular punting being practically the entire Bulkeley offense. To be true, the Academy has no real kicker this year and Bulkeley, even with her weakness occasioned by the loss of Locke still may be able to better the Academy.

The Academy has done well so far this year. Of the three games lost two were by one point and the other by two touchdowns to Hartford, admittedly one of the strongest outfits in Connecticut. The Academy has hardly played a bad game of football and on one or two occasions has been very good. With a man to convert the extra-point the average number of times, probably the academy's record would be but one loss in eight games.

On pre-game dope, we would pick Jack Marks and Capt. Buck LaCroix of the Academy and Capt. Jim Waterson and probably Dayton or Northrup to star Saturday but it probably will be boys that have been little heard from to date that will supply the fireworks on the week end.

MARKS HEADS ACADEMY SCORERS WITH 54 POINTS

Jack Marks, the Academy's veteran fullback, leads his team in scoring by a great margin, having 54 of the 75 points on nine touchdowns. Marks has smashed opposing lines relentlessly all season and has practically been a sure bet to tally once in scoring position. That he deserves the leading scoring honors is not doubted by any because of his brilliant work this season. Chet Berzhinzo, end is next in scoring with two touchdowns. Red Fagan, halfback, has one and Captain Buck LaCroix, halfback the only point after touchdown in 13 tries.

That Marks will be a tough man for Bulkeley to stop Saturday seems to be the consensus of opinion.

| | TD | PA | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| Marks | 9 | 0 | 54 |
| Berzhinzo | 2 | 0 | 12 |
| Fagan | 1 | 0 | 6 |
| LaCroix | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| | 13 | 1 | x73 |

(x) For scored safety, making total points 75.

YOUNG STRIBLING HAS DIFFICULTY IN SECURING OPPONENTS TO BOX

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—If the heavyweights tethered in Tex Rickard's pastures show as little inclination to mix with each other as they have with Young Stribling, the southland's particular fistic pride, the current crop of elimination contests promise nothing but wide yawns and a general absence of customers.

The Georgian's hope of doing some work on the job of eliminating was blasted for a month at least by the New York state athletic commission today. Strib was destined to fight Jack Dorval in Madison Square Garden Friday night but inflammation of the joints put the Pennsylvanian out of action. A substitute was named in Andy Mitchell, of Long Beach, Cal., record and ability almost totally unknown to the fistic fathers.

Promptly, at their meeting today, the solons removed Mitchell from the calendar as an unsuitable opponent. During the removal it was revealed that none of the aspirants for Tunney's throne cared to mingle with the Macon youngster, a veteran at 23 of 233 battles 195 of them knockouts sprinkled through every division from the lightweights up. The bout was abandoned and Stribling must wait a month for Dorval to recover.

It seems as though a shot at Stribling, who knocked out Johnny Squires in two rounds where it took Johnny Risko ten to win a decision, failed to appeal to Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Sharkey, Knute Hansen, or any others considered in the top flight. Tommy Loughran would fight him but wanted more time for training and Tom Heeney has not yet returned to active work.

The Georgian, just now, is the favorite of many New York's cauliflower connoisseurs for one of the corner seats in the ring where the next heavyweight champion will be crowned. The wise money wagers that Jack Dempsey will be in the other, although even the old Manassa Mauler perhaps would rather not mingle with so much youth and power at this stage of the game. Jack prefers fighters of the Paulino or Heeney type, who prefer to stand up and slug.

These critics point out that Stribling, although he rarely has shown to advantage in New York, has an equal balance of acrobatic cleverness and punching power, 185 pounds of bone and muscle and the experience that only hundreds of bouts can give. He is still the schoolboy in appearance, unmarked, and he has been decisively beaten in a ring only by Paul Berlenbach.

The belief that Stribling was "burned out" early in a career that began when he turned 16 has been pretty much dispelled by the southerner's showing against Squires and Martin Burke, the New Orleans heavyweight who fought Tunney 35 rounds and trained Dempsey for several years. Gene never floored Burke, but Stribling twice knocked out the lanky redhead, once in 45 seconds and again in one minute and 15 seconds.

In many ways, Stribling's career has been the most fanciful in the history of boxing. From the moment he was born, his parents, "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling trained him for the ring and a career that was denied his father. At 3 1-2 years he was featured in vaudeville as an acrobat with his parents and for 12 years twisted and twirled on the rings and trapeze. He has performed in every state in the union, dozens of foreign countries, and was in Venezuela and Santo Domingo, while revolutions were on.

Full week stands in country towns eventually made diversion necessary in the act of the "Four Novelty Grahams," so "W. L." took to boxing exhibitions on the stage with his young brother, "R. H." He became so good around 1918 and 1920 that he began inviting youngsters onto the stage to box with them, promising to do no harm, and offering $10 to anyone who could knock him out. His sixteenth birthday present was his first professional ring contest.

So unsatisfactory have the preferences of the heavyweight workmen become to Tex Rickard that he is considering a brand new method of pairing the heavyweight candidates. The promoter wants the boxing fathers to put all the names in a hat and draw out the pairings. He has suggested it to the battlers but the sole supporter to date is himself.

CREEDON WILL NOT START AGAINST AGGIES

BOSTON, Nov 20—(AP)—Pat Creedon, who has been co-starring with Al Weston in the backfield of the undefeated Boston college football team this season, appeared to be definitely out of next Saturday's game with the unscored on Connecticut Aggies eleven today, when he became ill with the grip. Coach Joe McKennev indicated that he would take no chances with Creedon and would hold him out for the objective with Holy Cross on December 1.

Jack Kennedy second team back, was promoted to Creedon's place during today's practice session, during which McKeenev had his team run through every play it has had this season. Then he gave the Eagles four new plays for the Holy Cross game.

McKenney said he was not counting an expected opposition from the Connecticut Aggies and intended to have his team take the week-end's opponents in stride.

BOWLING MATCH AT TAFTVILLE POSTPONED

The return match between the Eastern Connecticut All Stars and the Peerless Five of New London scheduled for this evening at the Taftville alleys has been called off and will be played at a later date. The match was called off by the Peerless team as they were unable to get their regulars together for the game.

The Mohegans Win

The Mohegans defeated the Boy Scout troop, No. 1, at the Chelsea green, Tuesday afternoon, by scors of 15 to 6., for their seventh consecutive win. Geer Bamber and Whelden starred for the winners. Geer made the three touchdowns. The Mohegans challenge any team in the city averaging between 125 and 140 pounds per man. If challenge is accepted answer through this paper or call 1014.

CUMBERLAND RIVER HAS RETURNED TO ITS BANKS

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20—(AP)—With three persons dead and property damage in this vicinity estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000, the Cumberland river was receding late today after one of the worst rampages in its history, leaving a layer of mud from one to three inches thick.

Hundreds of families, forced from their homes by the flood; tonight were returning to repair the damages. In Pineville, the water had left the business district entirely and only portions of the low-lying residential sections were still inundated. In Harlan residents who passed the night in the courthouse on bedding donated by citizens returned to their homes. Roads in the section again were out of water and appeared little the worse for the flood. Railroad traffic, halted by landslides and washouts, was resumed.

In Pineville, water plant was out of commission due to the floor, and residents were forced to boil water for drinking or travel to the highlands for their supply. In all sections, however, reports said that the water was receding rapidly.

Search was continued near Tejay, Ky., today for the bodies of three men drowned when the ood carried away a bridge on which they were standing. The men, Lawrence Miles, Melvin Tatron and C. E. Taylor, were employes of the Harlan-Virginia Coal company.

Business was resumed in Middlesboro today after that city had gone through the biggest flood in 20 years. The loss there was estimated at $50,000. About 500 Middlesboro residents were driven from their homes and were cared for at the city hall and in churches and school buildings as well as in private homes.

NEW ZEALAND SWINGING AWAY FROM PROHIBITION

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Nov. 20—(AP)—Returns from last week's liquor referendum, were still incomplete today because all the absentee votes had not been counted, it was certain, however, that a majority of more than 200,000, double that of the first estimates, had been recorded in favor of continuing the licensing system.

There was some belief that the government of J. G. Coats, prime minister, which lost its parliamentary majority in the elections, suffered from the pro-the prohibitionist tendency of some of its supporters.

The licensing system has ben in existence in New Zealand for a number of years. The referendum on liquor is held regularly in connection with the general elections with three questions presented to the voters, namely:

1—National continuance of the liquor trade, or licensing.

2—Purchase and control of the [illegible]

3—National prohibition.

Previous reports on the liquor referendum in New Zealand which reached the Associated Press said that the question before the voters was on the continuance of prohibition, rather than a retention of licensing. Their accuracy was questioned; and the Associated Press is glad to send out this corrected account of the election.

COLLAPSED AS ABOUT TO MAKE AN ADDRESS

WATERBURY, Nov. 20—(AP)—Arriving at the First Congregational church tonight to deliver the second of a series of lectures on interpretations of the Bible, Rev. Dr. Charles Allen Dinsmore, professor of spiritual interpretation of literature of Yale Divinity school in New Haven, suddenly collapsed from what was unofficially given out as an attack of indigestion and was forced to call off his speaking engagement.

Dr. Dinsmore, who has been filling in as pastor of the First church for several weeks, in addition to his work at Yale, was taken to the home of Dr. C. H. Brown, where he will spend the night. Dr. Brown, refusing to give out details of the case at this time, assured interviewers that the professor was in no immediate danger.

LEILA TROLAND GARDNER KEPT BUSY IN NEW YORK

A friend who was with Mrs. Leila Troland Gardner in New York tells of the activities of that former Norwich resident. Sunday she sang at the Bowery Mission, making such an impression that the audience rose in a body and cheered her and she was obliged to sing 14 songs.

From there she hurried to the Waldorf, singing for the Opportunity club, before a distinguished audience, in compliment to Ruth Knapp, congresswoman, winning a most flattering reception.

Sunday evening, Mrs. Burnham, president of the Opportunity club, gave a dinner for Mrs. Gardner at her home, other guests being friends from California, Texas and New York state.

Friday evening, Mrs. Gardner is to sing for the Drama Comedy club, the president of which is Edith Totten, owner of the Edith Totten theatre.

BRUNDAGE ATTACKS COMMERCIALISM OF SPORTS IN OPENING ADDRESS

By F. G. VOSBURG.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Elected national president of the Amateur Athletic union today by unanimous vote of the 43th annual convention, Avery Brundage of Chicago threw down the gunlet to "commercialism in sport" before he had been in the chair two minutes.

In the state inauguration speech the stalwart middle-westerner, national all-around track and field champion a decade ago, strongly advocated "extending the hand of friendship toward" the colleges of the wester nconference and the National Collegiate Athletic association which have long been antagonistic to the A. A. U.

Turning first to the point of commercialism, shortly after he had been escorted to the platform by four past presidents of the organization, Brundage declared that "nowadays prominent athletes leaving college and preparing to join an athletic club adopt an attitude of how much am I going to get?"

"This attitude," he reiterated, "we should frown upon commercialism in sport should be stamped out."

Adding that even in the building industry with which he is connected men take less interest in their jobs and more in their pay envelopes than was once the case. The new president said "sport is the first place we should stamp out this growing menace in our national life."

The election of the former University of Illinois athlete to the leadership of the A. A. U. was seen as a move to gain the co-operation of the middle western groups. Murray Hulbert of New York had been president for the last four years and before that the office was held by the late William C. Prout of Boston for three terms. Brundage was nominated by the retiring president. His election was unanimous.

The right to play host to next year's convention also went to the middle west, St. Louis being selected without a dissenting vote although bids had also been received also from Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver, Los Angeles and West Baden, Ind.

Before the conclave of the amateur solons wound up with a general visit to a Broadway musical show a few minor championship events not decided upon yesterday were awarded to various sections and applications for alliances with the A. A. U. were received from three sports bodies.

The wrestling committees both Greco-roman and catch as catch can, went to New York together with the weight lifting which the German-American A. C. is desirous of staging. New York also received the senior four-wall and ice-wall handball while the senior and junior squash handball went to Los Angeles and volley ball to Rochester, N. Y.

Strangely enough the women's track and field competitions did not appear popular and both the indoor and outdoor meets were left orphans when the convention adjourned. They are still open for bids.

Of the organizations that sought alliances the international skating union of America was refused recognition as articles of alliance already have been signed with the Amateur Skating union of the United States. Petitions of the American Bicycle league and the billiard association were referred to the law and membership committee.

That the far west will not give up hope of a new pole vault record for Lee Barnes was indicated when Les Henry, Southern Pacific association delegate, received a telegram from Arthur W. Jones, Field Judge at the meet at Los Angles last April 28 where Barnes made his famous 14 feet 1¼ inches, declaring the pegs supporting the bar were the standard length. The application was referred back to Barns' home association by the convention yesterday after the record committee had heard five-inch instead of three-inch pegs were used.

The wire from Jones said this was a misunderstanding due to the fact that longer pegs were used for high school events at the same meet but that Herbert Hauss, referee of the games, had certified the pegs were the standard standard type when Barnes cleared the unheard of height.

SEARCH PARTY FOR HUNTER WHO DENIES HE IS LOST

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 20—After several hours' search of the cedar swamp adjoining Burden's pond, off the Westerly-Bradford road, Westerly policemen located a hunter, Peter Bernasconi, head gardener for the Smith Flower Shop residing at 13 West street. The rescue party was Town Councilman Farquhar Smith, and Police Officers Robert M. Kessel and George L. Madison. Going into the swamp at an early hour, it was expected that the man would return in the early forenoon and he not making his appearance at noon the search was begun. The sportsman's automobile was found by the roadside where he had left it when he proceeded with rubber boots and shot gun into the swamp. When found, the hunter was reported by the police as not admitting that he had become lost, but claimed he had been engaged in the pursuit of more game

Objection was raised by Jessie Wilson, a legatee, of the estate, who had since been married and for whom certain payments for apparel and expenses were questioned. In the absence of Attorney Dunn for the administrator and Attorney Roche for Jessie Wilson, Judge Burke continued the case two weeks.

RUBBISH IN BASEMENT SAID TO HAVE CAUSED FIRE

Shortly after 9:30 Tuesday morning a fire alarm was sounded from Box No. 34, Perkins avenue, in the northern section of Westerly, the cause given as smouldering rubbish in the basement of a house. In a short time the Ahrens-Fox pumper with Chief Egger and force of firemen was on the way followed by the Hook and Ladder truck and Seagraves pumper. Chief Egger had barely arrived when a second alarm was turned in and sounding from the whistle on the factory of Clyde Mills, Inc., caused the impression that a fire of large size was under way. The blaze was extinguished at the first arrival of firemen. In less than half an hour the fire apparatus was back in the Morobe garage, Main street, following a four-mile run.

RICHMOND MAN HELD IN CASE OF MISSING GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 20—Benny Haberek of Richmond, R. I., was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of Third District court Tuesday noon, charged with a statutory offense. On his plea of guilty he was found probably guilty and bound over to the February term of the superior court for Washington county. He was arrested by a state trooper from the Hope Valley barracks. The state police have been on the lookout for a missing 16-year-old girl.

WINE AND BEER FOUND IN RAID ON PIERCE ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 20—Armed with a search warrant, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown Tuesday noon visited the place of Angelo Sposato, 40 Pierce street, to search for contraband liquors. The search was rewarded by the finding of two 50-gallon barrels of wine, one 25-gallon cask and one 15-gallon and one 10-gallon cask of wine, together with 154 bottles of beer. By the number of empty bottles reported found about the premises, evidence was that much wet goods had been disposed of. Besides Chief Brown the raiding party included Officers George L. Madison, Robert M. Kessel and Frank E. Knight.

FUNERAL

Mrs. George Davison

The funeral of Mrs. George Davison was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home 25 Highland avenue. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, read the service.

HER FRIENDS SURPRISE FRANCES LIVINGSTONE

A surprise birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Livingstone for their daughter Frances. When the front door bell rang Hazel Trahan called out "Here we are!" and twenty-two of her friends came in. The room was quickly decorated, games were played. Ten took part in the fun of a donkey and Miss Mary Simson of Niantic won the prize. The Store Hill Ramblers' Four orchestra played for dancing and Charles Ellis, known as Charleston Charles did the Harvard Hop. Ted Grant and Miss Hazel Trahan played the violin, piano and banjo, all at the same time. They received a big hand from the guests. A large table was set with West View roast duck with dressing, a large birthday cake in the center of the table held 16 candles. The letters across the cake read "Good Luck to Frances." Miss Arleen Bentley had the honor to blow out the lights. Jack Larkin, in behalf of the guests, made a speech. At his feet was a large box, which he gave to Miss Livingstone for her birthday. It was a fitted bag that came from New York. She thanked the callers for the gift and was all smiles. She received many other presents. A large bunch of yellow flowers that came from Virginia was sent by a schoolmate of Miss Frances when she was a junior at W. M. S. The callers all sang "Three O'Clock in the Morning" before leaving for their homes.

PLUCKY SWIMMER DEVEAU CONQUERED BY THE COLD

Human Fish George Deveau wanted to try another long swim before putting away his green bathong suit for the winter in moth balls in the attic. So Monday afternoon at the north dock with a strong wind blowing and the water rough, a crowd of 75 was on the dock to see the Human Fish brave the November water. With plenty of grease, fully one and one-fourth inches thick on his body, rubbed on by his trainer, Mike Passi, it was 2:30 when he dove into the water for a swim of 3 miles to Fisher's Island. He was followed by Boat Call Again, Captain Smiling G. Mahan at the wheel. After covering two and one-half miles he was asked "How is the water?" "Not so bad—but the waves are hard to buck!" "Keep up the good work." Mate Billie Fitzgerald said. Making slow time battling hard with the waves Human Fish Deveau was in the water two hours. The sun was hidden all day by rain clouds. Darkness was coming over the water fast, but seeing the shore was one-half mile in sight, he started to let out; but it was no use, for he was weak and sick from swallowing salt water and fighting the heavy seas. He was forced to give up 600 feet from shore. He had to be pulled aboard the good ship Call Again by Listen in L. Sullivan and was in bad condition but a good cup of hot coffee soon straightened him out, although he was blue with cold. Said Human Fish Deveau, "Never again will I try a long distance swim in November! The best time is in August when the water is not rough!" He was given a big hand by those in the boat and for 10 minutes he was cheered for his good attempt in trying to reach the goal. He was in the water 4 hours and 10 minutes.

Frank Muse has returned from a short visit with friends in South Hadley Center, Mass.

For fundamental economy drive a Hupmobile . .

A MOTOR-WISE public looks today to Hupmobile for the identical principles that have made this name synonymous for 20 years with basic mechanical excellence and fundamental economy. They see in the trim and dashing new Century models unquestioned style leadership. But they note further a steadfast adherence to quality in every detail of design and manufacture. Hupmobile, for example, employs more than 1,000 heat treated parts in engine and chassis. Connecting rods are rifle-bored their full length for oil passage. Costly Lanchester vibration dampers insure a new smoothness to perfected Hupmobile high compression motors. In a score of ways Hupmobile engineering represents the Century's greatest advance in qualities making for long life and service. Know what is beneath the new outward beauty of the new Century Six and Eight before you reach a final decision on any new car.

Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom, on each line. Six of the Century list prices: $1345 to $1645, plus delivery charges. Century Eight list prices: $1825 to $2125, plus delivery charges.

DU PONT ROSE FROM 440 TO 503 AND CLOSED AT 492 IN WILD MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—With seemingly boundless confidence in the future of industrial America and bottomless bank funds the growing host of stock buyers again made the stock market surge and boil as never before today. The total volume of sales flirted with the 7,000,000 share mark more earnestly than ever before, and the hopelessly inadequate ticker toiled along about two hours late during most of the afternoon.

More than 50 issues were tossed to new high levels, four of the high priced shares skyrocketing from about 36 to 63 points, and two achieving the 500 mark for the first time. A wave of profit taking in the last hour, however, diminished most of the gains, and depressed a number of recent favorites 1 to 5 points below yesterday's closing prices. Total sales crossed the 6,000,000 mark for the second time, aggregating 6,617,500 shares, in contrast to the previous record of 6,714,000 shares made last Friday.

The phenomenal bull movement was stimulated by the extraordinary ease with which the market absorbed the tremendous profit taking sales yesterday. During today's session, however, a number of brokerage houses increased their margin requirements in apprehension of a technical reaction, which increased the profit taking.

The Associated Press average price of 20 industrials mounted 7.71 points to a record high at 252.67, and of 20 rails rose 2.51 points, to 155.30. The ticker did not print the final transaction until 5.42 p. m. the latest the ticker has ever run.

The day's news included an excellent 10-months' earnings statement from the Erie Railroad, which tended to accelerate a forward movement in the rails. The road reported for the first 10 months of about $8,000,000, in contrast to approximately $4,300,000 in the corresponding period of last year. Chrysler Corp. reported net for the first 9 months of nearly $22,000,000, in contrast to about $16,200,000 the same period of 1927. Call money was again in adequate supply at 6 1-2 per cent, all day.

Du Pont was the spectacular performer of the day as the extra dividend and 3 1-2-for-1 split up decided upon yesterday took full effect upon the public. It soared from 440 to 503, and closed at 492. Case Threshing climbed 51 points to 500 in buying influenced by more rumors of a 6-for-1 split, and closed at 494 3-4. International Harvester surged up 60 points to 394 3-4 and closed at 378 in buying stimulated by similar reports that it will acquire Massey-Harris Co. Ltd., a large farm implement company of Toronto which does practically a world-wide business.

General Electric Columbia Carbon, Curtiss and Wright Aeros, Johns-Manville, Keith Albee Orpheum shares, Liquid Carbonic, Republic Iron and Steel and Stromberg Carburetor closed 2 to 9 points higher after most had recorded new tops.

In the steels, U. S. soared 4 point, and Bethlehem yielded 2 points on realizing.

The commodity markets were somewhat firmer. Cotton closed 20 to 25 points higher on further advances at Liverpool and continued snow and cold in the belt. Wheat improved on reports of expanding export demand and corn on reports of a scarcity in Europe.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, with a premium of nearly a cent on the Canadian dollar sterling unchanged just above the gold point, and francs and lira easing slightly.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Nov 20.—(AP)—Corn advanced rapidly in price today and carried other grain along, with deferred deliveries of corn going to within half cent of the season's highest level. Trans-Atlantic estimates that Europe will require 129,000,000 bushels of United States corn of which only 84,000,000 bushels have been bought thus far, attracted widespread notice. flood reports from the southwest counting also as a bullish influence. Increased estimates of world needs of wheat were likewise at hand.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1 1-2 cent to 1 3-4 cent net higher, wheat 1-2 cent to 3-4 cent up, oats unchanged to 1-4 cent advance and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Upturns in the value of corn accompanied advices that Argentine appears now to be leaving the European corn market practically to this country, with no shipments of Argentine new corn expected to reach Europe until next June. Furthermore, arrivals of corn in Chicago today were reduced to as few as 92 cars, against 487 cars a week ago and 176 cars on the corresponding day last year.

Meanwhile fears were expressed in some quarters that flood conditions, especially in the Mississippi valley, would damage corn still in the fields, and bring about material delay to the crop movement.

Country offerings of corn today to arrive were slim, and other markets were reported as outbidding Chicago at downstate points in Illinois. In this connection talk was current that, taken as a whole, the movement of corn during November has been above normal, but has quickly gone into consumer use permitting little or no accumulation of stocks. Under such circumstances, the advance today in corn prices continued right up to the close. Oats showed some sympathy with corn, but were inclined to lag.

In the wheat market an outstanding feature was word of 56,000,000 bushels increased estimates of world requirements of wheat for the season ending July 1 next. The new estimates, totaling 880,000,000 bushels, were spoken of as about the largest ever known. It was also announced that export sales of No. 2 hard domestic wheat, Gulf of Mexico November loading, had been made today at the same price as Chicago May delivery.

Provisions averaged lower reflecting a downturn in hog values.

DEAF MUTE'S MARRIAGE IN PUTNAM IS ANNULLED

(Special to The Bulletin.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—A marriage performed at Putnam, Conn., July 20, 1927, was declared null and void yesterday when Judge Frederick H. Chamberlain in probate court here granted the petition of Josephine Corey, a Worcester deaf mute for the annulment of her marriage to George F. Corey also of this city.

The wife answered in writing the questions put to her by the court and counsel. She said she learned last September that her supposed husband had been previously married and had been divorced by his first wife. She alleged that when he went through this second marriage he required two years had not elapsed after his divorce from his first wife. Testimony was also introduced to show that Corey had been abusive to the petitioned and did not provide for her support.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB ENDORSES PEACE PACT

How the Leaves Came Down

I'll tell you how the leaves came down.
The great Tree to his children said,
"You're getting sleepy, Yellow and Brown.
Yes, very sleepy, Little Red;
It is quite time you went to bed."

"Ah!" begged each silly, pouting leaf,
"Let us a little longer stay;
Dear Father Tree, behold our grief,
'Tis such a very pleasant day
We do not want to go away."

So, just for one more merry day
To the great Tree the leaflets clung,
Frolicked and danced and had their way,
Upon the autumn breezes swung,
Whispering all their sports among.

"Perhaps the great Tree will forget
And let us stay until the spring,
If we all beg and coax and fret."
But the great Tree did no such thing;
He smiled to hear their whispering.

"Come, children all, to bed," he cried;
And ere the leaves could urge their prayer
He shook his head, and far and wide,
Fluttering and rustling everywhere,
Down sped the leaflets through the air.

I saw them; on the ground they lay,
Golden and red, a huddled swarm,
Waiting till one from far away,
White bed-clothes heaped upon her arm,
Should come to wrap them safe and warm.

The great Tree looked down and smiled.
"Good-night, dear little leaves," he said;
And from below each sleepy child
Replied "Good-night," and murmured,
"It is so nice to go to bed."

Stick to Their Jobs

Diamonds are only chunks of coal
That stick to their jobs, you see.
If they'd petered out like most of us do,
Where would the diamonds be?

It isn't the fact of making a start,
It's the sticking that counts, I'll say;
It's the one who knows not the meaning of fail,
But hammers and hammers away.

Whenever you think you have come to the end
And you're beaten as bad as can be,
Remember that diamonds are chunks of coal,
That stick to their jobs, you see.

—The Young Soldier

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mrs. Campbell—Dear, I saw the sweetest little hat downtown today.

Campbell—Put it on and let me see how you look in it.—Detroit News.

Wanda—What's the string around your finger for? To remind you of something?

Dora—No, to remind Arthur of something.—Montreal Star.

Hub—This article says that women's feet are growing bigger. Do you believe it?

Wife—Well, at any rate, women are proving more and more their ability to fill men's shoes.—Boston Transcript.

Sandy was fishing. Donald, passing, asked "How are the fish today, Sandy?"

"I dinna ken," said Sandy. "I've dropped 'em a line, but so far they've made nae reply."—Sydney Bulletin.

Poetic Rover (to plowing rustic)—And does this glorious setting sun mean nothing to you?

Plowing Rustic (mopping his brow)—Ay, that it do. It means I can unhitch the 'osses and go 'ome."—Passing Show.

"Henry," said Mrs. Glipping, in tearful tones.

"Well, my dear?" replied Henry, looking up from his paper, "what is it?"

"If I were to die tonight, would you marry again?"

"Not tonight!"—Tit-Bits.

Candidate—I want you, sir, to correct the statement you made recently that I drink like a fish.

Opposition Speaker—All right. But if you will stop a moment to think, a fish drinks nothing but water, and only what it needs of that.—The Pathfinder.

Jones rang the bell at the new doctor's house. The doctor's wife answered the ring.

"You wish to see the doctor?" she said. "Couldn't you come tomorrow morning?"

"Why," said Jones, "isn't the doctor in?"

"Oh, yes, he's in," said the young wife wistfully, "but you're his first patient and I'd like you to come as a surprise for him tomorrow. You see, it's his birthday."—Boston Transcript.

The French League of Rights of Man has taken up the case of a Senegalese soldier, Louis Alfred Carama, who was sentenced by a court-martial to 10 years of forced labor in the Devil's Island penal colony for having stolen a 50-cent nickel watch. He has already served six years.

The inhabitants of Moscow drink more vodka than they do milk, an indignant article in a workers' newspaper there protests. The average Muscovite, the paper estimates, consumes only 1.06 liters of milk monthly, or less than 13 liters a year. The vodka consumption a person in Moscow, however, is 15 bottles annually which is somewhat more than 11 liters.

NEW LONDON GETS GOOD TIDINGS OF SHIP & ENGINE CO. CONTRACTS

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Owing to several fine contracts received recently by the New London Ship & Engine Co. plant Groton, there has been a material increase in the number of workmen employed there. Conditions indicate that for the next 12 months at least the plant will be rushed with work.

GROTON LEFT IN DARKNESS BY A SMALL BOY'S KITE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Groton was without street lights the larger part of last night owing to the fact that a kite being flown by a small boy broke away from its copper wire lead and sailed wild over the town. The kite finally started to descend and on its downward flight the portion of copper wire to which it was attached became entangled in electric lines and caused a short circuit, the reason for which was not discovered until several hours later.

Ends All Signs Of Filthy Dandruff

Best Way To Prevent Baldness

Filthy dandruff in your hair and on your shoulders is as consolicuous as a red flag. Dandruff always irritates the scalp, strangles the hair and makes it fall out—as millions of baldheads can tell you.

Before dandruff has made you a baldhead get a bottle of Parisian Sage and start using it today. Your hair and scalp respond to the very first application. All itching instantly disappears—hair stops falling out and every bit of dandruff is destroyed.

Parisian Sage is more than a dandruff destroyer—it makes the hair live looking, vigorous, glossy and easy to manage. Pleasant, not a bit sticky or greasy—so use it freely. Lee & Osgood Co. and all druggists sell Parisian Sage with guarantee of money back if you are not thoroughly satisfied.

PROBABLE TRICK OF JOKER FAILED OF ITS MARK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Charles Harvey, employe of the city water and sewer department had an unusual experience last night. His auto was parked on Huntington street and as he was entering it, placing his hand upon the front cushion for leverage, he heard a loud sudden snap. Upon investigating he found that someone had placed a heavy, strong-springed rat trap on the front seat during the short time he was absent from the car. Had his hand been a few inches further to the left of the cushion, the trap must have sprung on his hand.

BULKELEY STUDENTS FORM BAND OF THIRTY PIECES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—The latest interest among students of Bulkeley school is the recently organized band composed of 30 pieces. For about two months, Warrant Officer Charles C. Perkins of the 192d Artillery band has been training the boys who compose the organization, and states that their work has now reached a very creditable standard. Alumni and friends of the school are now endeavoring to raise a sufficient sum to insure permanency for the band as an institution of the school. Inauguration ceremonies will be held Friday by the group of musicians, when they plan to march through State, Bank and nearby streets for the purpose of demonstrating their efficiency to the public.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin is determined that the bootlegger dispensers of liquor shall discontinue business in New London and as a result of the decision of that official, two property owners on Golden street have been notified by Captain of Police Charles A. Finney that upon the second conviction of the occupants of a building rented to the bootlegger, the proprietor will be prosecuted, just the same as the lessee. The edict of the prosecuting attorney has caused much annoyance to lessees, for in each instance the lessee has already been prosecuted twice and in other instances when prosecution has taken place an employe has been arrested instead of the proprietor. Where the Golden street "club room" proprietors will seek to re-establish their business remains to be seen, but it is known that they have other locations in view.

BUS TERMINAL WINDOW SMASHED WHEN TARS SCRAP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Lieut. L. G. Johnson, United States Coast Guard academy, assigned to the destroyer Ericsson, state pier, was arrested tonight by Patrolman George Laboue, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He is at police headquarters and will be in court tomorrow. Johnson and two sailors, also coast guardsmen, engaged in a fight on State street this evening and one of the combatants was forced through a window of the bus station terminal, Neptune building. Patrolman Laboue, who was on duty at the corner of State and Bank streets, upon getting the tip that the fight was in progress, speeded to arrest Johnson, but the other two fighters, L. C. Collier, boatswain's mate, and Frank Sackaman, coxswain on the same boat, had fled.

Wladislaw Leitkowsky, 53, of 28 New street, a carpenter, was arrested this evening by Patrolman George McCaskey, charged with breach of the peace by his wife. He was liberated upon obtaining a surety on his bond of $50 for his appearance in court tomorrow morning.

The police have been annoyed of late because of frequent reports from store proprietors or employes of the theft of bread from the entrances of the respective places of business because the stores had not been open for business at the time that the bread was delivered there by the delivery clerks. As a result a watch of several stores was maintained by the police and about 7 o'clock this morning an officer observed an aged man go to the entrance of a store at East New London where numerous loaves of bread had been left, and take one of the loaves. Because of the man evidently being in need of food, no arrest was made but the theft was reported at police headquarters. Several weeks ago a crate of broilers was stolen from the entrance to the stores of Bell Brothers, Main street, and Clark & Smith, Bank street. No trace of the thief was obtained.

FUNERAL

Miss Sarah J. Blodgett

The funeral of Miss Sarah J. Blodgett, of Chappell street, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Second Congregational church, of which she had been a member many years. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against Rosie DeLuca, Moore avenue. A warrant calling for the sale of realty owned by Mrs. DeLuca was issued by the collector several weeks ago because back taxes were due the city. The taxes have now been paid.

CLAIMED WAR SERVICE— BEGGING IN WATERFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Frank Swift, 28, of 22 Slater street, Pawtucket, R. I., evidently a fraud, was arrested on that charge this morning by Constable F. L. Peabody, Waterford, and is now at police headquarters pending the convening of the Waterford town court Friday next.

Swift was roaming about the highways of Waterford this forenoon and went to a residence where he requested food from the housewife. In questioning the young man as to why he was soliciting food, Swift, it is claimed, became abusive and a complaint was made to Constable Peabody, with the result that the beggar was arrested. He claimed he was a veteran of the World war, but when he was challenged to show his discharge papers he could not do so, neither could Swift convince any of his questioners that he had been in the service.

BLIND PEOPLE OF STATE TO SELL HANDWORK HERE

Arrangements have been made for a sale and exhibition of fancy and useful articles, made by the blind people in their homes throughout Connecticut, to be held at the Community house, New London, today (Wednesday). This sale will be in charge of Miss Susan Todd, sales manager for the State Board of Education of the Blind. The articles will include basket work, ironing board covers, wash cloths, towels, holders, clothespin bags, aprons for children and adults, woven and braided rag rugs and an assortment of excellent home made candy put up by a woman in Stonington who has impaired sight.

Angelo Felosi, P. O. Box 132, was charged with violation of the city's traffic laws in driving his automobile past an automatic traffic signal on Bank street and when the signal was set at danger. He also failed to appear in court and his bond of $5 was forfeited.

The only other case tried was that for intoxication, a man who has been arrested many times, but not for several months. He was given suspension of judgment.

The condition of Thomas C. Dillon, who has been confined to his home on Montauk avenue, seriously ill many weeks from a complication of diseases, is reported today as being much improved, more so than in many weeks.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's

After weeks of preparation the Yokohama Maid is ready to be shown to the public tonight. As was stated yesterday this musical comedy has a real plot, lovely music, beautiful costumes—most of them hand-made, is nicely staged, and has a competent cast; several of St. Mary's Players are in it. Everyone knows that whatever St. Mary's undertakes to do is done well, its past record proves this, and this play will be no exception. If anyone misses seeing it he will have cause for regret. It will be one of the nicest shows presented in this city. There are still some good seats left. Get one today. We wish to thank those in charge of this play, the cast, and those who helped us in this work for their good will, time, and faithful services.

Breed Theatre

Bringing with it the scent of the northern pine forests, "The Coward," an F B O production starring Warner Baxter, will open the double feature program at the Breed theatre today.

Adapted for the screen from a story that ran in Hearst's International magazine, "The Coward" deals with the adventures of a young society man, Clinton Philbrook, who goes into the north woods of Canada to reclaim his lost honor.

In love with an exquisite girl, Philbrook unfortunately drags her name into a brawl in which he is defeated by his rival. In the attempt to build himself up to the point where he can whip his enemy, he makes a heart-breaking hike through the wilderness with a picturesque French-Canadian trapper, and emerges a man.

On the completion of his trip, Philbrook saves the life of his rival that he may avenge himself later. The manner in which he wins the girl and redeems his honor forms the dramatic climax.

Baxter plays the part of Philbrook; Freeman Wood, the heavy; Sharon Lynn, the girl; Raoul Paoli, the guide, and Alfred Raboch directed. Edfrid Bingham and Enid Hibbard wrote the continuity.

"Husbands for Rent" is the title of the riotous comedy which Warner Bros. present at the Breed theatre today. Featured in the cast are Owen Moore and Helene Costello. Others are Kathryn Perry, John Miljan, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Hoyt, Hele Lynch and Hugh Herbert. Graham Baker made the adaptation from the story of Edwin Justin Mayer.

Broadway Theatre

Here's a good tip to picture devotees who have not already seen the current attraction at the Broadway theatre. Try to crowd in today or tonight which marks the last showings of Fox Films "Mother Knows Best," a picture, by the way, which has caused more laudatory comments than any picture which has shown here in months.

"Mother Knows Best" is an adaptation of Edna Ferber's talk-provoking story. It is the story of a mother's combat with her daughter, a mother who watches over and manages the daughter from babyhood, aids her to rise to stage fame, wealth and affluence and then destroys all she has built up because she stifles the only romance that has ever come into the girl's life.

Madge Bellamy as "Sally," the daughter, Louise Dresser as the mother, and Barry Norton as the boy in love with Sally, give memorable portrayals.

Much of the success of the picture must be credited also to the directorial work of John Blystone.

The Romance of the Christmas Club

In speaking of the Christmas club last night, Herbert F. Rawll, president of Christmas Club, said over the radio: "I am talking of an American institution created by the American people. It has the largest membership of any club in the world—more than 8,000,000. A little less than a year ago you enrolled at your neighborhood bank with the fixed purpose of accumulating a certain sum of money to be returned to you in advance of the approaching holiday season, and, so, within the next few weeks an estimated amount of $550,000,000 in cash will be distributed to the general public as a result of this wise and thoughtful planning.

These amounts range, on the average, from $12.50 to $1,000 for each member although in not a few cases accumulations for the account of individuals and corporations run as high as $25,000.

This money is going to members of your club—the Christmas club—throughout the entire United States and scarcely a city, town or village is without representation in sharing the benefits of this distribution.

I refer to the Christmas club as an American institution, because your support has been responsible for its phenomenal success. Members of our average American family find a very keen enjoyment in bringing pleasure to those who are near and dear to them. They find an added joy in giving a very tangible expression to this spirit of helpfulness at the Christmas season.

It has been estimated that the Christmas club plan since its inception has created 10,000,000 permanent savers from the ranks of Christmas club members, and, in this accomplishment it has certainly justified the hopes of its founders.

Because it has served as a powerful agency of thrift development in bringing to millions of people a better understanding of the usefulness of the bank and the many ways the bank serves its community, the Christmas club—your club—has today the support of more than 8,000 banking and financial institutions, and each year hundreds of banks are adding this Christmas club department to broaden the scope of their usefulness in the communities they serve.

The Christmas club is a living example of the great achievements made possible by the co-operative spirit. To the eight million members whose co-operation has resulted in building up an annual fund of $550,000,000 for distribution among themselves, the Christmas club extends its hearty congratulations and appreciation of their contribution in developing this vast enterprise. Within the next few weeks you will receive your Christmas club checks for 1928 and I am sure you need no urging to renew your membership for 1929, for by actual experience you know the many benefits obtained.

If you are not a member of the Christmas club, this is a cordial invitation to you to join for the coming year. There are no dues—no fines—no membership fees. And I would like to leave this thought with you—most clubs cost money,—this club brings money. Simply go to your bank in your neighborhood and you will be enrolled without red tape for membership in the 1929 club. The plan is simple—you just decide how much extra money you want for Christmas, 1929.

THE WEATHER

Conditions.

The disturbance that was central over the upper St Lawrence valley Monday night has continued to move northeastward with increasing intensity, being central over northern Newfoundland.

Rain has fallen within the last 24 hours in portions of the Atlantic states. The weather has become much colder in the Atlantic states southward to central Florida. The indications are for considerable cloudiness in the northeastern states and light precipitation is probable Wednesday night or Thursday in portions of northern New York and northern New England. The temperature will rise slowly Wednesday as far east as the Appalachian region and the weather will become warmer during Thursday throughout the Washington forecast district, except along the northern border.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Diminishing northwest backing to west winds and fair weather Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Diminishing northwest winds and fair weather Wednesday.

Forecast.

For southern New England, New Jersey and Delaware—Fair Wednesday; Thursday mostly cloudy with rising temperature.

Observations.

FRANK QUINLEY BURNED AT FINISHING COMPANY

The many friends of Frank Quinley of Boswell avenue will be sorry to learn that he met with an accident while at his work as an electrician at the plant of the United States Finishing company Monday morning. Mr. Quinley was burned about the both hands and on one side of his face. Dr. Edward J. Brophy was summoned and after dressing the burns had Mr. Quinley taken to his home on Boswell avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Swanton and son. John, Jr., of Fifth street spent the week end visiting with Mrs. Swanton's sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ravenelle of Mystic and while there were greatly surprised upon the arrival of a number of relatives including Mr. and Mrs. William McAllester of Borton, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dextraem of New Bedford, and Mr. and Mrs. Vajo Sherkev of Jewett City, all present to celebrate the 21st anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ravenelle's marriage.

WEDDING.

Lavalle-Moran.

Among the attendants present at the Lavalle-Moran wedding that took place at Sacred Heart church Monday morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. Leo Lavalle, were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gates of Fourth street. The bride, Miss Bernadette Lavalle, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lavalle, while the groom, Reanville Moran, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moran. Miss Lavalle was assisted by her cousin, Miss Esther Ward as maid of honor, while Mondosa Moran brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride was beautifully attired in a white satin gown covered with Spanish lace and she wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was attired in powder blue georgette crepe and wore a picture hat to correspond. Her bouquet consisted of pink tea roses. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a beautiful string of pearls while the groom's gift to the bestman was a silver cigarette case. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts including cut glass, silverware and checks for substantial amounts. Among the large attendance were guests present from Providence, Springfield, Holyoke, Moosup, Plainfield and Baltic. The newly married couple left for a two weeks' honeymoon trip that will take them to New York city, Atlantic City and Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Moran have a large circle of friends in Greeneville who wish them happiness and prosperity in their newly married life.

MRS. GILMAN URGES WOMEN TO SET AND MAINTAIN HIGH STANDARD FOR CITY

To an expectant group of members of the Woman's City club, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman gave a most stimulating address on "The Home and the City," in the Wauregan hotel ballroom, on Tuesday afternoon.

"Years ago, mother used to do the work that now is gone out into wider and ever more wide relationship," said Mrs. Gilman. "Each isolated, separate farmstead was formerly a complete industrial center, maintaining all necessary activities. Gradually separate homes became grouped into villages and towns, and then again into cities, at which time restrictions began to enter the lives of the people.

"Home tasks became absorbed by private enterprise, private enterprises grew in strength, being also public by the fact that the lives of millions of people depended upon them. There was a large and steady increase of things done collectively.

"As cities grew, in numbers and in size, powers and privileges were taken over by them. A recent book, Public Ownership, by Carl B. Thompson, lists and describes in its several chapters the many municipal and government enterprises that have been growing in number and accomplishment along with the growth of the country. Some of these enterprises have been hard to inaugurate," continued Mrs. Gilman, "as people cheerfully accept things they're accustomed to, but are deadly against things they're not used to. In the beginning of our life as a nation, when we faced the great difficulties of a new democracy, wise leaders started the public school system—a vital system—with which any country is better off than any other country which lacks it.

"Statistics taken from Public Ownership proved the advantage of public ownership of the water supply as against private ownership. In the comparison of the death rate from typhoid under the different systems, New York's excellent care of her water supply was evidenced in the proportion of only 2.2 deaths per 100,000 from typhoid.

"Municipally-owned street railway systems have steadily gone on increasing. In the case of the city of Detroit, for example, the street car system has been run much better under municipal ownership, the fare is lower, labor is managed better, with the result that there have been fewer strikes. The growth of the number of municipally-owned electric light systems has been perhaps more marked than the growth of any other like industry. In 1881 there was one such system. In 1922 there were 2,582. An electric light property is an extremely valuable one, and destined to be even more so, with a magnificent opportunity for the making of money. The plant in Norwich just a few years ago was valued at $3,000,000.

"What are the principles involved in the case of public ownership versus private? What is the general attitude of mind of the American people? They are afraid of the kind of horrors they've seen going on in other countries, committed by communists, bolsheviste and so-called socialists. The American people do not all clearly understand what the three groups stand for. The anarchist believes any kind of government wrong. The communist believes, like the early Christians that everything should be held in common, which belief is utterly at variance with the laws of economics. The true definition of socialism is this —Public ownership and management of all natural monopolies, and the machinery of production and distribution. Very few people know what socialism really means because the principle of socialism has been mishandled by the violent men who have made use of it to gain their own ends.

"What is the normal trend of development? The quiet, orderly, gradual development of public ownership and management for the benefit of private property. In almost every case, in the nature of things, private enterprise is driven by the desire for gain —self-interest. All human work is done for other people and that is what makes us human! Since the beginning of law, the laws against usury have set a legal limit against unlimited rates of interest. How about a legal limit to profits? Did you ever hear of it? That's the check on private ownership! If publicly-owned service is not done well it can be more easily corrected.

"We have not yet begun to realize that democracy means us! Homes produce the city, but the city dominates the homes. Some cities are so much better than others, but any city can be made better. We should have the same steady, warm interest in our city, to see that its standards of public health, sanitation, government of own homes and home life," said Mrs. Cetera, are what they should be, that we have in the improvement of our own homes and home life," said Mrs. Gilman in conclusion.

The first few minutes of the meeting were given over to announcements and business. The club voted, upon recommendation of the executive board, that the girls' work committee become a standing committee. Mention was made of children's afternoon, which is to come on Dec. 18 and of the reception and bridge to be held at the opening of the year.

The interval between business and Mrs. Gilman's address was most pleasantly filled with two contralto solos rendered by Mrs. Schwenk, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Stebbins.

Mrs. Robert Snow once more impressed upon those present the fact that Christmas seals go on sale all over the country directly after Thanksgiving. These are sold under the direction of the National Tuberculosis association and the money derived from their sale is the only money used in Norwich, she said, for preventive work against the White Plague. Fifteen cents out of every dollar goes directly to national headquarters, 85 cents stays in Norwich—but a goodly part of the money that goes to headquarters comes back eventually in equipment. This vital work needs the support of every lover of humanity in Norwich.

GOLF CLUB GOVERNORS EXPLAIN INN PROJECT

Another evidence of the civic nature of the Norwich Inn project has been shown in the attitude of the board of governors of the Norwich Golf club whose interests are definitely involved in the new venture it is pointed out by those interested in the project. The status of the club and the attitude of its board of governors has been clearly set forth in a letter to the members which deals with all phases of the movement as they affect the club and which says in part: "The announcement of the movement to erect an inn near our present club house has been of especial interest to the members of the club. Several members of your board of governors have served on the preliminary committees studying tentative plans, always endeavoring to bear in mind the interests of the golf club. This letter is prompted by a desire on the part of your board of governors to report to you the status of the inn project as it affects the club members."

"The golf club will continue its separate identity with full jurisdiction over its membership and guests, retaining its right to select its members and bonus to whom it will extend guest privileges."

The letter further informs its members that "the land company is our landlord and will continue as such. However, under an option, a majority of the stock of the Norwich Golf Land Co., has been deposited with Nelson J. Ayling, as trustee, to be purchased by the Norwich Inn Co.

Referring to the bonds outstanding in the land company, members are advised that these bonds will remain in their present status. "The presence of a successful inn will, of course, increase the value of their security. It will not guarantee the bonds in terms, but because of the location of the inn, and the value of the golf links to the inn property, it will protect both the interest and the principal. The effect, as you can see, will be that the land company will retain its corporate entity but will be controlled by the Norwich Inn company, which in turn will be comprised for the most part, of local people."

"One of the problems considered in the contemplation of this project has been whether or not it would be advisable to build a wing on the inn for the exclusive use of club members, to replace the need now filled by our present club house."

The conclusion reached on this question sets forth the fact that "it is now planned that the present club house will be retained and put in first class condition. One of the strongest attractions of the Inn will be its close proximity to the golf links. Due to the financial interest of the inn corporation in the Golf Land Co., all parties will have an identical interest in improving and maintaining the present club facilities."

In discussing the restaurant situation the letter sets forth that "maintaining a restaurant in the club house has always been an expense to the club and with an inn close by it will no longer be necessary. It is understood that the grill room will be made available for the club members for quick service and then of course, the dining room of the inn will be open to anyone.

"The club and the inn are each an asset to the other. The inn will bring more green fees to the club and the club will bring more guests to the inn. The club will operate under an agent arrangement with the land company, as we did this year, or under a favorable lease, whichever of these methods seems most advantageous to the club."

Pointing out the fact that there will be three separate and distinct organizations it is further emphasized that the Treadway organization as operators of the inn will have nothing to do with the operation of the club and will not be in such position as to control the land company.

"We are informed that the Treadway organization has been very carefully investigated and that they have several hotels in New England, all of which are financially successful. These hotels are noted for their high class appointments, splendid food and home-like atmosphere. The association with this group of hotels insures a clientele and management which will be most pleasing to club members. The inn will offer opportunities for social features throughout the year, for which the present club house is entirely unsuited. Shareholders in the inn possess only the privileges of corporate stock ownership in that property alone."

In the opinion of your directors, a successfully operated inn will mean an improvement of club property, greater popularity for the course, improved financial returns for the club, and social advantages which could be obtained otherwise only through a heavy investment far beyond our capacity. The association of the club and the inn will be of mutual advantage to a remarkable degree.

GOOD REPORTS PRESENTED TO Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS

The Y. M. C. A. board of directors held their monthly meeting Tuesday evening at supper time, 6:15. There was a large number of the directors present, and the various reports indicated a very healthy outlook for the work for the present season.

The report of the physical department showed a fine interest in the various classes and spoke well for the new physical director, J. H. Demarest, who recently assumed his duties.

The boys' work and the religious work reports were full of interest and promised well for the future.

President Herbert B. Cary presided and Rev. J. H. Cooper was a guest of the meeting.

Previous to the board meeting, the physical department committee met to consider matters of interest to that important department.

Doctor Found Women And Children Sick More Often Than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or this coupon brings a bottle for free trial:

In the games the prizes were taken by Marion Heber, Richard Carroll, Marion Weinert and June Heber. Dorothy received many pretty gifts and each little guest received a gift from the hostess. Those present were Ernestine Heber, June Heber, Richard Carroll, Marion Heber, Raymond Carroll, Marion Weinert, Frances Piver and Dorothy Heber.

NORWICH PREPARED TO RECEIVE S. S. DELEGATES

The purpose of the state Sunday school convention which opens in this city today (Wednesday) is to secure a more thorough and better type of religious training for the youth of Connecticut. It is an old saying that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," and it is also true that a correct attitude toward religious truth in early life saves much reconstruction of the foundations of one's faith in later years.

The state executive committee has brought together for a three-day program a rare combination of inspirational addresses and departmental conference. These three sessions of each day are nicely balanced with instruction, inspiration and meditation. The three sessions center around one word—Appreciation.

The morning session today opens with a devotional study of the appreciation of God. This is followed by a consideration of the parable as Jesus' method of teaching the system of God. This subject will be presented by Professor Bacon, an international authority on New Testament interpretations. Dean Weigle will follow with an inspirational address on Fundamentals in Religious Education. This session brings to the platform three outstanding men in the field of religious education in this country. In the early part of the afternoon, Professor Willoughby and Professor Bacon will again appear, the former speaking of Jesus as a Teacher, and the latter dealing with The Lack of Appreciation of the Parabalic Method, by interpreters of a later date.

From 3 until 5 the delegates will separate into four groups for class study and conference on Thes Real Task of Teaching. Miss Edna Baxter, M. A., associate professor of education in Hartford seminary, will be in charge of the children's division conference which will be held in the Noyes Parish house. She will be assisted by Miss Frances Danielson, Miss Jeannette Perkins and Miss Mary A. Jones, all experts in the teaching of children. The young people's division will be in charge of Roy A. Burkhart, Chicago, and will be held in the United church school room. He will be assisted by Rev. Harry Thomas Stock and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Finn. The division on administration will be led by Prof. A. J. Meyers of Hartford, and the professional workers' program will be given in the auditorium of the Central Baptist church and will be in charge of Rev. L. W. Brown of Stamford, and groups will be addressed by Dean Weigle.

In the evening the convention will hear Professor Willoughby, Miss Jones and Rev. O. Campbell, educational leader of the Baptist denomination in Connecticut.

The committee reports that it has ample provision for housing the delegates who have sent applications to date. It has been 14 years since the state Sunday school convention was entertained in this city.

NATIVE OF UNION HAS 89TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Melvin Booth, who was born in the Booth family homestead in the town of Union, this state, and taught school at one time at Stafford, celebrated his 89th birthday Saturday at his home at Brimfield, Mass. Mr. Booth is a Civil war veteran, having served in Co. G, 32nd Connecticut Volunteers.

Mr. Booth was married October 20, 1868, to Miss Emily Copeland of Hampton, Conn., and the couple celebrated their 60th anniversary a few weeks ago at their Brimfield home. They spent the first 17 years of their married life on the Booth homestead at Union and in 1885 moved to Brimfield, where they have since lived with the exception of five and a half years spent on a farm at Holliston.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH EVERY MEMBER CANVASS

Members of the First Congregational church turned out for the annual every member canvass, Sunday afternoon, practically covering all of Norwich Town in its various localities. Herbert L. Yerrington was in general charge and assigned solicitors to the different sections as follows: East Town street, Robert Stott, Jr., West Town street, from the church to Adams' tavern and Tanner street, Miss Bernice Underwood and Dwight L. Underwood; Peck's Corner to Harland's Corner, George Hyde and George Durr; New London turnpike and Otrobando avenue, Charles Learned and Miss Scott; Town street, Dwight W. Avery; Mediterranean Lane and around Norwich Town Green, Mrs. Charles W. Chapin; Peck's Corner to the Wheeler home on Scotland road, Mrs. Charles E. Reeves and Frank Sterry; Plain Hill, and a section of West Town steret, Mr. Yerrington and Miss Ruth Sterry; Harland Road, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Frasier; outlying districts, John L. Browning and Thomas H. Bachelor; Upper Scotland Road and Canterbury Turnpike, William R. Lathrop. There are yet a few to be solicited in the vicinity of Backus hospital corner. This will be accomplished later on, due to the fact that the person who generally takes charge of this section, is out-of-town.

Fully 400 patrons attended the pancake supper in the Congregational chapel, Monday evening, under the auspices of the League of Service supper committee. The committee will realize in the neighborhood of $45.

FLOOD OF SELLING ORDERS SENT STOCK PRICES DOWN

Final Quotations Showed a Long List of Declines Ranging From $1 to $5 a Share—A Few Specialties Dropped $7 to $20 a Share —Total Sales Crossed the 6,000,000 Share Mark—Transactions in the Curb Market Attained a New Record Sales Total of 2,214,600 Shares.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—A hurricane of selling orders struck the stock market with terrific force late today, checking the "bull" movement which has been moving along with considerable violence since election day. Although the "bull" forces staged a moderate recovery from the low levels, final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from $1 to $5 a share, and a few specialties down $7 to $20 a share.

Total sales crossed the 6,000,000 share mark for the third time but were well below the record of 6,811,900 shares established yesterday.

Because of the delay of more than an hour in the stock ticker and the fact that the brunt of the selling took place in the last half hour of trading the market was over before most traders learned the reaction had taken place, although rumblings of it became apparent in mid-afternoon. The final quotation was printed one hour and 48 minutes after the close.

Beginning tomorrow, all sales volume of individual transactions, except at the opening, will be dropped from the ticker in the hope of greatly expediting the printing of quotations, in order to provide New York afternoon newspapers and press associations with total sales of all stocks, the New York Stock Exchange arranged to have a special shipment of 60 Western Union telegraph printers sent here from Chicago today on the Twentieth Century Limited. Pending the installation of these machines, the total sales of individual stocks will be printed hourly on the bond tickers, being interspersed with the bond quotations in order not to delay unnecessarily the printing of bond prices.

"Heavy trading also carried curb market transactions to a new record sales total of 2,214,600 shares, displacing the previous record of 2,151,800 shares established November 16. At the stock market, a storm of last hour selling orders caused widespread recessions, prices generally breaking $1 to $7 per share. Oil stocks, however, held their ground. The curb ticker closed 47 minutes after the market.

Sale of a New York stock exchange seat was arranged today at the record-breaking price of $525,000, an increase of $3,000 above the previous record established a few days ago. The identity of the purchaser was not revealed, pending official action on his application for membership.

Hope of a Saturday holiday in order to permit brokerage houses to catch up with the tremendous accumulation of work vanished today when the board of governors of the exchange met, and took no action toward closing the exchange on that day.

The reaction today was generally regarded by market observers as a partial correction of some of the speculative excesses of recent weeks. It followed repeated warnings on the part of conservative commission houses and may have been influenced in part, by the widespread publicity given to the speech delivered before the National grange last night by Governor Roy Young of the Federal Reserve board. He said that "those who today in other fields are speculatively inclined, I believe, can well afford to stop and reflect, and if the present speculative situation is comparable to that of agriculture nine or ten years ago, they can well seek advice from your industry rather than from some of the sources they are now using."

Rumors that the bank of England may raise its rediscount rate tomorrow, forcing a return of funds loaned here on stock collateral in this country, also may have been a factor in the selling movement.

The market opened irregular today but turned upward when heavy buying was resumed in the oil shares and some of the high priced specialties. Radio led the advance with a spectacular gain of $21 to a new high record at $379 but was also the first to decline when the marketed weakened, breaking quickly to $345 and rebounding to $359 for a net gain of $1 on the day. Case Threshing broke nearly $20 a share to $475 on a few transactions and closed at the bottom. Montgomery-Ward fell from $418 to $398 and rallied to $404, off $12 net. International Harvester dropped $13 to $365 and closed at that price. Adams Express, American Agricultural Chemical preferred, American Locomotive, A. M. Byers, Calumet & Arizona, Curtiss Aeronautical, May Department Stores, National Tea, Republic Steel, Union Pacific, Wesson Oil and Woolworth lost $5 to $10 a share.

LEOPOLD SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

WATERBURY, Nov. 21—(AP)—Louis N. Leopold, erstwhile key maker and furniture store proprietor, was sentenced to life imprisonment on two counts of second degree murder by Judge Carl Foster in superior court here tonight. He was given not less than nine years on a third count of arson and acquitted on two charges of causing the death of two boys by wilful burning of his house in Baldwin street on the night of Feb. 5, 1928. Defense counsel indicated an appeal will be taken.

The jury at first returned verdicts of guilty on all five charges but when asked by the court at the request of State's Attorney Lawrence L. Lewis if they knew the charge of causing death by wilful burning carried the death penalty the foreman replied that they did not. He then requested that the jury be allowed to reconsider. The jury retired and emerged 15 minutes later at 9:35 o'clock with the final verdict.

Leopold dramatically arose when the first report of the jury was given and shouted: "I don't want a reconsideration. If I am guilty let me hang, if not let me go home to my babies."

Immediately after the sentence had been pronounced, Leopold was spirited from the court by a rear entrance and taken back to the New Haven county jail. Hundreds thronged the corridors of the court and filled the courtroom. It was the longest and largest attended trial ever held in this city, the trial having consumed 23 court days.

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH $133,000 ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—(AP)—Sought as an accomplice in the $133,000 Grand Trunk mail train robbery of last February and for several other alleged crimes, Virgil Litsinger was captured by police and federal authorities today.

Litsinger was taken to police headquarters and later to the federal building for questioning by postal authorities but refused to talk.

He was accused of taking part in the holdup of the Grand Trunk train last winter in which a gang headed by Charles "Limpy" Cleaver dynamited an express car to get the loot. Cleaver was captured and sentenced to 25 years. Litsinger also is accused of holding up the Chicago theatre several weeks ago, stealing about $6,000. Police said they might charge him with murder also.

Later Litsinger said he had been in England for the last three years and had just returned. He said he learned that he was wanted and telephoned postal authorities he would meet them at the Loop hotel where he was arrested. This statement was verified by postal authorities.

SCHOONER AFIRE TWO MILES OFF NANTUCKET

NANTUCKET, Mass., Nov. 21—(AP)—A ship, presumably an unidentified schooner, was afire about two miles off shore late tonight. A coast guard patrol boat went to her assistance, after the ship had displayed distress signals.

It later was determined that the blazing ship was the schooner, Mildred Foley. Her crew was taken off safely aboard the coast guard patrol boat No. 282. The schooner was declared to be a total loss.

Residents in this vicinity reported having heard a sound as though of an explosion immediately preceding the fire.

LINER OLYMPIC COMBED BY THE "DIAMOND SQUAD"

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Continuing efforts that resulted a few days ago in the arrest of four persons in connection with diamond smuggling on the liner Berengaria, four members of the federal "diamond squad" combed the Olympic on her arrival from Europe today.

The recent search of the Berengaria ended in the arrest of the chief steward, and seizure of a $50,000 package of uncut stones. Besides the steward, a city policeman, a jeweler and his daughter also were held.

In today's combing of the Olympic, the agents searched Grand Rabb. Liebe Twersky, arriving from Antwerp to visit his son in Milwaukee, examined all the grand rabbi's effects and subjected him to a personal examination which brought forth the protest of a group of rabbis gathered at the pier to welcome the Antwerp grand rabbi. No gems were found and after the search the grand rabbi was permitted to leave.

FEAR LAKE STEAMER HAS FOUNDERED OR RUN AGROUND

MIDLAND, Ont., Nov. 21—(AP)—The lake steamer Thousand Islander which broke away from her tow last night in the midst of a gale, was somewhere on Lake Huron tonight without a crew. When last sighted, the vessel was taking water. It was feared she had foundered or run aground.

Tugs dared the storm to search for the Thousand Islander today but returned to report they had not sighted her nor any other lake craft.

The vessel was in tow of the steamer Collingwood, when the tow line snapped, off Thunder Island. A gale was blowing, but the Collingwood came alongside, took aboard the ten men of the Thousand Islander crew and proceeded to this port.

The abandoned vessel was purchased recently by the Georgian Bay & Transportation Co. She was valued at $150,000.

JERSEY CITY MAYOR TO FACE CONTEMPT CHARGES

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 21—(AP)—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, eastern vice-chairman of the national democratic party, was given the alternative today of arrest or personally assuring the New Jersey legislature that he would appear before it next Monday to face charges of contempt.

The charges are an outgrowth of his refusal to testify before the Case committee, a legislative body investigating alleged political corruption in Hudson county, the seat of the mayor's political leadership. The subpoena Hague ignored was issued after announcement that the committee would investigate the source of his income since he became leader 12 years ago.

KING GEORGE IN BED WITH COLD AND FEVER

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—King George was ill today, physicians said that he was suffering from a cold and slight fever and that he was advised to remain in bed as a matter of precaution.

Prince Colonel Seymour, the king's equerry, and the medical advisers to his majesty said tonight that they entertained no anxiety and that they confidently expected that he will be completely recovered within a few days. Colonel Seymour said the king has "only a common cold."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—The general strike of 1926 has made its appearance in the election campaign, though in a rather off-hand way.

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Announcement was made that Miss Tallulah Bankhead, American actress who is at present starring in "Her Cardboard Lover," is engaged to marry Count Anthony De Bosdari.

MOSCOW, Nov. 21—(AP)—Reported revolutionary outbreaks and separatist movements in the Ukraine have brought a storm of denials from soviet quarters, representatives of the American joint distribution committee, who are in close touch with Ukrainian events, also characterized the reports as without truth.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 21—(AP)—Agitation for home rule for Scotland which is being sponsored by the Scottish National party drew fire from the Earl of Balfour in a message to the Glasgow Herald in which he said that separate legislature must surely add greatly to the complications of political life, already complicated enough.

HOOVER FISHING ON SWORD FISH GROUNDS

ON BOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND, off Cape San Lucas, lower California, Nov. 21—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, who has waded in many a trout stream, into this afternoon went after bigger game on the famous breeding grounds of the sword fish, tuna and jewfish about 25 miles off the cape which forms the extermity of lower California.

Before he put off in a motorboat from the battleship which is carrying him southward for a good will tour of Latin-America further arrangements of the itinerary were announced. The president-elect expects to visit Havana, and possibly Mexico. He will visit Montevideo and may go to Santo Domingo.

Whatever ports he finally decides to include, Mr. Hoover will have a ten day voyage on the U. S. S. Utah covering some 3,600 miles from Rio Janerio to Havana or some other port in the West Indies. It seems rather probable that he will go to Mexico from Havana although it is not yet definitely decided.

San Jose, Costa Rica, will be the only Central American capital that he will visit. He will journey by automobile from the port of Puntu Arenas. He can only visit the port cities at other Central American stops because time and distance prevents the overland journeys to the capitals which in most cases involve using mountain roads.

For the same reason when the Maryland puts into Guayaquil, Ecuador, Mr. Hoover will be unable to visit the capital at Quito but he does plan to journey inland to Lima, Peru from the port of Callao.

NEWSPAPER REPORTER ADMITS THEFT OF BONDS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21—(AP)—Mystery today enveloped a newspaper reporter arrested last night by detectives charged with the theft of $178,000 worth of Liberty bonds from the First National bank of Los Angeles.

Sitting in his cell, dry lipped and grim eyed, he astonished his callers by saying:

"If I told my real name I'd be killed. My name is not O'Hara, neither is it O'Neil. It is an honored name of Kentucky and I'd die before I revealed it."

For two years he had been known in New Orleans as Kenneth Terrence O'Hara and under that name had written for a local newspaper and verse published in magazines over the country. The police know him as John B. O'Neil, absconding bank teller.

"I am the man they want," he said. "They can call me what they please." The police circular says he was born in Louisville, Ky., June 5, 1891, but the man says he was born there June 15, 1892.

He has a military bearing, rides like a centaur, and some months ago had his photograph taken in the uniform of a major of infantry, bearing several service bars. He speaks authoritatively of the service, indicates familiarity with New York, Boston, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and Kentucky and knows intimate facts about prominent persons in these places.

FIRE DESTROYS LARGEST PLANE EVER BUILT IN U. S.

BRISTOL, Pa., Nov. 21—(AP)—The Keystone Patrician, said to be the largest airplane ever built in this country, and one of the largest in the world, was destroyed by fire today at the Keystone Aircraft corporation flying field.

The airplane, designed to accommodate 20 passengers and two pilots, was valued at $75,000. It was to have been christened tomorow before a gathering of aeronautical leaders of the country.

The fire started as the finishing touches were being given the plane outside its hangar.

Two mechanics, Walter Young and Walter West, who were in the airplane when the fire started, were burned about the hands and face. Their condition was not considered serious.

The craft, built for the Keystone corporation for demonstration purpose, had a wing spread of 90 feet, a length of 63 feet and was 13 feet high. It was equipped with three 525 horse power Wright cyclone motors and had a maximum speed of 155 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 130 miles.

Edgar N. Gott, president of the Keystone concern, said the craft would be rebuilt. Three other planes similar to the Patrician are under construction at the Keystone plant.

CLOSING UNDESIRABLE NIGHT CLUBS IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Several swanky night clubs have been closed recently and the proprietors of others are in a state bordering on panic because of the vigorous methods adopted by Lord Byng, new head of the metropolitan police. Raids on the clubs, many of which are for the nobility and other persons who move in smart society, are becoming increasingly numerous.

In his campaign to clean up the night clubs and other resorts which he considers undesirable, Lord Byng has been moving police superintendents about like the pieces on a chess board.

One of the London characters who may be especially affected by the new order of things is Mrs. Kate Merrick, known as "The Night Club Queen." She will be released tomorrow from prison after serving a sentence of six months for violation of the liquor license laws in one of her establishments. She gained her title largely from the fact that two of her daughters married peers and now are known as Baroness de Clifford and Countess Kinnoull.

Liquor Dives Cater To School Children

Campaign Launched in Chicago to Prevent Gambling and Drinking by Pupils.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—(AP)—The board of education, police department and prohibition authorities joined hands today in an effort to rid the city of illicit liquor establishments catering to school children.

The campaign was launched after the shooting of a high school boy by the proprietor of one such establishment a few days ago and today had spread to every school in the city where the police were making canvass of the neighborhood and warning all suspected merchants against allowing school pupils to gamble or drink in their places of business.

E. O. Yellowley, prohibition administrator, said his entire staff had been directed to give particular attention to "bootleg joints" near schools but denied he had received any instructions from Washington to take such a step.

Several parent-teacher organizations formed vigilance committees to investigate conditions near their own schools and report to the prohibition authorities on suspected places. The police last night and today conducted a series of raids on soft drink parlors and other establishments catering to school children and confiscated slot machines and gambling equipment but did not find any liquor. Several school pupils found in the places were questioned and released.

Dr. Herman Bundesen, coroner-elect issued a warning to school children concerning the dangers of poisoning from th drinking of bootleg liquor. The Chicago Daily Journal said that as a result of the investigation an order closing all soft drink parlors at 1 a. m. had been issued by the police department.

EXPANDING SEARCH FOR OMAHA'S "HATCHET SLAYER"

OMAHA, Nov. 21—(AP)—Hundreds of police, reinforced by volunteers and bloodhounds continued the apparently unsuccessful search for Omaha's "hatchet slayer" today. Fifteen Negro suspects were under arrest but police doubted the man sought was among the group.

An all night patrol with hundreds assisting the police will be maintained throughout the city again tonight.

The 15 suspects, with any that might be picked up during the night, will be taken before Mrs. Harold Stribling tomorrow for identification Mrs. Stribling, who is rapidly recovering from a blow on the head from the slayer's hatchet, was kept prisoner by the young Negro for three hours early Tuesday and said she was positive she could identify him.

Her husband, whose skull was crushed in four places by the slayer was operated upon late today to relieve the pressure on his brain. His condition was reported "serious."

An effort to trail the "hatchet man" with bloodhounds failed. They were taken to the Stribling home and to where the Negro released Mrs. Stribling after compelling her to accompany him.

Rewards totaling $1,775 were offered for the apprehension of the slayer who was believed to have killed an aged man and two young women here since Sunday.

COUNSEL FOR WATKINS SUMMONED TO APPEAR

HARTFORD, Nov. 21—(AP)—Former Attorney General Frank E. Healy and his law partner, William E. Egan, whose professional relations with their client, Roger W. Watkins, convicted swindler, were the subject of critical remarks by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn at the time Watkins was sentenced to state prison, have been summoned to appear as witnesses before the special Watkins grand jury tomorrow.

Their appearance as witnesses marks a new stage in the investigation being conducted by the grand jury to see whether there are any other matters that should be presented to the court for further action through the state's attorney's office.

At the trial of Watkins, before its sudden ending, Mr. Hearly and Mr. Egan were shown to have had secret accounts on the books of the National Associated Investors, Inc., a "blue-sky" corporation floated by Watkins with the aid of prominent names. The evidence of these secret accounts was given by the bookkeeper, Michael Connors, now a clerk in a New York brokerage house. Mr. Connors recently was before the grand jury a whole afternoon giving testimony, similar and supplementary to his testimony at the trial.

ZOO KEEPER WAS GORED BY AN AFRICAN GNU

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21— (AP) — Morris Phillips, a keeper at the National Zoological park, was severely gored today by an African gnu, whose cage he was cleaning.

Despite his wounds, Phillips warded off other attacks by the animal and escaped from the cage. The gnu which has horns 18 inches long, was given to the zoo two years ago and has been known for its bad temper.

Hoover's Proposal For Slack Time Fund

Brought Before the [illegible] —$3,000,000,000 [illegible] Construction W[illegible]

NEW ORL[illegible] 21—(AP)—The proposal of [illegible]over to create a $3,000,000,0[illegible] nation-wide construction [illegible] times was brought formally before the convention of the American Federation of Labor late today.

John P. Fry, secretary of the metal trades department of the federation read the address of Governor Ralph O Brewster, of Maine, in which he had in the day to the governors' conference outlined the construction plan earlier at the request of the president-elect.

At the conclusion of the readings, the proposal took its regular place in the order of business but it is expected to be called up again tomorrow when the governors will attend the labor convention as private citizens.

The morning session was devoted mainly to an address by John Marchback, assistant industrial general secretary of the National Union of Railway Men of Great Britain, who told of the unemployment in the British Isles.

"Government figures," he said, "show there are 1,334,000 unemployed in the nation but that is far from being the actual figures when all men and women and their dependents are taken into consideration. At the present time 663,603 persons are receiving poor relief and thousands are working part time and living on the border line of poverty."

DECLINED TO ENDORSE HOOVER'S PROPOSAL

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21—(AP)—Governors attending the New Orleans conference late today declined to endorse by resolution the proposal of Herbert Hoover to launch a movement for the creation of a $3,000,000,000 fund to supply employment in dull times by regulated construction work.

At the request of Gov. Ralph W. Brewster of Maine who presented the plan, the governors considered his proposal of endorsement in executive session. At its conclusion, it was announced officially that no action had been taken as it was not a policy of the governors' conferences to adopt resolutions.

"Picture the approach of an economic crisis with unemployment threatening on every hand," Governor Brewster said. "The release of three billions in construction contracts by public and quasi-public authority would remedy or ameliorate the situation in the twinkling of an eye.

"To crystallize such authority is proposed his survey the creation of a condition by concerted action that shall make possible a remedy that will appeal persuasively to all. Follow the flow of those three billions to the contractor, to the laborer, to the material men, to the factory, to the factory employes, to the merchants, to the farmers it goes like the house that Jack built and unemployment is at an end.

"Organization for prosperity is the next lesson that America may teach the nations of the world," he concluded.

During the afternoon Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, who is also a pilot of airplanes, carried a trimotored monoplane aloft with several governors and their guests as passengers.

FARMERS' EDUCATIONAL AND COOPERATIVE UNION

DENVER, Nov. 21—(AP)—Proposed legislation to be sought by the farmers at the coming session of congress occupied the attention of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America today through its legislative committee as the organization's annual convention heard more pleas from the speakers' platform for coordination of cooperative activities with a view to market price control.

The report of the legislative committee, the chairman of which is Gov. Walter J. Maddock of North Dakota, was not expected before Thursday. Included among the subjects yet to be considered by the committee tonight were those of "an adequate" tariff on farm production and the union's attitude toward the principles embodied in the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill.

ITALIAN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES IN LAST SESSION

Although this will be a short session, a number of important matters have still to come before the outgoing chamber which will be dissolved by royal decree some time toward the end of next month. Among these matters are the bills giving a legal and constitutional status to the grand council of fascism, a bill for making application of the fascist "charter of labor" obligatory on all employers. A measure for an increase in workmen's pensions and various bills for extensive public works.

The passage of this government-backed legislation is looked for some time before the middle of December.

SEN. BINGHAM REPORTS CONDITIONS IN STORM DEVASTATED PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 21—(AP)—Concluding a week of study of post hurricane conditions with the idea of suggesting both governmental and other means of assistance, United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut tonight said that he could not recall in the history of the United States a situation like that of Porto Rico as the result of the September hurricane.

"In proportion of area devastated and the people and resources affected," he said, "no state or territory of the United States has suffered as has Porto Rico."

Senator Bingham said that he believed the Red Cross would have to continue its work beyond present plans, that philanthropic foundations and organizations should give aid in an unprecedented degree, and that congress should provide the insular government with immediate funds for reconstruction of schools and roads which would mean quick and widespread employment. Congress also should consider long term credit to farmers, particularly coffee growers through the federal land bank, he said.

Born in Honolulu where he spent many years, the senator said that he knew tropical island life and could judge the extent of Porto Rico's loss. Damages in the cities was less than he had expected but the country devastation was worse.

Senator Bingham was joined by Representative Edgar R Kelss of Williamsport, Pa., chairman of the house committee on insular affairs, who came from Haiti and Santo Domingo. The representative will remain for a week but Senator Bingham sails for home tomorrow.

NO DISCIPLINE DURING SINKING OF THE VESTRIS

Chief Officer Frank Johnson Tells of Disobedience of Subordinate—Members of Crew Assigned to Particular Lifeboats in Time of Disaster Failed in Every Instance—Insurance Surveyor Rated the Liner Under the Highest Classification.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—A story of confusion in striking contrast to the popular conception of sea discipline during emergencies, was painted in a federal court room today by Chief Officer Frank Johnson of the steamer Vestris, in telling for the second time the story of the ship's sinking nine days ago off the Virginia Capes.

The release mechanism on the life boats failed to work in every instance, he said, women and children were put in boats which stood the poorest chance of being safely launched, subordinate officers ignored the orders of their superiors and the crew failed to go to their assigned life boat stations to help in saving the passengers.

Although Johnson was on the stand for a long time when the hearing into the disaster, which cost more than 100 lives, opened before U. S. Commissioner F. A. O'Neill, most of the testimony elicited from him today was not brought out at his initial questioning.

United States Attorney Tuttle, who is conducting the inquiry and who questioned Johnson on his first appearance, brought out the information about the life boat release mechanism within a few minutes after the chief officer took the stand.

Johnson is senior surviving officer of the Vestris, Capt. William J. Carey newly appointed commodore of the Lamport & Holt line, having gone down with his ship, jumping into the sea at the last moment without a life belt.

"Any effort made to use the release mechanism on the life boats?" Tuttle asked Johnson after the chief officer had described the apparatus.

"Yes," said the witness. "It was not successful. In two instances chains attached to the handles which are supposed to release the boats when pulled down, broke."

Under further questioning, he acknowledged that he knew of not a single instance in which the release mechanism did work.

When Tuttle was through with the witness the questioning was taken up by Capt. A. T. Jessup, U. S. N., retired, American special nautical advisor to Commissioner O'Neill.

"There has been testimony," Captain Jessup said, "that some of the life boats had no officers in them. Why?"

"I suppose they didn't get in," Johnson replied.

"You were chief officer, were you not, in general command under the captain. Had you no authority over your own subordinates?"

"I saw one officer coming out on deck," Johnson replied, "and told him to go to his boat. He turned and walked away. What could I do?"

"Are you as a chief officer asking me a question like that?" rumbled the portly former naval officer.

Captain Jessup then drew attention to previous testimony of other witnesses that some of the life boats were left hanging in the davits with none of the crew making any attempt to launch them.

"Weren't they assigned to go to particular boats in time of disaster?" he asked.

"Yes," Johnson acknowledged, "but they weren't there."

"Weren't you chief officer in charge of the whole crew?"

"I couldn't go hunting all over the ship for them."

Captain Jessup referred to other testimony that women and children were put in life boats on the high side of the ship, boats that were never launched and that went down with the ship, loaded with passengers.

"Was not that side of the ship the most difficult to launch life boats from?" the nautical expert asked. And the chief officer wrinkled his brow and clasped his hands tightly in his lap.

"Well, yes," he said, after several moments silence. "It most certainly was."

"Why were most of the women and children on the Vestris put in those boats then?" Captain Jessup asked.

"Most of the passengers were gathered up there away from the water," Johnson offered in explanation.

Previously he gave much the same reason to U. S. Attorney Tuttle for one boat on the low side being launched with only a handful of men in it and those all members of the crew.

"Why were there so few people in that boat?" Tuttle asked before Captain Jessup took the witness.

"There were so few about at the time," Johnson said. "It was on the starboard side and almost everyone was up on the port side."

When Captain Jessup was through with the chief officer, having questioned him at length about leaking doors and ports on the Vestris and having asked him why the Vestris had reported "nothing to communicate" to its sister ship, the Volturno, a few hours before it sank, a question Johnson could not answer, Tuttle continued his examination.

Johnson told Tuttle that he knew the situation of the Vestris was critical but that if he himself had been in command he would have delayed sending an SOS just as long as Captain Carey did.

"Why wouldn't you have sent it?" Tuttle asked.

"Well, the gale was moderating at the time Monday."

"But the list of the ship as you have said, was steadily increasing, and water was coming in from an unknown source. Under these conditions you would not have sent out an SOS before 10 o'clock Monday morning? That's your position is it?"

"I suppose it is."

"But you know now you would have been wrong, don't you?"

"Yes, I guess I would."

VESTRIS RATED HIGH BY INSURANCE SURVEYOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—An insurance surveyor for Lloyds of London, which rated the lost liner Vestris under its highest classification, told the board of enquiry of the department of commerce today he had been informed that a working door near the water line on the starboard side of the vessel was usually kept open on most of the southern voyages for ventilation to the crew's quarters.

It was through these working doors, some witnesses have testified in the commerce department inquiry and another before U. S. Commissioner O'Neill that water poured into the liner and created a list to starboard before it sank off the Virginia Capes a week ago Monday, with a loss of more than 100 lives.

James J. Short of New York, who said he obtained his information about the door from J. Blue, third officer of the Vestris, testified that unlike the coal ports, which also were said by some witnesses to have been leaking, the working door closes from within, and when he last examined the vessel the door was properly fitted with gaskets and packing. Other doors and the life boats, he said, were in proper condition.

He was one of the final witnesses of the day in which the board heard from survivors that some equipment of the vessel was defective, and from officers of one of the rescue vessels that life boats were in seaworthy condition.

Capt. Schuyler Forbes Cummings, and three of his officers on the steamer American Shipper, which picked up five boat loads of Vestris survivors, said they found the Vestris life boats in good condition despite a 20-hour hammering in a stormy sea after the liner went down. The life boats were not picked up by the rescue steamer because of lack of time, he said.

J. B. Dovalle, associated with the Brazilian consulate in New York, and a survivor, testified that the porthole of his third class cabin in the forward part of the ship was without a gasket or washer, and leaked constantly after the ship ran into rough weather the day before it went down. Port doors likewise were leaking, he said.

Dovalle said the life boat in which he escaped had to be chopped loose from its blocks, and in this he was supported by Edward John Martin, another survivor, who added that difficulty was experienced in getting other life boats away.

TRAIL OF ROTHSTEIN'S SLAYER GETTING WARM

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—A pretty Chicago cloak model spent an hour and a quarter in District Attorney Banton's office today, and after she had gone the New York police department let it be known that the trail of Arnold Rothstein's slayer, was getting rather warm.

The woman was Mrs. Ruth Keyes, 24 year old wife of a Chicago brakeman. She had been in the Park Central hotel that Sunday more than a fortnight ago, the day the spectacular gambler was fatally shot. In fact she said she had had a drink or two with a man in Room 349, the room in which the shooting occurred not long after she had gone out of it.

When police officials in the sequence of Mr. Banton's office, showed her some Rogue's Gallery pictures she selected one as the likeness of one of the three men she had seen in the room.

Soon after the identification, word went out from police headquarters that the man she picked out was a notorious gunman with a criminal record that embraced one arrest for murder. Less than a year ago the man himself was shot. He has been sought vainly, officials said, in various endeavors of underworld characters here, but is believed to have left town. St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland are among the cities he is known to have visited frequently, headquarters reported, and police throughout the country, who have his photograph and finger prints, have been asked to look out for him.

GENERAL BOOTH SUFFERS FROM SLEEPLESSNESS

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Catherine Booth, eldest daughter of General William Bramwell Booth, today told a meeting of Salvation Army women that the illness of the aged commander of the organization had passed the critical stage. She explained that sleeplessness still was an obstacle to his recovery.

Miss Booth, who is a commissioner in the army, appeared before the 44th anniversary meeting of the women's social work of the Salvation Army, held at the Victoria hotel. Princess Beatrice presided. Miss Booth said:

"My father is not out of danger, although his illness has passed the critical stage. The doctors have definitely stated that his condition has so improved that we have every reason to hope from this rally, that he may continue to gain ground."

She added that for a fortnight the general had obtained only three hours sleep in each 24 hours. She said that in one stretch of 48 hours he had no sleep whatsoever and that it was then his condition became critical.

The usual evening bulletin from his physicians tonight said that General Booth was not as well as the result of his sleeplessness last night.

DEATH OF FORMER MAYOR SCHMITZ OF SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21—(AP)—Those older San Franciscans who cherish memories of days when there were more derbies, fewer automobiles and the earthquake and fire had not yet changed the physical aspect of this Bohemian seaport expressed regret today at the passing of Eugene E. Schmitz, the city's former musician mayor.

Schmitz died here yesterday of heart disease, at the age of 74. Although in recent years he had lived in semi-retirement as a musician, he had one of the most picturesque careers of any product of this city.

DONAHUE BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21— Former City Clerk and Treasurer James S Donahue, Jr., was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of embezzlement to which he entered a demurrer through Attorney Arthur T. Kelley. Judge Frank H. Foss overruled the demurrer and bound the accused over to the January term of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $5000. The defalcations charged in the warrant against Donahue as issued by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher were alleged to have taken place between June 9, 1925 and September 12, 1927 and amounted to $5,010.87 of money claimed to have been appropriated from various departments of the city clerk's office. Donahue was released on bonds following today's court session.

LITTLE BUSINESS DONE AT SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21—Business remained virtually at a standstill again today at the short calendar session of the Windham county superior court held here. None of the six cases which were assigned to be heard this week have as yet come up for trial. The three cases to be heard Tuesday were put over, one of them until today but it was settled out of court. This was the case of the Jordan Hardware company of this city vs. Nathan Gilman of Bozrah, a suit to recover a balance of $116 on the sale of a furnace gas burner in October, 1926. The defendant alleged that the burner was not filling the requirements as guaranteed and therefore refused to pay the balance. The case had been assigned for second today and the attorneys John B Harvey for the plaintiff and Charles V. James of Norwich for the defendant, asked the court for a few minutes in which to attempt a settlement. The conference lasted nearly one hour before a settlement had been reached.

The first case to have been heard today was that of the Schofield & Wellington company of Springfield, Mass., vs. George J. Kirby of Mansfield Hollow. The court was informed that one of the principals on the plaintiff side, a stock broker, was detained in New York city and unable to attend court. On request of the plaintiff attorney the case was called off the list by the court.

This case is a suit for the recovery of $845.25 damages for services alleged to have been rendered in May, 1925. The Springfield concern alleges that on May 23, 1925, it was employed by the defendant as public accountants to render service for him in securing facts for a proposed refinancing of the defendant's business. The bill for this service was presented for services from May 25 to June 1, on June 13, 1925, and amounted to $275 with expenses of $70.25, which the plaintiffs allege has not been paid.

Judge Yeomans announced that the only other case on the list, that of the Package Paper company vs. Louis P. Fancher, both of Putnam, that was to have been heard in Putnam Thursday, had been called off the list. He then adjourned court until Friday, December 7 at 10 a. m. in this city when a short calendar session will be held.

A public hearing, one of a series being held throughout the state, was held in the auditorium of the Windham street model school Tuesday evening for the presentation of facts concerning the proposed revision and codification of the school laws. Dr. A B. Meredith of Hartford, state commissioner of education explained in his talk that educational equity was the fundamental motive being evolved in accordance with the report of the commission constituted by the general assembly in 1925 and of which Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton of Windham was a member. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Willimantic Woman's club and Dr. Meredith was introduced by Mrs. Frederick R. Noble, president. Prior to the talk the Glee club of the Willimantic State Normal school rendered selections.

The funeral services for Mrs. Dorothy Marion Whitney were held at the home, 54 Hewitt street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of the First Congregational church officiating. Burial was in the North Windham cemetery. The bearers were William Congdon, Russell A. Andrews, John Boss and William Burns. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

In the presence of a large attendance of members, Past Exalted Ruler John J. Mack, of Hartford lodge, No. 19, B. P. O. Elks, district deputy grand exalted ruler of Connecticut east, conducted his annual visitation to Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, at the home this evening. The meeting was in charge of Exalted Ruler Maurice S. Leonard assisted by his staff of officers. In compliance with an annual custom, past exalted ruler P. D. Donahue was presented with a handsome watch. The presentation was made by Treasurer Raymond A. Parker on behalf of the lodge. Following the meeting District Deputy Mack and his staff were guests of the lodge at an entertainment. Esquire Harry S. Gaucher was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Considerable interest has been aroused here in the coming of State Police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley Thursday evening to speak at a public meeting of the Congregational Church Brotherhood. Commissioner Hurley, who spent considerable time during the summer seasons in this city for several years and has many local friends will talk on the work of his department and present interesting sidelights of unusual detective work. Mayor Charles A. Gates and members of the police committee of the common council and Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady have been invited to attend the meeting.

A talk on Life Insurance illustrated by motion pictures was given at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel tonight and preceded by a dinner. President Robert H. Fenton was in charge. Announcement was made that the regular meeting scheduled for next Wednesday would be omitted owing to its proximity to Thanksgiving day.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Louisa Whyte of Windham Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Cooke, also of Windham, in honor of her approaching marriage to Amos Porter of this city. The 20 guests present enjoyed a delightful evening and presented the bride-elect with numerous gifts.

Assurance was given today by Superintendent Willard N. Brown of the pumping station that the city is out of danger of a shortage of ice this year. There are between 500 and 600 tons of ice still in storage at the municipal plant in Mansfield, this ice being from the crop harvested last February. It was noted that the demand for ice the past summer was considerably lower than for previous years.

The interesting discovery has been made at the new Willimantic State Trade school where the studies and working curriculum has just been perfected, that there is considerable musical talent among the students. F T. Hammond, instructor in draughting, has met with the boys of the school who are interested in music to discuss the project of organizing a trade school band.

The Windham county commissioners, treasurer and other county officials met at the county jail in Brooklyn this afternoon to transact business in preparation for the making of annual reports on the jail and county home.

An exhibit of the first "fruit of the loom" of the new Willimantic Silk Inc. is being shown in a window of the Boston store. The exhibit consists of several yards of unfinished lemon color crepe de chine and several skeins of silk thread together with spools quill fitting and shuttles

Four members of the Dramatic club presented a cleverly enacted one-act play at the Lyceum meeting of Windham High school this morning in the school auditorium. Miss Elizabeth Crandall of the club directed the play and the players were Marion Branch, Richard Fenton, Ethel Beebe and Miss Crandall.

Miss Lillian E. Bailey, of Danielson, president of the Connecticut department, Woman's Relief Corps, and other department officers were guests of Francis S. Long, W. R. C. No. 28, at a supper and meeting held in the G. A. R. rooms of the town building this evening. There were also several members of the local G. A. R. post in attendance.

With 19 prisoners now confined at the Tolland county jail Frederick O. Vinton, of Eagleville, sheriff of the county, stated today that the number was the largest in two years. There are several of these prisoners who are awaiting trial in the superior court.

LIGHTING POLES ORDERED MOVED BACK FROM ROAD

As a result of the visit made here Tuesday by the officials of the tree division of the state highway department the men in employe of the C. C. P. and L. Co., were at work Wednesday moving the new poles several feet further back from the road. Although they will still be a drawback to the natural beauty of the main street, the danger to motorists will be considerably lessened. Credit is due the borough officials for having brought the matter to the attention of the state authorities who have taken steps to remedy the situation.

Arhur W. Holmes of New London was a caller here Wednesday.

Bacon academy track team was defeated Monday afternoon by Chapman Tech team of New London in a three mile race north of the village. The race was run over a winding, sandy road and the boys were hampered by wet, windy weather. The final result was:

Older residents regret the passing of Mrs. Lulu Geer Palmer of Rockville, R. I., and Mrs. Lucy Swan Phillips of Voluntown whos recent deaths have removed two who were well known here for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer and son Marvin entertained at a coon dinner Thursday evening. Their guests included Mrs. Annie Cook, Mrs. Byron Dawley, Mrs. Sarah Brown, Miss Sarah D. Palmer and Wilfred Beaulieu. Messrs Beaulieu and Palmer bagged the two young coons Tuesday evening about nine o'clock on the same branch of a tree. The guests did full justice to a fine dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leech, her niece, Miss Claire Leech and chaufeur of Pawtucket were Thursday afternoon callers on Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Aimy. They brought with them a large variety of choice chrysanthemums, also a beautiful bouquet of carnations and roses.

Mrs. Annie M. Cook and Mrs. Byron Dawley were recent guests of Mrs. Dawley's brother-in-law and his recent bride, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley for dinner at the Wauregan hotel and the Vitaphone with Al Jolson later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Dawley were also guests Sunday at a family dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook at Jewett City.

It appears that Voluntown had a higher percentage of votes cast in the recent elcetion than North Stonington, and more significant yet, not a single vote was discarded.

Enormous loads of slab wood cut in stove lengths are being carted away from Dean's mill.

Depredations continue on uninhabited property. Marauders seem determined to possess the last stick or bit of iron, while owners are helpless to protect themselves.

Chester Miner and son Raymond among other game have bagged fourteen coons.

PAST MASTERS' NIGHT WITH ATTENDANCE OF 140

The ceremonies and degree work of Past Masters' night, held Tuesday evening, marks one of the finest Masonic events ever celebrated by Mt. Vernon, No. 75. Preceding the opening of the lodge, Mrs. H. E. Paul served a chicken pie supper in Rioux hall. During the supper hour fine music was furnished by the Lisbon orchestra, followed by two selections by the Mt. Vernon male quartette from Baltic, Matthew Bailey, Willis Ridgeway, Albert Hilton and John Faulkner. Their numbers were I Love Old Indians and Whispering Roses. After the work of the evening had been turned over to the past masters, the chairs were occupied in the following order: Most Worshipful Past Grand Master of Masons of Connecticut Arthur M. Brown, 1908-09, again took up the gavel and occupied the east in his home town lodge, receiving the gavel from Harold R. Field, master of Mt. Vernon, with due ceremony. The other officers were: Worshipful Edwin M. Gray, 1899-1900, senior warden; Wallace H. Payne, 1917-18-19, junior warden; George H. Jennings, 1888-89, treasurer; George H. Prior, 1904, secretary; Edward F. Blake, 1916, chaplain; Norman B. Parkhurst, 1922-1923, senior deacon; Earle E. Gilbert, 1915, junior deacon; William T. Crumb, 1906-07, senior steward; Benjamin R. Gardner 1921, junior steward; Raymond M. Cheney, 1910-11, marshal; Fred L. Kanahan, 1920, tyler.

During the work 140 were present, including delegations from St. James, No. 23 and Somerset, No. 34 of Norwich, Moosup lodge, No. 113 of Moosup; Ionis of Grene, R. I., Brainard, No. 107, New London and Moriah, No 15, Danielson. There were 22 past masters present and 38 visitors from other lodges, not including a number of members of Mt. Vernon who now reside elsewhere, among whom were Worshipful Archibald M. Clarke, 1913-14, and George Clarke of Jamestown, R. I.

The Master Mason's degree was exemplified in full form with excellency and ritualistic accuracy.

This he did with such precision and dignity, as to fully merit the outburst of applause which followed his unusual feat of memory.

Any candidate who can claim the honor of having been raised to the degree of Master Mason, with Arthur M. Brown in the seat of government has received a benefit not soon forgotten. The degree team never appeared to better advantage, nor did 12 fellow craft ever excel Tuesday evening's performance of the difficult evolutions on the floor. Worshipful Master Field is being congratulated for bringing to a successful culmination such an important affair. Mrs. Paul's waitresses for the supper were: Mrs. Charles Cornell, Mrs. S. H. Holmes, Mrs. W. T. Crumb, Mrs. W. H. Payne, Mrs. J. T Stewart, Mrs. E. S. Hiscox, Mrs. C. E Maynard, Miss Margery Brewster, Mrs. Marion Paul Strickland of Middletown, Conn., Mrs. B. W. # SUGAR MAKES EATING A JOY

Why eat unflavored, unappetizing foods?

A change is coming over the well-informed eating ideas of this country. For a time, food faddists tried to make us believe that we had to eat all kinds of things we didn't like in order to be healthy.

Good sense is beginning to assert itself and we now know that the foods that are good for us may also be the most enjoyable. In fact, if we don't like the healthful foods, we probably won't eat them.

Prominent medical and other scientific authorities are now reminding us that appetizing flavors may be developed and improved by sugar. One well-known scientist, for example, states that "fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Fruit acids are softened by sugar."

The only safe rule for a healthful diet is to eat as large a variety of foods as possible, including healthful cereals, fruits and vegetables made appetizing to the taste by the judicious use of sugar. Sugar is not only nutriment in its least costly form. It is Nature's perfect flavor. Sugar develops the appetizing quality of nearly all fruits. Desserts of fresh or cooked fruits are growing more and more popular. Modern candy containing fruits, nuts and pure sugar is delicious and satisfying at the end of a meal.

No one should overeat or underexercise, but everyone, in order to be healthy, should eat plenty of healthful foods and enjoy them. The Sugar Institute.

PROTECTIVE ASSO. URGED FOR EASTERN CONN. BANKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 21—From a responsible quarter the suggestion came today that it might be well for banking institutions in this corner of the state to enter into some sort of agreement tending to protect them from such evidently malicious experiences as befell the Putnam Savings bank this week. The plan suggested contemplates an arrangement under which all banks would unite in seeking out, though the search be expensive, persons that start rumors or stories tending to prove injurious to a bank, and seeing to it that such persons are as adequately punished as the laws of the state of Connecticut provide. It is pointed out that all such stories have an original source. By checking back from person to person who repeats such stories it is usually possible to trace the author; for no person who has been told such a dangerous story, and has repeated it, is going to admit that it originated with him, unless it really did, and very likely will remember, facing the likelihood of prosecution, just who did tell him. The matter of protecting banks from the stories of malicious persons is regarded here as so important to many thousands of people that consideration of the proposal for a joint agreement to hunt the authors of such stories down and prosecute them to the limit is receiving serious consideration.

B. and L. Association Report

A current financial statement of the Danielson Building and Loan association being mailed to shareholders shows assets of $203,539.18. Of this amount $191,175 is represented in first mortgage loans, $6,031.50 in share loans and $6,332.59 cash balance. Since organization in 1916, the association has issued 26 series of shares, the first of this series coming to maturity in the spring of this year, and the second series since that time. Other series will come due henceforth on an average of four series a year for the next several years. The association, which has been consistently successful from its organization, is about to issue a new series of shares—the 27th. The association has been the means of aiding numbers of persons to own their homes, and meanwhile has paid a liberal interest rate to its shareholders.

Economics Demonstration

The Home Economics club of Killingly high schol has demonstrated quite effectively very recently that it is doing practical things. A tea to the members of the faculty and parents of the girls has just been given at the school. This followed an examination by the parents of work done so well by members of the sewing class. The exhibit included a number of very lovely dresses. Tea was served in the cooking laboratory. Cakes, cookies, pies and candy made by the Home Economics class were recently included in a fod sale held at the Eastern Connecticut Power company's building.

Windham County Has $13 000 Deficit

Windham county has a deficit of between $12,000 and $13,000 for the past year, it was shown today, when the county commissioners, county treasurer, county auditors, other county officials, members of the legislature from this section and a few of their guests met at the county jail in Brooklyn. The auditors, A. L. Weatherhead of Willimantic and N. J. Fournier of Moosup, reported the books found in order. A dinner was served at the noon hour. The deficit forecasts another county tax. Present conditions, it is evident, make deficits a matter of course. The county is charged with the heavy expense of maintaining the county home for children in the Sawyer district of Putnam, and the county jail at Brooklyn. The charges have increased with the passing years, as charges for about everything have increased, yet the county's revenue is far less than it was a decade ago. One important loss of revenue is that that came from liquor licenses, amounting to several thousands of dollars each year. Another material loss is the income from jail labor, which years gone by amounted to several thousands of dollars each year. Even with the most careful administration, county officials appear to be liable to face county deficits from now on, and these must be made up through a county tax, distributed proportionately between the towns.

Upwards of 30 people, the majority of them engaged in various phases of social welfare work in eastern Connecticut communities gathered for luncheon at the Park inn, Reynolds street today. The organization is known as the New London and Windham County Council of Social Welfare Workers. The speaker at today's meeting was Miss Constance Leigh, superintendent of the Newington Home for Crippled Children.

Miss Marion Dowd, member of the faculty of Killingly high school, is the new guardian of the Wakatatima Campfire girls, an organization that is now engaged with its fall activities and preparing for the winter season. Miss Welthy Beckwith, another teacher at the high school, is assistant guardian. Recently members of the group held a food sale, and profited to the extent of $16, and their first party of the season also proved a success. Included in the girls' campfire activities are visits to the Community house at Plainfield for swimming. The group plans to give a play after Christmas.

Chief A. P. Woodward, in his capacity of fire marshal, is gradually checking up on conditions in the business section. When this work is completed he will begin inspections of residential properties and his work eventually will cover every building within the borough limits. The service he is rendering seeks to reduce fire and health hazards. Where such hazards are found to exist, Chief Woodward orders them corrected, and failure to comply with his orders can be followed by prosecution.

It was indicated today that there remains hope of eventually forming some sort of fire district or zone including properties in the Connecticut Village section of Danielson and adjoining areas. Such a zone or district is desired by some of the interested property owners as a means of providing for fire hydrant and street lighting costs. It will be recalled that formerly—prior to the closing of its big fabric plant the Connecticut Mills company annually met the cost of street light and hydrant service in the Connecticut Village section, but discontinued this arrangement early this year.

This is the eve of the close of the open season for hunting game birds for the present fall season. This fall the season closes on November 23. Making the most of their opportunities sportsmen were afield in numbers today and will be out again tomorrow. All through the present season the state has maintained a staff of game wardens to regularly patrol Windham county. These wardens have kept a careful lookout for violators of the game laws, and the fact that they have been called upon to make very few arrests is evidence that their work has been well done and worth while. As the season draws to a close it is apparent that a very considerable number of pheasants, partridges and woodcock remain for other seasons and to propagate themselves. Quail, which could not be legally hunted this year, are said to have increased con-

DEPOSITORS WHO WITHDREW ACCOUNTS NOT TO LOSE INT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 21—Conditions at the Putnam Savings bank, for the past two days subjected to a run, as the result of malicious rumors, were restored to normal today. Indications this morning were that statements made by Commissioner of Banks Lester Shippee and former Commissioner John B. Byrne, as well as statements from associate banks in Putnam and Danielson satisfied the depositors of the bank that it was in a sound and solvent condition. When the bank opened its doors this morning several depositors who had been frightened Monday and Tuesday by the false stories and had withdrawn their funds were back at the bank to reopen their accounts.

Treasurer Daniel J. Byrne, head of the institution, said this morning that all efforts to place under arrest and prosecute persons responsible for the spread of the rumor will be abandoned by the state Mr Byrne said today that he did not wish to see the charge of making false statements against the bank, which if proven is a state prison offense and also calls for a heavy fine, "pinned on any person."

The Putnam Savings bank today is one of the most widely known in the state and is doing a greater business and serving more people in this community than any other savings institute. During the past decade the Putnam Savings bank, under its present administration established records that are yet to be qualed by any other bank in the state. The bank today issued a statement to the press whereby they would accept any account withdrawn during the run without the loss of interest. Other banks in Putnam and Danielson, who did much to curb the run on the Putnam Savings bank by signing statements to the effect that they would purchase any bank book at face value today offered the opportunity to all those whose books they have taken to redeem them at the same value thereby affording the patrons of the Putnam Savings bank a chance to reopen their accounts there.

MANY OFFER TO ADOPT "SONNYBOY", ABANDONED BABY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 21—"Sonnyboy", Putnam's abandoned baby is in demand. The story printed in Wednesday's Bulletin relating the facts concerning the abandoning of the baby at the home of David Grauteau on Canal street caused several in this city today who are without "Sunrays" to notify Capt. Jarvis of the local police that they would be glad to adopt "Sonnyboy" who is now temporarily in Mrs. Grauteau's care. "Sonnyboy" today semed to be satisfied with life as it is at the present, even though his parents are not to be found. Medical attention is being rendered daily and reports are that his physical condition was not affected by his exposure to the elements.

Capt. Jarvis and State Trooper Donald E Geddes of Danielson barracks left today for Willimantic, following up a clue, which they believe will establish the identity of "Sonnyboy's" mother and father. Applicants who informed the police today that they were desirous of filing adoption papers to take possession of the unfortunate golden-haired four months old infant are all reputable Putnam people and have means of affording Sonnyboy the opportunities of life. Capt. Jarvis made no statement this afternoon as to who Sonnyboy's adopted parents would be.

Mrs. Grauteau who for the past three days has been providing a mother's care for the child is herself the mother of a large family and is not physically able to care for the deserted baby, whom fate left at her doorstep Sunday evening wrapped in a cheap blanket.

The annual meeting of the Anselm Mayotte post No. 13, American Legion was held Tuesday evening at Arnold's grill where a dinner was enjoyed by about 40 members, their wives and guests from the state headquarters and other posts.

An inspiring report was rendered by the retiring commander, Martin B. Robertson, showing the post's activities during the past year, and presenting the members opportunities for community welfare and civic progress, one of the purposes of the American Legion. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Commander, Stanley Shaw; vice commanders, Arthur C. Keith and Francis Metcalf; finance officer, Whitman Danielson; adjutant, Jonathan L. Johnson; assistant adjutant, Archibald Macdonald; executive committee, Martin B. Robertson, Leon M. Farrin, Raymond Medbury, Charles Ryan, A. D. McIntyre; chaplain, E. F. Perry. The officers elected were installed by A. E. Zimmerman, district commander who later in the evening complimented the post on its increased membership under Commander Robertson's administration. He also invited the members of the Anselm Mayotte post to a district meeting to be held in Danielson on Sunday, December 2.

Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, president of the auxiliary of the local post was the guest of honor and also gave an in-

WHAT S. O. S. INVOLVES

Perhaps nothing has been brought to attention that discloses the need of different rules surrounding the rendition of aid at sea than the situation surrounding the loss of the Vestris.

To those not versed in the rules of the sea, or maritime law, it seems a very easy matter for the captain of a ship to solicit and get assistance from the many vessels in his vicinity. That is frequently done but perhaps it is not so generally known that this places heavy obligations upon the owners of such a ship, so much so that S. O. S. calls are not used with the freedom that one might expect. This is explained by Edmund Burgess of the Radiomarine corporation who declares "There is not a ship commander alive who would send an S. O. S. so long as there was a possible chance of avoiding abandonment of the ship. If he sent the distress call under any but the most urgent conditions he would never be able to get another berth. Besides the payment of salvage fees, any passenger line objects to the adverse advertising it receives by having a distress signal sent from one of its ships unless it is absolutely necessary."

B. R. Newton a former assistant secretary of the treasury and collector of the port of New York further declares that "when a shipload of human beings is caught in the merciless perils of the sea, the master of the ship knows that he must choose between letting his ship go to the bottom or sacrifice it to other craft which come to his rescue."

These statements indicate that it was in keeping therewith that Captain Carey of the Vestris was operating. He had confidence in his ship. He was confirmed in his belief that the situation below decks could be met aboard ship. He was unwilling to send for help until he believed it needed. His hopes were stronger than the resistance of the vessel and the efforts of the crew. He delayed too long in seeking aid because of the cost involved and in so doing sacrificed over a hundred lives needlessly.

He was apparently living up to the rules of the sea but the human cargo was partially sacrificed. No one would say that that was the intention of the captain but that is the result of his delayed S. O. S. He and the dead are victims of the marine law. In view of what has happened is it unreasonable to believe that that law or the practice when serious danger threatens ought to be changed?

BORDER CROSSERS

When the United States supreme court reached its decision recently concerning the Canadians who commuted to this country over the border it was believed that the question had been settled. Possibly it has even now, but through the representations of the government concerning the effects of the decision the court has consented to review the decision of the lower court.

This matter has to do with those who live in Canada but who work in the United States. Under an existing treaty Canadians have the right to cross the border into this country, quite the same as residents of this country have the right to go into Canada, but there has arisen the question as to what a commuter is. The department of labor which has the task of enforcing the immigration laws sees where it can be regarded as meaning that any resident of Canada may have this privilege whether they happen to be naturalized Canadians or citizens of foreign countries who have gone into Canada for the purpose of getting across the border into the United States.

The department of immigration encounters many problems in the enforcement of the laws. It is faced with the task of excluding immigrants unless they comply with the laws and yet they are required to admit commuters who may be regularly employed in this country and also those immigrants who may be here as tourists or temporarily on business. It believes that there is a situation at the present time whereby the immigration laws are being circumvented. Whether the supreme court in its review will take a similar view remains to be seen but there appears to be an opportunity for clearing up whatever uncertainty prevails at the present time.

If those who cannot enter the country, those who cannot get in under the quota regulations, through ports of entry are able to take advantage of the Canadian commuter agreement it can be expected that there will be a whole influx from the north. It hardly seems probable that alien residents of Canada can take advantage of the commuter arrangement between Canada and this country but the complicated situation which does prevail deserves to be straightened out, if the court finds it necessary, without delay.

THE WESTERN FLOODS

Once again flood havoc is being reported in great volume in Kansas and Missouri towns. Lives have been lost and much property has been destroyed.

Because of the hard and prolonged rains, the large watersheds furnished a great quantity of water for the brooks and rivers to carry away. All these excess waters gather in greater quantities than the rivers are unable to take care of the result is that they overflow their banks and reach points where no provision has been made to stop them. Brooks become raging streams, carrying bridges away and wrecking buildings and sooner or later this means that there is going to be a bigger burden placed upon the Mississippi.

This flood comes as the result of a long period of drought. The floodgates have been opened after months of little or no rain and the countryside has suffered severely from the effects of this downpour. Dried up brooks have become turbulent, dry flats have become lakes, small streams have been swollen to sizeable rivers and as is customary under such circumstances whatever was movable within reach has been carried away.

These floods are anticipated to a greater or less degree in the spring and fall of the year, though the one just experienced can hardly be rated as an average inundation. It is so much beyond that levees have been broken and it promises to be a considerable time before normal conditions are restored. Hard storms bring relief but they likewise bring much damage not only to the immediate locality where the storms occur but to the territory through which the rivers must carry off this big surplus of water. Upon the severity and the duration will depend the final effects of the storms.

FALL RIVER'S ENDEAVOR

Fall River's action in establishing its new form of city government in place of the one that has prevailed so long must necessarily attract attention. It has declared for a city manager form of government under a mayor and council, the latter to be made up of four members, while there will be a school committee of six.

Next Tuesday it will have its primary for the selection of candidates for the ticket to be voted election day and nomination papers have been filed by 120 persons for these several offices. Party lines are eliminated in this new form of government. Anyone desiring can take out nomination papers and it is apparent that there is a desire on the part of many to help start the new government. From these 120 the voters will eliminate all but two for each office.

From the number of nominations it would appear that there is much interest in the change. Just now it is a free for all with seven candidates for the mayoralty, 35 for the council and 28 for the school committee. In the interest of good government the taxpayers' association, which has sponsored the new form of government, has picked candidates for the respective offices which it recommends. This is done without any regard for former political affiliations and it is expected that it will have its influence upon the electorate.

The candidates named by this association have been selected, it is to be inferred, in the interest of good government. It would be expected that they would be favored because of their fitness for the particular jobs, because of their ability and their knowledge of the city's problems. The impression prevails that those approved by the association will win. That is entirely probable at the inauguration of the new government but the manner in which it works out and the future influence of the organization will be watched with keen interest both as to the men chosen and the advantages gained by the city through the change. Fall River is apparently endeavoring to get the right men through a new method.

THE ROTHSTEIN MURDER

Evidently New York doesn't like the idea of getting the same kind of a reputation that Chicago has acquired as the result of gang murders. In the killing of Arnold Rothstein, known as a gambler, the police have as yet been unable to locate the murderer. It doesn't appear as yet that they know who did it.

There are many other murder cases which have not been solved but because of that and the circumstances surrounding the Rothstein killing there is an insistence that the murderer be found or a good and sufficient reason be given.

The case is one in which the mayor has busied himself to the extent that he has directed the police to find the guilty party within a fixed time or he will take a hand himself. He has been obliged to extend this time a bit because of the increased activity and the reported possibilities, but the situation has caused no small amount of criticism of the police in this and other murders.

The situation is such that New York may well wonder whether it is about to witness a grand shakeup in its police force once more. It has had its scandals and it has instituted reforms. If there has been backsliding and if it is possible for those who use cole lead to have their crimes covered up it is certainly time that it was known and the needed housecleaning started. There can be no thought of toleration of the gangsters. Those who are ready to take life, whether that of a gambler or any other citizen, should be run down and punished. The fact that the man who was shot and died refused to reveal his assailant gives no cause for disinterestedness on the part of the police.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There is much debate as to whether there will be a solid south again. It all depends on the democratic party.

The man on the corner says: Not a few are already worrying about that Thanksgiving dinner.

In view of what the stock market is doing, altitude fliers will have to watch carefully lest they lose their laurels.

A THRILLING STORY

The sympathetic probationer hurried down the corridor which led to the emergency room. She really wasn't supposed to serve there, but a steady stream of operative cases had taxed the regular staff of surgery girls to the limit, and accordingly an outwardly calm, inwardly distracted sub superintendent had distracted the sympathetic probationer to help Dr. Joyce in the emergency room.

Anxiously the sympathetic probationer reviewed the stories she had heard concerning Dr. Joyce—the exacting demands the great surgeon made, his impatience with the slightest deviation from what he considered flawless attention on the part of a nurse.

Resolutely the sympathetic probationer squared her slender shoulders, assumed what she hoped would be regarded as a fruit professional expression, and opened the door of the emergency room. There to be confronted by the sight of a gaunt figure stretched limply on the narrow white table. The man was shabbily dressed, his gray hair uncombed, his sunken eyes closed, his hands handing dejectedly over the edge of the table.

"Hasn't the doctor come yet?" nervously inquired the sympathetic probationer. The patient's eyelids fluttered for a moment and he shook his head weakly.

"I don't suppose you could give me a bit of a stimulant before the doc gets here, could you, nurse?" plaintively suggested the man.

The terribly tired, responded the sympathetic probationer, was a simple wonder to care even some of a bottle of medicine without orders."

"I suppose not," remorsefully sighed the patient, "though it does seem hard, after such a short—"

"You see," continued the patient, "I never expected old Nero would turn against me—me, having trained him and worked with him from the time he was a cub."

"Nero?" questioned the wide-eyed, puzzled probationer.

"Oh!" moaned the probationer in awe. "You trained lions?"

"My gracious!" inadequately exclaimed the probationer.

The handsome but disillusioned interne entered the emergency room just as the man on the table finished telling a blood-curdling tale of how the great king of beasts had sprung from the corner of the training cage, struck out with one sweep of his powerful paw, floored the trainer and, setting his teeth in the prostrate man's leg, defied all comers until forced back into the corner of the cage with red-hot irons.

Half an hour later, his wounds skillfully dressed and bandaged, the raconteur limped out beside the great Dr. Joyce. As the door swung closed behind them the sympathetic probationer looked up at the interne and spoke rapturously:

"Isn't our profession just too wonderful?" The probationer was pretty and the interne, though disillusioned was still appreciative.

"Yeah?" he answered, encouragingly.

"Hospital life is so broadening," continued the probationer. "Why, only this morning I carried a breakfast tray to a Chinaman who had been shot in the tong war, and then I took the temperature of a gangster and now I've helped bandage a lion tamer."

For a moment the interne believed that the probationer possessed humor as well as pulchritude, then, seeing that she was in earnest, he scathingly remarked: "You didn't swallow that bird's story, did you?"

"Why, what do you mean? Isn't he really a lion tamer?"

"Lion tamer indeed!" responded the interne. "He's a bricklayer. He got drunk and fell off a high wall and cut his leg on a rusty dinner pail—that's the kind of a lion tamer he is."

"Well," sighed the probationer, "at least he told a thrilling story."

"Yeah," admitted the interne, "he always does."—Exchange.

It's the Hips That Count.

By Dr. Raymond H. Franzen, New York City

It isn't the height, it's the hips that count. At least the width of the body is more important in determining what a boy or girl should weigh than the length.

It has been customary for a good many years for boys and girls to step on the scales, watch the pointer go round to a spot, and then, knowing how tall they are, to refer to a table of figures to see whether they are above or below par in the game of weight. Most children survive the ordeal with smiling faces, but one or two out of every five find themselves way below the tables and fit candidates for the under-nourished classes.

The body is a cylinder that has diameter as well as height. Body frameworks vary, not only in height but in width and thickness. The wide framework is meant to carry more weight below the hips and fat than a narrow framework even though the height is the same. For this reason the width and depth must be known as well as the height before you can say a person's weight is deficient.

The height-weight tables have, of course, been a valuable aid to health workers in the past. The experience gained from their use and the new data available now make it possible to construct new tables which will be still better and more accurate.

My own studies of weight in relation to height include the measuring of 3,000 children of the fifth and sixth grades, from schools of seventy cities scattered over the country. Schools in these cities were studied by physicians and educators in the effort to find out how to make health programs more effective in the lives of school children. Body measurements and weight were but a part of the ground covered.

The calculations have been carried down to such a fine point that the relative importance of each body dimension in determining weight has been expressed. For instance, among 11½ year old boys the width of hips is 20 per cent of the total influence determining weight, the depth of chest 25 per cent, breadth of chest 20 per cent, height 20 per cent and width of shoulders 5 per cent.

Another point is that the girth of the upper arm and of the calf fluctuates in proportion to weight. For children of similar body framework the size of the calf is a good index to their weight. Measurements of girth and of weight taken in conjunction with the body framework may have great importance in revealing susceptibility to disease, fatigue and future growth.

A child may be heavy without being fat, or fat without being heavy. In other words, the padding under the skin does not go hand in hand with total body weight. It is the size of his skeleton that is most important. Further study of the thickness of the padding under the skin may be very valuable in helping to interpret how well children are assimilating their food.

Rusty Gets Busy

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Wisdom thinks and plans ahead,
And of the future has no dread.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was time for Rusty the Fox Squirrel to get busy. He had found a land where there was plenty to eat. Now he must make the most of his opportunity, for it was getting late in the season. The first thing was to find a home. He had to get acquainted with this place in which he had chosen to make his new home. He must know all the hollows in the trees and all the hollow logs. He must find out where other people lived.

So for a while Rusty was a very busy Squirrel, as he ran this way and scampered that way and hopped the other way. You know, Rusty is much bigger than Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel. He is a stout, heavy fellow. Happy Jack spends a good deal of time on the ground, but Rusty spends even more. At last Rusty found a hollow in a tree-trunk. It was deep enough and it was big enough. Best of all, it was not occupied by anyone. He knew this as soon as he went inside, for there were no beds there. Rusty proceeded to make a bed. This was to be his winter home.

"Now," said Rusty, when his bed was made to suit him, "I've got to find some storehouses. It won't do to let Rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost catch me without plenty of food stored away. It was for this that I left the Green Forest and made the long journey to this place."

So Rusty began hunting. By and by he found a hollow log on the ground. It was half covered by brush. Rusty's eyes sparkled. He went inside. There were some dirt and leaves in there. These he cleaned up. Then he started for the nearest hickory tree. How he did work, storing away nuts in that hollow log. There was nothing but hickory nuts in there. In the end of the log he pushed some dead leaves. This was so that no one coming along would peek in and discover those nuts.

"I must have some beechnuts. Beechnuts are sweet and fattening. I certainly must have some beechnuts," said Rusty, as he talked to himself.

He didn't have to go far to find them. When he found them he began looking about for a place nearby in which to store them. Between two roots of a great tree was a hollow. Rusty cleaned it out and dug it a little deeper. Then he filled that hollow with beechnuts, after which he covered them with dry leaves. Passing by there, you wouldn't have suspected that anyone had a storehouse there. No, sir, you wouldn't have suspected it.

Another storehouse was in an old nest. It was an old crow's nest. In this Rusty stored away pine seeds and certain other seeds that he found. Some walnuts he buried, one here and one there, digging a little pit for each. He didn't bother to go far with these. He dug these little pits and buried these nuts right under the tree where he found them. He knew that he would be able to find them when he needed them. He could trust his nose to lead him to them.

Once while Rusty was intent on burying a nut a Hawk darted down at him. Rusty dodged behind a tree just in time. Then they played a game of hide-and-seek, Rusty dodging back and forth around the trunk of the tree, while the Hawk tried to catch him. There was a hole higher up in that tree, but Rusty didn't bother to seek safety there. He knew he could outdodge that Hawk. But when the Hawk's mate appeared it was a wholly different matter.

"Two against one isn't fair!" cried Rusty, and swiftly climbing that tree, he dodged into that hole, while the Hawks shrieked with disappointment. (Copyright, 1928, by T. W. Burgess.)

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—All the world is familiar with "Andy" Mellon, captain of industry, little giant of finance and a treasury secretary hailed as strikingly fitted by experience and proven ability for the post he holds.

That explains the prompt conclusion of political forecasters generally that Mellon, if he so desires—and they believe he does—may spend another four years at the financial throttle of the ship of state.

The shy, soft voiced, retiring little treasury chief holds a unique position in the world of direct, practical politics into which he came on a national scale so late in life. At Cleveland four years ago, when Coolidge was nominated to succeed himself, Mellon was a power. Again at Kansas City where the foundations of Hoover political achievements were laid, Mellon's gentle voice was a very potent one.

Mellon, Art Patron

But in all this what is there to indicate that wholly different Mellon, long a worshipper at the shrine of art, himself rated as an authority on the Old Masters of the painter's craft? Yet he is the possessor of a private collection rich in selected examples of the works of those he favors. It is very great. And rare personal taste and prolonged study has gone into selection of each new canvas.

The Mellon collection is rated by Washington's leading art authorities as the finest privately held group of pictures in the city. The treasury secretary lives with his paintings. They deck the walls of the palatial apartment he occupies on Massachusetts avenue.

Through the years he has been a resident of the capital he has devoted endless hours between official duties to study of some precious treasure offered him for approval and purchase. Sometimes it is related, a picture has hung on the walls for a year or two, or even longer, only to be rejected finally. Having the love of great paintings in his heart and the ample means to gratify his taste and judgment, the gray, quiet little man seems to have pored and pondered over each addition yearningly. And with it all almost nothing about his activities in this field far removed from his known fields of endeavor, wide enough in all conscience, has reached the public eye.

Few Others at Capital

The Mellon collection is essentially a private one, gathered for his own delight. It is not closed to other lovers of art, however. Those who know and appreciate may easily find their way in to admire. When Count Umberto Gnoli, head of the great department of fine arts built up by the Italian government to conserve the ancient jewels of Italian artistic production and foster and keep alive Italian modern art, was in Washington this fall, the Mellon collection drew him like a magnet.

The late Senator Lodge of Massachusetts was by way of being an art devotee, and Elihu Root, during his Washington life, disclosed interest, knowledge and appreciation. Not many others among cabinet officers, senators or members of the house seem to be touched with that aspect of cultural background.

The mother who could not keep her family well

IT SEEMED as if there was always someone feeling out-of-sorts. Not exactly sick but languid—indifferent to food and irritable. And her husband, who used to enjoy the best of health, was now constantly tired and often discouraged and worried. What could be the matter?

Many a family, due to the lack of bulk in the diet, suffers from constipation. And this evil scourge undermines health and strength — even hope and happiness. It brings throbbing heads and aching backs, dragging feet and slumping shoulders. It often finally leads to untold suffering and disease.

Fortunately thousands of women have found the way to save their families from the evils of constipation. By serving Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—that healthful cereal—in some form every day, constipation is safely relieved and prevented.

It is bulk or roughage that combats constipation. ALL-BRAN is practically all-bulk because it is 100 per cent bran. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. At the same time, it gently distends the intestines. Exercising them—sweeping out poisonous wastes.

Part-bran products seldom contain a sufficient quantity of bulk to be completely effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is infinitely better than habit-forming pills and laxatives. A naturally healthful cereal. To enjoy with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Recipes on package. Mix it with hot cereals. Sprinkle it into soups. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal.

Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants, cafeterias. On dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION OPENS WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The three day State Sunday school convention was opened at the Central Baptist church Wednesday with sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening, at which more than 270 delegates representing various sections of the state were in attendance. This number is expected to be increased by delegates, who will come here for today (Thursday) and Friday's meetings. The convention headquarters are at the Central Baptist church, where a number of sessions are held in the United Congregational church. Rev. William D. Beach, D. D., superintendent of the New Haven district and vice president of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, opened the convention in the absence of Rev. Orville A. Pettey, of New Haven, president of the council, who was unable to attend because of illness.

With Rev. Mr. Beach presiding the evening session was convened at 7.30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church with Prof. William C. Willoughby, professor of missions in Africa, Hartford Seminary foundation, Hartford, in charge of the half hour period of worship. He spoke briefly upon the Appreciation of Selfgiving Service in Teaching.

Rev O. Campbell, educational leader of the Baptist denomination in Connecticut, was introduced as the next speaker. Rev. Mr. Campbell chose for the topic of his address, The Educational Programme of the Denominations in Cooperation in Connecticut. For religious education the church has given us the church school, said the speaker. We have been keen on tolerance, but weak in cooperation, stated Rev. Mr. Campbell. Limited as it is the Sunday school has been our noblest effort to teach religious education. The speaker went on to explain the result derived in cooperation or in united effort. We must teach our children, we must instill the ideals of honesty and unselfishness in our children and we must teach missions, concluded the speaker.

Notable Speakers Today

At this time Rev. Mr. Beach called the attention of the audience to the outstanding features of today's (Thursday) programme. He stated that the third of the Bible series on the parables was to be given by Prof. Bacon Charles H. Tuttle, district attorney of New York city, who is in charge of the Vestris investigation, is also to be a speaker on the program, while Miss Margaret Slattery, author and lecturer of Boston, is to address the afternoon session on the topic, Together, for her only appearance at the convention. Mr. Tuttle will speak on the subject, A Layman's Appreciation of Religious Education, in the Central Baptist church.

Wedding Anniversary Gift

Wallace I. Woodin, general secretary of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, Hartford, and Mrs. Woodin were called to the platform and a beautiful basket of flowers, a gift of the delegates of the convention, was presented to them in commemoration of their 34th wedding anniversary, which fell on Wednesday.

The final speaker of the evening was Miss Mary Alice Jones, director of children's work of the International Council of Religious Education, Chicago, who spoke interestingly upon The Children and Their Religious Needs. During her opening remarks she explained the meaning of religion and the various duties that confronted the religious educator. The boys and girls need more opportunity for the appreciation of the beauty, said the speaker. They need simplified environment. Their experiences need to be enriched and interpreted for them in such a way that they see God. They need to develop God Consciousness. They need to see God. How are you going to come to understand him and know him. Why through fellowship with him. The greatest need of the boy and girl, said the speaker in conclusion, is fellowship with their parents in fellowship with the heavenly father.

Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, was then introduced and during his remarks said that "we are glad to have you with us at this time. I know you are welcome in the homes and hearts of the people, because of what you stand for and what you represent." Rev. Mr. Pitt also stressed the importance of the speakers for today's session namely Prof. Bacon, Miss Slattery and Mr. Tuttle.

Rev. A. H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, presided at the afternoon session, which opened at 2 o'clock at the Central Baptist church, the theme, Appreciation of Christ the Leader, being presented by Prof. William C. Willoughby of Hartford. This was followed by the second of a series of Bible talks, by Prof. Benjamin W. Bacon, D. D., of Yale Divinity school, on the topic, The Lack of Appreciation of the Parabolic Method by late interpreters.

At the conclusion of these two inspiring talks the delegates of the branches of the Sunday school met for class study and conference on the topic, The Real Task of Teaching.

Children's Division

The members of the Children's division repaired to the Noyes parish house of the Central Baptist church. This group was in charge of Miss Edna M. Baxter, of Hartford Seminary Foundation, who delivered an enlightening talk on Living with our Children. Group conferences were then held by the Beginners, Primary and Junior departments. The topic of discussion for the Beginners was Why Should There Be a Beginners Department and was led by Miss Frances Weld Danielson, editor and lesson writer, Congregational Education society, Boston. The primary group had for its subject, Our Aims in Religious Education: In General and Particular, the leader being Miss Jeanette E. Perkins, editor and lesson writer, Congregational Education society, Boston. The topic for the juniors, Do We Know Our Pupils was discussed under leadership of Miss Mary Alice Jones, director of children's work, International Council of Religious Education, Chicago.

Young People's Division

The young people's division programme was held in the Sunday school room of the United Congregational church with Roy A. Burkhart, of Chicago, in charge. He was assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Finn, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Harry Thomas Stock, of Boston.

After the period of worship on the theme, The Meaning of Worship, by Mr. Stock, the main address for this group was delivered by Mr. Burkhart on, How A Leader Proceeds with a Group. In his talk the speaker outlined in detail these three points, the problems of teachers, and the leaders of youth, how to weld the members into a real group and how to build a group programme.

His interesting discourse was followed by group discussions of the intermediate leaders and teachers, relative to problems pertaining to the three branches. The intermediate group discussion was under leadership of Mrs. Finn, the senior group, Mr. Burkhart, and the young peoples group under direction of Rev. Mr. Stock.

Young People Mean Well

In a discussion period the teachers spoke of what the young people are interested in, their remarks centering around four different things. It was brought out that they are interested in social life and thrills, interested in school or vocation, a percentage at least interested in intellectual problems and lastly that the young people have good intentions, that they may not show them in the right way, but that they mean well.

It was the opinion that the young people needed to become dependable, they needed self control, they needed information regarding life generally and that they needed to understand the reality of God. Several ways by which the teachers could help the young people were cited. Among them the teachers agreed that they should not try to put things over on the young people, but that they should join with them in the search of God.

The programme for the members of the administration division was carried out at Bushnell chapel of the Central Baptist church with the topic for discussion, "Worship in the Church School," under the leadership of Prof. A. J. Williams Myers, of Hartford. The Professional Workers met in the auditorium of the Central Baptist for their programme and had for their subject of discussion, Religious Education at World Conferences. Rev. Lorne W. Brown, of Stamford, was chairman of the meeting and Dean Weigle led the discussion. A good number of the delegates of each group were in attendance at the meetings, which proved highly interesting and instructive to them.

Morning Session.

The convention got underway with the morning session at 10.30 o'clock in the Central Baptist church, with worship in charge of Prof. Willoughby, the theme of his subject being, Appreciation of God. Prof. Bacon was then heard in an address on Jesus' Use of the Method Parable, the subject of the first of a series of Bible talks. Several announcements were made by Wallace I. Woodin following the two excellent talks. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey pastor of the Norwich Town Congregational church, was introduced by Mr. Woodin.

Welcome To The City.

Rev. Mr. Bailey, who is president of the Norwich Council of Religious Education under whose auspices the State Sunday School convention is being held welcomed the delegates to the city in a brief address, during which he expressed the thanks of the Norwich council to the Central Baptist church and the United Congregational church for having "open doors" during the convention.

The chief address of the morning session was delivered by Dean Weigle on the topic, "Some Fundamental Appreciations in Religious Education," to the pleasure of the audience, in his talk Mr. Weigle touched upon four fundamental appreciations in religious education.

Executive Committee Luncheon.

The luncheon of the executive committee of the state council was served in the dining room of Bushnell chapel of the Central Baptist church by the women of the church under direction of Mrs. Henrietta Tefft. In the report of the secretary, W. I. Woodin, during the four hour session reference was made to some of the Norwich men who have served the state Sunday school organization in past years. Appreciative words were spoke of Lewis A. Hyde, Waterman R. Burnham, B. F. Bishop, William H. Hall, formerly of this city, now of West Hartford, James L. Case, J. Harlow Graham and the present incumbent of the president's office, Gurdon F. Bailey.

This is the fifth time the state convention has been held in Norwich—the first session dating as far back as 1861, and the last session in 1913. The organization dates back to 1857. During the past year 2,000 pupils were enrolled in teacher training schools of the state, 14 teachers' institutes have been held, and in the many vacation Bible schools conducted last summer there were 271 normal teachers and over 400 voluntary teachers at work. A library of Religious Education is maintained at the state office for the use of Sunday school workers. Announcement was made of a recent legacy of $2,000, which had been left as an endowment to the library. The legacy is to be known as the Hungerford fund.

Local councils of Religious Education have been formed in 15 centers, and these function as auxiliaries to the state council.

Nominating Report.

It was voted to hold a three day convention in 1929. The nominating committee reported the following names for officers for the ensuing year:

President, Rev. Theodore Greene, pastor of the First Congregational church of New Britain; vice president, James L. Case of this city; secretary, Wallace I. Woodin, Hartford; treasurer, John W. Potter, Waterbury; auditor, Henry B. Fancher, West Hartford. These names will be presented to the convention today for acceptance.

A resolution was passed urging more thorough temperance instruction in the Sunday schools.

A resolution was passed commending the valuable work of the educational secretary Rev. Nesbitt McCusky, during the past year and bidding him God-speed in his new field of labor.

The secretary was instructed to send appropriate messages of sympathy to the following: Rev. O. A. Petty, D. D., of New Haven, president of the state council, who has recently undergone an operation and is now recovering; to Oscar Phelps of Hartford, for many years president of the Connecticut council in recognition of his 19 years service to the cause of religious instruction and training of Youth; Frank Congon, a member of the executive committee now seriously ill in the Hartford hospital.

Report Of Treasurer.

The report of the treasurer, John W. Potter was read by Secretary Woodin, showed an indebtedness upon the state organization, in view of this fact the budget for 1929 was cut down to $10,250 from a previous annual budget of about $19,000.

The budget for 1929 follows:

Estimated expenditures — Salaries, $4,800; (a) general secretary $3,000, (b) office secretary $1,500 (c) directors $400; rent $750, international pledge $300, summer school $500 travel $1,500, printing $300, office supplies $250, international supplies $50 telephone $250 postage $250, committee meetings $200, state convention $300, interest $400, summries $200, total $10,250.

Estimated receipts: From Fairfield county $1800, Hartford county $5400, Litchfield county $1400, Middlesex county $1000, New Haven county $1000, Meriden $100, Wallingford $50, New Haven $1000, Waterbury $700 Norwich $400, New London $300, Tolland county $1200 Windham county $600 total $19,750.

ATTORNEYS WILL ARGUE IN $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT

The $15,000 suit of Frank H. Bradford, administrator against Maurice J. Druker of New London for damages for the death of Benjamin F. Bradford of New London is to reach the jury in the superior court in this city some time today (Thursday).

Evidence in the case was concluded late Wednesday afternoon when the attorneys on both sides announced that they rested and would be prepared to begin the arguments the next morning.

Bradford was struck by the Druker automobile on the night of Dec. 31, 1926 at the corner of Montauk avenue and Alger place. He died Feb. 14, 1927. The defendant alleges that he is not liable no wrongdamages by reason of Mr. Bradford's death being due to heart trouble and not the injuries in the accident and also because the Mr. Bradford accepted $150 from the insurance company in settlement and signed a release to that effect.

One of the final witnesses Wednesday was Charles McEvoy, agent for the insurance company, who testified as to visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bradford, telling them that $150 was all he could give them, getting their signature to the release and delivering the draft for $150 to them.

Other testimony had been that Mr. McEvoy had told the Bradfords he would be "fired" if he paid them any more. On cross-examination he admitted he might have said so and that possibly he would not have been "fired" if he had paid more in settlement.

Attorneys Bree and Minnix of New Haven are counsel for the defendant and Attorney C. Hadlai Hull for the plaintiff.

RESPONSES ENCOURAGING IN HOSPITAL AUXILIARY DRIVE

The first week of the membership drive of the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus hospital has been most encouraging, and Mrs. Aurin O. Payson, chairman of the committee, has only praise for her captains who, with their group of helpers, are working steadily and enthusiastically for the success of the canvas. But one week more remains for completion of the membership of 2,000 women which is the goal for which they are working and in this last week, the canvassers are privileged to go outside their lists and can solicit the membership of any woman who has not been asked already. As Mrs. Payson says, "The ban is off." Next Wednesday ends this drive and this last week should see the successful finish of this work so vital to an institution which depends so largely on the co-operation of the community for its community for its continuance. The annual dues are $1 and, as in the past, all the money raised goes for the hospital. If it is easier for women to send their money directly to Mrs. Payson, 57 Broad street, she will send them their receipts by mail. This will facilitate the work of the canvassers.

The following are the captains of the membership drive this year: Mrs. Wm. H. Dawley, Mrs. James E. Roantree, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Mrs. Walter F. Lester, Mrs. F. W. Cary, Mrs. Frank Ricketson, Mrs. Walter T. Camp, Mrs. Charles Twist, Mrs. J. E. Driscoll, Mrs. Alfred Haring, Mrs. Frederick T. Sayles, Mrs. J. P. Gadle, Jr., Mrs. Samuel Smiley, Mrs. Charles V. James, Mrs. A. J. Sinay, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, Miss Clara Griswold, Mrs. Donald Brigham, Mrs. Wallace S. Ailis, Mrs. Thomas McVeigh.

DISCUSSED NULLIFICATION AS APPLYING TO PROHIBITION

He discussed the question of nullification as it applies to the 18th amendments, saying that he considered there had been a good deal of loose thinking upon the subject of prohibition. As a background for the subject he spoke of other instances of nullification, the first being Calhoun's advice to South Carolina in 1832 when that state was not satisfied with the tariff law. Calhoun looked upon it only as a temporary expedient, but the matter never really came to trial. Then in 1850 there was actual nullification by states in the north which passed personal liberty laws as against the fugitive slave law. This was real and effective nullification. At the present day there is nullification in effect in southern states which is directed against the 15th amendment which gives the suffrage to the Negro. But southern states nullify it by imposing a property qualification and a literacy test for voters.

Professor Gabriel stated that it was the conclusion of those who have studied the subject that the 18th amendment had been put into the constitution by a legal majority and is an expression of a majority of the people. It was put there for moral and for economic reasons. Opponents of the 18th amendment have only one alternative, he said, which is to turn themselves into a majority by lawful means. And since the 18th amendment is a piece of legislation written into the constitution, its opponents need a three-fourths majority to get it out.

Nullification by the individual, he declared, is a subversion of government and a weakening of government. The only way to attack the amendment is by the legal means of building a majority into a majority. Nullification by the individual is attended by a train of evil results, one of which is the creation of an outlaw group in the underworld.

It was announced that Professor Gabriel's last talk in the series will be given on Dec. 4 when his subject will be World Position of the United States and Some of Its Implications.

BRINGS $15,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES RECEIVED

For injuries he received when struck by an automobile owned by O. C. Wolfe, Inc., of this city, and driven by an employe, Salvator Selvideo has brought suit against the company for $15,000. The suit is returnable before the superior court in December.

Selvideo claims injuries consisting of a fractured skull hernia, six ribs broken, right leg cut, bruises and cuts on body when he was hit by the automobile while crossing North Main street about opposite Routh street. Selvideo claims that he earned $100 a week as a mason and contractor, but is now permanently disabled and cannot pursue this occupation.

Hartford Boy Amazes Mother

Constipation is one of the worst health-ruiners for children. Waste matter held too long in their little stomachs and bowels, forms poisons which pollute their blood, cause headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, indigestion; make them bilious, weak, sallow fretful and underweight.

At the first sign of constipation, give your child a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It's purely vegetable, a gentle but certain laxative, and it gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Thousands of Connecticut mothers are praising it. Mrs. W. B. Cully, 48 Redding street, Hartford, says: "My little son, William, was constipated. His breath was bad and he never wanted anything to eat. He was fretful, pale and weak.

"Nothing seemed to help him until I got some California Fig Syrup. His trouble stopped after the first few doses, and he amazed me by the way his pretty, natural color came back. Soon he was as playful and happy as ever and he's been gaining ever since."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

CHRISTMAS DINNER FOR CHILDREN BY ROTARY

With a large number of members and guests present, the weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club was held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President Edward L. Jewett presided at the meeting and C. A. Gager was the song-leader. At the business session the resignation of one member, John J. O'Rourke, was accepted with regret as Mr. O'Rourke has been a valued member of the club for a number of years. The club endorsed the action of the board of directors in the observance of Christmas. The club will distribute gifts of shoes and clothing to the needy children in the city, the same as last year.

Upon completion of the business the meeting was turned over to Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr., chairman of the program committee for November, who introduced Fred L. Newton, supervisor of the evening schools in New London. Mr. Newton spoke on the subject of What a Rotary Club Can Do For the Under-Privileged Boy. He said in part:

Children come from three general types of homes. First, superior. A comfortable home with all modern conveniences in which the children have plenty of good food and attractive comfortable clothing. Around such a home or in the neighborhood there is ample play space. Within the house are to be found papers, magazines and a library of reference books. The parents find sufficient time to see that the children make the right use of these facilities and so make the proper physical, mental and spiritual development. These parents are real pals of their children. They protect them if necessary from unreasonable demands of school, church and society. They bring about such a liaison between home, school and other educative agencies that the child rises to full development.

The second type is the inferior. This may be a squalid tenement with scanty furniture, bare of pictures and books. The only playground is the street. Food is ill-chosen, mal nourishment results. Clothing is scant and there is no incentive to keep that clean. Both parents may work away from home and give no time to their children except as the truant officer or the police demand.

The third class includes all sorts and variations in between these two, forming in general what we call the average home. Here some children are handicapped by too lavish attention or by too strict supervision.

Today we are considering only the children of the second group who lack all sympathetic parental guidance. Just as progress in seed growing and stock raising has been made by selecting superior strains and discarding the inferior individuals, so progress in civic betterment will be made by improving the individuals in inferior surroundings.

One suggested aid is a Boys' club, sponsored and financed by Rotarians. Such a club could meet twice a week from seven until nine o'clock. A possible program would be an hour on the gymnasium floor, a half hour in the swimming pool, the rest of the time in the game room with an occasional brief program.

Once a year the club could be taken to one of the big college games.

This club could have its officers and would always require the presence of one or more Rotarian leaders. The leader's chief job would be to so manage affairs that he would get the ears of the boys, obtain inside information of their troubles and so gain their respect that the boys would gladly take to them good report cards and would really work to have that kind of cards to show. The leader becomes what the best kind of parent would be.

The boys become so proud of the good name of their club that they vie with each other to keep all the members of the club straight. The Rotary Boys' club of New London, thanks to the untiring work of the leader, Rotarian Dean Harris, has a splendid record in every respect.

The Rotary club may help the underprivileged group by taking the lead in supporting the town school committee in its effort to have a more extensive evening school program, more funds for books and supplies, shower baths in all schools, in short educational facilities second to no other city of the same wealth and population.

What will be gained by building a Boys' club? For the boys themselves there will be good times, a healthier life, better work in schools, for the community it will mean better homes, fewer truancy and juvenile court cases; for the individual adults concerned in the work, a real satisfaction. The teacher knows that children from the average and superior homes would achieve success if another filled his place. The worker who gains the confidence of these club boys knows that he has done something which no one else would have done.

Three-Day Special

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Our Oculist (M. D.) will examine and fit your eyes with Zyle Shell Reading Glasses, fitted with convex lenses, at the unheard of price of

PLAINFIELD BEATS WHIRLWINDS IN FAST AND ROUGH ENCOUNTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 21—Plainfield Pros took a long stride toward the New England basketball title here tonight when they turned back the Boston Whirlwinds 30 to 20 in a fast and furious encounter that was marked by its roughness. Hard and fierce play resulted in many fouls being called resulted in many fouls being called on six while many more were missed.

Boston opened the scoring early in the first period when Morley caged a foul, giving the Whirlwinds a brief lead of a single point. Tisdell shot a basket a minute after and from then on the Pros were never topped, although Boston fought stubbornly to overcome the lead. The Pros worked a smooth game through the entire fray, their plays being nicely timed, with the result that Tisdell and Brusco caged tan baskets between them. Roy Dissinger played a brilliant guarding game, holding Crotty to two field baskets. Bernot and Martin seemed about evenly matched with each one managing to score a field basket.

In the preliminary, the Buddies entirely outclassed the Danielson five, winning 39 to 22. Next week the Plainfield Pros clash with a Springfield professional club while the Buddies will play the Putnam Silk Sox.

UNCAS CLUB BOUTS TO BE RUN UNDER NEW MANAGER

The Uncas club of Montville will stage another show on Friday evening Nov. 30th at Uncasville. There has been a shift in the management of these bouts and from now on the club will do its own business but has retained Artie Kumpf as matchmaker. The bouts heretofore were staged by Harold Talbot, the Fighting Motorman, who handled the finances while Mr. Kumpf did about everything else, Talbot, like Tunney, has made his pile and is content to go into seclusion.

Season's Records

The Academy easily has the better season's record than its anient rival, Bulkeley, as the teams approach the annual classic Saturday. The Wildcats have won five out of eight games while Bulkeley has but one victory in eight starts.

Bulkeley's losses, however, have been by small margins and she has taken on, as has the Academy, the pick of the state. Bulkeley beat Windham it will be remembered, and that was something the Academy couldn't do. Bulkeley won, 12 to 6, from the Willimantic team, while the Academy lost, 7 to 6.

Two of the three Academy defeats have been by one point, 7 to 6, while most all of Bulkeley's losses have been only by a touchdown or two.

Highlights in the Academy's season so far are wins over Stonington, Coast Guard Jr. Varsity and Westerly. In both the Stonington and Westerly games the Academy smeared unbeaten records. Jack Marks has been the high scorer, tallying over three-quarters of the points.

Bulkeley and the Academy have lately been the only teams in this section to make a practice of going after the "big boys" and therefore have taken chances of falling into defeats, which they might have avoided.

Boston Beats Arrows

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21— (AP) — Boston gained a close victory over the Philadelphia Arrows in a Canadian-American league ice hockey match tonight by a score of 1 to 0.

BULKELEY HAS 30-PIECE BAND FOR THE GAME

Bulkeley's 30-piece band will be quite an innovation for the ancient classic Saturday at the campus. The Academy, on occasions, has mustered about a dozen scholars, willing to lend their musical efforts, but nothing that could be really termed a band has been brought out.

This band should create quite a colorful atmosphere, but to make it 100 per cent, the Academy also should have some representation along this line. It was pointed out Wednesday that school spirit alone should prompt the formation of some sort of a band for the annual game Saturday.

Bulkeley, which has had a losing team all year, seems to have more school spirit than the Academy students, who have seen their team do very well to date in this campaign. Up until the last two games there was no cheering on the Academy side of the gridiron and even that for the last pair of games left much to be desired.

School spirit has been somewhat dormant at the Academy for the past few years, and the odd part of this is that in that time the Academy has risen to rank with the best in the state in athletics. Saturday seems the due time for a big turnout on the part of N. F. A. students, in this greatest of all games. The team should not be expected to do all of it in meeting Bulkeley.

From present indications the Bulkeley eleven will have a large backing on Saturday and it is only proper that the Academy should have likewise, and also—a band.

The annual freak bets can be expected to put in an appearance shortly. For the Hartford-New Britain game, only rival of the Academy-Bulkeley classic, storekeepers are offering shoes, haircuts, free movies, shaves and other accessories for the members of their respective teams, if victorious.

---

The campus at present is ploughed up a bit, both in "left field" and on the center of the gridiron. The former will in no way interfere with the game and the latter is only to remove a large rock and will be in shape for the game Saturday.

---

The bleachers at the field hold something like 1,500 and it is certain that they will be taxed to capacity and then some. Something like 5,000 saw the 1926 game here and present indications are that this figure will be surpassed Saturday.

---

All other high school rivalries in this section are forced to bow to the Academy-Bulkeley series. Westerly-Stonington, Putnam-Killingly, Windham-Manchester and others are important but cannot compare with this Norwich-New London affair.

---

Each year the series grows greater and there are plenty of signs to indicate that this game Saturday will be the best ever, from all angles.

---

The Wildcats and the Tigers, synonomous of fighters, should funish a real scrap on the week end.

MAYS KNOCKS OUT GIBBS IN FOURTH

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21—(AP)—Bobby Mays of New London knocked out Joe Gibbs of Fall River in the fourth round of an eight-round stellar bout on a professional card here tonight. Mays weighed 135 and his opponent 138.

Other bouts:

Patent Leather Kid, New Bedford, 158, won from Farmer Hill, Westerly, 157, eight rounds.

Young Roberts, Westerly, 141, knocked out Johnny Ferris, New Bedford, 139, in third round of six-round bout.

Joe Levetu, Fall River, 140, lost on technical foul to Johnny Mello, New Bedford, 140, in first round of six-round bout.

DEMPSEY NON-COMMITTAL ON RETURN TO THE RING

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21—(AP)—Jack Dempsey came home today for an indefinite stay, decidedly "mum" on the subject of whether he would fight again.

"I might fight again and I might not" was the most definite answer that could be obtained from the former heavyweight boxing champion on his arrival with his wife, Estelle Taylor, from Salt Lake City.

Dempsey said he had an invitation from Tex Rickard to visit the New York promoter in Miami, Fla., early in January.

(This is the second of three articles on the principals in the Academy-Bulkeley grid classic Saturday at the campus. The first dealt with the teams, today's with their season's records and the third with past Academy-Bulkeley games).

SOUTHWORTH TO MANAGE CARDINALS

(By Kenneth H. Clark, Associated Press Staff Writer)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21—(AP)—Billy Southworth, one of the heroes of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals of 1926 and an idol of St. Louis fandom, today was named to manage the team in 1929.

Southworth will be the Card's fifth manager in five years and the youngest manager and the only playing manager in the National league. He is 34 years old.

Bucky Harris, Detroit pilot, is two years Southworth's junior and the only other playing manager in the two major circuits.

In naming Southworth, one of the most popular players who ever donned a Cardinal uniform, President Sam Breadon said he expected him to inject more fight and stricter discipline in the Cardinal team which under managership of William McKechnie, won the league pennant this year but lost four straight to the Yankees in the world's series.

McKechnie will exchange places with Southworth, who managed Rochester, N. Y., a Cardinal farm, and led it to championship of the International league this year. Breadon praised McKechnie's ability and expressed pleasure he would remain in the Cardinal organization.

When Southworth arrived this morning from his home at Columbus, Ohio, Breadon congratulated him upon his landslide victory in a newspaper straw vote and said he was glad to cast the deciding ballot. Billy was not long in accepting.

"It's a great pleasure to return to St. Louis as leader of the great Cardinal team," he said. "It's pretty hard to beat their record of two pennants and a world's championship in three years, but I believe the fans have good reason to expect the team to remain at or near the top."

The new leader declared he would play right field if able to hit as he did at Rochester where he batted above .350.

Southworth, who has had ten years experience and has played on five major league teams, came to the Cards in 1926 from the Giants and immediately was made regular right fielder by Manager Rogers Hornsby.

He at once became popular with the fans. He was the recipient of money showers after each home run, but he turned over every penny to charitable institutions.

"It always gave me luck to do that," he explained. "Look at me now."

Southworth was popular, too, with his fellow players and the management.

In 1927 Southworth was handicapped by illness and his playing slumped. Breadon thought his playing days were over and sent him this year to Rochester where he took a team of hardly more than average ability and won the pennant by taking both ends of a double header on the last day of the season. Breadon was impressed by Southworth's leadership and was pleased to learn he insisted on strict adherence to training rules.

Southworth said today he believed Charley Gelbert, Rochester shortstop, would be a sensation on the Cardinal team next year. He also had words of praise for Herman Bell, former Cardinal pitcher who will return after a period of seasoning at Rochester

PATSY FERRA TO BOX AT DUWELL AMATEURS

Patsy Ferra, pride of the East Side section, who during the past summer came back into the ring after an absence of nearly a year and won two verdicts in as many tries is one of the native sons listed for the first of the Duwell indoor amateur boxing shows to be staged at the state armory next

PATSY FERRA

Tuesday night. Patsy, one of the most colorful of almon pure fighters in this vicinity is of the type that brings down the house with every performance. His arms and fists are continuously moving while he in within the squared enclosure and he packs a wallop that usually means curtains for an opponent whose jaw happens to be in the way. Until he really began to like his work last summer Ferra was inclined to be radical and could not be depended upon to show at his best in every fight.

With the turning over of a new leaf, however, he is a changed boy and without a doubt trains harder now than any of the masters of the art in this vicinity. At the present time he weighs about 155 pounds, two pounds over his fighting weight. Other local boys who are working out daily for the coming Duwell bill are Freddie Plante, Freddie Berade, Joe Smith, Stanley Zulakci and Tommy Longo.

The Duwells will begin to move their equipment for the indoor arena to the state armory Saturday afternoon and the work of setting up will begin Monday night after Battery B, has completed its drill session. The entry for the first Duwell show closes Saturday night and all boxers in this vicinity who want to get into action next Tuesday must be registered by that time.

TED MEREDITH APPOINTED COACH AT PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nv. 21— (AP) — James E. (Ted) Meredith, former star middle distance runner for the University of Pennsylvania, was today named assistant track coach at the university. He will assist Head Coach Lawson Robertson with the track and cross-country teams the coming season.

Meredith, always a colorful performer on the cinder path, was known as the "Georgetown Flier," during his athletic career. He won the Olympic 800 meters in 1912 after graduating from Mercersburg academy. Meredith entered the University of Pennsylvania in 1913. He established one record that still stands—the 440-yard run around a turn in 47 2-5 seconds.

BOSTON COLLEGE TAKING NO CHANCES WITH AGGIES

BOSTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Determined to take the unscored on Connecticut Aggies eleven in stride, Coach Joe McKenney today announced that his undefeated Boston college team would have three substitutes in Saturday's lineup.

Clausse was slated to start at left tackle in place of Herman, Kilrow at Wilczewski's post at left guard and Kennedy in Paddy Creedon's halfback position.

The Boston college squad spent most of today's parctice on offensive formations, stressing forward passes. Then McKenney put his first team through a long signal drill to perfect plays for the Eagles' objective game with Holy Cross next week.

Lions Attention!

If the Lions wish to play Troop 1, they will have to give notice to that effect, either in The Bulletin or call 1204-4 at six o'clock, at least four days before the game. The scouts cannot be notified in one day. Troop 1 also wants to know why the Lions played the Lake Street Trojans on Monday instead of them as stated in The Bulletin last week.

Nurmi Still in Finland

HELSINGFOS, Finland, Nov. 21—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, who was scheduled to sail for the United States a week ago yesterday still is here and said today he will not leave until early in December.

The great Finnish runner added that he will participate in amateur races in America and has not yet decided finally whether to become a professional.

Whirlwinds at Noank

This evening the Taftville Whirlwinds go to Noank to play the fast Cod Chasers of that village at the town hall. The lineup for the Whirlwinds will be Durr and Adams, forwards; Dickerman, center; Neal, Adams and Bonin, guards. The Whirlwinds have yet to hear from the Y Emps but hope that a game can be arranged in the near future.

Gadula Accepts Challenge

Shiek Gadula of Montville accepts the challenge of Joe Smith and will meet said Smith either in Norwich or at Montville on Friday, Nov. 30th at the Uncas show. Gadula says he will box on a winner take all basis or any other way that Smith desires.

Lions Challenge

The Lions challenge the Lake street Trojans for a game Sunday at Mohegan park at 2 o'clock. This offer is open to all junior teams so if Trojans accept challenge answer in paper, if not we accept the challenge of any other team.

OVER CONFIDENCE COMPLEX HITS NEW YORK RANGERS IN HOCKEY

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—The championship complex, better known in other sports as "over confidence" is cropping up for the first time to bother the ancients who putter with the records of the National Professional Hockey league.

The curse has struck the New York Rangers, they say, and is the chief explanation available for the showing of the world champions, now just an ordinary hockey team after only one victory, one tie and one defeat in the first three games of the youthful season. The rest of the reasons are the other clubs, far stronger on the ice, than they appeared on paper after the wholesale rebuilding and trading of the off season.

Along with the realignment of favorites in the current race for the Stanley cup, because of the Ranger mediocre showing, has come rather general amazement at the increased interest in hockey, all over the league circuit. With no games scheduled on Tex Rickard's pond in Madison Square garden, where 20,000 can be accomodated, five opening games drew a total attendance of 50,000.

Two games played in Detroit have jammed the rink there to its 14,000 capacity, Pittsburgh, with an arena that normally seats 3,800 managed to pack 7,000 into the hall last Thursday night, breaking the local record and causing broard smiles to wreath the faces of promoters as walls bulged all around the circuit.

While the Rangers and the Boston Bruins, co-favorites in the American group of the league at the start of the season, are sharing the lead in that group, neither seems quite as dangerous as was expected. The Rangers apparently have yet to get down to the hard work of winning the games necessary out there on the ice while the Bruins are experimenting with an unwieldy squad of 15 players, many of them youngsters who have yet to find the secret of combination play.

The surprise of the league is the strength of two outsiders, the Cougars of Detroit and Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cougars apparently have a find in "Dolly" Dolson, goalie last year with the champion Stratford Nationals in the Canadian Professional league. A crack forward line—"Nasty" is their rivals' term of approbation—consists of Herb Lewis, Georgie Hay, and Larry Auril, and has shot enough goals to turn in a victory over Pittsburgh while losing to the Rangers.

The Pirates, with one win and two bitter defeats, seem to have much power despite the loss of Roy Worters, ace of the league goalies, who is a holdout, and the late signing of Milks, Darragh and Cotton. The rebuilding of the Chicago Black Hawks on a basis of youthful forwards so far has met with little success. The Hawks have lost three games.

The international group has run more in accordance with preseason predictions. The Canadians and Marcons, of Montreal, the natural leaders, are tied with the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Ottawa Senators for the lead on returns from three games. Ottawa has tied two and won one while th eothers have two victories and a loss apiece. The New York Americans have yet to win or lose and have two ties.

Reversal of form, while interesting to hockey fans, has been disastrous to gamblers who wager almost unbelievable amounts on the New York Rangers in every game. So far, the debit is estimated at $50,000, due to the Rangers failure to beat the Marcons and the tie with the Americans.

ACADEMY LINEUP INTACT FOR BULKELEY CLASH

The Academy lineup for the Bulkeley game Saturday, with two exceptions, seems to be decided upon. Outside of right halfback and left end, the Wildcats' front is probably intact. Anso Tombari and Hoyt Taylor are the candidates for the end berth to team up with Chet Berghinso, and Red Fagon and Sherry are after the halfback post.

guards, Kahn and Hertz at tackles, Brock at quarterback, Captain LaCroix at left halfback and Marks at fullback. This is the team that has opened practically all games and barring unforeseen occurrences, will start on the week-end. The Bulkeley lineup has not been decided upon as yet, for a few minor injuries have kept players out and it will not be definitely known until probably this afternoon after practice who will open the game for the Orange and Black.

Practice yesterday both at the campus and Mercer field, New London, was of a routine nature and today will close the hard sessions.

Both schools have planned "pep rallies" Friday and in addition, Bulkeley's band will serenade Williams Memorial Institute in New London on Friday afternoon.

As the time nears for the fray, interest is rising steadily in both cities and present indications are that the crowd will set a record, surpassing even the 5,000 that witnessed the 1926 game.

Broadway Fifth Graders Challenge

The fifth grade football team of Broadway school issues a challenge to any fifth grade team in Norwich. The fifth graders are known as the Yankee Wildcats and claim they live up to their names. Arrangements may be made by answering through this paper or calling at 71 Franklin street. William Powell is manager of the team. John Stevens, captain and Myles Standish Jr., coach.

GOVERNOR TRUMBULL SHOWS STRONG POINTS OF STATE

Connecticut's attractions, advantages and resources in a number of different fields were broadcast to millions of people throughout the middle west by Governor John H. Trumbull over station WMAQ, Chicago, Saturday evening between 7.25 and 8 o'clock.

Governor Trumbull in his address on "Connecticut—Yesterday and Today," said in part:

"While Connecticut is noted along historical lines, for its educational facilities, for its sound financial policies of state government, for its excellent highways and transportation systems, for its healthy climate and for its remarkable vacation attractions, we should not overlook the very important factor of business growth.

"Consider manufacturing—for which Connecticut has long been famous. Many of our factories were the first of their kind in America and many of them are today the largest of their kind. In twenty years, the value of the products manufactured in Connecticut increased one billion dollars. From 1899 to 1926, the combined value of Connecticut's manufactured products increased over 304 per cent. Connecticut's leading industry—brass goods and allied commodities—showed an increase in value of from forty-eight and one-half million in 1900 to over one hundred and fifty-six million in 1925—an amount over three times as great. A similar story could be told of many of the other important commodities which Connecticut manufactures.

"Consider insurance—a type of business for which Connecticut has a world reputation and the center of which is Hartford, our capitol city. Since 1907, the assets of Connecticut insurance companies have increased 421 per cent.—having reached the remarkable figure of more than one billion six hundred and forty-five million dollars. The extent to which the American public has benefited from the service of our Connecticut insurance companies is indicated by the fact that they have paid their policyholders or beneficiaries the stupendous sum of over three billion dollars.

"Consider banking. The assets of Connecticut's savings banks have more than doubled in the last twenty years. During that period the number of state banks and trust companies has almost tripled while their assets have shown the remarkable increase of 827 per cent. Between 1912 and 1926 the number of savings depositors in Connecticut increased 128 per cent., while the amount of deposits increased 170 per cent.

"Consider public utilities. More than 250 such companies are under the jurisdiction of our public utilities commission. The assets of these utilities—excluding railroads and jitney companies—have more than doubled in the last sixteen years. Connecticut's public utilities are progressive. They constantly increase their facilities, efficiency and service to keep pace with the steady development of our business and civic life.

"One majter of great importance to the business concerns of any state is the financial policy of that state. In recent years, a large number of our 48 states have piled up huge state debts—running as high as several hundred million dollars for one state. These state debts throw an added burden on the business concerns operating within their borders because business pays the great majority of taxes and large state debts mean higher taxes because of interest charges. In Connecticut our business concerns pay smaller taxes than otherwise because our state affairs are conducted on a 'pay as you go' basis.

"To afford the people of our state and our thousands of visitors and tourists first-class transportation conditions, our highway department has spent more than one million dollars since 1895. Connecticut's highway system is one of the best in the country. This is illustrated by the fact that we have more miles of highway per square mile of land than any other state in the union. Our annual expenditures per square mile for highways is five times the average for the 48 states as a whole.

"An important aspect of every state is its points of interest—those places which history or invention have made famous. These points of interest are fascinating to tourists and visitors. In this respect, as in others, Connecticut is a rich treasure chest. Connecticut has contributed liberally of men and inventions for America's welfare."

After discussing the main points of interest in 40 Connecticut towns and cities, Governor Trumbull continued:

"Today America is being explored as never before by the vacationist—by people in search of a brief respite from the pressure of every-day life. To such seekers after a pleasant change from the daily routine, Connecticut holds a peculiar charm. It has much to offer. In one small state, covering but a brief span of miles, the visiting tourist may find the soothing beauties of the ocean on the one hand and the intriguing fascination of the mountains, the valleys, the rivers, the lakes and the forests on the other hand. Scattered throughout the state the visitor will find nearly 100 golf courses most of which are available to the tourist. In order to provide fishing for lovers of that sport, our state board of fisheries and game stocks our Connecticut streams with 300,000 game fish each year. Motor boating, sailing and canoeing are possible in 1,000 lakes throughout the state and along the 245 miles of ocean front.

"Connecticut has many famous shore resorts. Its lakes and rivers are dotted with hotels and boarding houses inviting the tourist to enjoy the beauties of nature to his heart's content. Connecticut has provided 8,100 acres of state parks and 36,000 acres of state forests which are visited by thousands of persons every year. One state park on the Connecticut shore has an annual attendance of 500,000—three times that at the oldest and most famous national park in America. These rest-giving and health vacation resources of Connecticut are easily accessable by automobile over 2,012 miles of improved highways. A number of Connecticut's state parks and forests provide facilities for overnight and week-end camping. In the beautiful Litchfield Hills in the northwestern part of Connecticut, winter sports are enjoyed. Connecticut invites you people of the middle west to come and enjoy these health-giving facilities."

AUTOMOBILE EXHAUST GASES KILL IN CLOSED GARAGES

With the coming of cold weather many people run to cover behind closed doors—closed windows and even in closed garages—not because cold air is a menace to health, but because it interferes with one's personal comfort, says the state department of health.

With the coming of cold weather, too, the automobile engine fails to start quickly and so the time spent in the garage preparatory to making the morning exit is considerably lengthened and thereby proves disastrous to one who does his engine coaxing in a closed garage!

Idling an engine to warm it in a closed one-car garage may so dangerously contaminate the air of that garage as to be fatal to life in from five to ten minutes. So take warning and open your garage doors before starting your car even if the thermometer is near the zero mark.

Exhaust gases from automobiles contain certain percentage of carbon monoxide which if allowed to accumulate in a closed garage takes a heavy toll of life because the person who breathes it has no warning of its insidious nature. This gas is colorless and odorless and so gives no indication of its deadly nature until the victim is found—oftentimes too late for rescue measures. Already its toll of life has begun with tragedies announced in the daily press and so this warning is given to open wide garage doors before starting an engine, or before testing one that is running.

Deaths from carbon monoxide are due to asphyxiation, just as in drowning. This gas when breathed, rapidly unites with the hemoglobin of the red blood cells, replacing the oxygen which these cells ordinarily carry. In fact carbon monoxide unites 200 times more readily than oxygen does so the cells of the body are rapidly depleted of their life giving oxygen and asphyxiation follows. Experiments show that it takes only a small amount of this gas to do the damage. The industrial hygiene bureau of the New York state department of labor in 1925 reported that experiments made in a gassing chamber with 0.2 per cent. of carbon monoxide present, the blood absorbs 30-50 per cent. saturation in thirty to forty minutes, enough to render the subject severely ill with headache, nausea, vomiting and vertigo. With 60-75 per cent. saturation of the red blood cells with carbon monoxide death ensues.

So it is unwise to run any risks of exposure to this deadly gas, since the body has no protection against it, nor is there any indication of its presence.

Deaths from carbon monoxide are also reported frequently as a result of gas burners or heaters in houses where there is incomplete combustion of the gas. Sometimes coal furnaces will produce this gas when banked without sufficient air, fortunately other gases escaping at the same time with perceptibly disagreeable odors, give sufficient warning so the condition can be remedied before tragedy occurs. Not so with gas heaters or burners, however. Water heaters are often dangerous because carbon monoxide results when the flame touches a cool surface, and may also happen in gas ranges if the flame is turned so high that the blue cone touches the vessel placed over it thus shutting out the air which it is necessary to combine with in order to give complete combustion.

Tragedies have been reported from the use of gas heaters in closed rooms where the heater had no connection with an exhaust pipe. Occasionally such tragedies happen during zero weather, at night with windows closed, the victim breathing in deadly carbon monoxide gas and never sees the light of day.

Take warning from such tragedies at this time of year when cold weather tempts one's better judgment. Test all gas heaters and burners for leaky valves, defective connections with insufficient air for complete combustion, see that exhaust pipes are provided, and never run an automobile engine in a closed garage.

SCHOOLS LOOK TO HOME TO AUGMENT TRAINING

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The responsibility of the home in child education grows increasingly important, Seldon Carlyle Adams of the National Education association told the leadership training conference of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers here.

"Children live 24 hours a day and not more than six or seven of those hours are spent in school," Mr. Adams said. The danger hours come after the school has closed its doors for the evening. The tragedies of childhood and youth seldom take place in the classroom.

"Education is meeting the challenge of the changing world by providing a curriculum which concerns itself with making children physically and mentally sound; preparing them for worthy home membership; providing them with an appreciation of the tools, technics and spirit of learning; instilling in them the loftier ideals of faithful citizenship and so directing the whole process that the development of noble character will be the self improvement goal of every boy and girl."

MISSING BOLIVIAN FLIERS ARE REPORTED SAFE

LA PAZ, Nov. 21—(AP)—Dispatches received here today said the Bolivian aviators, Captain Jordan and his mechanic, Loayza, who were missing while on a return flight from Brazil, are safe at San Jose, eastern Bolivia, where they made a forced landing.

Several planes have been sent out from Santa Cruz with repair parts and fuel for the stranded airmen. News of the aviators' safety has caused great rejoicing in Bolivia.

ADMITTED THAT THEY HAD SLAIN MISSING MAN

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 21—(AP)—The mystery of the disappearance of Christopher Columbus Coffee, 70, retired life insurance agent, from a hunting camp on Hall's Lake, Clark county, 70 miles north of here on Nov. 12, apparently was solved tonight by a confession of Percy Lang and Carson Leads, Negroes, that they killed the aged man and lowered his body into the lake.

Boll Weevil Exterminator

LAREDO, Tex.—(AP)—Martin Sanchez, a Mexican blacksmith, has invented a machine that, driven down a cotton row, will brush boll weevils, red spiders and other vermin into pans of crude oil and exterminate them. He has received orders for 150 of the implements.

SEARCH IN FOUR STATES FOR MISSING PIASCIK GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21—The woods and fields of the town of Hopkinton, in the vicinity of Hope Valley have been scoured for any trace of missing Bertha Piascik, 16, whose whereabouts since 2 a. m. Monday has been unknown to her parents. Members of the Rhode Island state police, interested citizens of the town and Boy Scouts have pursued an organized search. The Piascik girl has not been seen since she stepped from the machine of Bennie Haberek, 21, also of Hope Valley, early Monday morning at the end of a lane leading to her home. She was believed at first to have been a victi mof foul play. Sergt. William O'Brien, in charge of state police from the Hope Valley barracks, declared Wednesday morning, however, he now is of the opinion that she is hiding in the woods because of fear of punishment.

Haberek, according to the story he told the police, took the girl out riding all day Sunday and at about 2 o'clock Monday morning left her at the lane leading to her home. As she left the machine, she told Haberek, he claims, that she would "try to sneak in the house without the folks knowing it."

Rumors that the girl might have taken refuge with friends in Jewett City, Conn., New York or New Jersey, have been investigate dby the state police, but without results. In the event that the girl might be wandering around the state, the police have broadcast a description of her. She is five feet five inches tall, weighs 126 pounds, has light bobbed hair and irregular front teeth. At the time of her disappearance she wore a green dress, an imitation fur coat with gray collar and cuffs. She wore no hat.

Haberek was in Third District court at Westerly Tuesday on a charge of transporting the girl for immoral purposes. He pleaded guilty and was committed to Washington county jail pending action by the February grand jury. He was unable to furnish bail of $5,000 set by Judge Oliver H. Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Piascik, the parents of the missing girl, assert that she has not been home since she left to accompany Haberek on an automobile trip to Pawcatuck during the daytime Sunday.

The authorities in Jewett City, New London and Rockville, Conn., were asked to search for the girl.

THREE LOCAL JURYMEN EXCUSED AT KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21—Washington county superior court, in session Wednesday for the third day of the November term at Kingston, Associate Justice Arthur Sumner on the bench, had no court busines ready to come before it when court opened at 10:45. There was every indication that the Westerly adjournment would be taken this week end or the first of next at the latest. Webster, farmer; Orrin F. Kenyon, carpenter. Narragansett—John W. Donnelly, laborer; John J. Flanagan, gardener.

Wednesday is the usual day for the attorney general's docket to be taken up, but the third assistant Attorney-General Louis V. Jackvony of Providence failed to appear and the cases were put over a day.

Judge Sumner called the Kingston trial calendar and it was marked as follows: Laura E. Waterman vs. Sumner Mowry, administrator. Judge requested the case placed on the Westerly calendar and it was so marked for trial. Daniel G. O'Brien, member of state police vs. Charles W. Benson. Case set down for Kingston hearing Thursday. Emma B. Philips vs Thomas H. Blatchford. Marked passed. Fred T. Baker vs. John R. Armstrong, alias Casey. Case marked for the foot of the Westerly calendar.

On the divorce calendar in the action Emma Brackett vs. George W. Brackett, Attorney McCarthy of Providence announced that Mr. Triedman for the respondent, had retired, and requested as early a Westerly hearing as could be given, if it was to be contested, saying "Sometimes an attorney has to protect himself against his clients."

On Tuesday, Mary R. H. Hoxie was Hoxie granted a divorce from Russell B. Hoxie on grounds of neglect to provide and was given permission to resume her maiden name.

Lottie Pearl Andrews was granted a divorce from Albert Andrews. The petitioner was given the custody of one minor child and allowed alimony of $3 a week.

A decision for the petitioner was ordered in the case of Catherine S. Fournier against Cyril D. Fournier on grounds of neglect to provide and desertion. Mrs. Fournier was allowed to resume her maiden name, Catherine Parker Scott.

Pearl B. Carter was granted a divorce from Henry J. Carter and allowed to resume her maiden name. She charged that he neglected to provide for her.

Marion W Brown secured a divorce from Cyrus H. Brown on grounds of neglect to provide.

Wilson vs. Paul McLean Action other than criminal—Edith M. Barber, pl'f, vs. Thomas E. Barber, guardian.

WEDDING

Loughead-Lanphear

Tuesday evening in Pawcatuck Miss Sylvia W. Lanphear, daughter of N. Henry Lanphear, formerly of Rockville, R. I., became the bride of John C. Loughead at the home of the bride, 7 Moss street, the ceremony was performed by Rev. C. A. Burdick, D. D, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church. They were unattended and only relatives and friends were present.

Had the intermittent blasts Wednesday noon and afternoon continued, one would have sought a liner backing out into midstream for a trans-Atlantic trip, for there was sounded for the first time the new fire whistle or horn on the central fire station on Union street. The whistle, which has been tried out for some time and found to sound so much like the Pawcatuck whistle that firemen and citizens were confused in the alarms, was replaced this morning by a diaphone horn.

Reports came in from several towns for miles around that the sound of the horn had been heard there and an explanation was requested as to what it meant.

Sessions of the Westerly zoning board and Westerly town council were held Tuesday evening in the town hall. Mrs. Alice Bicknell, owner of the Andrea hotel at Misquamicut beach, was granted a special permit to rebuild a portion of the Andrea. The plan is to place the kitchen in the basement of the hotel and utilize the present kitchen space as an addition to the dining room. The alterations to be made to the hotel will not increase the area of the building, it is explained.

There was an informal discussion by the council and members of the zoning board concerning the proposed changes to the building line on High street, but no definite action was taken.

The application of Franklin C. Wadsworth of Greenman avenue for appointment to the police force of Westerly was referred to the members of the police committee.

The zoning board agreed to go out the following afternoon to secure first hand information where zoning and building permits have been sought which might constitute an exception to the codes.

Tuesday in the twelfth annual roll call of Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross there were secured 209 new members and $241.75 in contributions. With this addition the total enrollment to date is 1065, while the total contributions so far in the campaign amount to $1,858.07.

Past Masters' night was observed Wednesday evening in the Masonic rooms where Pawcatuck lodge, No 90, A. F. and A. M., of Pawcatuck, Russell Hemphill, master, held a largely attended special communication. The Master Mason degree was exemplified upon a class with the officers and their respective stations as follows: Most Worshipful Brother Arthur N. Nash, 1907, as worshipful master; William A. Hillard, 1908, senior warden; Samuel Girven, 1909-10, junior warden; George O. Murphey, 1911, treasurer; Frank L. Friend, 1924, secretary; William R. Chapman, 1915, senior deacon; Oscar W. Gates, 1900, junior deacon; Newman F. Tuckermna, 1912, senior steward; T. Edward Peabody, 1926, junior steward; Thomas McKenzie, 1901-02, chaplain; Bourdon A. Babcock, 1925, marshal; Carroll W. Hoxie, organist; D. Everett Hoxie, 1905, tyler; Harry Sutcliffe, 1923, first guard; John T. Johnson, 1920, second guard; Henry A. Stahle, 1906, third guard; Thomas McKenzie, lecturer; Robert E. Cole, 1904, lecturer.

As in the larger waiting stations of the New Haven railroad beginning the first of the week, the toilet rooms in Westerly have had new locks placed upon them, to keep them closed from the public.

Dr. Cyrus F. Mitchell, who sustained a fracture of his ankle last Sunday, is reported as resting comfortably at his home in Wequetequock.

The wedding of Miss Betty Hutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brouse J. Hutton of Smith Falls, Ontario, Canada, and Corp. Ernest J. Stenhouse of the Rhode Island state police, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stenhouse of Westerly, will take place Nov. 27th in New York.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Saturday, Nov. 17, at 2 p. m. a serfice for the ordination of deacons was held in the Seventh Day Baptist church here. The program follows: Invocation, Rev. Paul S. Burdick; hymn, "Hail to the Brightness of Zion's Glad Morning;" scripture reading and prayer, Rev. W. F. Parmalee; address, "How the Deacon Can Help the Church, Rev. William M. Simpson; vocal duet, Mrs. Paul S. Burdick and Miss Marion Crandall; address, "How the Church May Help the Deacon," Rev. Clayton A. Burdick; prayer of consecration; welcome to the new deacons, George T. Crandall and S. Bowen Andrews, by the pastor and deacons, John F. Palmer and Charles O. Crandall; hymn, "Ye Christian Heralds Go Proclaim"; benediction, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick.

THE LATE EDGAR ASHBEY PROMOTED VILLAGE SPORTS

This village has been saddened by the death of Edgar Ashby, 44, at his home early Tuesday morning from asthma, with which he had suffered for years ago gave the village its first in the village. He was well known in sport circles, and as manager of the Noank Kickers' baseball team several years ago and gave the village its first champion team and next worked hard and got basketball established in Noank, also secured the town hall from the selectmen and got together eight fast players. He held meetings and named the team "The Lobsters' after the industry of the fishing voilage. One year when he was the manager his team copped the championship, winning 20 games and losing but three. In three years his players were the champions of the three villages, Mystic, Stonington and Noank, 1912-1914. A club was formed at his home about 20 years ago and called the Durham club. He was made president and had a roll of 40 members. A large picture hung in his room bore the words "Durham club." Mr. Ashby was a gardener by occupation and did work around Groton Long Point. He was a member of the fire company and the American Mechanics.

He leaves his father, Edward Ashbey, two brothers, John and Charles and a sister, Mrs. Herman Fowler, of Hartford.

New Bus Shelter

The people were all smiles on Tuesday morning when a carpenter came down from Mystic sent by the bus company with hammer and saw to put up a little waiting station on Prospect Hill and Elm street, where all the buses stop. It will be a great convenience when the snow storms come and people are waiting for a bus. It will be a great help to the working men who have to take the first bus in the morning to find a little shelter there.

Even the Monkey Seasick

Engineer James Whiting of steamer Exton arrived in New York from a five months' trip to Greece and the Black Sea. He says that the weather was rough and the ship hit a storm in the Black Sea the worst he has ever seen on the ocean since he started as a deckhand working up to engineer, which is 10 years ago. Cook Sam Peters had a hard job to peel potatoes without being thrown down. A pet monkey owned by Matie Eugene Murphy gave the crew a big laugh when he got seasick. The monkey "spurt" was looking for a place to lie down trying to escape the storm. For three days the storm was at its height. Greece is a great country, the engineer says. He tells of the people picking strawberries in a large field, when he left, the women wearing big straw hats and overalls. There are great buildings of stone, but not one as high as the Woolworth building in New York. His talk was interesting to a crowd of 50 listening at the waiting room Tuesday night. After a few days' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Whiting, he will leave New York for Africa and will be gone for six months.

Visitors From Iowa

Elliott Bennett is spending a few days at his cottage, "Cut That Out," on Lantern Hill. Senator Paul Sullivan, of Iowa came to see his Uncle Elliott for the first time in seventeen years. A cornbeef dinner was cooked and then good times were talked over about the Hammer Nine team in their palmy days.

WESTMINSTER

Local friends attended the funeral of William Imer in Manchester Saturday. Mr. Imer was born in Westminster Nov. 30, 1858, in the house which his father, Adolph Imer, owned and built, just north of the church, now occupied by the Gardener family. Mr. Imer spent many years of his life here and was at one time proprietor of the general store, now owned by A. T. Macleod. Following a second shock last summer Mr. Imer's condition remained critical until the end. He died at his home in Highland park, Manchester, Nov. 15. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Phoebe Imer, a daughter, Mrs. Charles Allen, and a son, Charles Imer. Burial was in Manchester.

Following the funeral in Norwich Friday the body of Charles Mell was brought to Canterbury for burial in the family plot in Smith cemetery. Mr. Mell, a native of Canterbury, sold his farm on the South Road and moved to Norwich about ten years ago. A year later he went to the Fitch State Home for Soldiers, at Noroton, where he remained until his death, Nov. 13.

Henry Rainesford sent to the Bulletin correspondent several dandelion blossoms which he picked Nov. 16th. Andrew Colburn found several violets Nov. 17th. Fern brakes and hardy lilies are breaking through the ground. The recent unusually high temperature is in direct contrast to the latter part of October when the thermometer registered as low as 12 above zero in this vicinity.

Doc Gordon lives in a little town called Bunker, in Missouri. He has made no pretensions to fame, and has been simply a small town practitioner. But 400 people whom he has brought into the world gathered in Bunker to honor him. These 400 are only a fraction of those who have been born under his care, for he claims a total of 6,744 babies in his 56 years of practice.

PINKHAM'S PHENRIN will ... Conditions ... Weakness for Colds, Flu and Neuralgia

Fighter Does Not Succumb to Cold!

Army men learn to take care of themselves, and they don't pamper colds like many civilians. They knock them out between morning and night; with a compound that comes in plain, pleasant-tasting tablets.

Pape's COLD COMPOUND to STOP a Cold

No trouble to carry, and so easy to take; but amazingly efficient, as you'll find out!

Pape's Cold Compound works so quickly, you'll think it luck the first time. And stops grippe or "flu" if you give it time and take several tablets. Pape's way of stopping colds is worth remembering, so remember the name; 35c at druggists—they all have it.

Eczema Caused Years of Intense Agony

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years, and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use Peterson's Ointment and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me."—Geo. C. Talbot, Buffalo.

"I've got a hundred testimonials," says Peterson of Buffalo, just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put out Peterson's Ointment, I made up my mind to give a generous box for 35 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows.

"I guarantee Peterson's Ointment because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rigidly guaranteed for eczema, old sores, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory your money will be returned."

PRICES OF STOCKS CRUMBLED UNDER VERITABLE FLOOD OF SELLING ORDERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—This mightiest of all stock markets crumpled up with a severe attack of growing pains today which let most active issues down 1 to 12 points. The market was flooded with selling orders, as traders hastened to take their profits while the taking was good, but on the whole offerings were absorbed with remarkable ease, as plenty of buyers appeared at the lower levels.

Total sales were carried over the 6,000,000-share mark for the third time in history, aggregating 6,047,300 shares. Naturally the ticker was more than an hour in arrears during most of the session, which made traders a little panicky as to what the bottom prices may have been on the floor. The ticker did not close until 4:48 p. m.

The day's news was largely constructive, so the reaction could be attributed only to the market's own over-bought condition. The credit situation seemed to be about the only cloud on the horizon, although call money held at 6 1-2 per cent all day. Greater stringency is looked for next week, however, with beginning of holiday requirements about Wednesday.

The hope of credit improvement through further gold imports waned as sterling held above the gold import point, and the possibility of loss of gold to Canada appeared as the premium on the Canadian dollar passed the export gold point. The federal reserve brokers' loan figures to be announced tomorrow were expectantly awaited to see whether the record speculation would affect the total as slightly as it did last week.

The iron and steel trade reviews, while reporting further seasonal slackening in production, were optimistic as to first quarter prospects, stating that the demand would probably be adequate to maintain the higher price schedules. Another copper company to give tangible results of the upturn in the industry was Calumet & Arizona, which declared an extra dividend of $1.

The value of stock exchange seats crossed the half million mark with a sale arranged at $525,000, a jump of $30,000 from the previous record sale.

The Associated Press average price of 20 industrials was carried down nearly 4 points from yesterday's high to 248.69, and of 20 rails, down 2.13 points to 153.17.

Price trends wobbled up and down in confusing fashion during most of the session, until the last hour, when virtually the entire list turned downward, leaving about half a dozen substantial gains at the close. Radio again provided the fireworks, shooting 21 points to a new peak at 379, falling back to 345, then rallying to 359 and closing with a point gain.

The commodity markets generally were firm. Cotton went forward 80 cents to $21.15 a bale in buying in anticipation that the final government crop report will be bullish. Wheat and corn improved on unfavorable weather reports, and the latter was aided by a rumor that Germany will lower its protective tariff on that grain.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, although the Canadian dollar moved up to a premium of about 14 cents. Japanese yen slumped 25 points to 46.15 cents. Sterling held fairly steady.

Patronize These Well Known Concerns

HAVE YOUR CHILD'S PICTURE TAKEN BY BELLE RATHBONE

Now that the Christmas season is rapidly drawing near, it is time for you to begin thinking of the photographs you have planned to give for presents.

A photo of yourself or of the children is the one personal gift. Only you can give a relative or friend a picture of yourself. There is nothing more precious than a photo.

Especially is this true of photographs of children. As the years go by the children grow up they change. Only by memory can you picture that lovely baby or that cute girl or boy of yesterday. A photo taken now insures a lasting memory picture. Why not have them taken now?

Belle Rathbone of 161 Main street, phone 2125, makes a specialty of photography. In addition she features photos done in natural colors. These are lifelike and make wonderful gifts. All work at the Rathbone studio is of the highest type. Work done is guaranteed to last. Only good work at reasonable prices can last. Cheap work and materials fail to catch and hold lasting pictures.

Rathbone photographs are well known for their individuality and the manner in which they attract and hold attention. Early appointments insure excellent work. Do not wait until the holiday rush starts. Have your photo taken now and thus be sure of satisfaction.

MAKE YOUR PLANS FOR HEATING WHILE COLD DAYS ARE HERE

The pleasant fall days are to be much enjoyed but it cannot help but make one think of the cold wintery days which are to come. And, with them comes the problem of heating your home, your office, your business place. Plan now for those days before winter arrives.

Gas is becoming more and more popular every year as a means of insuring comfortable, warm homes and business places at an even temperature at all times, easily controlled, and without any fuss or muss.

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co. at any of their eastern Connecticut offices will tell you how simply it is to operate and how inexpensive, all things considered, it is to maintain.

ARRANGE FOR YOUR WINTER STORAGE WHILE SPACE IS AVAILABLE

With cold evenings and nights, it reminds you of the time you will soon have to have a warm place to keep your car. Good clean storage places, always heated, in a modern, fire-proof garage, with efficient employes to deliver good service, is not to be had always at your convenience. That is one reason why it is well to arrange for your winter storage before the good spaces are all gone.

The Central Garage at 135 Franklin street is an ideal garage. It is modern throughout, fire-proof, is just a step from the center of the city, is always open and has an efficient corps of employes to render service. Just the right place for the busy business man, where he can have all-night, all-day or intermittent storage. Your car will always be ready to run, no matter how cold the weather, and it will be handy, if you arrange to keep it at the Central Garage.

Gasoline, oils and accessories are also carried, and these can be attended to while your car is idle.

ADAMS MOTOR CO. GIVES MOTORISTS REAL SERVICE

For automobile repairing of quality the Adams Motor Co. of Jewett City, is just the place for particular automobile owners. If you want to make sure that your automobile repair work is properly and conscientiously performed, all you have to do is to take your car to the mechanics at Adams garage, who are well and widely known as experts on virtually every type of automobile. Their long experience in dealing with automobile owners has resulted in building up a business founded on honest dealing. There are so many motorists who have little idea of what constitutes an honest repair job that they are taking chances with poor mechanics at many places. For years dealers in Buick and Chevrolet cars the Adams Motor Co. has a reputation to be protected. Efficient service is its motto.

DEPENDABILITY KEY NOTE IN ALL MATTERS CONCERNING BUICKS

With constant transitions in the operation and maintenance of one of the most prominent and important branches of human evolution today the automobile—the average public man looks more and more each year to a place where he can do business, not today alone, but in the future, with the minimum of effort and annoyance and with a better and more pleased viewpoint each year.

The Jewett City Garage is built upon dependability, starting with the car itself which the concern represents, and carrying on through every fibre of the institution.

The Jewett City Garage handles Buicks, as which, year after year, have demonstrated its absolute dependence in the automobile market. The same stron, fundamentals which make the car increasingly popular are woven into the texture of the Jewett City Garage in its business dealings with the average automobile buyer and owner.

HEATED GARAGE SERVICE SOUGHT FOR IN COLD WEATHER

The cold evenings of the past few weeks makes you think of what you are going to do with your auto when colder weather continues. Of course you want to keep on using it throughout the winter, and in order to do it you have to have a warm garage to keep it in at night and during the day when not in use.

One of the most modern fireproof, heated garages in Eastern Connecticut is the Adams Motor Co. of Jewett City and Baltic, a step from the business center in either town.

The concern also maintains service in gas and oils and accessories. Almost any service is available and they will tell you how moderately the their storage charge and how complete the service.

SUSAN D. WILLIAMS OF EAST Hampton, Conn., vs. Eugene R. Scranton of Colchester, Conn., the heirs, representatives and creditors of Francis W. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased, the heirs, representatives and creditors of Frank U. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased, and the heirs, representatives and creditors of Sereno A. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased. Order of Notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, November 21st, 1928.

Upon the complaint of the said Susan D. Williams claiming for the reasons therein set forth one thousand dollars damages, a foreclosure and the possession of certain mortgaged premises and other equitable relief returnable on the first Tuesday of December, 1928, before the Superior Court in and for said County.

It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the plaintiff's attorney has annexed to said complaint an affidavit stating that he, said attorney, believes that said Francis W. Scranton, Frank U. Scranton and Sereno A. Scranton are now deceased, that the estates of none of them have been admitted to probate, so far as he knows and that neither he nor the plaintiff knows who are the heirs, representatives or creditors of any of them or where they reside except that the defendant Eugene R. Scranton is the heir at law of each of said deceased persons.

It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendants by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, three days successively commencing on or before the 22nd day of November, 1928.

It was said here today that an effort will be made at the session of the legislature opening in January to have a bill enacted under which it will be possible to hunt deer for probably a week during the fall of 1929. A similar bill was before the legislature last year, but failed of passage.

What appears to have been an attempt to steal the tires of a large touring car that Earl Kibbe left parked in School street, just a little below the central fire station, has been reported to the police. The appearance of the car would indicate that an attempt had been made to jack it up. The air had been released from all the tires, as one operation of the effort to get away with them, though just why this was done is not quite clear.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Crosby have returned from a stay of several days at their cottage at Oakland Beach, where the weather was beautiful the past week.

N. A. Witter was recovering at his home on Mechanic street today from an illness that has kept him away from business for several days.

spiring account of the auxiliary sessions held at the national convention in San Antonio. The child welfare and Americanization programme of the organization were described. The great worth of "Fidac" the inter-allied veterans organization as an instrument of peace and good will among the nations of the universe was illustrated. The speakers from the state headquarters included the past state commander, Harry Johnson, national executive committeeman from Connecticut, Howard Tinsley, state officer of the Hartford district, who explained the benefits of boys participating in the Legion junior baseball league. Mr. Johnson also rendered a vivid account of the trip to the national convention in Texas, made by over 100 delegations from this state board the "Charter Oak" special and the events of the convention while in session.

Movies of the convention and two reels of war pictures were shown by Leslie Goff. The screen programme brought the meeting to a close, one of which will go on records of the local post as one of the most successful ever held in its history.

The Putnam chapter of American Red Cross, now attempting to reach its membership goal of 1000 members during the annual roll call of the organization has nearly passed the half way mark, this morning it has scored a total number of 473 members. # ANOTHER NEW LONDON DELINQUENT COMMITTED TO JAIL FOR TAXES DUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—Because he has failed to pay his taxes for several years, Andrew J. Maynard, former salesman for fire department equipment and for several years engaged in selling combination tickets for Elks' fairs, has been ordered committed to jail by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander. Maynard owes the city taxes on the assessment of the levies of 1920 to 1927, inclusive, except for the years 1923 and 1925. The amount of money owed is $316.95. Of this $213.29 is for taxes; $97.98 for interest and $5.68 for officer's fees. Maynard has been approached numerous times for the collection of the debt and not showing any disposition to pay, Collector Alexander this forenoon handed City Sheriff Lawrence Fahey a warrant calling for Maynard's incarceration in the county jail. Maynard was sought and found and was taken to jail at noon. Since then a brother of Maynard has been endeavoring to procure the money by which to pay the tax collector that the jailed man might be liberated, but up to this evening he was not successful.

An automobile driven by Chauncey T. Dixon of Waterford struck an unidentified child on Bank street, corner of Shaw street, late this afternoon. The child apparently was unhurt other than having bruises, but as a precautionary measure the child was taken by Dixon to Home Memorial hospital.

A young man well known in this city, for he is engaged in business, was arrested late today by Patrolmen Michael Dorsey, Elwood Bailey and Louis Tooker, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested on Montauk avenue after the car he was driving had collided with several machines, one of them a five-ton truck. The driver was so drunk that after he had been lodged in a cell at police headquarters he fell into a deep slumber. He is scheduled to be in court tomorrow morning.

PICCENNETTI PAYS $435— HAD BIG SUPPLY OF BOOZE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—Oresto Piccennetti, 302 Bank street, was charged, in the city court today, with violation of the liquor law on two counts. As he pleaded guilty, a fine of $200 and costs was imposed on each count, making the amount of money the accused paid into the court treasury about $435. Piccennetti was arrested a week ago when the police conducted a series of raids. At the time, Piccennetti requested a continuance and it has been granted from time to time until today. The greatest amount of liquor found by the raiders was that which was found at the home of the accused.

Another case of violation of the liquor law was also disposed of today when a nolle was ordered in the case of Joseph Chamberlin, 50 Moore avenue, employed as a taxicab operator. The two informers for the police declared that they purchased a bottle of liquor of Chamberlin, claiming that he drove them about the city. In reality, Chamberlin did not report for work until midnight of the night the alleged sale of liquor was made and the sailors stated that the purchase by them was made about 10 o'clock.

Wladislaw Leitkowsky, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield for the case was continued to Dec. 21.

Charles Chapman of Mystic was charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances in passing a danger signal on Bank street that was set against his passing. He was given suspension of judgment.

Bronie Stanio was charged with breach of the peace but the case was nolled. He was arrested several weeks ago.

George Bates, colored, was also charged with breach of the peace, having been arrested several weeks ago because of his alleged conduct toward a youth. This case was continued a month.

Madeline Piscatella, 8 Hamilton street, was charged with breach of the peace, and that case, also, was nolled, as the circumstances attending her arrest were not deemed sufficiently serious and of an aggravating nature by the prosecution to proceed with a trial. Mrs. Piscatella was arrested several weeks ago upon complaint of Nicholas Sammataro, 121 Shaw street, who declared that during an altercation at the Piscatella store, Mrs. Piscatella attacked and struck him with a meat cleaver. The only other cases tried were for intoxication and most of the accused received minimum fines or brief sentences in jail.

WOMAN'S DRESSES FOUND— MAY HAVE BEEN STOLEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—Sergt. James McGrath of the New Haven railroad police and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray this afternoon found four dresses—woman's size—on Hallam street. The garments appear to be new. The presumption of the police is that they were stolen and either thrown away or else unwittingly dropped by the thief.

SAILORS' WILD JOY RIDE GETS BOTH INTO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—John Dudimyak and Ernest Ford, sailors stationed at the submarine base, were in the Waterford town court today, the former charged with driving without the owner's permission, reckless driving and evasion of responsibility and the latter charged with intoxication. Both were held for trial. Probable cause was found against Dudimyak and he was held for trial in the superior court; in default of bail of $1500 Dudimyak went to jail. Ford's bond was fixed at $50. Dudimyak and Ford entered the Packard automobile owned by Ernest Doherty, a chief petty officer, also stationed at the submarine base Sunday night. Dudimyak did the driving and while near Lakes Pond, the car crashed against another machine, owned by John Bologna of New York, driven by a man named Popo. The New York auto was overturned. Although the six passengers were made prisoners in the overturned car, all escaped with injuries no more serious than bumps and bruises. The colliding car after caroming off the New York machine smashed six fence poles and came to a stop only after it had entered on land a distance of about 300 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stevens of 31 Summer street, was given a party last night at their home in celebration of the seventh anniversary of their marriage. About ten couples were present. An evening of dancing and bridge was enjoyed. The hostess served refreshments.

Every member of the Sorores club has been taxed the sum of fifty cents which will go toward a fund to be used in purchasing Thanksgiving baskets for needy families of the city. The decision to place the levy on members was reached at a business meeting held last night in the Y. M. C. A. Before the business meeting supper was served by Susie Payne, Marion Moon and Mary Johnson.

FUNERALS

Alexandro Rossi

The funeral of Alexandro Rossi, of 55 Shaw street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, a high mass of requiem being sung by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Henry Sweet

The funeral of Henry Sweet, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Harriet P. Weaver has sold a building lot on the westerly side of Ocean avenue, formerly of the estate of Frank S. Gardner, to Mary L. Larkin.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against Harris D. Kosowsky. A warrant for the sale of property owned by Kosowsky was issued several days ago, but as he has now paid his back taxes the realty will not be sold.

Mrs. Antonio Mesatki, 100 Winthrop street, complained to the police last night that during the early evening someone entered upon her premises and stole numerous articles of clothing from a clothesline.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Change of Position

A. Duhamel formerly with Schwartz Bros., is now connected with the Interstate Furniture Co.

Dance at Armory

One of the most popular orchestras in this section of the country will appear at the Armory this week, Friday night, McEnelly's orchestra of Springfield. They are well known to radio fans for they often broadcast over station WBZ and are well known through their dance records. They always give good satisfaction and a pleasant evening is assured all who attend Friday night. See adv.

Window Attracting Attention

A very attractive window with its beauty enhanced by lovely silks serving as a background for the colorful array of men's Triple Wear ties for Christmas, is being admired by all who pass the window of Reid and Hughes. The window is the work of Murray Kramer, special window decorator of the Elite Neckwear company of Boston and Jack Price, head of the firm. The display will be continued for the remainder of the week.

Palace Theatre

As may be guessed from the title, the picture is a "sea-going" one, however, the action of the story for the most part is laid in a seacoast town which is visited by the United States battle fleet just returned from a training cruise.

According to advance reports where the picture has had its showing, Miss Bow has one of the best parts of her career. She is cast as a dance hall hostess whose duty it is to encourage the sailors on shore leave to spend as much of their month's pay for dance tickets as possible. It is during a visit of the fleet to the port that she becomes the center of a rivalry between two "gobs" from the U. S. S. California. These parts are essayed by James Hall, popular Paramount leading man, and Jack Oakie, a newcomer to the screen, but none the less adequate for the role.

All the fire and dash of a Clara Bow performance is featured in this characterization by the popular star. By virtue of the story she is given ample opportunity to display her histrionic talents to good advantage.

The picture was directed by Malcolm St. Clair, who recently gained popular attention for his able direction of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and "Sporting Goods." The story is an original one prepared for the screen by Monte Brice and J. Walter Ruben of the Paramount writing staff.

How the story resolves into a sensational climax is one of the highlights of the film. Over 300 ex-service men were given extra roles in the picture, creating an authentic atmosphere an realism in the movie that will long be remembered.

Broadway Theatre

When Tuttle decided to film "Varsity" on the Princeton campus, he faced many troublesome conditions. He had to transport a whole company across a continent. He needed undergraduate actors to give authenticity to the scenes. He needed to put the scenes through with dispatch, without too much time for rehearsals.

Tuttle's fears increased as he neared the campus. Could the student players act? Would he find the student players he wanted? It was with these questions uppermost in his mind that he approached Dr. Donald Clive Stuart, professor of drama at the university. But Dr. Stuart wasn't worried. He presented Tuttle with five young men who had proved their ability in the famous Triangle Club performances.

When Tuttle returned to the coast, the sequences of his picture had these five young men in prominent roles, capably acted, and he had with him young Holmes who returned to Hollywood to take part in further scenes of the picture which were made there.

Breed Theatre

A dislocated hip and a broken rib failed to halt the filming of "Painted Post," Fox Films production starring Tom Mix, which will be shown at the Breed Theatre tomorrow and Saturday.

In one of the many gripping sequences Mix is required to stage a thrilling fight at the head of a flight of stairs. Mix has always prided himself on realism and the fight he staged was so real that he sustained a dislocated hip and a broken rib during the battle.

Injured but game, Mix insisted upon continuing the scene, and for the rest of the day did his stuff before the camera. However, at the close of the day's work he received medical attention and was ordered to take a few days' rest.

The cast of "Painted Post" includes many well known faces. Natalie Kingston has the leading feminine role. Philo McCullough provides the villainy and Al St. John provides the comedy.

EXHIBIT TO SHOW ART IN THE THEATRE

This (Thursday) afternoon and evening, from 2.30 to 5.30 and again from 7.30 to 10 the Woman's City club will hold a private view at Converse Art gallery of the exhibition which has been arranged by the art committee to illustrate art in the theatre.

The exhibition has been arranged in cooperation with Slater Memorial museum, and thereafter will be thrown open to the public through Wednesday, November 28, on schooldays from 10.30 to 5.30 on Saturday and Sunday from 2.30 to 5.30.

At 8 o'clock Mrs. Willis P. Austin will repeat the talk on "Sets, Lights and Cartoons," which she gave at the round table of the drama committe on Nov. 15. She has been asked to do this because the art committee feels that it will give a sidelight on the exhibition that will add to its interest.

HANOVER

E. A. Long, proprietor of the Highland House, Bethlehem, N. H., with Mrs. Long, has been visiting at the Eadie and Park homes during the past few days.

Miss Jean C. Peck of Mount Holyoke college spent the week end in the village with her mother and aunts.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hall returned home Monday, from Washington, D. C., following a week's stay. While there they attended the National grange meetings.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Lawrence H. King of West Springfield was fined $35 and costs of $11.35 in the borough court Monday morning by Judge William H. Heald for operating an overloaded truck.

William E. Lyman of Springfield was charged with operating a commercial motor vehicle with swinging markers, without having the light weight and carrying capacity written on the truck, not having a mirror attached to the truck, and other minor charges. His case was nolled upon payment of costs, which amounted to $11.35.

The Stafford fire department was called out Monday evening to a chimney fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand C. Shippee on West Main street. After working some time, the fire was extinguished and no serious damage was done.

Miss Beatrice Siswick of Connecticut college, New London, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Siswick.

Miss Gladys Houle is absent from her duties at the office of the town clerk because of illness.

Miss M. Maude Cummiskey of Springfield was recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cummiskey, in Forestville.

ST. MARY'S PLAYERS PRESENT MUSICAL COMEDY WITH WELL CHOSEN CAST

One thousand people, a near capacity audience, heartily applauded St. Mary's Players, Wednesday evening, when they presented The Yokohama Maid, a Japanese musical comedy, at the Palace theatre. It was St. Mary's Players' first venture in musical comedy productions and they scored a decided success. Not only have they established an enviable record in straight comedy productions but have started up the ladder of success in musical comedy circles, as well. The entire cast, including the adult chorus and the children's chorus displayed unusual talent. Appearing in the cast were several of the old favorites, Edward T. Connelly, Nicholas J. Spellman, Robert Enright, Michael Farrell and Eileen Hinchey while most of the remaining half dozen characters are new additions to the troupe.

The production was given in two acts and was laid in the garden of O Sing-a-song's house in the suburbs of Yokohama. All of the score of musical numbers were splendidly given and well merited the hearty applause showered on the vocalists by the delighted audience.

Miss Anna Stockdale was a delightful choice for the role of the Japanese heiress, O Sing-a-song. She carried the role with perfect poise and ease and her musical numbers were delightfully given. Edward T. Connelly, the popular tenor and well known actor, was especially well cast as Fateddo, the mayor of Kybosho. He was perfectly at home in the role of the portly mayor. Costumed in black, yellow, red and brown flowered silk, he made an imposing appearance. He arrived in state with a large and gaily costumed entourage.

The role of Takasi, herald to Kybosho, was well carried by William Delaney and Nicholas J. Spellman was ideal as the mayor's secretary, Knogudi. Michael Farrell carried the role of Harry Cortcase, the American lawyer, in a most commendable manner.

Miss Josephine Hartle made a decided hit in the role of Tung-Waga, Sing-a-song's nurse, while Miss Josephine Dempsey was a very pleasing choice for Sing-a-song's companion, Kissamee. In fact it would be difficult indeed to have improved on the cast, as all carried their roles in professional manner.

The opening scene was unusually attractive and instantly won the applause of the audience. The members of the chorus were gaily and appropriately costumed in pink and black, the girls carrying Japanese parasols and the men fans. The quaint costumes, the numerous Japanese lanterns and the lighting effect produced a beautiful scene.

The chorus of Japanese children, 10 boys and girls, gaily attired, made a decided hit in their song, Ching-a-ling-a-lee, and were forced to respond to an insistent encore. The small boys were costumed in black and yellow and the girls in yellow with blue sashes. Another number that well merited the hearty applause by the audience, was the duet, Unrequited Love, by Kissimee and Knogudi. O Sing-a-song's solo, When a Maiden's Sweet Sixteen, was one of the feature numbers of the musical programme. Fateddo and O Sing-a-song were forced to respond with an encore in their duet, I Shall Be Proud. Other features of the evening were the opening chorus of the second act, Waiting Expectantly; the ballad, A Heart Went West, by Harry Cortcase, the quartette selection, And Thus You See, the trio number, I Am the Mayoress of Dollarsville and the sextette and finale, Oh, Wedding Bells Will Soon Be Ringing.

Between the acts, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, one of the business managers, took occasion to compliment Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Farrell who directed the production. Mr. Farrell was the director and Mrs. Farrell was in charge of the music. The support given tonight is very encouraging, said Rev. Father Coholan. He announced that hereafter St. Mary's Players will stage two productions a year, one musical comedy and one comedy. Next March the players will appear in a comedy and a year from this month they will stage another musical comedy. Our next production will be even better than this one, said Father Coholan.

Act, II: Introduction: opening chorus, "Waiting Expectantly"; chorus, "Here Comes the Mayor"; song, "Suki Tong," Ah No, Suki Tong and chorus; song, "Back Again to Old Japan," O Sing-a-Song; song, "Japanese Nodding Doll," Knogudi; ballad, "A Heart Once Went," Harry; quartette, "And Thus You See," Harry, O Sing-a-Song, Hilda, Stella; trio, "I Am the Mayoress of Dollarsville," O Sing-a-Song, Harry, Fateddo; sextette and Finale, "Oh, Wedding Bells Will Soon be Ringing," chorus.

Chorus: Arthur Tremblay, Arthur Pelletier, Joseph Tighe, James Barry, John Crowe, James Quinn, Francis Tracey, John J. Barry, James Gay, Joseph Selvidee, John R. Barry, Ernest Zachie, Paul Zachie, Charlotte Tracy, Margaret Keeley, Esther Fahey, Doris White, Eleanor Barry, Rose Dennis, Margaret Fahey, Eva Duff, Helen Payment, Lucy Woods, Marion Shea.

The committee: Business managers Rev. W. A. Keefe, Rev. F. M. Coholan; advertising, Rev. F. M. Coholan, Joseph Donnelly; stage manager, Neal Crowley; director, Michael J. Farrell; music, Mrs. M. J. Farrell.

The programme boys were Wilfred Roberts, John Leary, Arthur Cotter, Thomas Kirby, Charles Lacavera and George Constandi. The committee in charge acknowledged courtesies from Manager F. J. Levenson of the theater, the Palace theater staff of employes, the Plaut Cadden Co., Mara's Pharmacy, Joseph T. Farrell, The Connecticut Co., and those who helped make the costumes for the players. The music programme was furnished by the Ideal Radio orchestra.

HELEN HUNTINGTON SMITH TO BECOME MISSIONARY

Miss Helen Huntington Smith, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Edward H. Smith of Ingtal, China, formerly of this city will be commissioned for service as a missionary under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions in Foochow, China, on Friday, Nov. 23, at 12.15 in Pilgrim Hall, Boston. Miss Smith, who is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, class of 1925, has also taken special work at Union Theological seminary and served as a traveling secretary for the student volunteer movement, and as assistant girl's worker in Union Settlement. She will do teaching and social work in Foochow.

The commission will be conferred upon Miss Smith by John G. Talcott, of Talcottville, Connecticut, a member of the prudential committee of the board and a prominent business man who is deeply interested in Miss Smith's prospective work in China. Others participating in the service will be Professor Lewis Hodous, of the Hartford seminary foundation, who will give the welcome to the field; Mrs. Lucius O. Lee, one of the American Board secretaries, who will introduce Miss Smith; and Miss Helen B Calder, who will offer the prayer of consecration.

Miss Smith was born in Ingtal, where her father has been at work since 1901 under the American board. His supporting church for the past 20 years has been the Fall River First Congregational, but this city is his home town. During the past few months Miss Smith has been living at 223 Lake Vine Drive, Collingswood, N. J. She goes to her new work with a remarkable background, in that she learned Chinese when but a child and still remembers a great deal of it.

The young woman is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen S Smith of No. 374 Washington street.

BALTIC PASTOR SPOKE TO BIBLE STUDY GROUP

The men's Bible study group held its weekly session Wednesday evening at 6:15 at the Y. M. C. A. Instead of the usual study and discussion Rev. Harvey H. Conklin of Baltic, favored the group with an exposition of the 23rd Psalm, commonly called the Shepherd Psalm. Mr. Conklin held the close interest of the men as he explained in a simple and forceful way the meaning of the various sentences of the wonderful psalm. Following the exposition a brief discussion on prayer was held, and among other points the following were brought out: Prayer is a very vital thing; what may be termed wonders are wrought by prayer. Prayer is not necessarily confined to words, often one can pray by sincere thoughts. It is helpful to sit in silence alone with God, for God does in his own way speak to men. No Christian life can maintain as it should be without regular devout prayer. Several marvelous things were spoken of which had evidently happened because of earnest prayer.

MOTOR OPERATOR FINED $25 ON TWO COUNTS

After his admission in the city court Wednesday morning that he did not have an operator's license or registration for the car he was driving, James Lee Johnson, 21, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, was fined a total of $50 and costs, $25 on each count. He was arrested Monday night when he was noticed driving without lights.

In court Tuesday morning he stated that he had a driver's license and a registration at his home in New York and the case was continued to allow him time to produce them. A telegram was sent to his home, asking that the license and registration be forwarded immediately. After court Wednesday Johnson sent another telegram to New York asking for money to pay his fine. Up to a late hour no answer had been received.

TAFTVILLE

Enos Eccleston, who has been employed for the past several months in Stonington, has returned to his home on South B street.

The members of Peter Gallan post, American Legion, and the legion auxiliary are to be hosts to a gathering of the members of posts and auxiliaries in this vicinity Friday evening at Ponemah hall, the occasion being a district meeting. It is expected that District Commander Allen of Groton will preside.

The Taftville Rod and Gun club has appointed a committee to arrange for the showing of an interesting moving picture at the local theatre, the proceeds being for the treasury of the club.

Miss Mary Nolan, the president, presided at the regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society at the club rooms on Providence street, Wednesday evening.

Leo Martin and Lionel Genest have resigned their positions with the paint department of the local mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Way and daughter of South Second avenue have moved to Norwich, where they are to make their home in the future.

It is reported that there is a great shortage of pheasants this season. Although scores were liberated on the Blissville side of the Shetucket river, not one sportsman has reported taking a bird in that locality. It is believed that a contagious disease, which may be compared with roup in poultry, is responsible.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bissonnette of North B street have moved to one of the apartments in the house that they own on Germania avenue.

The members of the Dramatic club held a meeting and rehearsal at Ponemah hall Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trudel, who have been residing on Terrace avenue, have taken a house on South B street.

Raymond Bagley, who was in town for the Bagley-Marsan wedding last Monday at Sacred Heart church, has returned to his home in Blackstone, Mass.

The many friends of Mrs. Arthur X. Bessette of Norwich avenue, who was struck and seriously injured by an automobile while she was boarding a trolley car at Lisbon bridge several days ago, learn that she is slowly recovering at the William W. Backus hospital, where she is a patient.

CHEVROLET MEN HAVE THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET

Employes of the Thompson Motor company and the Thompson Chevrolet company of New London and the Dix Chevrolet company of this city were given their annual banquet Wednesday evening at the Cinderella Inn, Quaker Hill, with an attendance of over 30.

After the excellent menu had been enjoyed, Lee E. Dix, of this city, chairman of the committee, officiated as toastmaster, and there were interesting and entertaining remarks by Charles U. Sauter, manager of the New London Thompson company, Max Rogoff, assistant manager in New London, Phillip Crossley, star Chevrolet salesman of the Boston zone and president of the 72-car club, and Gerald F. Brassill of this city, also a star salesman and member of the club.

A singing orchestra rendered vocal and instrumental selections and a number of the men at the tables added to the pleasure of the evening by the musical selections they rendered.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT WASHINGTON ST. CORNER

Automobiles driven by Henry Vignot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Vignot of 218 Washington street, and by Mrs. S. Antzis, wife of the manager of Frink's pasteurization plant, were in collision just before 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Washington and Sachem streets.

The Vignot machine was proceeding down Washington street as the other car was driven from Sachem towards Washington street and was without lights, it is understood, and was struck by the Vignot car. The Antzis machine ran across the street and onto the grass at Chelsea parade after the collision.

Mrs. Antzis was taken to the home of Charles W. Frink at 26 Lincoln avenue, after the accident, and was found to be uninjured. The Frink machine had a fender bent and the other car had window glass broken besides other damage.

WILL CONTINUE PINOCHLE PLAY AT K. OF C. HOME

The contestants in the city pinochle league will journey to the Knights of Columbus home this (Thursday) evening when the following games will be played:

First half, Duwells vs. American Legion, American I. C. H. vs. J. O. A. M., Foresters vs. K. of C., Moose vs. Eagles, Thermos vs. Grotto.

Second half, Duwells vs. American I. C. H., Foresters vs. J. O. A. M., Moose vs. K. of C., Thermos vs. Eagles, American Legion vs. Grotto.

To increase the interest in the league, the K. of C. and the J. O. A. M. are determined to do their best in defeating the league leading Foresters team.

All team captains are to have a full team at the Knights of Columbus home not later than eight o'clock so that the officials of the league can check in each team in time to have play start not later than 8.15.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN WHILE OWNER ATTENDS MEETING

After spending the evening in the city to attend a committee meeting, Nathan Gilman of Bozrah found his Buick sedan missing from the place where he had left it parked in Bath street and he reported the theft of the machine to police headquarters from which notice was sent to all the surrounding territory.

The machine has Connecticut registration 16-420 and is of dark bluish green color, according to the report Mr. Gilman made to the police. With the car went about $51, of which about $11 was in cash and the rest in checks, which Mr. Gilman had in a pocket of the car ready to deposit in the bank.

GET DEER AND BEAR IN VERMONT HUNTING TRIP

Fred Lewis, Elmer Baker, Christopher Healy, Percy Scrivner and Walter Healy of South Windham, who were on a ten days hunting expedition in Jamaica, Vt., have returned to their homes. The Windham hunters bagged four deer and two bears. Mr. Lewis, the crack shot of the Windham Hunter's club, knocked over a buck deer that tipped the scales at 268 pounds. The Windham hunters stopped at the Indian Mountain camp. A rifle ball from the gun of Walter Healy dropped a bear that weighed 352 pounds.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John E. Haviland

As noted in The Bulletin, Wednesday, Mrs. John Elbert Haviland, 57, died at Backus hospital Tuesday morning. Mrs. Haviland was the mother of Helen Haviland Potter, wife of the pastor of the Norwich Town Methodist church. Mrs. Haviland recently came to Norwich Town to visit Rev. and Mrs. Potter at the parsonage before leaving for St. Petersburg, Florida, where she usually has spent the winter, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Haviland went for an automobile ride with her daughter and returned in fine spirits. Shortly after dinner she was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage which left her unconscious. Her husband was on a business trip at Shreveport, La., and started immediately for home when he received the telegram stating his wife's condition. He arrived at the hospital on Monday afternoon and remained almost constantly at the bedside of his stricken wife until the end came. Mrs. Haviland had been married about 20 years. She is survived by her husband, her daughter, Mrs. Potter, and by a sister, Mrs. William Bostwell, of Greenwich, Conn. The funeral is to be held at Port Chester, N. Y.

DRAMATIC ACQUITTAL OF SLAYER OF HIS OWN SON

Arthur F. Falk, of Chicago, Had Confessed Killing a Son in Drunken Rage—Judge, Prosecutor and Defendant Were in Tears as the Trial Progressed—"Hanging Prosecutor" Refused to Continue the Prosecution—A Wet-Eyed Jury in Five Minutes Returned Verdict of Acquittal.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—A wet-eyed jury in five minutes today acquitted of murder a father who confessed killing his son after a "hanging prosecutor" burst into tears and refused to continue the prosecution.

The judge, the state prosecutor, the defendant, his daughter who was forced to testify against him and virtually the entire courtroom including the jury were in tears as the trial, less than three hours old, came to an ending as dramatic as any ever witnessed in the grim old criminal courts building, scene of hundreds of murder trials.

Arthur F. Falk, the defendant, a former park commissioner, slumped to the floor in a faint as the jurors, still weeping, brought in a verdict five minutes after receiving the case.

Falk, in a drunken rage, shot and killed his 22 year old son, Eldred, three months ago today when the youth upbraided him for coming home intoxicated. Offering his father a shot gun that Falk had given the boy last Christmas, Eldred told his father to fire, adding that he would rather be dead than be the son of a drunkard.

Falk, his brain befuddled by drink, pulled the trigger nad his son fell dead at his feet. The father, sobered by the shooting, attempted to reload the gun and kill himself but had never fired a gun before and did not know how. Instead he called the police and made a full confession. His wife and a 19 year old daughter, Vernus, at first turned against him but a few days ago declared they intended to stand by the husband and father even though he had killed their own son and brother.

Such was the case that opened today in the court of Judge Dennis Normoyle when Falk, his face contorted with remorse, went on trial for his life. At his elbow lay the gun with which his son's life was snuffed out, behind him in deep mourning, sat his mother, his wife and his daughter.

Tears rolled down his cheeks as Harold Levy, who with Emmett Byrne, are known as Cook county's "hanging prosecutors" outlined the state's case, declaring the state's principal witness was Falk's daughter who heard the quarrel between father and son that ended in the shooting.

At mention of her name the daughter burst into tears. William Manion, defense lawyer, said he hoped to prove the shooting was entirely accidental and that Falk did not know what he was doing. Then Falk's pretty blonde daughter was called as the state's first witness.

With trembling voice she identified her father, pointing him out at the prisoner's table with a gesture that was an appeal rather than an accusation while Falk dropped his face in his arms and sobbed audibly. Relentlessly the state forced her to tell of her father's return home intoxicated, of his quarrel with her brother, of her brother's entreaty to her father to kill him and of hearing the fatal shot.

She burst into tears as she identified the weapon her father used and spectators and some of the jurors already were weeping with her.

Prosecutor Byrne rose to his feet to begin the state's closing argument. Suddenly he burst into tears and announced that he could not continue. His reviewed five years work as state prosecutor and said he had acted without fear or favor and had never been swayed by his emotions.

"But", he said, "as tears streamed down his cheeks," if this man is sent to the electric chair or to the penitentiary, I refuse to be a party to it. When I had concluded my argument, I couldn't look into the faces of the defendant, his wife, daughter or mother."

By this time the entire courtroom was in tears and Judge Normoyle was wiping the tears from his own eyes. Some of the jurors let the tears roll down their cheeks unheeded, others were openly wiping them away.

The case went to the jury without further argument and within five minutes the jurors were back with the acquittal verdict. As it was read Falk slumped to the floor. Later in the judge's chamber Falk and his family were reunited.

"The verdict," said Judge Normoyle, "was a very sensible one. It was the only one that could have been returned under the circumstances."

GRANTED DIVORCE FROM ACTOR LOU TELLEGEN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Isabel Craven Tellegen, wife of the actor, Lou Tellegen, was granted a divorce in superior court today on the strength of a letter written by Tellegen admitting that he had been unfaithful and was living "with someone else."

The court awarded the custody of their four year old son, Rex, to Mrs. Tellegen.

In her suit Mrs. Tellegen charged that acts of infidelity on the part of her husband had caused her great unhappiness and pain.

The letter which Tellegen was said to have written to his wife read:

"I can only admit that the truth is that I have been unfaithful to you with several other women. Time and place do not matter. Who they are you could find out but that won't make and difference to you.

"The facts remain that I am living with some one else and intend to continue to do so. You can let me know how you feel in the matter and what you are going to do about it."

MAYOR OF JERSEY CITY RELEASED IN $1,000 BAIL

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 22—(AP)—Mayor Frank Hague, dominant figure of New Jersey's democratic political machine, was arrested today after a hectic 12 hours by the sergeant at arms and counsel to a legislative commission, who sought his apprehension and freed ten minutes later in $1,000 bail on a writ of habeas corpus.

A warrant issued by a joint session of the legislature was used to take the mayor into custody. He had ignored a subpoena of the investigating commission which wanted to question him on his personal finances and conduct of his administration. The committee as well as the legislature which created it, is overwhelmingly republican and Hague laid the investigation of this domain to politics. His arrest he characterized "smal" politics." A grand jury to which Hague's failure to respond to a subpoena was referred as a possible misdemeanor has not returned an indictment.

VESTRIS LEAKED BELOW WATER LINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—A member of the stokehold crew of the lost liner Vestris told the steamboat inspection service board of inquiry today that one hour after the vessel left New York water was coming through an ash ejector below the water line and several hours later a list to starboard became noticeable to him.

This testimony came from Samuel A. Parsitt, Barbadoe Negro, who with several other stokers and the ship's carpenter explained how leaking ports coal port doors and the ash ejector contributed to the list to starboard and subsequent sinking of the liner with a loss of more than 100 lives off the Virginia capes ten days ago.

GOV. SMITH PREPARING FOR INFORMAL RECEPTION

EDGEWATER GULF, Miss., Nov. 22—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith after a day of activity retired early tonight in preparation for an informal reception to be tendered the New York governor tomorrow afternoon, when he will greet the gulf coast citizenry and democratic leaders from many parts of the south.

The governor expressed a deep feeling over the rousing old Confederate greeting given him and his party on their morning's visit to Beauvoir, the old Confederate rest and formerly the home of Jefferson Davis.

TILSON FAVORS SOME FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—Congress came out of its periodic inertia today as leaders advanced on the white house to jockey for position for some of the many legislative projects facing the approaching short session.

Tariff revision, an extra session, farm relief, Boulder Canyon dam and disposition of Muscle Shoals were among the subjects brought before President Coolidge during the day while at the capitol Chairman Borah and Hale of the senate foreign relation and naval committees, respectively, worked out a truce for consideration of the Kellogg peace pact and the naval cruiser construction.

Demands of some western farm bloc senators for an extra session of the newly elected congress next spring after the Herbert Hoover administration takes office were bolstered materially when Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader of the house, suggested at the white house that an extra session for consideration of tariff revision would be advisable.

But Mr. Tilson was of the opinion that some farm relief legislation "could and would be disposed of" in this regular session.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW GIVES VIEWS OF FUTURE

LONDON, Nov. 22—(AP)—While King George lay ill at Buckingham Palace tonight, George Bernard Shaw, in a particularly iconoclastic mood, speculated as to kings and kingly possibilities in his annual address before the Fabian society.

Shaw touched upon the future of western civilization, the future of the British throne, the future of parliament, the future of science, of religion, and of everything else that popped into his active mind.

Outside Kingsway hall police were called to control crowds who could not gain entrance; inside the Irish playwright pictures the future of great Britain, when, he said, cabinets would consist largely of men like Thomas (minister of colonies in the MacDonald labor government) who would "scrag the king on the back and call him George."

Future governments then, he said would become more and more laborite and the tendency would be to make the king "more of a puppet than ever."

FARMERS TO ASK FOR COOPERATIVE AGENCY

DENVER, Nov. 22—(AP)—The cooperative agency as a means of solving the "farm problem" was commended to congress today by the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America in the final session of its annual convention as a basis on which to work in the designing of any relief legislation.

The convention resolved that congress should effect legislation providing for the control of all contract grain markets together with the supervision of all grain weighing, inspection and laboratory testing, to come under the authority of the secretary of agriculture.

DRIVER OF DEATH AUTO CRIMINALITY RESPONSIBLE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22—(AP)—Herbert W. Funk, of 875 East 37th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., is held criminally responsible for the death of Mary Palomba, of West Haven in a finding issued today by Deputy Coroner James J. Corrigan. The woman was struck and killed on the Milford turnpike on November 3 by a car driven by Funk.

The coroner finds that Funk was en route to the Yale-Army football game here and that his car "was being driven at a very high rate of speed and travelled 132 feet with locked brakes."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 22—(AP)—Dr. German Leguia Martinez, former premier and judge of the supreme court, died suddenly.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 22—(AP)—The feud between factions of the Macedonian revolutionaries claimed two more lives. The president of one Macedonian group, named Beleff, was slain in his shop by an unidentified assassin who also killed the shop assistant.

HAVRE, France, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Carlo Maria Andrea Ginisty, bishop of Verdun, sailed for New York on the steamer Paris. He also will visit Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. The trip is upon invitation of the Verdun memorial committee.

HAVANA, Nov. 22—(AP)—The newspaper El Comercio of Cienfuegos advocates no display of sumptuousness at the reception of President-elect Hoover, on his forthcoming visit here in February, but instead asks that the Cuban government show him "results of Cuba's economic depression" which is due to "foreign banks operating here offering no aid at all."

PAYNE WHITNEY ESTATE HAS NET VALUE OF $178,893,655

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—How the late Payne Whitney, financier and sportsman, distributed his fortune of close to $200,000,000 became public today, with the filing of the estate's appraisal at the state transfer tax bureau. The gross value was $194,328,514 with a net of $178,893,655.

The papers showed that Mr. Whitney left more than $45,000,000 in public bequests including gifts to New York hospital, Cornell University Medical school and Yale university. This embraced also a trust fund of nearly $26,000,000 for the benefit of charitable, education, scientific and literary organizations.

Helen Hay Whitney, the widow—daughter of John Hay, former secretary of state—received the largest single share of the fortune. She will have, until death, the income from $54,202,694, together with valuable real estate and personal property both in New York city and at Manhasset, Long Island.

Temporary life estate in $27,101,847 were left to Joan Whitney Payson (Mrs. Charles S. Payson) and John Hay Whitney, daughter and son of the millionaire. They will have the income until they reach the age of 40 and will then receive the principal. At the death of Mrs. Whitney, the widow, the net of her trust fund is to be divided equally between them.

The largest bequest to an institution was an endowment of $18,632,176 for New York hospital which with Cornell University Medical school, is planning a new medical center here. Nearly 12 and a half millions of the endowment are for a permanent fund; the remainder is for "the development and maintenance of neurological and psychiatric work in New York city."

The Cornell Medical school got a bequest of $2,838,054. Yale university, Mr. Whitney's alma mater, where he was prominent in athletics, received a similar amount, while Groton school at Groton, Mass., where he prepared for college, got $1,129,222. The New York public library, which like Yale had been remembered with many gifts during the financier's lifetime, was bequeathed $6,210,725.

It was the largest estate ever filed at the state tax appraiser's office here. The previous record was the estate of Mrs. Anna M. Harkness, widow of Stephen V. Harkness, who left a gross of $107,000,000 and a net of $102,000,000. William Rockefeller's estate had a gross total of $102,500,000.

15 MAROONED MEN WERE SIGHTED BY AIRPLANE

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 22—(AP)—Fifteen men believed to be marooned and without food, were sighted today by an airplane on an island six miles from Lake Manitoba's shore. The plane was searching for six missing fishermen and it was believed they were among those seen.

In addition to the men on the island, the aviator saw eight men in two boats which were making slow progress toward the mainland through the ice.

Efforts will be made to drop food to the island group from a plane.

NEW LONDON MAN TO BE CLERK OF SCHOOL FUND

HARTFORD, Nov. 22—(AP)—Samuel R. Spencer of Suffield, state treasurer-elect, today announced the appointment of Thomas H. Judd of Hartford, as deputy treasurer and George W. Sisson of New London as clerk of the school fund for the two year term of Mr. Spencer as treasurer, which will begin in January. Both appointees are now serving in the positions to which they will be named by the next treasurer.

GUARDS PROTECT MEMBERS OF THE BULGARIAN CABINET

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 22—(AP)—Double guards were ordered placed about all members of the Bulgarian cabinet today at a special sitting of the council of ministers at which official cognizance was taken of threats by letter from the Macedonian leader General Ivan Michailoff, to come to Sofia and murder certain ones of them whom he designated.

DIED OF APOPLEXY IN A HOTEL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Charles J. Beatty, a lawyer of Stoughton, Mass., died suddenly today of a stroke of apoplexy at the Hotel McAlpin, where he had registered this morning. He was 53 years old.

He was attended in his room by the house surgeon, but failed to rally. With him at the time was a friend, John McDonald, also a lawyer of New York.

FED. RESERVE BROKERS' LOANS REACH $5,157,132,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Wall street's celebration of another "wild "bull" market today, in which at least a score issues were whirled up $10 to $51 a share to new high records, was marred by the announcement after the close that federal reserve brokers' loans had increased $176,313,000 to a new high record at $5,157,132,000.

INJURED BY EXPLOSION OF AN INFERNAL MACHINE

TURIN, Italy, Nov. 22—(AP)—General Bertole of the Italian army and his wife were painfully injured today when an infernal machine exploded just after a package had been delivered to their house.

Fear Mob Attacks Upon Seven Negroes

They Had Confessed Murder of Aged Man—A. N. G. on Duty at Mobile Jail.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 22—(AP)—Three companies of the Alabama National Guard, stationed here, were on duty at the Mobile county jail tonight as a precaution against possible mob attacks upon seven Negroes held there after they confessed the murder of C. C. Coffee, 70, former insurance man. Three of the Negroes confessed to the crime last night. Coffee was killed while hunting in swamps near the Mobile-Washington county line. He asked the Negroes, who were log workers, where to locate turkeys and according to their confessions, they followed him into the swamp and clubbed him to death.

The troops were called out by Governor Bibb Graves on request of Chief Deputy Moslander of Mobile in charge during the absence of Sheriff Byrne. The sheriff is making an effort to locate Coffee's body in a lake where the Negroes declared they placed it after killing him.

SLAYING OF ROTHSTEIN NARROWS TO TWO MEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Police investigation into the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, millionaire Broadway gambler, narrowed down today to a search for two men, Jack "Legs" Diamond, a gunman, and a man whose identity was revealed only as "Chick."

Meanwhile, federal narcotic agents and two assistant U. S. district attorneys were examining some 50,000 books, papers, letters and documents that had been found in the gambler's private files.

One package of papers so far examined was said to have related to an attempt to kidnap Rothstein and hold him for ransom.

Inspector John D. Coughlin, chief of New York detectives, disclosed that a widespread search had been instituted for Diamond. He declared however, that the former West Side gang leader was not being sought as the slayer and that no charge had been placed against him. Diamond was wounded a little more than a year ago in the shooting in which his former chief, Jack "Little Augie" Orgen, was killed. He formerly was Rothstein's bodyguard and although he has a record of a dozen arrests, his only conviction resulted from his first arrest in 1914 on a charge of burglary.

The search for "Chick" was disclosed by District Attorney Banton who said that a man, accompanied by his attorney, had visited the district attorney's office in response to a request that he give any information he might have about "Chick."

Asked whether he considered "Chick" of great importance in the investigation, the district attorney's only comment was that "we wish to get hold of every man who was in the room in the Park Central hotel in which Rothstein was shot."

TOOK 14 YEAR OLD GIRL FROM SCHOOL TO MARRY HER

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—While scores of state troopers and Albany policemen were looking for them today, Muriel Wickham, 14, of Dormansville, and Elliot Cheetham, 35, a carpenter of the vicinity were married at Schoharie.

Cheetham, according to Muriel's teacher, came to the girl at the school and she let her go, believing some one at the Wickham home was ill.

Later, the teacher believed the girl was being kidnaped and informed the parents who called police.

Tonight the girl was back home, a bride, and the father indignant declared the marriage won't save either of them from jail.

Rev. J. J. Gould, pastor of the Schoharie Reformed church, performed the ceremony, in the marriage license the girl gave her age as 19, and Cheetham gave his as 26.

MOVEMENT TO IMPROVE LIGHTHOUSE PROPERTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—(AP)—A recommendation for expenditure of $1,872,000 during the coming year in improvement sand additions to lighthouse property was made today by George R. Putnam, commissioner of the light house service, in his annual report.

The construction of new vessels will take up $1,350,000 of this estimated total, and will result in the stationing of new lightships at two places on the north Atlantic coast, at Brenton Reef and at the Hen and Chickens Reef, off Massachusetts, while a third ship will be used to do relief work off the Rhode Island and New York harbors.

Other recommendations were: $120,000 for purchase of sites and establishment of depots at Portland and Rockland, Maine; $20,000 for enlarging the lighthouse depot at Chelsea, Massachusetts.

SOCIAL FUNCTION AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Court Deprives Boy Of Heritage

Voiding of Birth Certificate Takes $3,500,000 From 5-Year Old Boy in Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 22—(AP)—Under a circuit court decision today, 5 year old Dode Alfred Boyer no longer is an heir to the millions of Joseph A. Boyer, chairman of the board of the Burroughs Adding Machine company, who until less than a year ago believed the child to be his grandson.

Circuit Judge Arthur Webster held, following a hearing, that Dode was only the adopted son of Mrs. Laura H. Boyer, daughter-in-law of the adding machine manufacturer, and that she had falsely represented the child to her husband, Myron L. Boyer, as his son.

The court voided the birth certificate of the boy as Joseph A. Boyer III., and decreed that he is not entitled to benefits of a $3,500,000 trust fund created by the multi-millionaire manufacturer for his son and "grandson."

This action ended almost a year of litigation over the legal status of Dode's heritage, following disclosures that he was born the son of an unwed Canadian girl in a Windsor, Ont., hotel in November, 1926, given by his mother to Mrs. Boyer and smuggled into the Boyer home here.

On the witness stand today, Mrs. Boyer readily admitted the deception. She said it was carried out with the aid of a doctor and a nurse and that her purpose was to fulfill her husband's desire for a child and to hold the family together. The Boyers separated about two years ago, however, but there has been no divorce.

The nurse, Miss Mabel Barrett, testified that she took the child from a physician's office to the Boyer home. The physician told her, she said, that the infant had come from a hotel in Windsor, was an illegitimate child and had been adopted by Mrs. Boyer.

The suits heard today were brought by Myron L. Boyer when he learned less than a year ago that the child was not his own.

When the deception was first made public Dode was threatened for a time with not only being a child without a name or fortune, but without a country as well. Deportation action was threatened, but Mrs. Boyer obtained papers for his legal entry into this country and then legally adopted him and gave him his present name.

She said today she is satisfied with the court's decision and plans to keep the child and educate him.

CONGESTION IN ONE LUNG OF KING GEORGE

LONDON, Nov. 22—(AP)—The cold from which King George has been suffering has developed into a slight congestion of one lung. A bulletin issued this evening by Dr. Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, the king's physicians said: "The king had a rather restless day, owing to the persistence of fever. There is some congestion of one lung."

At Buckingham palace it was evident that the condition of his majesty today had caused some anxiety. The fact that no official bulletin had been issued in the morning, led the public to believe that the cold was following a normal course. The unexpected nature of the night report caused buzzing comment among the crowds gathered outside of the palace to await the evening announcement.

Many in the gathering recalled the serious illness through which the king passed four years ago because of an attack of influenza. This was followed by bronchitis and he finally had to go to the Mediterranean to recuperate.

Since then his general health has been excellent.

HOOVER IS ENJOYING COMPLETE RELAXATION

ABOARD U. S. S. S. MARYLAND, EN ROUTE AMAPALA HONDURAS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's trip to South America thus far has treated him well.

Day by day as the Maryland draws nearer its first ports of call on the president-elect's good-will mission to Latin-America, Mr. Hoover's face seems more rested and more and more he shows a carefree happy mien.

There is little question those close to him say that he is thoroughly enjoying the complete relaxation that is possible on shipboard after his long months of campaign strain.

Today, the fourth day of the voyage, found the Maryland ploughing steadily southward at the rate of 15 knots in the tropic waters off the mid-southern Mexican coast. The weather was warm and all officers and sailors donned white uniforms this morning.

ABSCONDING BANKER TAKEN IN CUSTODY

MACON, Ga., Nov. 22—(AP)—The district attorney's office here announced tonight that John D. Walker, former president of a chain of more than 100 small banks in Georgia, who disappeared more than ten years ago, had been apprehended and was being returned to Macon from New York in custody of agents of the department of justice.

Walker disappeared from his home at Sparta, Ga., in 1915, about the same time his chain of banks collapsed. Since then detectives have traced his movements through Japan and China, and recently it was said he was seen in Texas.

WARFARE AGAINST CHICAGO'S BEER FLATS

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Orders to carry on a continuous war against Chicago's beer flats, soft drink parlors and other establishments where high school students are permitted to buy liquor were issued today by Police Commissioner William Russell.

The commissioner called all deputies before him and instructed them to institute a relentless drive against these places which cater to student trade as revealed this week by the slaying of a high school boy who was shot by a bartender after an argument over a dice game for drinks.

PICKED UP THREE SOS CALLS FROM JAPANESE STEAMER

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Mackay Radio and Telegraph company reported shortly after noon today that the Dollar liner President Madison, en route from Seattle to Yokohoma, picked up three S O S calls from an unknown Japanese steamer this morning.

DISTRESS CALLS COME FROM FOUR SHIPS AT SEA

Wireless Message From German Steamer Herrenwyk About 645 Miles West of the West Coast of Ireland—British Steamer is Standing By—Greek Steamer and a Japanese Vessel Have Called For Help—Tug Eastern in Trouble Off Delaware Coast.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Distress signals crackling through the air from widely separated ocean areas sent ships scurrying to the aid of four distressed steamers yesterday.

The Greek steamer Virginia shot out an SOS picked up by Lloyds of London. She was reported submerging slowly off the Portugese coast and running for shore.

Several hours later the German steamer Herrenwyk reported herself in distress 650 miles off the west coast of Ireland. A British steamer was standing by.

At mid-day the coast guard cutter Gresham steamed out of New York harbor to race to the assistance of the seagoing tug Eastern, which had called for aid from a spot off the Delaware coast.

MAY BLOCK MARRIAGE OF JOHN BARRYMORE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(AP)—Things happened here today that threatened to delay the projected third matrimonial venture of John Barrymore, the actor.

Barrymore announced recently that he and Dolores Costello, motion picture actress and daughter of the veteran screen star, Maurice Costello, would wed soon. Miss Costello confirmed the announcement, but no date was set.

Today an attractive young woman, whose identity was not revealed, informed the marriage license bureau that "you can't issue a marriage license to John Barrymore."

Reporters who asked the actor about his wedding date were told that "It's none of your business."

Another woman telephoned the license bureau and also said that Mr. Barrymore could not get married. The reason both women gave was:

"Because he is already married and has never been divorced."

The woman who telephoned said: "I happen to know that the mother of Michael Strange (pen name of Mrs Leonard Thomas, author and wife of Barrymore) has telegraphed a woman in Los Angeles that her daughter has not obtained a divorce and has no intention of doing so."

To enjoin the bureau from issuing a license, a formal complaint must be filed by Saturday, the day of which the notice of intention to marry expires.

There is no record here of Barrymore's divorce from his second wife he said however "I know that I am divorced and that I am going to get married." He said he thought his second wife was traveling in France.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY IN ANTEBELLUM RAIMENT

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22—(AP)—The thirty-fifth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy reached its climax with the historical evening activities tonight in the city auditorium.

Standing out in a program filled with color and impressiveness was the fashion parade of 1860.

Delegates to the conclave resurrected from the bottom of their cedar chests the tight fitting bodices, hoop skirts and lace trimmed pantelettes which had been the cherished possessions of their mothers or grandmothers.

They carefully dusted off and donned these relics of an era existant only in memory and reproduced the south of antebellum days as they passed in revue before the audience and gracefully danced a Virginia Reel or Polka.

The convention today conferred a signal honor on four women when it placed them in the select ranks of honorary presidents.

The women so honored included Mrs. Henry P. Field, of Greenwich, Conn., formerly of Kentucky.

STUDENT MAY FACE CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 22—(AP)—Ollie Westbrook, student in pharmicy at Howard college here, tonight faced a charge of first degree manslaughter, following his confession to police that he fatally wounded Montress Freeman, Birmingham southern freshman and his fellow townsman, in a drug store last night.

Coroner J. D. Russum, of Jefferson county, returned his verdict late today after questioning several witnesses and Westbrook was released from the city jail in custody of city detectives pending posting of $2,500 bond.

H. A. Nelson of Birmingham testified at the inquest the Westbrook snapped a revolver once while pointed at the feet of the 230 pound freshman before sending a bullet through Freeman's chest when the latter advanced toward him threatening to shave Westbrook's head.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY NATIONAL GRANGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—A resolution proposing that the proceeds from the sale of four million dollars worth of supplies to France during the World war should be used in building and repairing rural roads was adopted today by the National Grange.

Another resolution adopted called for the publication of the financial sources of support of all lobbyists and persons seeking to influence state and national legislation.

A third resolution adopted approved the policy of placing all butter substitutes other than oleomargarine under the same regulations that restrict the sale of oleomargarine.

BATTLESHIP MARYLAND IN "HIGH-FREQUENCY FADING"

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The battleship Maryland, carrying President-elect Hoover on a tour of Central and South America, late today ran into a "high-frequency fading" area which for a time blocked all attempts of the newspaper correspondents on board to send their narratives for morning papers.

A brief radiogram from the Maryland tonight gave this explanation with the request that it be "repeat papers" (repeated to all papers), apparently with the purpose of forestalling a flood of wirelessed queries from as many managing editors as there are reporters with the Hoover party.

REPORT OF STATE TREASURER ROGERS

HARTFORD, Nov. 22—(AP)—Business in excess of $1,600,000 a week, was done in receiving and paying money by the state treasurer's office during the fiscal year ended last June 30, according to the annual report to Gov. Trumbull by State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers. During the year the receipts from both civil list and trust funds amounted to $39,926,481.91, and the payments amounted to $44,344,905.48. There was a balance to the credit of all accounts on June 30, 1928, of $6,841,295.09, as compared with a total cash balance of $10,759,718.66 at the close of the preceding fiscal period.

The report also shows that while the state collected $1,841,217.50 from the various towns in the military tax and the state tax on towns, the towns were paid $2,628,812.46 by the state, $2,388,194.60 being the tax on stock of banks and insurance companies collected by the state and paid to the towns in which the stockholders are resident, and $240,617.86, being the town's share, 50 per cent, of the estate penalty tax. The levy on the towns included $1,800,000 as the state tax on towns and $341,317.50 as the military tax. The treasurer's office during the year also paid $272,094.07 to the eight counties in the state as their share, half of the tax on unincorporated business.

EXPANSION OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22—(AP)—A campaign in 1929 to "make every laborer a member of a trade union" was approved today by the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The plan was presented by Miss Gertrude McNally of the federation's committee on organization and received the unanimous approval of the delegates. It was in line with a recommendation of the executive council that a special effort be made next year to double the federation's membership.

In presenting the report of the organization committee, on which Frank Duffy, first vice president of the federation is chairman, Miss McNally said membership at the end of the last fiscal year was 2,893,913, an increase of $1,287 over the previous year. The increase, she added, was made despite 500,000 uncounted because they were unemployed or involved in strikes and had not paid their dues.

Resolutions were adopted by the federation pledging its support in the organization of office workers, cigar makers and laundry workers.

BULGARIAN POLITICAL FACTIONS IN CONFLICT

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 22—(AP)—Two opposing political factions engaged in a violent conflict tonight before the club of the Agrarian party. Brisk fire was exchanged and the population greatly alarmed before the police finally intervened and restored order, arresting many.

One of the factions was led by the former Bulgarian general Iasimo Chekoff.

The Macedonian revolutionary Beleff, a former police chief died tonight of wounds received yesterday in a fight between Macedonian factions.

Beleff was president of the Macedonian committee of Ochria and was an intimate friend of the late General Protogueroff. After his leader's death, Beleff and his committee severely denounced the internal Macedonian struggle, and accused the group led by General Ivan Michailoff of orderin his murder.

It is supposed here that Beleff's activities against Michailoff brought about his own death. No arrests have been made.

REASONS FOR FAILURE OF THE ADAIR TRUST CO.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 22—(AP)—Different reasons for the failure of the Adair Realty and Trust company of Atlanta, were assigned by opposing counsel here today in outlining their sides in the trial of Forrest Adair Sr., Forrest Adair Jr., Frank Adair and E. A. Erwin on indictments charging conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in sale of bonds amounting to $3,875,000.

The government, through District Attorney Clint W. Hager, charged that the defendants diverted proceeds of bonds floated to build hotels in Birmingham, Knoxville and Little Rock, to finance private developments and became so hopelessly involved financially as to bring on bankruptcy for the Adair firm of which they were officials. The company failed in 1927 and listed liabilities of $40,000,000 and assets of $35,000,000.

NEW TRADE SCHOOL HAS REGISTRATION OF 79 PUPILS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 22—There is an enrollment of 79 students, who are taking up five trade lines under able instructors at the new trade school. The three floors and basement of the former Turner mill are now in use. There is a class of 20 in plumbing already registered and awaiting a capable instructor. Director Otto R. Nyfeler of the school stated that there was still a waiting list of 25 who will be taken care of as soon as one or two other trade lines are added. The present registration is divided as follows: Masonry, 20; carpentry, 20; electrical, 20; draughting 11; painting and decorating 8. There is an instructor for each line. The students are taking a deep interest in their work and the success of the classes is practically assured. A preliminary meeting of 12 of the students who are interested in music has been held with Instructor F. T. Hammond and another meeting will be held in the near future to perfect the organization of a band.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF MERCHANTS BUREAU TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 22—Members of the merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce will hold an important meeting Friday evening in the chamber offices to consider several matters relative to merchandising during the Christmas season. A committee has been appointed on decorations for the central business section and for the placing of two large community trees at either end of the city and smaller trees at each light standard of the white way. This committee is to report at the meeting and will recommend that each tree be decorated with electric lights. Another matter to be taken up is the advertising project which is intended to be of inspirational nature. Chairman James H. Hurley of the bureau had stressed the necessity of a full attendance to act on these propositions.

The filing of election expenses today at Hartford showed that democrats of Windham had spent a total of $635.94 in their campaign.

MYSTIC MAN FINED FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 22—George Durant of 37 Willow street, Mystic, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty and fined $100 and costs although he and his companion, John Keonen of 4 Colburn avenue, Mystic, both denied that they were intoxicated. Durant further asserted that he had never been intoxicated in his life. Keonan was fined $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication. Acting Sergeant Roderick Lariviere and Patrolman Albert Montie testified for the state. Officer Montie said that the two young men stopped at a restaurant on Union street about midnight. When they came out they were warned by the officer that they would be liable to arrest for driving under the influence if they attempted to operate the car. The officer then notified Acting Sergeant Lariviere of the situation and left for his lunch period at headquarters. Meanwhile the two men, who had returned to the restaurant, came out again and started to drive off with Durant at the wheel. They had gone but a short distance when arrested by the sergeant.

Graphic incidents that enliven the routine of detective work and a general outline of the aims of the state police department were given in a highly interesting talk given at the monthly meeting of the Congregational Brotherhood in the church house this evening by Robert T. Hurley, commissioner of the Connecticut state police. Included in the capacity audience were several friends of the commissioner and city officials including Mayor Charles A. Gates, Chairman William E. Jackson and the police committee, Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady and others.

The meeting opened with a supper served by the ladies of the church and was in charge of President Roland B. Jordan.

A notable improvement in general conditions about the city has been noted with the recent revival of the textile business especially in silk manufacturing lines. While the American Thread company continues to be the dominating factor in manufacturing and the Rossie Velvet company has enjoyed good business for some time past the silk business is rapidly coming to the foreground. The Holland Silk company is now on full time schedule as is also the Windham Silk company. The Willimantic Silk Inc., the infant industry of the Thread City located on Bridge street is adding daily to the number of operatives. Another new concern, the Uncas Silk company located on Wilson street and owned by residents of North Windham started business a few weeks ago and is now employing 20 hands with good prospects of adding considerably to that number in the future.

The directors of the chamber of commerce have voted to engage in the 1929 membership enrollment at once, designating the first week in December for renewing and securing new sustaining memberships for the year. President Frank P. Fenton will be general chairman of the enrollment campaign. Attorney E. Frank Bugbee heads the executive committee and William P. Jordon the finance committee. In preparation for the drive a list of some of the activities of the chamber and a summary of accomplishments which speaks well for itself is being prepared for distribution.

Joseph P. Collins of Capitol avenue, Hartford, was fined five dollars and costs for failure to grant the right of way on the highway at a session of the Andover town court held before Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ruth Benton Wednesday night. Collins was represented by counsel and he pleaded not guilty. State Policeman Terrence A. Griffin of the Stafford Springs barracks and Everett E. Beckwith of Windham testified for the state. A car driven by Collins collided with one operated by Beckwith in Andover about 3 o'clock on the morning of November 5. Witnesses for the defense included Collins and passengers in his car, Miss Irene Richard, Miss Marie Bezina and Mrs. Mary Richard, all of Hartford. Grand Juror Clarence E. Ketcham prosecuted the case.

Postal bulletins received at the post office emphasize two warnings to Christmas mailers. One is that stamps or other adhesive stamps or labels must not be affixed to the address side of mail designed for foreign countries while the other urges the insuring of all Christmas packages.

That peculiar paradox of a thrill and somewhat of a lonesome feeling was experienced this morning when the populace awakened to find the ground covered by about one inch of snow. Rising temperature and sunshine had dispelled this first touch of winter by noon.

The committee in charge of the charity ball to be staged by Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Little, Joseph R. Morrison, Gilbert P. Flynn, Everett Beckwith, Thomas Donovan, R. G. Remington, Joseph M. Berard and Roderick Gaudreau.

It was reported this afternoon that Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dinsmore, former pastor of the First Congregational church here and now a professor at Yale Divinity school is greatly improved from a severe attack of indigestion. He was stricken ill Tuesday evening when about to deliver a lecture and has been under treatment for 36 hours. He is now at his home in New Haven.

Charles Nelson of Bolivia street received a radiogram today from his daughter, Mrs. V. R. Skoglund, who sailed recently on the S. S. American Legion for South America in company with her husband. It had been reported that they were passengers on the liner Vestris which met with disaster at sea.

A transaction of 15 building lots in the section known as Riverside Gardens off West Main street was consumated this week in sales by Lewis W. Ives to Charles H. Phillips, Elmer B. Phillips of Plainfield, Dwight T. Phillips of Hampton, Orrin W. Phillips, Frank A. Phillips and Merton E. Phillips of this city. Another recently filed warranty deed at the office of the town clerk shows the sale of a tract of land of 80 acres on the Windham back road by Charles E. Leonard to E. A. Paul Wolf.

Willimantic people are responding generously to the annual membership drive of the American Red Cross being conducted locally by Frank P. Fenton, chairman of the local chapter and James J. Lee, chairman of the 1928 roll call. Memberships and donations are being received at a Red Cross booth in the Windham National bank.

Painters have invaded the cell room at police headquarters and are applying a bright color paint that will greatly improve the appearance and sanitation of the chamber.

Word was received today of the death of Luther Fuller, aged about 80, at his home in Washington, D. C. Mr. Fuller was a resident of Scotland years ago.

The committee in charge of the annual dance conducted at the Al-Pierre Tabarin Wednesday night under the auspices of the St. Joseph's Hospital Nurses' Alumnae association consisted of Miss Mary Fitzgerald chairman; Miss Margaret Prue and Miss Margaret Ryan.

Mrs. Walter Chappell of Windham Center underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital this morning.

Mrs. Jacob Cohen has returned from a visit with her daughter, Miss Celia Cohen in New York. She attended a performance of Robin Hood in which her daughter is a member of the chorus and has a contralto part in a quartet number. Miss Cohen is also a contralto singer in the choir of the Emanuel Temple at New York.

NEW LEGION POST MEETS AND ELECTS OFFICERS

Harrison Morton Ward post, No. 115, American Legion held a meeting in Mechanics' hall recently when 25 members attended. Walter Palmer was in charge of forming the new post in the village and called the meeting to order. The Legionnaires chose as chairman for the meeting John Morrison. The officers are: Commander, John Morrison; vice commander, Eddie Morgan; adjutant Walter Palmer; treasurer, Lester Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Zeno Crouch; chaplain, Franklin Rathbun; second vice commander, John Bentley; post writer, Albert Patterson; services officer, Lester Smith. It was voted to hold meetings twice a month and until April. Henry Langworthy was named a committee to secure a place to hold the meetings. A committee of three was appointed to draw up by laws, Henry Langworthy, John Jensen and Ernest Franche, and 30 Legion buttons were ordered for new members and those who have none. One Legionnaire spoke about the Boy Scout troop. It is several months since the scouts had a meeting, having no one to take an interest in them. Several mothers of scouts have been saying it is a shame that a village like Noank has no Boy Scout troop. Some day Uncle Sam might have to call on the coming younger soldiers for help to fight for the Red, White and Blue. A committee was chosen, Elmer Baker, Walter Palmer and John Bentley, to get the scouts started again and to help them along. Albert Palmer was made sports committee and Eddie Morgan is chairman of the whist committee with two aides, Stretch Morrison and Franklin Rathbun. A large silk post flag was given the Legionnaires by a resident of the village, also a set of minute books was donated to the post, as well as a large electric lamp. The adjutant sent a letter of thanks to the donors for their kindness. After the meeting hot dogs and potato salad were passed around, with coffee by Cook E. Franche. Charles Hadley told a funny war story. Then they all sang "America."

Sea Eel's Boxing Match

Boat Ethel H, with Capt. Elmer Hewitt behind the wheel and Mate Billie Banks, was fishing off the shores of Watch Hill early Wednesday morning and was finding the flat fish playing hide and seek with the fishermen. Before noon they had nine barrels of fish, but in the afternoon the luck fell off when a 7 1-2 foot sea eel got in the net and was fighting the other fish. Capt. Hewitt said "You don't have to go to see a boxing match but look at that one! and a ringside seat to go with it!" The monster eel weighed 27 pounds the largest sea eel ever brought in by a Noank fisherman. Such a battle as that eel put up! Mate Banks said it took 17 minutes to put the monster out of the world. It was put away in a large sugar barrel to be shipped to Fulton market to see how much it would bring. The net was torn but the boat had 14 barrels of flatfish for the day.

Fortunes From Tea Cups

Two young men, Wilber Smith and Hannicarr Bracci of the village gave a few friends a tea party at the home of young Smith Wednesday. The room was decorated with white and blue. Wilber Smith is a good cook and he made a radio cake, of three layers to go with a cup of tea. After the guests had had their tea and cake, Miss Betty Smith read fortunes from the tea leaves. Every one got a real kick from the futures that Miss Smith read. H. Bracci in a farmer's rig and with a pitch fork over his shoulder and Miss Nellie Barr at the piano sang Farmer Gray Took Another Load Away. The Riverside Avenue Trio sang several times.

Mrs. Herman Fowler of Hartford is in Noank having come to attend the funeral of her brother, Edgar Ashbey.

PROBLEMS OF WATER SUPPLY AND ROAD REPAIRS

A special town meeting is to be held Monday, Nov. 26, in Grange hall, for the purpose of hearing and acting upon the report of the committee appointed at the annual town meeting on the question of repairing the roads and bridges of the town. William K. Raymond, Fred O. Brown, J. F. Purcell and E. H. Norton comprise the committee, which will submit its report.

Action will also be taken at the meeting regarding the proposal to appoint a committee to consider the question of providing the town of Colchester with a running water supply. It is understood that it is proposed that the water be piped to the village from the southern section of the town. There are many borough residents who are against the plan because it is taken for granted that they would have to fill up their wells if the pipe line is put through, that being a requirement in cities having a water supply. However, if the water is piped to the village, there will be an unlimited supply ready in case of fire. Nevertheless, a large number of people are of the opinion that the town is deep enough in debt now without adding expenditures which are not absolutely needed.

Both problems are of vital importance to Colchester taxpayers. Incidentally, several have voiced the opinion that only actual taxpayers should be allowed to vote on questions involving the appropriation of money for town improvements.

There was a good attendance at the Grange meeting, held in Grange hall, Wednesday evening.

The unusually warm weather of last week brought out several dandelion blossoms on the west lawn of the Congregational church property.

As cold weather approaches, local farmers are making preparations for the annual hog butchering.

Trueman C. Ives of Hebron was a caller here Thursday.

New Feed Mixture

LINCOLN, Neb.—(AP)—New tests at the state agriculture college indicate that the use of tankage, or a mixture of tankage and oil meal, in a ration of corn and pasture stimulates the feed consumption of hogs, increases gains and reduces the amount of feed required for 100 pounds of gain.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery.

Milwaukee, Wis.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. E-31, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him today.—Adv.

PAST MASTER PARKHURST SHOWS REMARKABLE MEMORY

In the report of the Past Masters' night celebration, of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, as printed in Friday's Bulletin, a few lines were omitted in the make-up. One item of the report should have read: Past Master Norman B. Parkhurst, 1922-1923, challenged the admiration of the 140 master masons present, in his verbatim presentation of the long and complicated, second and third sections of the master masons' lectures. It was a matter of roll commitment, which occupied 38 minutes for its delivery. This he did with such precision and dignity, as to fully merit the outburst of applause which followed his unusual feat of memory.

GEESE STARTING SOUTH— LATER THAN LAST YEAR

The first south-bound flock of geese has been reported as passing over at an early hour, one morning this week. Dan Morgan, Jr., heard them distinctly although visibility was poor. The same morning a flock was reported from another part of the town, a mile away. It is thought they were the same flock. Last year before December 1st seven flocks had been reported as passing over the town, one in October. Three years ago in the latter part of November a hunter shot into a flock just east of Tadpole pond. A few were evidently pricked with the heavy fox shot, for the flock was thrown off its course for more than an hour.

Joseph Raymond

The funeral of Joseph Raymond was held from the home of his son, Eugene Raymond on Brown avenue, Thursday morning. Requiem mass was sung in St. Mary's church by Rev. Nicholas Caron. Burial was in St. Thomas cemetery, Voluntown, the bearers being six grandsons. Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville was in charge of the arrangements.

LEBANON

NO ACTION TAKEN ON D. A. R. PRIZE PLAN

A mistake was made by the publicity committee in reporting the meeting of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. It was talked over about giving prizes to the Lyman Memorial high school pupils having the best standing in history for the year, but no vote was taken upon the project. A Christmas box is to be sent to the Blue Ridge Mountain school so articles to be sent in the box were brought to the November meeting.

Surgical Movies

Motion pictures of surgical operations in natural colors have been obtained in Berlin, Germany. A three-color process is used. Reflectors concentrate powerful light on the operating table. The camera is self-cranking, the electric motor drive being controlled by an operator who watches the progress of the operation through a telescope.

Don't Suffer the Tortures of Rheumatism

Just because you have tried a lot of so-called rheumatic remedies without getting any lasting results that is no reason why you should say, "Nothing can help me," because there is something that will give you quick results and that is RHEUMA.

Rheuma will absolutely end all your rheumatic misery or it will cost you nothing. So if you really want to get quick relief from those awful stabbing knife-like pains—if you want to drive those dull, grinding, numbing aches completely out of your system, just step into Lee & Osgood Co. or any druggist's and ask for a bottle of Rheuma.

It matters not whether you are tortured with pain, suffering with swollen, inflamed joints or distressed with occasional twinges, Rheuma is guaranteed to end all rheumatic misery or money back.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

Dear Dot:

Do you know that I've concluded that most of us, although we do not realize it, are grossly negligent in many ways. Probably that is already an accepted theory but the fact does remain that too frequently it requires a sad experience or example to awaken us to necessary precautions and the splendid conveniences modern business and science have provided again disaster.

The other day I received a letter from a friend in which she graphically described the pitiful story of a midnight fire in her home. The loss her family suffered was partly covered by insurance, BUT NOTHING COULD REPLACE THE LOSS OF INSURANCE POLICIES, OTHER VALUABLE PAPERS AND CONSIDERABLE JEWELRY.

"If we had only put those papers in a Safe-Deposit Box at the Bank!" wrote my friend. Yes . . . if only they had. That got me started at once and that same day I was in the Windham National Bank renting a Safe-Deposit Box and since then you cannot imagine how much better I sleep nights.

The Safe-Deposit boxes at the Windham National are located in a huge vault equipped with giant double doors controlled by a time-lock. I needed but a glance to be convinced of absolute safety from fire, water and burglary. This vault is further guarded by an electric alarm.

The Boxes are available at from $3 to $25 a year, depending on size, but all giving ample room for depositing deeds, insurance policies, stocks, bonds, jewelry, etc. A double key system is used so that both your key and one retained by the bank are necessary for access to your box, giving assurance that only an authorized person can secure your valuables. Upon securing your box you are escorted to—an individual booth, of which there are seven in the bank, and there in strict privacy you remove the contents.

Colored seals are used to protect your box in the event of your death or other circumstances, all of which guarantee absolute protection of your interests.

Now that I've become a safe-box depositor I cannot understand why I did not do so years ago. Protection and Precaution . . . that's what. You'd better join me at once, Dot dear, and KNOW THAT YOUR VALUABLES ARE SAFE.

Devotedly, JANE.

Pile Sufferers

You can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can do this—that's why cutting and salves fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Rold, a harmless tablet, is guaranteed to quickly and safely banish any form of Pile misery or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.

MEETING THE FARM PROBLEM

Whether there is to be an extra session of congress next year is a question which is now getting considerable attention. During the campaign it was the promise of Mr. Hoover that he would call such a session for the purpose of taking care of the needed farm relief provided the present congress did not meet the situation by adequate legislation. Farm relief could have been provided in the last session and there is opportunity for adopting legislation before the fourth of next March. Senator McNary has plans for submitting a bill that will carry out the recommendations made by Mr. Hoover. This would include the favorable features of his old bill but the unfavorable ones, those which aroused so much opposition and brought a presidential veto, would be eliminated.

Nevertheless there are those who see congress taking up all its time with other matters, who contend that while the McNary bill will be all right as far as it goes it does not completely meet the situation for there can be no provision therein for tariff adjustments such as it has been set forth are needed in order to give the right deal to the farmers. There are thus those in congress who are urging that all farm legislation be deferred and taken up in a special session. They are convinced that the best results can thus be obtained. They see the need of the additional time for tariff revision for they appreciate the impossibility of having anything of that kind taken up and put through at the short session which is certain to be crowded with business, even if there is no concerted effort to delay activities.

Action on a farm bill is desired at the present session in order that its benefits may be obtained during the next year. There can be no questioning the fact that both the present and the new administrations are desirous of seeing this problem met as quickly as possible. Without a doubt it would be preferred that it be done at a regular session but it remains to be seen whether this can be accomplished. If it can be so much the better, but if it cannot there is no doubt but what Mr. Hoover will see that congress is called into special session as he promised.

STABILIZING PROSPERITY

According to the idea which was advanced at the gathering of the governors at New Orleans by Governor Brewster of Maine in behalf of Mr Hoover, the plan of meeting industrial depressions involves much the same idea as providing for rainy days. It is in fact in keeping with the reserve idea which business has resorted to quite generally by placing a certain proportion of their funds aside for the purpose of meeting emergencies when and if they developed.

According to the plan set forth by Governor Brewster provision would be made for a $2,000,000,000 fund with which public improvements could be undertaken when there was a slack period in industrial activity. This would provide work not only for those who would be engaged in the actual construction, but for those who had a part in producing the material, finishing it, transporting it and looking after the many small details which are involved in every bit of construction work.

Possibly such a plan wouldn't be a cure all. It might not meet the situation in every particular. There might be some who would not feel the effect of such construction but as a general proposition it has its merits. Whenever there is a depression there is invariably advanced the suggestion that public improvements which have been delayed be undertaken in order to give employment to idle hands. Frequently it has been the method resorted to, and it has resulted in stimulating activity in various lines which are dependent upon such construction.

Governor Brewster put forth the programme as that of the president elect for stabilizing the prosperity of the United States. It is apparently such a plan as a successful business man would put into operation for the benefit of his business, such as a mill owner would consider advantageous in the running of his plant, and it finds frequent illustration in the resort of manufacturers to similar activities when slack times are faced. The idea is one that will awaken much discussion but it is believed it will be found to obtain much favor.

THE STEWART VERDICT

Another oil case has been heard and once again the jury has said "not guilty". Chairman Stewart of the Standard Oil company of Indiana has been on trial for perjury because of certain statements which he made before a senate committee which was investigating the oil scandal. In view of the verdict Mr. Stewart goes free but it is a question whether the result will satisfy public opinion.

The verdict it would appear hinges on a technicality. Mr. Stewart testified before the Teapot Dome committee of the senate concerning the distribution of Liberty bonds by the Continental Trading company, a Canadian corporation. He declared that he received none of these bonds and that through conversation or otherwise he had no information that would cause him to believe others had received them. It was charged in the indictment that he had made false statements in these answers.

According to the developments in the case the jury was not allowed to decide this particular question. The defense raised the point that when he testified before the board there was not present an actual majority of the committee members, and in view of that fact the proceeding was invalid. There were other claims in the defense, including those that the answers had been distorted and one question had not been asked. In ruling concerning the quorum of the committee the court held that a majority was necessary and must be physically present in order to constitute a quorum of a congressional committee. According to the court's instructions and the evidence that was presented concerning the presence of the committee members, the jury found that there was no quorum, that upset the legality of the proceeding and acquittal of the charge was the result.

While Mr. Stewart goes free it can hardly be said that he had added to his prestige as the result of the technical discharge. He would probably have said the same things to the committee if the full membership was present. On the other hand there is unquestionably a reminder to the congressional committees that there is responsibility on the part of members to see that they avoid practices which make such a verdict possible.

SHIPS IN DISTRESS

Is the loss of the Vestris going to result in quicker use of the S. O. S. calls by vessels in distress? That is one thing which can be determined in time, but the fact that there were four vessels calling for aid yesterday indicates that their officers were not disposed to take unwarranted chances with the lives of those aboard even though the vessels may not actually sink.

The lessons of the Vestris are such as should serve to remind the masters of ships, if such reminders are necessary, that there can be no neglect of the human cargo without serious consequences. The former captain of the Vestris has testified that it is difficult to put oneself in Captain Carey's place. Conditions then were much different than they can be viewed today but from his study of the situation he believes that efforts to get away from the ship ought to have been made before they were.

Vessels which are in a helpless situation out on the broad Atlantic, especially if they are in a sinking condition, ought to get in touch with those from whom aid would be expected in sufficient time for that help to be rendered.

We have none too much information concerning the conditions aboard the four vessels which have called for help from various points but their captains are apparently not disposed to wait until they have listed to a 32 degree angle, or until difficulty will be experienced in launching life boats, before summoning aid. Conditions surrounding vessels in distress vary greatly. All cannot be measured by the situation aboard the Vestris and yet there stands out prominently in all of them the vital need of making every effort to save human life. It is preferable that an error of judgment should be made in calling help too soon rather than too late.

THE DEMOCRATIC DEFICIT

In connection with the reported deficit in the campaign funds of the democratic national committee there is bound to be surprise. In the first place there will be surprise because it was considered necessary to spend any such sum of money—$5,300,000—without getting any more satisfactory results. In the second place there will be surprise because there was not sufficient financial support forthcoming for the purpose of meeting any expense that might have been incurred in behalf of the democratic candidate.

It was a campaign in which there was a belief on the part of the democrats that one of the avenues to success was through the expenditure of a large sum of money. It wasn't indicated that any such sum would be used and contributions to that amount were not solicited. Men of money were known to be backers of the democratic standard bearer. Some of them had indicated that he could have all that was necessary. They unquestionably contributed liberally, but now with the election over it is found that there is a deficit of $1,600,000. That isn't in keeping with the Coolidge economy about which there was so much fault finding. It wasn't in keeping with that volume of criticism that was rolled up over certain republican expenditures in other years. It represents a tremendous price for 87 electoral votes.

Now that the contest is over and the deficit established the question is as to where the money is coming from to make it up. It wouldn't be long if all the faithful joined in before the amount was raised, but it is a difficult task getting contributions to a lost cause. Likewise it is not pleasant for the solicitor.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The wise buyer gives serious thought to early Christmas shopping.

With reductions in the price of gasoline being announced, it becomes evident that the motoring season is passing.

Many statements are made concerning the Vestris but much remains to be learned about what happened to the ship.

Do you belong to one of those Christmas clubs which are getting ready to distribute $500,000,000 to their members.

And so from the number of accidents and fatalities the height of the motoring season seems to be every week-end.

FORCING THE ISSUE.

"But my dear, it's leap year. Why shouldn't you ask him?" Wanda uttered a little squeal of horror.

"Why, Doris Stevens, what are you saying? I think the very idea is positively revolting."

"Oh, I know," Doris continued brazenly. "Unmaidenly, and all that. Pooh! If Eddie Powers had been hanging around me for a year and a half and didn't have enough nerve to ask me to marry him, I'd certainly force a showdown on the question. You don't expect to keep him on the string all your life, while every other man passes you by, do you?" Wanda shook her head dejectedly.

"But purpose to him? No, that's too awful," she said.

"Awful nothing!" retorted Doris. "It's time he declared himself. He's old enough to know what he wants, he's got plenty of money, and he's shown every sign of being crazy about you. I'd certainly ask him what he intends to do about it."

"Well, I don't!" replied Wanda in a voice that signified the closing of the argument. "I'll never do it in the world. I'd rather never get a husband than get one without having him ask me on his own initiative."

Eddie Powers called on Wanda that evening, as usual. His suggestions of going out to a show or a dance failed to elicit any enthusiasm.

"Let's stay home tonight for a change, Eddie," she said to him. "I don't feel much like going out."

"What's the matter? Aren't you feeling well?" Eddie dropped down on the love-seat beside her.

"Oh, yes, I feel all right. I'm just not in the mood for going out tonight. Once in a while I just like to stay home and spend a quiet evening. Don't you like to do that?"

"Me? Oh, sure. Yeh, I like to stay home now and then, especially if I have a bad cold or anything. Sit and gaze into the fire and all that. Only there isn't any fire." Wanda curled against the soft, wine-colored velvet and sighed comfortably.

"A person gets tired of constant pleasure seeking," she said dreamily.

"There's a lot to be said for the joys of a home, where you have peace and quiet and cozy comfort. It's so restful. Not at times appreciate those higher joys, but I think you're the kind that does, aren't you, Eddie?" He wasn't sure, but from the tone of her voice he judged that he had been complimented. He laughed modestly.

"You bet I am," he agreed. "Yeh, I sure am."

"Everybody wouldn't see that in you, but I do," continued Wanda. "That's because I know you so well, Eddie. But I ought to know you pretty well, after you've taken me so many places and done so much for me." Eddie felt himself a very fine fellow indeed. He looked tenderly at Wanda.

"You sure do know me, Wanda," he said. "I guess you know me better than anyone else in the world."

"I suppose I do," she agreed thoughtfully. She was silent for a moment, gazing dreamily into space, the picture of peace and contentment. "That's why I know how much you appreciate the joys of a home. You're the kind of a man that a woman loves to make a home for—that is, if she's the right kind of woman."

Vaguely Eddie realized that her tone implied there was something he should say. He said it—"Well, you sure are the right kind of woman," earnestly.

"Eddie! You're flattering me!" she turned large eyes upon him.

"Flattering you nothing! No, sir. You sure are the right kind of girl to make a home for a man. Absolutely!" She dropped her eyes and was blushing silently for an interval.

"But Eddie, I—I didn't dream you felt that way toward me. Why, I—I why, I didn't know you were that serious."

"Serious?" His tone implied that it was impossible for him to be anything else. "I certainly am serious. Why, Wanda, I've always been serious about you. I've always been in love with you. I've always known you were the kind of woman that would know I was the kind of man that wanted the joys of a home."

"Eddie!" She drooped toward him. "Oh, it's unexpected, and all that, but I'd love to try."

"Oh, Doris, I'm so happy! Eddie proposed to me tonight."

"Wonderful, dear! And did you force the issue as I suggested?"

"Ishould say not!" Wanda's voice was sharp with indignatnon. "I'd never do such a thing. He just burst out with it and there was no stopping him."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—American artistic genius faces a challenge in the effort to complete the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington national cemetery with a monument suitable not only to the patriotic symbolism of the shrine, but also in keeping with the setting in which it will stand.

Secretary Davis of the war department was conscious from the first that it would be difficult to satisfy public opinion in the completion of the tomb. That accounts for the extraordinary system of checks and controls established to govern selection of the design. It is perhaps fitting, also, that the first sifting of the nearly four score proposed plans for the memorial should be in the hands of a group whose only reward will be in the love of the work they do.

Picking Unknown's Memorial

The jury of award, composed of the three architects designated by the Institute of their profession, Charles A. Coolidge of Boston, Paul P. Crots of Philadelphia and D. H. Burnham of Chicago, of Mrs. William D. Rock of Philadelphia to speak for the Gold Star Mothers, and of Hanford MacNider of Iowa for the American Legion gladly served at its own cost and with a final word from Secretary Davis that its judgment be not confined to selection merely of the best of the designs offered. At need and at any stage of its deliberations the jury could discard all received proposals if it failed to unanimity in a selection.

It narrowed its first review of 73 original designs to five selected for model treatment, then sought to pick from the five a memorial that would meet every test of artistic merit, of good taste and of symbolical significance. And the verdict of that jury remains subject to veto by other interested commissions and boards and by the war secretary in person before a final decision is reached.

Shrine of Many

It seems a complicated process, hardly in keeping with the simple glory of the sacrifice for the flag that unknown lad symbolizes; yet no one who has watched through the years the endless pilgrimage of humble folk to gaze a moment on the tomb could doubt that any striving toward perfection in its completion could be wasted, or that any precaution to insure a fitting permanent tribute could be too great.

Quite aside from the formal occasions when great ones of the nation or visiting dignitaries go to render their homage, that tomb has become a very holy place. The armed sentries who guard it could tell of heart grinding scenes they have witnessed in the quite, uncrowded hours; of black clad, weeping women kneeling alone under blistering sun or wet with snow and rain.

The Bystander has personal reason to know something of how America feels toward her Unknown. He has had occasion at times to write in the news of services at the tomb. Because of that, many letters have come to him from many states. Among them have been a few from mothers whose sons, like the Unknown, gave not life alone, but their very identity for the flag "over there." And not one of those mothers, whose mourning is radiant also with the glory of sacrifice for America, but believes in her heart it is her lost son who sleeps so peacefully on that wind swept terrace at Arlington.

YOUR HEALTH

A Test of Excellent Health for Children

By Hugh Chaplin, M. D. New York City

It is not enough to know merely when our children are ill and how to cure them, we ought to know also when they are achieving the greatest degree of health possible. In order to know this we must have a standard of excellent health with which we can compare them. Farmers have used such standards with their cattle for years and yet almost no similar use has been made with children.

The signs of physical health in a child may briefly be stated as follows:

The Well Built Body

Hair, plentiful and lustrous.

Eyes, bright, moving normally, mucous membranes clear.

Unobstructed nasal breathing.

Teeth, well formed and enameled; evenly placed; grinding surfaces of double teeth meet directly; upper incisors and canines slightly overlap lower. All are clean and free from cavities.

Color of mucous membranes of lips and eyes and color of the finger nails is definitely pink.

Skin, slightly moist, clear and smooth.

Subcutaneous tissues—fat beneath skin plentiful and so firm that skin cannot be raised in deep thin folds between the fingers.

Muscles—It is more important that all muscles should be firm and strong than that any particular group should be specially developed.

Shoulders—Sloping or squarely built, but not rounded forward.

Chest—Broad and deep with good expansion.

Feet—Arches strong and limber. Some arches are normally higher than others. Inner borders straight from heel to tip of great toe.

Weight—Suitable for height and age.

Properly Functioning Body

Alert, happy expression.

Tongue moist, red and clear.

Breath sweet.

Good posture—Body balanced equally on ball and heel of foot; feet parallel; lower abdomen held flat; none of normal curves of spine exaggerated; shoulder blades flat across back; head erect, chin in and shoulders level.

Prompt, efficient muscular response.

Bodily repose.

Physical endurance.

Rules for achievement: Health and vigor of the mother before birth of child and throughout nursing period. This may be secured by a generous diet, including milk, fresh vegetables and fruits and such starchy foods as bread, potatoes, rice and cereals, as well as meat, fish and eggs; plenty of pure water to drink; a moderate amount of exercise in the fresh air and sunlight; plenty of sleep with windows open; relief from avoidable worries.

For the child: Regularity of meals; sufficient food of the right kind, varying in amount and kind with the age of the child; not too much food; plenty of fresh air and sunlight; plenty of sleep with windows open; a bath at least three times a week; brushing the teeth twice a day; correction of physical defects as they occur, for the detection of which physical examinations are necessary at regular intervals; happy associations and interesting things to do. Pure cod liver oil should be given during the first two years except in the heat of summer. Ten drops may be given three times a day as early as the second month if it is well digested. The quantity may be gradually increased to two teaspons twice a day.

We should remember that it is quite as important to diagnose excellent health in children as it is to diagnose disease.

The Spirit Of Fear.

Fear doth paralyze, you'll find:
It undermines and dulls the mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Rusty the Fox Squirrel was very comfortably fixed for the winter. He had plenty of food stored away and so had nothing to worry about. He spent his days eating and growing fat. And Rusty is one who can put on fat. He grew very plump and he was very happy. He loved these beautiful autumn days. The cool air made him feel good. There really is no more beautiful season than the lovely days of autumn. Best of all, Rusty had little to worry about, for there were fewer enemies about here than he had ever known.

Then came a morning when Rusty awoke with a strange uncomfortable feeling. He didn't know how to account for it. He wasn't sick. It was just a feeling that something was wrong. He poked his head out of the entrance to his home. Jolly round, bright Mr. Sun had just begun his daily climb up in the blue blue sky. It was going to be a beautiful day. There wasn't a cloud in all the sky. Rusty came out and started for his breakfast. All the time he had a strange feeling, an uncomfortable feeling. Something was wrong. He had no appetite. He opened a nut and then only half ate it. Finally he climbed back up in his tree.

"How still it is," said Rusty, talking to himself. "There isn't a sound. That's queer. I don't hear a bird. I haven't seen any one so far this morning. I wonder what it means. On a beautiful morning like this there should be a lot of people around."

Presently he did hear a rustling of leaves. Looking down he saw a dog. That dog didn't interest him much. He had nothing to fear from that dog. Dogs cannot climb trees. This dog was running about with his nose to the ground. Presently he reached the spot where Rusty had been running about looking for nuts. This way and that way he ran, wherever Rusty had been. Finally he stopped at the foot of the tree and looked up. Then he began to bark. How he did bark! Rusty didn't know what to make of it. It had been so still in the woods that that barking seemed a great deal louder than it really was. Rusty didn't like it. He wished that dog would go away. Still, he wasn't afraid. What was there to be afraid of? Barking wouldn't hurt him any and he knew positively that that dog couldn't climb.

Coming through the tree was a man and that man was carrying a terrible gun

Then Rusty's ears caught another sound. It was the sound of heavy footsteps on dry leaves. Coming through the trees was a man and the man was carrying a terrible gun. Rusty recognized that. This was no air-rifle such as the boys had hunted him with during his long journey. This was one of those terrible sticks that spat fire and smoke and hurt or killed at a distance.

Rusty knew now what had been wrong with the morning. He knew now why he had felt so uneasy. He knew now why everything had been so still. The spirit of fear was abroad in the land. The hunting season had begun, the season of death to those who had done no harm. The season that the hunted never can understand. The spirit of fear had gone abroad and all the little people in feathers and fur had felt it, and that is why woodland had become so strangely silent.

Rusty whisked around the other side of the tree and anxiously peered toward the hunter. The hunter was looking up in that tree, for he knew by the barking of his dog that a Squirrel had gone up that tree. Rusty knew the hunter was looking for him and his heart beat a little faster.

A New Way

Emma had been to the country to visit her uncle. On her return home her mother asked:

"Did you have a good time at Uncle John's?"

Always First

One old veteran fox hunter, by his own self admitted boasts owned the best of everything, in fact, everything he had excelled that of his neighbors. His watch kept more accurate time than anybody else's; his pumpkins were always the biggest; his potato patch outyielded that of any one else who might venture to boast a little; but above all—no exceptions—he owned the best and fastest fox hound in the country.

Just to prove the prowess and speed of old Lead, he was in the habit of relating this very convincing bit of evidence, as proof thereunto:

"I was going out into the country and thought I would take old Lead along, for we might run across a fox. Well, sure enough we did. Just as we were crossin' the first holler, up started Mr. Fox, with the dog right after him.

"I got up on the hill to see if I could see anything of the chase, and I didn't have much time to wait. Back up the other holler, here they came, full tilt. It was a hot race, it was neck and neck—but if anything old Lead was just a little bit ahead of the fox."

SAYS WAR GUILT VERDICT IS HISTORICALLY UNSOUND

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ten years after the world war an American historian says he finds "the verdict of the Versailles were responsible for the war allies were responsible for the war is historically unsound."

"Serbian nationalism was primarily responsible for starting the series of events that culminated in the conflict, says Prof. Sidney B. Fay in "The Origins of the World War." Generally, he asserts, the responsibility for the world war is divided, a large share falling on Russia.

"It was primarily Russia's general mobilization, made when Germany was trying to bring Austria to a settlement, which precipitated the final catastrophe, causing Germany to mobilize and declare war," he says.

SENATE VETERANS, REED AND McLEAN, AMONG SEVEN SEEING LAST SESSION

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two veterans of the senate wind up their services at this concluding session of the seventieth congress—James A. Reed of Missouri, democrat, and George P. McLean of Connecticut, republican.

Each, oddly enough, goes out of his own accord, having declined to stand for re-election, and each has served three terms—18 years. Both men occupy commanding positions in their parties in the senate by virtue of experience as well as ability. Senator Reed refused to run again when he announced his candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination last spring.

Besides these two, the senate will have at this last session of the present congress, six "lame ducks"—all democrats. "Lame duck" is an appellation applied to members of congress who have been defeated but who continue to serve by virtue of the short session of the old congress which follows elections.

Continued efforts by Senator Norris of Nebraska, republican, to obtain a constitutional amendment abolishing the short session of the old congress following election of a new one have failed of approval.

Of the six senate "lame ducks" this session, all are first termers in the senate with the exception of Peter Gerry of Rhode Island. He has served two terms. The other five democratic senators who lost out in the election are Bayard of Delaware, Bruce of Maryland, Edwards of New Jersey, Neely of West Virginia and Mayfield of Texas. The latter was defeated for the nomination and will be succeeded by another democrat representative Tom Connally of Texas. The others lost to republicans.

The election, however has an immediate effect on the make-up of congress this session. There will be four new faces in the senate all republicans, elected to fill out terms of deceased or resigned members.

John Thomas of Idaho takes the place of the late Frank Gooding; Representative Burton of Ohio succeeds the late Frank Willis, whose seat was held temporarily by Cyrus Locher, a democrat; Octavino A. Larrazolo serves out the term of the late Andrieus A. Jones of New Mexico, until next March 4. This seat is held by appointment by Bronson Cutting, who was elected to succeed Jones in the next congress. Otis F. Glenn of Illinois, elected to fill the vacancy resulting from the resignation of Frank L. Smith, takes office immediately.

The terms of Glenn, Burton and Thomas will run until 1932 the original terms of their predecessors.

EXHIBITS SHOW ART IN THEATRE DEVELOPMENT

Four groups of exhibits at Converse art gallery under the auspices of the Woman's City club in cooperation with Slater museum illustrating art in the theatre were opened to view of the club members Thursday and will be open to the public from now until Wednesday, Nov. 28, from 2.30 to 5.30 in the afternoon. They present an unusual opportunity for the Norwich public to view without charge an artistic presentation that is at once unique and of great interest.

In connection with the club view Thursday evening Mrs. Willis Phipps Austin read a paper which she had previously given before the drama group of the club.

Of central interest in the exhibit is the collection of about 100 of Claude Bragdon's water color sketches for Walter Hampden's dramatic productions. They include character sketches for Cyrano de Bergerac, Othello, Capon Sacchi, The Eternal Thief and MacBeth and are beautiful pieces of artistic work.

The exhibit further includes a number of George Pierce Baker's little theatre models, which could only be brought to Norwich from Yale because assurance was given Mr. Baker that several of the club women would take personal charge of the transportation of the models each way by automobile so that no harm would befall them. In sequence these models give a complete history of the development of the theatre, beginning with the Greek and Roman theatre when there were neither scenery nor costumes, followed by the miracle plays of the medieval days performed before the side shrines in the churches. The next development is the actor wagon of which there is an especially interesting model shown and this is succeeded by the theatre of Shakespeare time with boxes arranged around a rectangle. The next model shows the modern development with scenery and wings for the stage which is followed by the latest in the block stage and the revolving stage.

Of unusual local interest is a showing of costumes once worn by Richard Mansfield, the famous actor, who had a residence at New London. These are loaned for this exhibit by his widow Mrs. Beatrice Mansfield, and are all of his costumes which have not been presented to the Smithsonian institute. Their variety indicates the breadth of talent of the great actor-manager. In the exhibit are three robes and the Roman shoes which he wore as Brutus in Julius Caesar and also the spangled trunks which he wore in another Shakespearian play, Richard III. A black satin suit with a sword comes from Don Carlos and two interesting Beau Brummel costumes are shown, a plum colored coat with buff knee breeches and a blue coat with gray knee breeches, the coats having gilt buttons. There is a brown suit and a sword, which Mansfield used in the Devil's Disciple, and a long green silk robe with figures of trees which was the rich man's costume in Peer Gynt. A number of photographs of Mansfield are also shown and Mrs. Mansfield has added to the exhibit a green velvet dress of her own which she wore in "Castle Sombral."

A fourth group of the exhibit is a showing of Wilbur Macey Stone's collection of toy theatre sheets, which are contained in four cases. They were produced by Pollock in London about 1850, furnishing paper figures which children cut out and used in their play with toy theatres.

The whole collection makes an exhibit well worth a visit from the local public.

WOMAN'S COUNCIL HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

An interesting and stimulating meeting of the eastern district of the Woman's Council of Connecticut was held at the Second Congregational church in New London, opening at 10.30 o'clock Thursday morning with an attendance of approximately 150.

At the morning session the speakers were Miss Amy Ogden Welcher of Hartford, who spoke on Connecticut Missionary Work at Home and Abroad and Rev. John Miller of Pasumalai, South India, who talked of his missionary work there.

At noon basket lunches were provided for 48 officers and delegates at the church house.

Mrs. Franklin S. Warner of White Plains, N. Y., former president of the Woman's Board of Missions, addressed the afternoon meeting. Her subject was Campaigning for Missions.

The visitors were the guests of both the First and Second Congregational churches of New London.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DELEGATES HEAR SPEAKERS AND REPORT OF YEAR

U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, of New York city, president of the New York State Sunday School association, was unable to deliver his scheduled address at the Thursday evening session of the Connecticut State Sunday school convention at the Central Baptist church, owing to the fact that he is at present engaged in the federal inquiry into the sinking of the steamer Vestris, off the Virginia capes. Announcement was made at the evening session by the presiding officer, Rev. William D. Beach, D. D. of New Haven, that during the late afternoon a telephone message had been received from Attorney Tuttle that he would be unable to attend the conference. Roy A. Burkhart, associate director of Young Peoples' Work, International Council of Religious Education, Chicago, spoke in place of Attorney Tuttle, taking as his subject, What Does the Church Owe Its Young People?

The evening atendance numbered several hundred and the session was called to order at 7:30 o'clock fo a half hour period of worship, which was led by Prof. William C. Willoughby of the Hartford Seminary Foundation and the theme was Appreciation of Perceptors and Exemplars. Following the period of worship announcement was made that there will be one change in the programme for the sessions today (Friday). At the morning session instead of an address on Youth, its Creative Significance, by Roy A. Burkhart, there will be a symposium on young peoples' work in which Mr. Burkhart, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Finn, director of Young Peoples' Work, American Baptist Publication society, Philadelphia and Rev. Harry Thomas Stock, secretary of the Department Young People and Student Life, Congregational Education society Boston, will participate. Otherwise the day's programme will be followed as scheduled.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, this city, announced that he had been asked by the committee to say a word in regard to the offering. He called atention to the fact that this year no charge is being made for registration, this having been a source of revenue in previous years. Rev. Mr. Ricketts asked for a generous offering.

Mr. Burkhart Speaks

After the offering had been taken Dr. Beach made the announcement that Attorney Tuttle was unable to come to Norwich to deliver his scheduled address on A Layman's Appreciation of Religious Education, and stated that Mr. Burkhart had been secured to speak in place of Mr. Tuttle.

Mr. Burkhart delivered a most interesting and very instructive address on What Does the Church Owe Its Young People? In his talk Mr. Burkhart said: Boys want life. Boys want life that is full and radiant and deep. Youth wants life in the church. They want to find life in the church. They want life that is rich, awake, alert and genuine. Youth is searching for a number of things. One of the things that has hurt young people more than anything is that we look on them as our object. We do things for them instead of helping them to do things themselves. We talk of the sins of youth. We ought to talk of the sins of middle life.

Young people are searching for their own inner best selves. They need helpful friendships. Young people are in search of great discoveries of truth. We have been afraid to let them think, afraid they would find us out. Youth is searching for great spiritual discoveries.

You can't go far in any direction before you will see a cigarette sign. We are always hoffing the cigarette before our young people. In the country there are 500,000 stores that sell nothing but tobacco. There are only 2,500 stores that sell good books. A cigar or cigarette brings a physical response. A good book brings a spiritual response.

Youth wants to discover God. If they don't come to you and ask for help in their search for God, it is because they don't believe you have Him. The church owes it to the young people to give them a chance to do things for themselves, with leadership. The church owes it to the young people to share with them the joy of creating. If you deny them the chance to create, the chances are they won't know how to use the opportunity when you give it to them.

If you work right with youth, they won't fail you. They want guides in creative thinking. How can one go through life without the art of prayer? How many of you devote as much time in the search of spiritual blessing as you do in filling your stomach?

Mr. Burkhart said that many Sunday school teachers don't even know their pupils' name. How can you teach them if you don't know them? he asked. How can you love them if you don't know them?

Oh, if parents would see their children as individuals, and not in terms of their own childhood! he said. We need a creative leadership for our young people. If you really trust a boy he will not let you trust him in vain.

Mr. Burkhart said that another thing the church owes its young people is a Christian community in which to live. In this whole philosophy of the separation of the church and state, that you can't teach religion in the public schools, many young people have been disillusioned. They feel that if religion can't be taught in the schools, then they must leave it behind them when they enter the school doors.

The church owes its young people a great Christian outlook. We will never give our young people a great Christian outlook unless the church has it. Mr. Burkhart spoke of a number of problems that the young people are facing and told of some of these problems that have come to his personal attention. He closed his address with prayer. The singing of a hymn by the congregation and benediction by Dr Beach brought the session to a close about 9.15 o'clock.

Election in Morning

Programmes for the young people's division, the children's division and the administration division were held in the morning and afternoon and there was a council officers' luncheon at 12:30 at Bushnell chapel of the Central Baptist church.

Address by Miss Slattery

An illuminating and vivid address was delivered by Miss Margaret Slattery, editor and lecturer, of Boston, at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the Central Baptist church. The largest audience to hear a speaker or attend a session of the convention was assembled in the auditorium and balcony of the church, almost every available seat being taken. Her address was upon the topic, Together.

I am positively sure that the next ten years, declared Miss Slattery, must be given over to the building of bridges. We ourselves have been talking about union, but we are only doing a little. We have an intensive denominational work. I believe that the hour has come for intelligent analysis of our bridges that will unite us in our work. All over the country magnificent bridges are being built in the visible world. There are lovely bridges and highways in Connecticut.

The other day I made the declaration, said the speaker, that in all probability we will have another war. I was criticised severely for this statement. What are we doing to prevent war? In all our pacts and treaties we have numerous reservations. See how many great definite promises we have made. We have made all kinds of reservations.

I know many girls who have not stepped inside the church school. A great many of them are fine girls. They are spiritually dead. There is a vast multitude of youth with no spiritual power whatever. We ought to be able by personal solicitation to have our youth come to church school.

During the last political campaign there was a tremendous vote on all sides. Somebody was interested in something. Somebody had convictions. This is the sort of intensive thing we need. We've got a long hard way to travel if we do not make convictions in the hearts of the youth.

The generous rich and greedy groups of people between the two of them are crushing the uprising generation, squeezing out its ideals. A few days ago a student at Dartmouth left school to live in the wilds in seclusion. He's not a queer youth. Youth is turning away from us. Prosperity does not please them. One hundred fifty students, children of rich parents, are working their way through college. We as individuals must build bridges over which youth may come to us.

The children have a lot of trouble with the older people in the churches. A group of boys in a particular church were to have the privilege to be in charge of an evening's programme in which I was to speak. They had appointed one of the boys to introduce me. At the last minute the minister became fearful of what the boy would say and introduced the speaker. That was lack of cooperation. Why didn't they let the boy take charge of it. The children also had planned to sing a song, but were not allowed to do so. I would have rather seen the boy introduce me improperly. I would rather have seen the children sing the song improperly. If you give the young people charge of the meetings let them carry them out.

The church at its best only muddles along. A few mistakes more or less will not make much difference. We must build a bridge between our souls and Almighty God. I find that bridge tottering when a heavy load goes over it. I see the sign detour. I've got to be an everlasting seeker, asking that my soul may be made to suffer, asking that my soul be made to share. I've got to build a bridge between God and my soul. I want to be a beautiful bridge. It's got to have supporting power.

This life, as I face it with the youth and adults of today, wants to escalate. They want to step on the escalator, have someone push a button and have the escalator carry them up. If they want to come down they do the same thing. All we want is an elevator. That's an easy way. Nobody can put you up the ladder. Nobody can take you down. You have got to climb that ladder alone. You have got to go up and down that ladder yourself. It is a personal matter, concluded the speaker.

The story of the year was given in the annual report by Secretary Woodin.

Story of the Year

He gave his report in part as follows:

This convention marks the close of 71 years of service among the churches of the state by the Connecticut Council of Religious Education. The council was organized in the Pearl Street Congregational church, Hartford, in 1857 as the Sabbath School Teachers' union. The council owes a debt of gratitude to Norwich because of the number of local men who have contributed generously of their time and thought to the organization during those 71 years.

Lewis A. Hyde of Norwich Town was one of the secretaries of the 1857 convention and for a number of years was affiliated with the organization. The late Waterman R. Burnham was associated with Henry Clay Trumbul in the pioneer work of the organization and was president from 1876 to 1878. Mr. Burnham was also officially connected with the International Sunday School association and conducted the services of worship at the Atlanta convention in 1878. Our beloved fellow-member, B. P. Bishop, on whose shoulders Mr. Burnham's mantle fell, has been a member of the executive committee for more than 30 years. James L. Case has been a member of the executive committee or board of trustees for 25 years and for a number of years was vice president of the council.

In 1879 when the Connecticut Sunday School association was seeking a general secretary to succeed George H. Wattles the organization sent a representative to Norwich and drafted William H. Hall who served in that capacity until 1897, the longest administration in the history of the organization. Mr. Hall is still a member of the executive committee and has always been affiliated with the council since he accepted the call to the general secretaryship 49 years ago. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, formerly pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Norwich, rendered a signal service to the council as a local leader and as a member of the committee of eight which was chosen at Bridgeport to select an educational secretary. He served three years on the executive committee. Now the committee on arrangement is making an enviable record in entertaining this convention. Each member of that committee is entitled to special recognition but space will not permit. Mr. Bailey, the chairman, in particular, deserves our grateful appreciation. He has been "on the job" in season and out. Rarely if ever have we met Mr. Bailey's equal in the mastery of details of administration.

The state Sunday school convention has been held in Norwich four times before—1861, 1882, 1903 and 1913.

Mr. McClusky's Work

The story of the year would be a long one if all the activities of the council were included. Mr. McClusky's reports covering his 11 months work cover 37 pages. We have summarized the contents of his records for this report.

As far as possible Mr. McClusky carried out the program of the council which was recommended to the executive committee by the board of education at its meeting in New Haven a year ago. That program included the following items: (1) annual survey, (2) standard leadership schools, (3) summer school, (4) teachers' institutes, (5) girls' conferences, (6) superintendents' round table (7) young people's rallies, (8) vacation and week-day schools, and (9) county conventions.

With the children's division committee, of which Miss Edna M. Baxter is chairman, Mr. McClusky was able to revive the work of this division which was carried on so successfully a few years ago.

The young people's committee with Rev. Lorne W. Brown as chairman, accomplished a great deal the past year in pioneer work. This committee brought together various organizations engaged in young people's work for the study of their programs and the Christian quest materials. In group conferences at county conventions, institutes and other meetings the Christian quest materials were used.

Under the direction of Miss Baxter, children's division institutes were held in the following places: Winsted, Torrington, Watertown, New Milford Canaan, Thomaston, Litchfield.

In New Britain, under the auspices of the local council a series of group conferences of children's division and young people's division workers was successfully carried out.

Young people's rallies were held in: Danbury, Bridgeport, Putnam, Rockville, Hartford, Willimantic, Waterbury.

Girls' conferences have been held under the auspices of the county councils in: Danbury, Watertown, Waterbury, New Haven, Hebron, Thompsonville, East Hampton, Norwich, Putnam.

Teachers' institutes were successfully promoted by local councils in the following centers:

In 19 leadership schools and eight classes there were 1,705 students and 93 courses of study were offered. Thirty-five per cent. of the students (603) received 782 credits for work done in these schools and classes.

In Norwich there was an enrollment of 32, six credits, six credit students and two courses.

New Leadership Schools

Standard leadership schools have been held, are in session or have been scheduled to open in January, in Bridgeport, Bristol, Clinton, Essex, Fairfield, Hartford, New Britain, Norwalk, New Haven, Rockville and Watertown. And classes are being conducted in Granby and Torrington.

Seven county councils held a convention during the fall. These conventions were held in the following places: Bridgeport, Washington, New London, Danielson, Glastonbury, Deep River, South Coventry.

The tenth session of the Connecticut summer school of religious education was held at Storrs with an enrollment of 101, 94 of w or did credit work, receiving 221 certificates. This was an increase of 40 per cent. in the enrollment and 35 per cent. in number of credits awarded.

A satisfactory survey was made of 218 schools as follows: Fairfield county, 53 schools; Hartford county, 35 schools; Litchfield county, 32 schools; New Haven county, 30 schools; New London county, 17 schools; Tolland county, 24 schools; Windham county, 27 schols.

One hundred seventy-one of the 218 schools were personally visited by the persons making the survey. Forty-seven surveys were made in teachers' meetings. The total number of people involved in the work of the surveys was 582, including those in the teachers' meetings. One of the significant results of the survey is the demand which was greated for its repetition. One county council in no uncertain terms has expressed a wish to have the survey repeated.

Here is the summary of the report:

Summary of Survey

Total schools reporting, 218; number of survey committee meetings, 9; total attendance at survey committee meetings, 98; number teachers' meetings held by surveyors in making survey, 47; number present, 484; total surveys made by individuals (not meeting with teachers of the schools surveyed), 171; total attendance at all meetings (see items 8 and 5 above), 582. Note: These constituted ea. study groups of church school administration.

Surveys returned by counties:

Fairfield 53; Hartford 35; Litchfield 32; New Haven 30; New London 17; Tolland 24; Windham 27; total 218.

It will be noted that this is a fair sampling of the state. Results can therefore be considered typical.

9. Total enrollment in 202 schools reporting on this item, 26,218.

9a. Total average attendance, 16,265.

10. Total enrollment in 93 schools enrolling over 100, 20,541.

11. Total enrollment in 109 schools enrolling under 100, 5672.

11a. Total average attendance, 3,784

Vacation Schools

There is an appreciable increase in the enrollment of vacation schools this year. There were 79 vacation schools reported to the Council as follows:

Total enrollment 6890; total number of teachers 772; total cost $11,793; average cost per school $149.28; average cost per pupil $1.71; average enrollment per school 87.

Circulating Library

For a number of years the Council has maintained a circulating library of books for church-school workers. Mr. McClusky reorganized this library during the early part of the year and in the summer Miss Alice M. Richardson, librarian of the Case Memorial library, Hartford Seminary Foundation, classified the books according to the system used by the Sneath Memorial library at Yale Divinity school. Miss Rose B. Wilson has catalogued the new books nad re-catalogued the new books and re-catalogued the the library.

A fund of $2000 was left to the Council by the late Newman F. Hungerford of Harwinton last spring. In his will Mr. Hungerford directed that "the principle"—"be held intact and the income only"—"be used for the purpose and circulation of books for Sunday school workers, especially school workers in rural communities and for such other educational assistance as may be approved by said association." This will enables the Council to add about one book a week to its library.

Organization

There is a strong organization in six counties. At the convention this fall many changes were made in the personnel of the county organizations. With all due respect to those who have served in the past we believe that these organizations have been strengthened by additions and changes. There is also organization in each of the following thirteen centers: Danbury, Manchester, Milford, New Haven, Naugatuck Valley (Ansonia), Norwalk, New Britain, New London, Norwich, Rockville, Southington, Waterbury and Winsted.

In some cases these local councils are affiliated with the county organization and in other cases with the state council. In the last analysis, all local and state councils are parts of the system known as the International Council of Religious Education. In other words, there is one gigantic organization covering the continent which is used to carry the program of the International Council. When this program is carried out the last church in the last community will be benefitted.

Some of the councils have already planned their programs for the year 1929 while many of them are still engaged in the tasks of 1928.

From 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon there were three divisional programmes. One was the children's divisional programme at the Noyes parish house, Central Baptist church, Miss Edna M. Baxter, B. R. E., M. A., of Hartford, principal. Another was the young people's division programme, at the United Congregational church, Roy A. Burkhart, principal, and the third was the administration division programme at Bushnell chapel, Central Baptist church, Rev. G. Ernest Robbins of Burlington, Vt. was the leader of the latter programme.

At 6:30 o'clock there were suppers for the children's division, the young people's division and for the pastors directors and superintendents. Miss Edna M. Baxter, B. R. E., M. A., of Hartford was the toastmaster at the children's supper, Rev. Lorne W. Brown, Stamford, was toastmaster at the young people's supper, and Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, was the toastmaster at the pastors' supper.

Final Convention Day

Today (Friday) is the final day of the convention. There will be a morning session at 9:30 o'clock and at noon three divisional programmes, for the children's, young people's and administration divisions.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock and during the late afternoon three more divisional programmes will be held. The evening session, the closing session of the convention, will open at 7:30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church, with Prof. Willoughby leading the devotional period of a half hour. The speaker will be Prof. Halford E. Luccock of Yale Divinity school, who will speak on The Dynamic of Religious Educational Ideals.

The Late F. A. Parker

Frederick A. Parker, dead at his home on West street, New London, was a brother-in-law of Mrs. F. Herbert Brown of Laurel Hill avenue, Norwich, also of Gilbert D. Lamb of New York and Franklin.

A Clear Complexion

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 30 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

25,533 DEATHS FOM AUTO ACCIDENTS IN 1927

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The death toll in the United States from automobile accidents was estimated by the commerce department today to have reached a total of 25,533 persons during 1927. The estimates were complicated by the fact that only 81.3 per cent. of the country's population lives in territory where births and deaths are officially registered.

Deaths from automobile accidents alone—not including the mortality occasioned by collision of motors with street cars and trains were estimated at 19.5 persons per 1 000 of population in 1927, based on the total population within the registration area. The report added that this death rate had steadily increased from 14.9 per thousand in 1923 to 17 in 1925 and 17.9 in 1926.

HELP

I'm very glad I happened to meet you."
"How can I help you?"
"You know the best shops to buy from and I want to get some real nice things for my husband for Christmas."
"Well, one of the best places is Gerry's, on the Square. They have the nicest things for men, and reasonable, too."

"That's right! I've heard so much of them."

"They're real courteous and try to help you all they can in choosing the right things."
"I'll go there and look around."

"A number of my friends have picked out their gifts and had them laid aside. Each week they pay a little and by the time Christmas comes it's all paid for."
"Say, that's a good idea. I'll go right down to Gerry's. Will you come along?"

"Yes, I must get my brother a birthday present and they have such a large variety to choose from.

"Come, let's go to

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

MASS. BOXING TEAM TO APPEAR AT DUWELL A. C. AMATEURS NEXT WEEK

Two prominent amateur boxing teams, one from Massachusetts and the other from Connecticut, one that has never shown in Norwich before, will be brought here for the first of the Duwell indoor amateur boxing shows to be presented at the state armory next Tuesday night, according to an announcement made by the boxing committee of the local athletic organization last night. While the committee was not prepared to mention the names of the teams, claiming that negotiations had not been completed, it did say, however, that each outfit that is now being sought is a headliner. It is understood that the Connecticut team hails from the western part of the state.

The boxing committee insists that only those boxers who have filed entry blanks before Saturday night will be given a place on the opening bill. Blanks have been sent to boxers outside of the city limits and those within the limits may sign up by applying at the Duwell club. A block of reserved seats, 300 in number, will be placed on sale today at Jack's Sport Shop, Our Smoke Shop at the West Side and at the Duwell club rooms.

U. S. G. A. AWARDS OAKLAND HILLS CLUB WOMEN'S TOURNEY

NEW York, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Oakland Hills Country club, Birmingham, Mich., was selected for the 1929 National women's championship by the executive committee of the United States Golf association today. The women's title will be decided over the course of the Detroit club the week of September 30, a week later than the 1928 championship.

The open championship next year also will be played later than the event this year the committee fixing June 27, 28, and 29 as the dates with the sectional qualifying rounds June 10. The Winged Foot club, Mamaroneck, had been previously designated for the open.

The annual meeting, when officers already nominated will be elected, will be held at New York January 10.

Prescott S. Bush, in announcing the action of the committee, said that no recommendation was made as to change in the size and weight of golf balls, nor for changes in playing conditions of the amateur championship.

These questions may come up at the annual meeting. Indications have been that eventually a larger and lighter ball will be adopted. Suggestions looking to abolition of the two rounds of 18 hole matches in the amateur championship have been made from time to time, although no official move looking to a change has been made.

Findlay S. Douglas, New York, president-nominate, presided at the meeting of the executive committee. Others in attendance included Herbert Jaques, Boston.

HOBEN DIRECTS YALE IN PRACTICE SESSION

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22—(AP)—Johnny Hoben, field general of the Harvard game last year, directed the Yale varsity football team in a long signal drill in the bowl today, being relieved by Wilson just before the practice session ended. Coach Mal Stevens also put the second and third teams through a rigorous signal drill.

In the backfield today were Loud and Hubbard at half, and Miller at fullback. Garvey and Decker who have been on the injured list but who probably will get in the Harvard game, went in for Loud and Miller late in the drill.

An hour of practice in kicking and passing preceded the signal drill with special attention being paid to the latter.

Harvard will work out in the bowl tomorrow afternoon and Yale will take the field for a short signal drill immediately afterward.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

It's all Bulkeley-Academy among the high school fans hereabouts this week end. This game will draw from all over Eastern Connecticut and outlying regions.

The Eastern-Conn.-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic football league closes its first season with the Academy-Bulkeley clash. Today at New London, Chapman Tech and Westerly close their league seasons while Windham and Stonington have previously concluded.

For the two games here's the rating: Academy to beat Bulkeley by about three touchdowns. Westerly to beat Chapman in a close game.

Tomorrow's game should also set a league record for attendance.

Just one more day!

ACADEMY vs BULKELEY

(This is the third and final article of a series dealing with the Academy and Bulkeley for their annual clash Saturday afternoon at the campus here.)

Past Academy-Bulkeley Games.

The Academy and Bulkeley have been meeting each other on the athletic field for nearly half a centry, if not longer, and in that time the Academy holds a slight edge. The exact figures are a little hazy as little record was kept of their games in the first years of the series.

However, since 1904, or the modern version of the rivalry in 37 games the Academy has won 15 games Bulkeley 13 and nine have ended in tie scores. In 1906 and 1918 no games were played, Bulkeley having no representative the former season and the World war calling a halt in 18.

The Academy held a big edge from 1904 to 1910, when Bulkeley lost ten games in succession, the first six by shutouts and in the first eight Bulkeley scored but two points against 183 for N. F. A.

Bulkeley ended the string of losses by winning 6 to 0 in 1910. In the first of the two 1911 games, the contests, to the interests ended with Bulkeley the winner, 11 to 5, but a decision was protested, the protest sent to the late Walter Camp, leading football authority, and he sustained the protest, thereby setting the score at an 11-all tie. The other game of that year also was a tie, of the scoreless kind.

Bulkeley rose to power from 1912 to 1916 winning five out of six games in that stace, before the Academy were ahead and had the best of it with one exception, until 1919. The Academy won once each in 1920 and 1921 but from then until 1926 they were beaten constently. Last year's game was a tie.

The Academy has beaten Bulkeley but once since 1913 and not bad, as some hope they can do this time, since in 1910, Bulkeley on the other hand, has administered crushing defeats to the Red and White in recent years.

The last Academy victory was gained in a stubbornly contested battle at the campus before the largest crowd of the series, 5,000. Jimmy Williams carried the ball over for the touchdown on that day, making it from the two yard line. On the previous play he had received a pass from Pete Labenski.

The summary of games follows:

| Year | N. F. A. | Bulkeley |
|---|---|---|
| 1904 | 22-44 | 0-0 |
| 1905 | 23-29 | 0-0 |
| 1906 | No Games | |
| 1907 | 0-39 | 0-0 |
| 1908 | 2-12 | 2-0 |
| 1909 | 5-17 | 12-6 |

ACADEMY CAN TIE IN LEAGUE BY BEATING BULKELEY

Should the Academy beat Bulkeley Saturday at the campus the "point or percentage" cry of the Interscholastic conference would surely be again brought to the fore. By winning this game the Academy can tie with Stonington on points, each having six, although Stonington is being adjudged the winner of the championship.

The Academy has won two games and lost one in the league, with Saturday's to play while Stonington has closed her league schedule, winning two and tieing two. Figuring two points for a victory and one for a tie, as is generally done, Stonington now has six points and the Academy four with two more to gain by beating her ancient rival. The Academy, it will be remembered pasted Stonington, 24 to 0.

Saturday's game will be the first Academy-Bulkeley gridiron conflict for Chet Berginzo, Gordon Cruickshank, Hertz, Anso Tombari or Taylor, and Fagan or Sherry.

The team that stafted last year's Bulkeley game for N. F. A. was LaCroix, le, Shea, lt, Fox, lg, Ingalls, c, Mish, rg, Kahn, rt, Greene, re, Tirrell, qb, McGlone, lhb, Kelly, rhb, Marks, fb. The substitutions were: Brock for Tirrell, Tirrell for Brock, Brock for Tirrell, Vitilano for Kelly, Aldrich for McGlone, Kelly for Vitliano, Vitiliano for Aldrich.

A wet field would hamper both to about the same degree, it is figured. Bulkeley has shown a tendency to fumble this year and a wet gridiron would not make the ball any more secure while the Academy strong running plays do not usually click as well with uncertain footing.

Saturday's game is a league clash but this is forgotten in the glamour of the old rivalry. Bulkeley, by winning Saturday, would climb out of the cellar in the circuit.

And, incidentally, this game closes the season for the teams.

OUTLAW BIKE RIDERS ASK FOR REINSTATEMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—From all outward appearances, the bike fans of New York will lose only their normal quota of sleep this winter.

An "outlaw" organization, scheduled to open the sleepless season Sunday night with a six day race in the Kingsbridge armory, collapsed today leaving the field to the National Cycling association, sponsor of the two year's grinds at Madison Square Garden.

The "outlaws," consisting of many prominent riders and headed by George Harvey, New York sportsman, failed to post $16,500 rental with armory officials. Work on erection of a track and 10,000 seats was stopped. At the same time, the riders under contract for the race held a meeting and announced the race was off because of insufficient guarantee that they would be paid for their services. Several petitioned John Chapman, president of the National Cycling association, and the czar of the six day sport, for reinstatement.

The new organization, one of several in the past few years to fail in an attempt to break the power of the association, staged a race recently in Chicago, but met with little financial success.

O'BRIEN KNOCKS OUT ADONIS IN FIFTH

Results of other bouts follow:

Joe Flynn, Hartford, 123 1-2, won on a technical knockout in the third round over George Krar, East Hartford.

Jimmie Picardi, Boston, 119, won a six round decision over Buster Nadeau, Holyoke, 116 1-2.

Brownie Tucker, Hartford, 126 1-2, won a six round decision over Mickey Roberts, Hartford, 123 1-2.

Vic Morley, Hartford, 146 1-2, won on a technical knockout in the first round over Jack Berlenbach, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 145 1-2, when Berlenbach went down without being hit and was disqualified.

Giants Release Mann

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Giants today announced the unconditional release of Leslie Mann, 35-year-old outfielder from Springfield, Mass. Mann, whose principal big league asset has been his ability to left-handed pitching, was alternated with 19-year-old Melvin Ott in right field last season. He batted .270 in 75 games.

AGGIES HOLD FINAL PRACTICE FOR BOSTON COLLEGE SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 22—The curtain was drawn on the 1928 football season at the Connecticut Aggies this afternoon when the Nutmeggers went through their final preparation for the Boston college contest this Saturday at the Hub city. The Aggies will entrain tomorrow afternoon in Willimantic for Boston and spend the rest of the time up until the fray Saturday at leisure.

The Blue and White will complete their thus far successful year when they face the Boston Eagle. The Aggies have taken four teams into camp and played three scoreless deadlocks. They are undefeated and unscored upon and considered the best defensive aggregation ever to represent the state college.

The contest Saturday will also mean the last game for several seniors on the squad. Of the graduating group there are five playing regular on the line and their loss will be felt keenly next fall. They are Captain Sayers, tackle, Kenneth Wilson, tackle, Gilman, guard, Colacurcio, guard, and William Knaut, center. The backfield has no senior playing regular but Arthur Haversat, halfback, who has been out for the eleven during the four years at the college was never able to make the grade. He represents, however, a great deal of speed as a ball carrier but lacks the headwork of an experienced open field runner. Last Saturday, Haversat raced over sixty yards against Rhode Island after intercepting a pass. Much speculation is present in the camp of the Connecticut Aggies as to what type of offensive the eleven will display against Boston college. From the practice sessions all week it is apparent that the aerial offensive will see most action against Boston. The Nutmeggers have developed a strong aerial attack and it should be used to good advantage Saturday afternoon. The Nutmeggers have an exceptionally long passer in Seraphino Tombari who plays the end but drops back on an alternating five man backfield plan to hurl the passes. For the short and regular passes, Ray Ryan is considered the most capable due to his accuracy and timing. In the Rhode Island contest nearly every pass that Ryan started was completed.

As far as straight football is concerned the Nutmeggers should have a fair chance at doing some damage with off tackle and end plays. The Aggies have two fleet ball carriers in Leo Fisher, sophomore flash, and Ray Hoag, junior threat man. These two men have carried the bulk of the Nutmegger's attack all year and should come up to the part this Saturday. Coach Dole is banking on Fisher for the punting and also in circling the wings which he has done well all year.

The injury to Captain Sayers is still doubtful and Coach Dole is grooming Dan Chubbuck, rangy sophomore tackle, who is a novice at the game for the position in case Sayers does not respond to treatment. If he does, it still is a question of how long he will remain in the fray. Sayers received the arm bruise in the Rhode Island game and up until today he coul dnot raise it above his head.

BOGG ELECTED CAPTAIN OF 1929 WESLEYAN ELEVEN

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 22—(AP)—Wesleyan university awarded major letters to 17 of her gridiron warriors tonight after which they elected James Bogg, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., as captain of next year's football team. Bogg is a member of the class of 1930 and plays fullback.

Those who received letters were: Bogg; H. B. Lockwood, Meriden; O. G. Schwenk, New York city; E. H. Sleeper, New Britain; J. S. Miller, Lynn, Mass.; J. R. Williams, Jordon, N. Y.; W. H. Guernsey, Wellesley, Mass.; S. Silsway, Newburyport, Mass.; C. I. Thomas, Warren, Ohio; J. F. Harper, New York city; M. Peck, Scranton, Pa.; T. W. Millspaugh, Norwich, N. Y.; J. W. Tetley, Kingston, N. Y.; O. S. Sigafoos, Yonkers, N. Y.; W. H. Coffin, Fitchburg, Mass.; G. W. Kennedy, New Haven; I. W. Smith, Bayside, N. Y.

DRAFT QUESTION TO COME UP AT LEAGUE MEETING

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—Baseball's problems will be aired and some of them possibly settled when the club owners of the major leagues assemble at the Congress hotel Dec. 13 for the joint meeting of the two circuits. Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis called the meeting today.

Before going into the joint session, the club owners will have thrashed out their individual league problems in separate meetings—the National league convening in New York and the American league in Chicago Dec. 11.

The yearly discussed draft question is expected to once again occupy the greater part of the time. Just what angle will come up, however, depends on action taken by the minor leagues in their meeting the week previous at Toronto. Several of the leading minor league clubs are opposing the present draft system, on the grounds that it prevents the sale of the best players to the majors.

If the minors leave the draft rule untouched, the club owners are apt to convene and adjourn quietly.

"There is nothing definite to be settled," said Commissioner Landis, "but some of the owners may have problems to be discussed."

While the joint meeting promises to be a quiet affair, plenty of action is slated for the American league gathering. Practically every club has players to put on the block for sale or trade. President E. S. Barnard of the junior circuit is predicting a brisk business in trading transactions.

"With few exceptions every club is looking for added strength," said President Barnard, "and practically every club has players to include in deals."

A revamping of the schedule will be necessary, due to the new Massachusetts law, which permits Sunday baseball in Boston. The American league opens its season a week later next year in an effort to avoid much of the early-season bad weather.

DARTMOUTH FRESHMEN MAY BE CRIPPLED FOR LIFE

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 22—(AP)—John G. Almert, of New York, a Dartmouth freshman, may be crippled for life as the result of an injury to his knee received yesterday during boxing practice, it was announced today.

Almert, a former football player at Lake Forest academy at Chicago, was injured twice while playing and doctors told him that another injury might cause permanent harm. He forsook football when he came here but while practicing foot work in the college gym, he tripped and fell. It was believed that the tendons of his knee were severed.

Almert was a runner-up in the western junior golf championships the past two seasons.

COLUMBIA PAPER TAKES SLAM AT COACH CROWLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Columbia is the latest university at which the hue and cry that meets the football coach who fails to deliver enough victories, has broken out into print.

"Apparently a new regime is needed to lead Columbia out of the darkness," said the Columbia Spectator, student organ, today under the signature of Charles Fremd, sports columnist. The paper has printed several letters of criticism of the team's showing since it lost to Dartmouth and Pennsylvania and was tied by Cornell.

Charley Crowley, former Harvard and Notre Dame end, and who succeeded the late Percy Haughton in 1925, is head coach.

EASTERN TEAMS TAPER OFF IN THEIR PRACTICE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The usual Thursday let-down was the exception rather than the rule at most eastern college football camps today.

Carnegie Tech's Tartans, which needs only a victory over New York university this Saturday to close out an undefeated season, were worked hard at Pittsburgh today but only light signal practice will be held tomorrow. The Tartans will have their regular lineup intact although Eyth, a speedy back, is still bothered slightly by a shoulder injury.

Calisthenics and a signal drill comprised New York university's preparations at New York before the squad entrained for Pittsburgh early tonight. A few hours later four special trains carried the student band and several hundred Violet rooters to the Smoky City.

Kicking and passing work and a long signal drill ended intensive preparations at Yale for the annual battle with Harvard. Twelve hundred Crimson students marched to the Cambridge stadium to cheer the Harvard varsity as it went through its last home practice of the year. The Crimson team will entrain for New Haven tomorrow morning.

Bill Ingram crossed up his Navy squad by putting the Midshipmen through a long practice session instead of the scheduled tapering off work. Particular attention was paid the ends where it is expected Princeton's attack will center. A dummy scrimmage against Navy plays made up the Tigers' workout at Princeton. Bill Roper announced he would use the same lineup that conquered Yale last Saturday.

Army's Cadets also had little rest at West Point where the strong Nebraska team is to be met on Saturday. Biff Jones had the entire varsity squad hard at it all afternoon. Beaten by Notre Dame, Army is anxious to keep its record clear of any more reverses. That will not be easy with such stalwart foes as Nebraska and Stanford yet to be conquered.

Frank Cavanaugh had no mercy on his much-mauled Fordham Maroons. A brisk scrimmage was the high spot of the final hard practice session before the battle with Georgetown's mighty army. Larry Dallaire, star quarterback of the Maroons, hurled one forward pass that traveled 67 yards before it was grabbed by Al Politis, an end. Fordham's passing game will need to be good to equal Georgetown's aerial attack with such capable passers as Duplin, Hudak and Scalzi.

Bucknell, planning to start its second team against Dickinson, started work on a new set of plays for the Thanksgiving day battle with Temple.

WATERBURY, Nov. 22—(AP)—Leo Larrivier, Waterbury, 154, knocked out Jimmy Rossi, of Westerly, R. I., in the second round of the Waterbury A. C. main bout staged at Buckingham hall here tonight. Rossi went down for counts of nine twice before taking the final count. Results of other bouts:

Tommy Jarrett, New Haven, beat Irish Billy Fitz, Waterbury, 6-140.

Gene Martin, Waterbury, beat Teddy Barnes, Bridgeport, 6-137.

Bobby Morrison, Waterbury, beat Nick Fiorentino, New Haven, 6-114.

Accepts Challenge

Through his manager Joe Smith, the East Side boxer, has accepted the challenge of Sheik Gadula of Montville for a bout on Friday evening, Nov. 30th at the Uncas club amateurs at Uncasville. Smith's manager, Eddie Leonard, says that he will box Gadula on a winner take all basis if it is agreeable to Gadula.

PLAINFIELD-WEST WARWICK IN POST-SEASON GAME

Saturday afternoon at 2:30, Plainfield plays its last game of the season, against the fast traveling West Warwick team. This team has won three out of seven games, and is out to do Plainfield up, their team being light but fast.

Plainfield has won two out of six games and has held the so-called Putnam team to a 7 to 0 score. Putnam was mighty lucky to get these seven points, considering the talk of the Putnam team. Plainfield has a well balanced line, the boys playing guards and tackles are a tower of strength to the team, while the ends are well taken care of by two light boys. The line charges fiercely and is very strong. The center position is well taken care of.

In the backfield, Plainfield can boast of one of the best backfields in eastern Connecticut. Koss, the fullback, is the triple threat of the team. This boy hits the line like an express train. He can throw exceptionally good passes, and often gets away punts averaging 50 to 55 yards. Shippee and Burby, the halfbacks, are boys who have proved their worth to the team by clever field running. These two boys can also hit the line exceptionally well.

But last and not least, comes Capt. Willie Bakanowsky, the "Jewett City" hurricane. This boy has been calling signals for the past three years and he sure knows his stuff. He can run, pass, and kick with the best of them, and he certainly can tackle. When he hits them they stay hit.

"Baky" will lead his team onto the field at 2:15 sharp, Saturday afternoon at the Plainfield Community House grounds.

Broad street school will play the Morrow Jrs. at the Academy campus this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock. The backfield men for Broad street are Johnson, Fidrych, Turner and Williams. Fidrych and Williams are the leading scorers of the team.

N. F. A. OUT FOR DECISIVE VICTORY

The Academy will be out there Saturday, it seems, not only to "Beat Bulkeley" but to "Beat Bulkeley Bad." The Wildcats feel that they have a golden oportunity to trim the Whalers as local teams used to do it way back at the start of this century and Saturday they will enter the fray with supreme confidence to trim the invaders.

Last Big Win in 1910

It has been nearly a decade, in 1910, to be exact, since an Academy team has beaten Bulkeley on the gridiron in decisive fashion. The score that year was 17 to 0 and in the few victories since then the margin has been two touchdowns or less. It would be a great thing for the locals to slaughter their ancient rivals Saturday as they did Stonington on the last week end but with this intention there also is some danger of over-confidence. Over-confidence played a large part in the 6-6 tie that a top-heavy favorite Academy team was held to last fall at Mercer field in New London and Coach Whitney is guarding against it this year.

Practice on Thursday at the campus was limited to long signal work with Jack Marks and Capt. Lacroix polishing up on the punting end. Both boys got away long kicks and the Academy looks to be in better shape along the kicking line now then it has been all season.

"Pep Rally" Today

The annual "pep rally" will be held at Slater hall today with a rehearsal of the school cheers and songs and speeches by Principal Tirrell, Coach Whitney, Capt. LaCroix and others. This afternoon the Academy will hold a light signal drill and then the field will be given over to the assistant managers for marking for the game. Then all will be quiet until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Bulkeley is Ready

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Bulkeley is ready for Norwich. The final real workout for the annual classic was held at Mercer field this afternoon at which time Coach W. R. Canty sent his charges through a snappy signal drill. Present indications are that Bulkeley will be able to present all of its regulars. Bulkeley is pointing to its Windham victory as holding that Norwich can be conquered. Norwich lost to Windham. The new school band will make its first public appearance in its natty uniforms tomorrow with a march about the city following which it will serenade Williams Memorial Institute girls.

A "pep rally" will be held at Bulkeley tomorrow.

How The Champion Did It

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Glenna Collett did not particularly need the hole she won with the greatest shot made in her championship match with Virginia Van Wie when she captured the women's title for the third time, but the effort was worthy of a deciding hole.

Glenna came to the 17th hole of the 36-hole go with the Chicago girl, eight up and there was not much doubt even at that stage that she was to wear the laurel wreath again, but she was taking nothing for granted and hitting every ball as though the outcome of the struggle depended on the shot of the moment.

The 17th at the Cascades course, Virginia Hot Springs, is known as a "he man" hole. The actual yards separating the green from the tee number 459, but such yards they are. The hole is a dog leg affair and no one, man or woman, can cut the corner, for the elbow is a part of the Allegheny mountains. Only a long drive will enable the player to see the green for the second shot, and even if the requisite length is gained on the tee shot, there are troubles on each side of the fairway for the unwary, traps, of course, and a stream and a mound or two for good measure.

Some excitement had been caused on the course the day before when Mrs. Harry Pressler, Los Angeles, western women's champion, had reached the edge of the green in two. Miss Collett drove in just the right spot to have a clear although long shot to the green. Her drive came to rest at the intersection leading to the green after traveling approximately 230 yards.

The eastern girl still was 229 yards from home with pitfalls lurking over almost every inch of the way. She was not dismayed by the dangers. Calling on her brassie to show just what it could do, she sent the ball flying "on the flag." It seemed for a time that the ball would hit the pin, but it slipped by and stopped 15 feet beyond the cup. The birdie four was a matter of two putts. Glenna went on to win that hole and the next, go to luncheon ten up and win in the afternoon, 13 up and 12 to play, but she did not make any more brassie shots like the rifle effort at the 17th. She didn't have to.

"GET SET"
FOR WINTER WITH A NEW PONTIAC SIX

TO GET yourself "set" for winter—to make sure that the car you drive will be free from the common, but annoying cold weather ailments . . . buy today's Pontiac Six. For with its advanced design, its rugged construction and its thermostatically-controlled cross-flow radiator, today's Pontiac Six provides freedom from winter driving cares offered by no other car in its field.

The cross-flow radiator minimizes losses of alcohol and water through boiling. The thermostat retards the water flow until the engine becomes warm. Hence, less choking is required and less diluting of crankcase oil occurs.

In addition to all these advantages, Pontiac offers all the stamina and dependability for which it is internationally famed. When you drive this great General Motors Six, the approach of cold weather brings no anxiety concerning the performance of your car.

2-Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4-Door Sedan, $825; Sport Landau Sedan, $875. All prices at factory. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

CHESTNUT HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dimon, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Canfield of Wethersfield and Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Tilton and daughter of Hartford were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. G. B Dimon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Peckham of Manchester visited the former's parents Friday last.

Mrs. Robbins spent the week end with relatives in Springfield.

Mrs. Ella Foster and son Edwin Foster of North Franklin were callers on Mrs. A. S. Peckham Sunday afternoon. They are living for the winter in Hartford where Mr. Foster is employed by the Etna Insurance Co.

Mrs. Anna James and Mrs. Jessie Killourey of Willimantic were recent callers at Hillcrest.

Mrs. J. Legler of Lebanon spent Monday with Mrs. C. E. Goodrich.

Miss Mildred Latham has been spending a few days this week at the home of A. W. Ellis in Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Alison Frink of Andover visited Sunday with their former neighbor, Miss Lucie Doubleday. She greatly appreciated the ride which they gave her, visiting the cemetery where those nearest to her are laid and decorating the graves with wreaths and flowers. Miss Doubleday is in her 80th year and the last of her family. She is a great lover of flowers and plants and spends much time in cultivating and caring for them. It is her greatest pleasure to fashion them into wreaths and bouquets to adorn the family plot in memory of those she loved, also to give them to friends.

HAPPIER BY OMITTING NEEDLESS WORRY

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

As I'm writing this, with the middle of November behind me and Thanksgiving day only just around the corner ahead, the out-doors aspect of things is decidedly more summery than winterish.

A genial sun is shining mellowly from a warmly tinted sky, across which float occasionaly curded clouds such as are common in "the good old summer-time." The air is not only warm but a bit hot in the direct rays of the sun. What little breeze can be noticed is from the southward and with the smell of the tropics on its wings. The hills are just a bit dim in the thin, smoky haze which is the traditional accompaniment of Indian summer.

In fact, it would seem as if this must be the real Indian summer we used to hear about as boys. The flies are out thick on southern exposures; the old horse, "Dan", is rolling with delight on the warm sod of the tilled pasture lot; this noon I saw a woodchuck scuttering toward his hole from the orchard, where he had apparently been looking for belated windfall apples.

If it wasn't for the bare, leaf-stripped trees and the dead brown grass underfoot and the undeniable figures of the calendar, one would feel justified in thinking it early September rather than late November.

Previous to this spell of pleasant weather, we've had several days of actual cold, with chilling winds, some snow, and considerable ice. I am set thinking about the stories I used to hear from the ancients, how "Squaw winter" usually was followed by "Indian summer," and how the year wasn't quite normal which didn't have one or both. I remember quite well that those old stories used always to shake their heads when a real Indian summer was beaming on them, and say, "We've got to pay for all this, it will be winter next thing, and for keeps."

Almost exactly that sentinment was uttered this morning by a caller to whom I was expatiating on the delightful weather. "Yep," he agreed it's sure fine. But jest think of what's comin' next week, when winter sets in for good!"

He didn't know it, but he gave me, right then and there, the text for a sermon.

He wasn't half enjoying the blessedness of the suave season, because, in the very midst of it, he was omenting the bleak winds and driving snows which will naturally follow it. He was more or less unhappy over what he expected was going to happen. He couldn't half appreciate the jolly sunshine and the caressing airs because he saw beyond them clouds and gales. He couldn't unbutton his vest and tip his hat over on the back of his head and soak in the comfort nature was spooning out to him, because of his dread of the cold shoulder she was going to turn on him, next week or thereabouts.

Now, forethought and forehandedness are the two most important things to the farmer's calling. He knows that every year has its winter, and that he must get ready for it in spring and summer and fall. He must prepare himself for the evil days while he can. He must make his hay while the sun shines,—or he won't have any when the snow blows.

But that's no reason why he should go through two winters every year, one in actual chilly fact, and one in anticipatory imaginings. He's got to get through winter between November and March, anyway; why in the name of common sense import dread of that winter into the season of warmth and comfort?

"Trouble?" said one old man. "Yes, I've been through a lot of it—mostly in the shape of worry over troubles that never came."

Some people say that more than half the happiness of life consists of anticipation. Per contra, isn't it as true that more than half the unhappinesses of life consist in worries over what may happen?

"Never cross the bridge till you come to it," is another old saying that means more than it seems to on the face. There is hardly a road in the country which hasn't more or less bridges to cross. If every driver began to worry, the moment he had got over one, for fear the next might be washed out or unsafe, what comfort would he get from his day's outing? The sensible thing is to assume that whenever the road has to cross a river, there'll be a substantial bridge to carry it. Perhaps, once in 100 times this optimism may result in an enforced detour, but 99 times in 100 it won't. You'll find the bridge all right and as safe as any other part of the joy ride.

About 99 per cent. of all our worries are in a quite similar category. They're bogeys of the imagination. Now, there are quite enough really scary things in life without our inventing more just to keep our hair on end. Why not take our blessings of weather and other things at their full value, make the most of them while we can, and let tomorrow's courage fight its own battle with tomorrow's ghosts?

Take my morning's caller, for instance. He isn't getting any proper amount of comfort out of this glorious Indian summer day, because he's cringing before the kick he anticipates next week's winter weather will deliver. What an idea! All sorts of things may happen before he's hurt. He may not actually be hurt at all. Winter may hold off two weeks or even a month, yet. It may come gently and brotherly when it does. It's just as easy to expect good as to anticipate misery. Even if it comes with a whoop and a hurrah right off the glaciers of Alaska or the geropots of Medicine Hat, we're ready for it, aren't we? There's plenty of wood for the kitchen stove and the parlor heater; there's potatoes and apples and so forth in the bins; there's hay in the barn; there's a pair of warm boots in the closet, and a thick overcoat hanging up in the hall, and a pair of mittens in the cupboard, and a snow-shovel inside the back-door. Do we want to sit in rocking-chairs and twiddle our thumbs when Old Boreas is daring us to come out and try a tussle with him?

I'm just g'oating over today's geniality and invitation. The minute I get this typewriter job done, I'm going to erupt into the glory of Indian summer's finest output and let the warmth and the comfort and the inspiration soak in. I'm not going to dilute my 100 per cent. enjoyment of the blessed Today by a single gloomy foreboding anent Tomorrow or Next Week.

Once in a while in the heart of summer there comes a day of unusual brilliance. The sky takes on a deeper blue; the air ceases to shimmer and becomes as pellucid of the first water; the hills seem to be both higher and nearer than usual. And Old Man Waterhouse, whenever such a miracle of a day shows up, shakes his head sadly and says, "Weather-breeder: storm tomorrow." He's an old man and I take it in respectful silence. But what I want to say is: "Durn you what if it IS going to storm tomorrow? Isn't today a humdinger?"

According to the old hymn: "Into each life some rain must fall." Very true. And rainy days, while helpful to plant life, are not the utmost in desirability for picnic parties. But why wear rain-coats and carry umbrellas on bright days because there are rainy ones due in the offing? Why not wait till the rain arrives before getting wet?

We've got to meet and bear our troubles when they come whether we want to or not. This is as certain as anything can be. But why in the name of all that's rational meet and bear 'em twice—once when they arrive and once in gloomy anticipation? There's some sense in having a companion who will double your joys and halve your sorrows. But there's no sense in adopting a spirit which will do the exact opposite—double your troubles and halve your pleasures.

Yes, I remember very well the fable of the ant and the butterfly. The butterfly had a hilarious time swooning about in the warm sunshine of summer, but wanted food and shelter when the winter came along. So she applied to the ant who, very properly, turned her down. "You had the same chance to make a home and store supplies that I had," said the ant, "if you preferred to play rather than work, now you'll have to starve rather than eat."

Exceeding true to life, even if told as a fable. But who ever heard of even an Admirable Ant going down into the lowest cavern of his hill on a sunny day and hiding his head under a lump of mud because his instinct told him he might have to do that very thing next day? Not he. He did his work and took his recreation while the weather was good and didn't hunt cover till he had to.

There's a hemisphere wide difference between forethought and foreboding. One prepares beforehand a defense against trouble; the other goes far afield to meet trouble halfway and lengthen its companionship.

Who was the wise man who said his plan of life was always to expect the best and prepare for the worst? I don't remember, if, indeed, I ever knew. But you'll notice that he put just as strong an emphasis on expecting the best as he did on preparing for the worst.

And the beauty of it is that, when you've prepared for the worst, it very rarely happens. The good which you cheerfully expected is much more likely to transpire.

I don't know that there's any more need to preach this sort of sermon to farmers than to others. But I see more farmers than all other sorts combined, and my observation leads me to feel that a good many I know would be happier if they'd stop worrying over what may happen and tend up closer to what actually is happening.

They used to say that worry would kill a cat. And a cat is supposed to have eight more lives than the average farmer.

LEFFINGWELL

LOCAL GUESTS PRESENT AT UNCASVILLE SHOWER

Many young people from Leffingwell attended a shower and card party Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bullard, of Uncasville. The shower was for Miss Florence Bjorn of Laurel Hill, in honor of her approaching marriage with Mervin B. Leffingwell of East Great Plain. Miss Bjorn received many gifts and was completely surprised by the party. Five tables of progressive whist were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. John A. Comstock, Mrs. C. Emil Geoffrey, Mervin B. Leffingwell and C. Emile Geoffrey. Cake, ice cream and fruit punch were served. Guests were present from Norwich, East Great Plain, Leffingwell and Trading Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Frank Gardner of East Great Plain were callers Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Ross.

The B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church cleared a good sum from the food sale Saturday, held in the Porteous & Mitchell store. The money was used to complete the payments on a piano.

Mrs. C. Emile Geoffrey and son Richard Leffingwell, spent Friday with Mrs. Geoffrey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Beard, of the Old Homestead farm.

POULTRY SHOW JUDGES WERE BUSY THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 22—The The 17th annual exhibition of the South County Poultry and Pet Stock association opened today about 500 specimens being shown. The birds were all caged by 9 o'clock and the judges, D. F. Shove, A. W. Mowll and S. Cruickshank, commenced judging the poultry turkeys, waterfowl and pet stock. The hall opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the admission of the public.

Results in the drive conducted in Westerly the past week have begun to show smaller daily returns to date yet nearly 1500 members have been enrolled by the Westerly Red Cross chapter in its annual roll call, officials report. The contributions have just passed the $2,000 mark. It is expected to complete the drive this week. Twelve teams under direction of Karl G. Stillman and Mrs. Frank Sherman are canvassing Westerly and vicinity.

Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Mayne, worthy matron and Andrew R. Ralston, worthy patron, conducted a successful bridge whist Thursday afternoon. Twenty-five tables were arranged for play in the large lodge room. During the afternoon bon bons and light refreshments were served.

Nov. 20, Vincent Champlin to Willard P. and Hattie M. Hall, land on the westerly side of the Watch Hill road, ten feet in width and extending to a cove in the Pawcatuck river.

Nov. 21, Maynard Land company to Sylvester Turano, Lots Nos. 142, 143 and 144, Melrose Heights.

Thursday, the fourt' day of the No-vember term of Washington county superior court at Kingston, with Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner on the bench, there were no matters for jury consideration. The jurymen for a second day reported at 10:45 a. m. and the judge took two men at surety in the reduction of a criminal case pending. When Judge Sumner had left the bench, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell announced that all petit jurymen were excused from further attendance on the following day at Kingston courthouse. They were notified to appear Monday next at the Washington county courthouse in Westerly to which the court adjourned for consideration of the Westerly calendar. Court will convene in Westerly Monday at 10.45.

Relatives, friends and neighbors from Westerly and vicinity Wednesday afternoon filled the home of Howard C. Langworthy whose funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church of which Mr. Langworthy was a deacon. The bearers were John C. Lougnead, John M. Austin, Allen C. Whitford, Elmer Macomber, Leon Bliven and Selden M. Young. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

MISSING GIRL RETURNS— HAD BEEN AT NEIGHBOR'S

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 22—The quest for missing Bertha Palscik ended abruptly late Wednesday night when she appeared between 8 and 9 o'clock at the home of her parents in Hope Valley. Later the story that she had passed the intervening time in the woods was found to be without foundation. It is now known that the time was passed at the home of a neighbor. Her reception by her parents was reported as not cordial, for she was turned over to the department of Rhode Island State Police at the Hope Valley barracks. After a 12 hour grilling she broke down and told the whole story. From Monday forenoon until shortly before 9 o'clock last night, the girl had been kept at the home of a neighbor named Bitgood, who took her in when she applied to them for help, saying she feared to return home because of her automobile excursion Sunday with Benny Haberek. She admitted to state police that her first story of having been in the woods for three days while a posse sought her was without foundation.

She corroborated statements of her cousin, Benny Haberek, who is being held on a statutory charge, to the effect that they parted at her front gate about 2 o'clock Monday morning. She said they had spent most of the day and evening on an automobile ride to Pawtucket.

After leaving Benny, the girl told Lieut. Baird, he went up to her home to find all doors locked. Unable to gain entrance without awakening her father, she turned back and went into the woods, where she stayed until daylight. Her extended absence from home increased her fear of punishment and Monday forenoon she applied to the Bitgood family for aid. She told them her troubles and that she would be severely punished if she went home.

The Bitgoods took her in and kept her, Tuesday. While the girl was still in the Bitgood house, State police went to the door searching for her, but her presence there was denied. When her continued absence resulted in a widespread search of the woods and surrounding country yesterday by the state police, Boy Scouts and volunteers, the Bitgoods became alarmed and shortly after dark, sent Bertha home.

This afternoon Bennie Haberek was still in a cell at the Westerly police station and it was expected if his case came up Friday in the regular session of Third District court it would be continued at least another week. The girl Bertha, was brought to Westerly by the state police and held in the women's detention room at police headquarters. Her case will be disposed of by having her placed in the custody of the district probation officer, Mrs. Bertha Vanbuskirk, who in the absence of reconciliation with her parents, will take the girl to Providence.

Mrs. C. Grant Savage returned on Wednesday evening from a visit in Boston.

Arthur M. Mills has been a patient at the Westerly hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey Farnsworth have returned home after a two months' hunting and fishing trip in the Adirondacks.

The Girls' Friendly society of the Christ Episcopal church met Thursday evening. Surgical dressings were made for the Westerly hospital.

COMMUNITY XMAS TREE PLANNED BY LOCAL CLUB

There was an attendance of about 100 at the meeting of the Community club last Wednesday evening. Mr. Lockhart of Norwich sang several solos. The lecture and demonstration of junior achievement work by Mr. Barber, who edits a magazine entitled Junior Achievement, was most interesting. He told of the many useful or ornamental articles that can be made from discarded scraps of metal, wood or other material, the making of which helps to develop the natural talent of the child along useful lines. At the business session the president announced that two gifts had been received for use at the hall, a Red Cross first aid kit from Dr. Helen Baldwin and a gavel from Newell Rist. Arrangements were made for a community Christmas tree, the program to be in charge of Adolph Heinrich and Frank Mell, the tree to be procured by Fred Kanahan, Curtiss Hull and Albert Bradlow. Mrs. W. J. Reynolds is to have charge of the decorations. It was decided to hold dances under the auspices of the club, anyone wishing an invitation to communicate with any of the dance committee, which comprises Mrs. Clara Caron, Miss Flossie Meyer, Miss Elsie Heap, Mrs. George Helmboldt, Mrs. Adam Lenpold, Richard Kyle, Harold Mell and Charles Rowe.

The Ladies' Aid society held an all-day meeting at the Community hall, Tuesday. The hostesses were Mrs Harry Hull and Mrs. George Kennedy. A delicious dinner was served at noon the menu being roast pork with dressing, mashed potato, mashed turnip, pickles, rolls, apple sauce, pie and coffee.

Miss Clara Hyde returned Monday from an eight days' trip to Washington, D. C., to attend the sessions of the National Grange. The trip was made with her brother, Walter A. Hyde, of Jewett City, his brother-in-law, George Frink, Miss Florence Kennedy of Preston and Miss Susan Terry of Griswold.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Geer, who have spent ten days with Mrs. E. W. Corbett, returned Tuesday to their home in Massachusetts, taking Mrs. Corbett with them for a few days' visit.

Dr. Clarence G. Thompson of Norwich and the school nurse were at the Newent school Monday and Tuesday, giving the pupils a physical examination; 150 pupils were examined a few being absent.

Mrs. C. A. Mell and Harold Mell motored to Noroton Wednesday with John Foran, who is entering the Soldiers' Home.

Claude M. Hart, president of the J. R. Whipple corporation which owns the Hotel Touraine and the Parker House, died yesterday at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, where he had been a patient for several weeks. He was 63 years old.

APPLE SCALD REDUCED BY PICKING THE FRUIT

Apple scald, one of the most serious diseases with which the apple industry must contend, can be largely controlled or reduced if growers, dealers, and storage companies will make use of available knowledge on control and apply measures now known to be effective. Such information is published in Farmers' Bulletin 1330-F, "Apple Scald and Its Control," by Dr. Charles Brooks of the bureau of plant industry, just issued by the United States department of agriculture.

The disease, according to Doctor Brooks, is familiar to the dealer and the consumer, but may be practically unknown to the grower except as it affects the returns from his crop. However, the grower also should familiarize himself with the problem, because control measures must start in the orchard. Seasonal and other conditions in the orchard have a bearing on the susceptibility of the fruit to scald, although the conditions that prevail after the apples are picked determine the extent to which this susceptibility will be expressed in actual scald.

The maturity and color of the apples at picking time are very important factors in determining their susceptibility to scald, the more mature and better-colored fruit scalding less than that which is greener. Different tests relative to the time of picking indicate that well-matured but not over-ripe fruit in general develops less than half as much scald as that picked green. Good exposure to sunlight produces high color and makes apples more resistant to scald. Color is influenced by weather conditions, pruning, soil, fertilizer and general orchard management.

It is important, says Doctor Brooks, that the apples be cooled as quickly as possible after picking. They should be delivered to the storage plant promptly, and if delayed should be kept well aerated. Free exposure to the air is often as important in scald control as low temperature, and it actually decreases the tendency of the fruit to scald instead of merely delaying the development of the disease. Storing the fruit in hampers, ventilated barrels or baskets decreases the development of scald.

Where it is practicable to wrap apples in oiled paper this method has proved to be the most complete preventive of scald that has been found. Oiled paper wrappers have eliminated the disease as a market factor in all but 2 of the 80 commercial tests made. When properly handled, shredded oiled paper has given practically as good scald control as the oiled wrappers, but the paper must be well distributed in the package.

HOME FERTILIZER MAKING DESCRIBED BY CHEMIST

At "hog-killing time," and at any other time when animals are killed for meat on the farms of the United States, there is usually a waste of the inedible offal which has value for fertiliser. Only too often this is allowed to become not only a waste but a danger to sanitation. G. P. Walton, of the United States department of agriculture, estimates that in a year this offal amounts to a third of a million tons. For disposal of this waste and for realization of its fertilising value, Mr. Walton makes the following suggestions, the result of experimental work in the department:

"Open-kettle rendering of offal and cooking of the shed blood is ordinarily feasible on the farm. A 65-gallon caldron or open-kettle cooker with stove complete an be purchased for $20 or $22 f. o. b. factories in Michigan and Ohio. By boiling the fresh offal for several hours yet 'tankage' that is safer than the raw offal for direct feeding to hogs may be obtained, and also considerable grease of some commercial value. The bulk of the manure can be eliminated by chopping up the offal and sluicing it with water. The blood recovered from the slaughtering can be cooked with the offal.

"It has been found feasible to prepare air-dry fertilizer material from the wet 'tankage,' and even from the hashed raw offal, by mixing it with simple preserving agents and allowing it to dry in the air under shelter. Freshly crushed quicklime gives fair results as a preservative to use during winter. A mixture of quicklime and the wet tankage which is produced by open-kettle rendering of sheep's offal will dry during the winter to a nonintensive product that may be easily ground to a meal. One pound of quicklime may be used for every 10 pounds of tankage. In these tests the air-dry product contained 6 per cent. of ammonia and 11.2 per cent. of bone phosphate.

"Ordinary commercial superphosphate gives the most promising results of any of the preservatives tested. A mixture of moist tankage made from hog's offal, with 1 pound of 16 per cent. superphosphate (acid phosphate) to every 5 pounds of the tankage, dries in midsummer without becoming offensive. In the test the mixture was spread out in a shallow box and raked over frequently. Four weeks after mixing it was in condition for grinding and bagging. The product contained 2.8 per cent. of ammonia and 7.6 per cent. of available phosphoric acid.

"In preserving raw offal or blood with acid phosphate it is advisable to use more of the preservative (about 4 pounds for every 10 pounds of the hashed offal or blood) and to include some non-alkaline absorbent material such as dry chaff, peat or gypsum, to keep the compost from becoming liquid. By insuring a sufficiently high acidity, putrefaction and the breeding of flies may be avoided.

"This compositing process may also prove useful in rural districts for converting other perishable material into material that can be stored and used as fertilizer."

EARLY WINTER CARE OF THE PULLETS

From Nov. 1 until the first of January the pullets have to carry practically all of the load insofar as egg production is concerned. Practically all of the old hens carried over are in a molt, or are being fitted for the breeding season. There is a growing tendency to hatch pullets earlier, house them earlier and count on earlier fall pullet production through September and October. This practice is financially sound, although it involves a considerable problem in carrying the pullets through until spring without a fall molt or winter pause.

The first requirement in preventing a fall molt is having a flock of pullets that are bred to lay and reared free from parasites and disease. The pullets must be housed for winter when they start to lay and before they have lost flesh laying on range; and they must by good feeding be kept in good flesh in spite of a high egg yield.

The amount of grain fed per 100 birds per day should not be less than 12 pounds, if the birds are well matured. If the pullets are laying heavily, they may consume 15 to 16 pounds of grain per 100 birds per day, and this amount may be increased to 18 and even 20 pounds as production advances and the weather gets colder. When other practices fail to stop a fall molt, feeding a wet mash at noon may be practiced. If fed as a fattening mash, it may be made up as follows: 1 pound of cornmeal, 1 pound of ground oatmeal and 1 pound of semi-solid buttermilk.

A reasonable supply of green food is necessary for flock health and top production. Green food is more valuable for its laxative and regulating effect than for its nutritive value. Cabbage is perhaps the best green food that can be used in winter. Mangels are good and alfalfa hay that has been carefully cured is also very good. The alfalfa can be fed in racks or large wire pockets on the wall. A very good substitute for green food and an excellent food for egg production may be made up as follows and fed at noon: 3 pounds of dry oats, germinated; 1 pound of semi-solid buttermilk; and 1-4 pint of cod liver oil (per 100 birds per day). This amount of milk may be doubled if powdered milk is not included in the dry mash.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

The "nail-holding power" of wood is greater if the wood is dry when the nails are driven in than if it is green or wet.

Soybean hay makes an excellent winter ration of high feeding value for livestock, particularly for young cattle, sheep, horses and mules. Owing to the high protein content of soybeans, they always should be fed with a less concentrated feed.

What will you look for in winter underwear? The HANES 5 points. That's the answer

1 HANES Collarettes are cut to size. A 40 suit has a 40 collarette. Won't roll or gap open.

2 HANES Cuffs won't pull off. They snug the wrist. Reinforced on the end to prevent raveling.

4 HANES Closed Crotch really stays closed. Crotch can't bind, for HANES is fitted by trunk measurement as well as chest.

THOSE 5 points are only the beginning of the many things you find in HANES Underwear. There's snug-fit—not just a promise, but a reality achieved by exact measurements, cut, finish. There's comfort—all over, through the use of fine, soft elastic-knit materials that can't bind or wrinkle. There's warmth—for HANES is made in every weight, from extra-heavy for the bitterest weather, down to light-weight. There's the guarantee—on every thread, stitch, button.

SAWDUST SAVING WORTH MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 —(AP)— By making thinner saws which will save as little as one-sixteenth of an inch in the width of cuts made in wood an annual waste of sawdust amounting to more than $60,000,000 may be saved for the American lumber industry.

This report was made today to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by a special research committee on saws and knives.

Efficient standardization of saws, the committee said, might accomplish the saving. The annual waste in saw logs was estimated at $30,000,000, with an additional sawdust waste of $53,000,000 in manufacture of logs into boards. A "doubtful" saying of $4,000,000 in power with thinner saws was estimated, bringing the grand total of value of sawdust waste that might be avoided to $67,000,000.

Planes "On Time"

NEW YORK—(AP)—One of several flies buzzing in the ointment aircraft manufactures have applied in an effort to ease sales resistance through installment payment selling appears to be in covering losses incurred when the new owner "washes out" in early attempts to land. Finance companies, which add 11 per cent to the purchase price, are reported to be solving this problem through insurance. The manufacturer, who receives 40 per cent down payment, has less to worry about.

AGAIN IN WASHINGTON FOR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Visitors at Washington, D. C., at the National Grange session the past week from Plainfield were Mr. and Mrs. Jason Lathrop, Mrs. H. B. Brown and daughter, Miss Helen Brown. While in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop passed their 45th wedding anniversary, Nov. 15. An interesting coincidence is that 20 years ago, at a similar grange meeting in Washington, their 25th anniversary was passed.

As has been the custom for several years, the republican representativeselect gave an oyster supper to all townspeople who wished to attend, Tuesday, at Grange hall. Nearly 200 availed themselves of this generous invitation and were served oyster stew with crackers, doughnuts, cheese and coffee. Dancing followed. Many thanks were given the hosts, Clinton Frink and Christian Kerr, the newly-elected members.

Edward Lovell and Fred Kinne, members of the town school board, were in Willimantic Tuesday evening attending a meeting under the direction of the state board. Dr. A. B. Meredith, state secretary, explained a bill which is to come up before the legislature the coming winter.

The last meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held with Mrs. Small at the parsonage. Mrs. Sager will entertain the society next Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Lathrop and family from New Haven were visitors on Sunday at James Lathrop's.

At the grange, Wednesday evening, the first and second degrees were conferred upon a class. Pachaug grange is expected to be present at the next meeting and give the third and fourth degrees.

The Last Word in All-Electric Radio

THE traditions of the man who built the first Grebe radio are especially typified in the Grebe Synchrophase A-C Six. The nineteen-year-old Grebe policy not to be hurried into premature production because sets of a similar type had been put upon the market, has now placed at your pleasure an Alternating Current radio of superb tonal quality—incomparable range and selectivity—and unbelievable simplicity of operation.

Radios of such quality cannot be made in unlimited quantity—and their time-in-production must always include the careful selection of materials, long days of tests and retests—and the handicraft of engineers who are masters in their profession.

The Grebe Synchrophase is not the first—but as the last word in light socket operation proves, beyond doubt, that you can—"Get it better with a Grebe."

Life's Common Things.

The things of every day are all so sweet,
The morning meadows wet with dew,
The dance of daisies in the moon, the blue
Of far-off hills where twilight shadows lie,
The night with all its tender mystery of sound
And silence, and God's starry sky!
Oh, life—the whole life—is far too fleet,
The things of every day are all so sweet:

The common things of life are all so dear:
The waking in the warm half-gloom
To find again the old familiar room,
The scents and sights and sounds that never tire,
The homely work, the plans, the lilt of baby's laugh,
The crackle of the open fire;
The waiting, then the footsteps coming near,
The opening door, the hand-clasp and the kiss—
Is Heaven not, after all, the Now and Here,
The common things of life are all so dear?

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Visitors and callers at the Pine Grove farm Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood of Pachaug, Albert Dawley and daughter and two grand children, Herbert James of Mount Misery and Mr. Armstrong of Hartford. Monday they had for callers Charles White and his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Gagnon of Westerly.

Mayson Gray of Campbell mill killed two pigs Nov. 15 that tipped the scales at 615 pounds.

George Green, William Bitgood and Herbert August were in Moosup and Oneco Saturday.

Mrs. William Bitgood received a card recently from a party in Taftville, speaking about her pet rooster. They did not speak as if they liked to hear him called a democrat, but Mrs. Bitgood says he is just the same and if Moses dies before Mrs. Bitgood does she says he will have a good burial and it will be a good old democrat that does it and he will have a stone or something to mark his grave, just the same as the other pet rooster she lost.

Mrs. James Congdon attended the social on Ekonk hill last week. It was on Mrs. Edwin Gallup and Mrs Herman Frink. They had it to Mrs. Marting's. She said they had a very nice time.

James Church was at Thornton over the week end.

Mrs. Emma Wilcox called on Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood last week.

George Green and grandson spent the evening recently at the Pine Grove farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tanner's little girl has a bad cold d cough.

Mrs. Bitgood says she can't get over what the party from Taftville wrote her about Moses. She said whoever it be, man or woman, she doesn't care how red hot a republica they are they are not hot enough to put Moses in the soup and furthermore they haven't money enough to buy him. She went out and told hi what the card said about him and she said to him they can't have you in a soup can they Moses? And he looked up at her and it sounded as if he said no, so Mrs. Bitgood took him and gave him something to eat. There is nothing too good for Moses to eat and he is a good old democrat.

Mr. Blazak and Herbert August were at Beach Pond trading Tuesday.

Jefferson Barber was in Oneco this week trading.

Your correspondent was sorry to hear that James Dixon of Oneco was so feeble. Hope he will soon be back in his store again. It is lonesome to go to his store and not see Jimmie.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barber's girl, Myrtle is very sick and her mother is not well. She can't do much work. She has the asthma bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ayres, Mrs. Marjorie Ayres and son, Mrs. Fred Race and Mrs. Ella Gager of North Franklin were recent visitors at Mrs. Mary Burdick's.

Mrs. R. Race of Lebanon and Mrs. Arad Manning of Yantic were Tuesday callers at Mrs. Olive Hyde's.

Elisha Bitgood and daughter, Evelyn, Mrs. Emma Chaffey and three children, Dorothea, Roy and Emmett of Hope Valley were Sunday visitors of Annie Bitgood.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BUNYAN ANNIVERSARY

SERMON AT CONG. CHURCH

In the Congregational church Sunday morning Nelsen Schlegel of Hartford told about the hardships, life and work of John Bunyan who wrote Pilgrim's Progress and was the author of other books. The 300th anniversary of his birth is being observed in England and many churches in America this week. The address was interesting and the speaker held his hearers' attention. Mr. Schlegel announced his sermon next Sunday morning would have reference to Thanksgiving.

Eight members of Preston City C. E. society paid a visit to the Ledyard C. E. Sunday evening. Those coming were Rev. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Muttart, Roger Robbins, Charles Zabriskie, Donald Zabriskie and Miss Elizabeth Valleigh. The meeting was in charge of Roger Robbins and "Stewardship" was the subject discussed. Mr. and Mrs. Smith sang a duet and a solo was given by Miss Elizabeth Valleigh, Mrs. Muttart was at the piano and was accompanied by Charles Zabriskie with the cornet. There were 34 present and brief addresses were made by members of both the local and Preston City societies.

James N. Holdridge, supervisor of Ledyard roads has been making repairs on Geer Hill and other sections of this road which runs from Poquetanuck to Ledyard Center. This section of road was the proposed route of the new state aid gravel road, running from the Preston line to the Groton line. The town of Ledyard voted the appropriation asked for and the selectmen signed the contract and forwarded it to the highway commissioner at Hartford for this proposed route, approved by the highway commissioner. Some surveying was done from the Groton line to Ledyard Center, but that was the end of the project. The town of Ledyard has carried out its part of the agreement but nothing has been done at all toward the improvement of this proposed route approved by the commissioner and voted by the town.

Fifteen members of Ledyard Grange gave a day's work Wednesday cleaning in and around Grange hall. The sisters of the grange worked inside clearing the hall and provided a bountiful dinner for all the workers. Mr. Burton worked hanging doors and the other men worked outside beautifying the grounds which at the close presented a changed appearance.

Ledyard Grange held its meeting Friday evening, Nov. 16 Harry Hanks, master, in the chair. The first and second degrees were worked upon a class. There were several visitors present.

Mrs. Carl Holdridge has returned home after assisting in caring for her sister in Jewett City for several weeks.

A flock of wild geese was heard recently passing on their way south.

Joseph A. Clark and Earl B Geer were appraising sheep damage again Thursday at Lafayette Maine's Ayer farm.

HYDRANT SERVICE IN CONN. VILLAGE SHUT OFF

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 22—A possibility that has been forecast for some time has come to pass. The Crystal Water company has shutoff the supply of water at hydrants in the Connecticut Village section. The annual rental of this hydrant service was for years paid by the Connecticut Mills company, but that concern, the past spring, notified the company that it would no longer be responsible for the rental. Meanwhile, the mill having paid the rental of the hydrants to June 30 of this year, the water company has refrained from cutting off the water while discussions were underway that it was thought would lead to the formation of a fire district or zone. Nothing developed from all the propaganda, so the water company has at last taken action.

What might happen up in that district should a fire break out at this time can only be conjectured. The situation is regarded as a dangerous one, especially with the cold weather season opening, this being the season during which probably 80 per cent of the fires in Danielson occur. Up to this afternoon, however, no general action had been taken by interested property owners to rearrange for hydrant service, it was said.

FUNERALS

Miss Florence L. Brayton

This afternoon at the A. F. Wood funeral home on Mechanic street one of the largest funeral congregations ever assembled there gathered to attend the services for Miss Florence L. Brayton. Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church conducted the service. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were W. E. Short, Everett T. Tillinghast, A. A. Ennis and Harry Young A delegation of members from Dorcas Rebekah lodge attended the service.

Hartnell B. Shippee

At 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home in Elmville upwards of 100 people were in attendance at the funeral services for Hartwell B. Shippee. A delegation from Roosevelt Council, No. 8, Junior Order United American Mechanics, came to the service, which was conducted by Rev. Elmer G. Page, who came from New London with the members of the order mentioned. The bearers were I. W. Sims, M. Shamm, T. R. Bishop, F. L. Bishop, O. Converse, and B Rogers. Burial was in Westfield cemetery A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Aims at Bird — Hits Horse

The close of the hunting season brings another unusual story of an experience of local sportsmen afield. This time, three well known citizens are concerned. The dog they were using pointed a bird and the men circled for a shot. Finally up flew a splendid male pheasant, and a pump gun began to pour shot in his direction. Nothing much happened to the pheasant, but the hunters were amazed to see a black horse that happened to be in range begin to shoot heels through the air with an exceeding degree of velocity and what appeared to be very considerable agitation. It so happened that the man who was chased by a rabbit a fortnight or so ago was in the group, but he did not happen to be doing the shooting on this particular occasion. His role was that of a highly amused onlooker.

Red Cross Funds Over $1300

Treasurer Francis E. Storer of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross said this afternoon that up to that time the receipts from the recent roll call had mounted to in excess of $1300, and returns still incomplete. A canvass underway at the P. and A. mill had yielded in excess of $100, with other contributions yet to come in.

According to records kept on their transportation accounts at the office of the selectmen here there are now 28 pupils from the town of Killingly attending the State Trade school in Putnam. They are engaged in learning different practical trades. The transportation is paid on the basis of the actual numbers of work done by a pupil at the school. The state reimburses the town for half the transportation money paid out.

C. J. Coakley, of Center street, rates among the baseball fans who knows what it is all about. In a show window at Dowe's today there was on exhibition a baseball bat autographed by Babe Ruth. It comes as an award to Mr. Coakley for having picked eight of the nine players named by Ruth for his All-American baseball team a few weeks ago.

With department officers in attendance, the annual inspection of Mary A. Livermore Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, was held in G. A. R. hall this evening. A supper preceeded the businss meeting and inspection.

Beautiful, brand new 7-passenger Graham Paige sedan at your service Lewis Taxi Service. Tel. 130.—adv.

Rev. C. J. Armstrong announced today that the usual Thanksgiving sunrise service will be held this year in the Baptist church Thanksgiving morning at 6 o'clock. The poverty social to have been held at this church Friday evening has been postponed.

The first snowstorm of the season came to Danielson during the early hours of this morning — not much of a snowstorm, but enough to whiten the ground.

On Saturday, December 1, members of Quinebaug Pomona grange are to meet with Canterbury grange. The principal address of the day is to be made by Rev. Ernest C. Carpenter, director of Americanization, New Haven.

Members of Israel Putnam lodge, I. O. O. F., of Putnam, are to come here next Tuesday evening for the conferring of a degree at a meeting of Quinebaug lodge of the order.

Harry Richardson of Moosup has named chairman of the County Y. M. C. A. "On to Bridgeport" committee for the annual state convention to be held there on January 12-13.

Killingly High school's basketball schedule for the season to open in December includes two games with Putnam High school, one to be played here on January 22; the other at Putnam on March 1.

Arrangements are being made for the usual bountiful Thanksgiving dinners for prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn and for the inmates at the Killingly town farm, following a custom of many years standing.

Early reports indicated that the American legion drive for new members of Leo J. L'Homme post is going along encouragingly, and that the hope of obtaining 150 additional members may be realized.

Though the bird hunting season closes this week, it is legal to hunt rabbits until well into December.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward has been confined to his home by illness the past few days.

It is reported here that the Windham Hall fund, Connecticut college at New London, will be increased by a bequest from the estate of Mrs. Marinda C. Butler Robinson, for many years resident in Danielson and an ardent worker in the interest of this fund.

There is to be a service of song at the Baptist church Sunday evening. Rev. C. J. Armstrong will take for his subject at that time The Two Highways of Life.

There was attendance tonight from this town at the meeting in the Second Congregational church in Putnam when the speaker was Dr. John X. Millar, on furlough from his missionary work in India.

County Sealer Gaston A. Maimon of Danielson is continuing regularly with his work in that capacity, testing scales and measures in various sections of the county. In this work Mr. Maindon regularly locates poorly adjusted scales and makes the necessary corrections of orders them out of further use.

Henri I. St. Gregoire of New Bedford is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

FRANCE'S SILVER COINS ARE NOW DEMONETIZED

PARIS—(AP)—French silver money now is good only for collectors and the melting pot.

Old coins have been demonetized and the new of one-fifth the value, will not be minted for months.

After the franc was stabilized last June the Bank of France began buying silver coins under the real silver value for recoinage. Dealers in metal also bought lots of it, paying a slightly higher price.

On November 10, the Bank of France ceased buying silver but still is taking in gold on which the margin of profit is larger. The bank, however, is outbid by dealers who pay about 10 per cent more. Many people apparently prefer to make the exchange for paper money at the bank for millions have been redeemed there.

SONNYBOY'S MOTHER FOUND BY POLICE IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 22—"Sonnyboy," four-months-old baby abandoned Sunday evening by his parents on the door step of David Gothereau of Canal street, has been restored to his mother, who is Miss Anna Kelly of Willimantic. Miss Kelly was taken into custody by Captain Jarvis of the local police late Wednesday afternoon at Willimantic. After questioning by Captain Jarvis, the discouraged woman, but 25 years of age, admitted to the police that the father of her child was David Gothereau of Canal street Putnam. She told Captain Jarvis that the father of the child had left her, and to know that her infant was in safe keeping she decided to leave it at the home of Gothereau's parents in this city, she denying that she abandoned the baby. Miss Kelly was brought to Putnam today in custody of Captain Jarvis and during her stay here was in care of Miss Elsie Gallant, probation officer. Miss Kelly was unable to give the police any information as to where the baby's father was, she saying the last she saw of him was in Willimantic. Gothereau was hunted by the Putnam police today in the vicinity of Norwich, they tracing him to Versailles by means of a telephone call received this morning, from a person inquiring as to the safety of the child. Captain Jarvis told newspaper men this afternoon that he believed Gothereau would be taken into custody before night and would be brought back to answer criminal charges.

"Sonnyboy," the innocent victim of the case, according to its mother, is named Arthur MacDonnel, alias Gothereau. The baby continued to enjoy life and seemed to be in perfect health. After questioning today, Captain Jarvis, at the request of Judge Geissler, placed Miss Kelly in charge of a woman officer of the Norwich district of the Child Welfare bureau, where with her child she was taken to a Willimantic hospital for medical attention.

The Putnam police continued their search for Gothereau today. Gothereau is a former offender and has served time at the county jail for a previous offense committed in Putnam.

Subbo Nickoloff furnished the travelogue for the members of the Putnam Rotary club at their weekly noonday luncheon held Wednesday at the Putnam Inn. Mr. Nickoloff gave a highly interesting review of his trip to Monte Carlo, gathering place of Europe's wealth. He related the many uncanny incidents that are common occurrences at the most widely known gambling resort on the continent Mr Nickoloff's visit to Monte Carlo was part of his recent tour of continental Europe and Egypt. The Rotarians seem to rely on "Nicky" for their weekly tales of foreign lands, as he has visited nearly every part of the eastern hemisphere.

L. L. Beebe, manager of the local telephone exchange, was in New Haven Wednesday on a business trip. He returned to this city today.

A considerable number of parents and interested friends gathered last evening in the studio of St. Mary's convent to witness a recital presented by the music pupils. The pupils, both violinists and pianists, displayed remarkable ability as promising musicians, adding much credit to their instructors. The program was as follows: Opening overture, "Chanson Ste Cecil," sung by a choir of boys and girls of the convent; "Folk Song," by Henri Lucier and Edgar Beausoleil; "My Mama's Waltz," by Evelyn Richards and Threasa Parcius; "Lively Dance," by Henri Giard and Paul Cartier; "Artistic Waltz," by Lorina Raymond and Mabel Breault; "Adonis Galop," by Anita Neveau and Lorretta Turrenna; "Artistic March," by Rita Benoit and Wildadin Bois; "Morning Prayer," by Lorretta Desjoaty and Rita Tetreault; "Rhythmic Orchestra," composed of younger pupils; "Zoix du Coeur," by Claire Montville and Stella Lahonte; Overture, by Rita Bernier and Evelyn Jette; "Jingle Bells," by Irene Beaudreault and Amelia Girard; "By the Fireside," Pauline Bonneville and Jeanette Vernittee; "In Merry Mood," by Edward Chzass and Edward Lazor; "Aloha Reverie," Esther Richard and Rosaline Richard; "Ocean Pearl," by Febiola Lussier, Viola Faversault, Eve St Marie; "Cautique d'Amour," by Priscilla Bonin; "Polka Elegante," Priscille Farley; "Sunflower Dance," Irene Loiselle and Doris Robitaille; "La Fille de Madame Ango," Laurina Bodo; "Chasse Aux Gazelle," Hermine Mayer and Raymond Clouthier; "Hungarian Melodies," Gertrude Lussier and Dora LeClair; "Ripples of the Alabama," by Viola Ouimette; "Storm at Sea," by Evelyn Hooker; "Polonaise Militaire," by Camille Sponcey; the final number on the program was "Our United States," sung by the convent choir. The numbers were excellently arranged and displayed the talent of the participants. The Rhythmic Orchestra, composed of younger children, was similar to a boys' camp "kitchen band." The youngsters' musical instruments consisted of blackboard erasers, sticks, tinware and other metal, having tuning sense.

The Kaceys and the Odd Fellows held their second weekly winter sports tournament Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows' hall. Much more interest was displayed on the part of the lodge members than in the opening contest held the previous week. At the close of the evening's play the score board gave the Kaceys another triumph, winning by a score of 8 to 2. The Kaceys' swamping inflicted on their rivals indicates another seasons victory for them again this year, since they closed last season with the long end of the straw in their favor.

Depositors possessing accounts in the Putnam Savings bank who closed them last Monday and Tuesday continued to return with their funds to the bank to re-deposit, thereby saving interest which would soon be lost. The privilege of retaining interest of six months earned by the money which was withdrawn when Dame Rumor held that the bank was not safe and started the run, was granted by the institution in an announcement made yesterday.

Union square was utilized as motor mart this morning by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, when he sold a Chevrolet sedan at public auction in the square to satisfy a judgment in superior court, in favor of the Packard Motor Co. Attorney E. C. Morse entered a bid but lost the opportunity to purchase the car when another bidder, Arthur Pepin, happened by and outstripped him by a few dollars. Sheriff Ayer stated that the car was owned by a party named Wellsworth Hastings of parts unknown. Attachments were for payments due.

Friends of Miss Mildred Almira Hattin of Pomfret were surprised to learn of her marriage to Prescott C. Brownell Cummings of Boston, at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York, last Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Styran. Miss Hattin is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1925, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hattin of Pomfret. Mr. Cummings is a native of New Bedford, Mass., and is the grandson of the late William Wood, president of the American Woolen Co.

The bride was attired in a dress of brown chiffon as was the bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Peterson of Pomfret, a classmate of Miss Hattin. The best man was Teddy Hall of Boston.

Franklin B. Christmas, compositor at the Putnam Patriot office, who for the past two months has been in a poor physical condition, has regained his health sufficiently to warrant him being out daily.

A roll of hose wrapped about the axle of an old pair of carriage wheels may soon constitute the "Housatonic Hose Co., No. 3," of the Independent Putnam fire department, if the plans of several of Putnam's practical jokers mature. Such is the plan of a number of associate firemen who, if relieved of their posts by the active head of the department. At the city's leading news information bureau, this plan is being widely discussed. The firemen who are now only "social members" are more than red hot under the collars since it was openly said that many of them are "falling down on the jobs," wish to prove their worth to the city fathers. According to the discussions recently overheard, a coil of rope with six handles will comprise the horsepower. Each member who so far has signified his intentions of becoming a member of the department, feels confident that the Housatonic will, if an opportunity is ever provided, work its way into the hearts of the city regulators and will earn for itself a berth in the ontral fire station.

Putnam awoke this morning to find the first blanket of snow of the season. The chill gray dawn was accompanied with the first storm and for nearly an hour the heavy swirling flakes continued to fall until about an inch of snow rested on the ground. The early morning sun soon melted the thick wet flakes and by noon all trace of the season's first had passed.

Trooper Royal V. Scranton of the Danielson state police barracks was today outfitted with one of Henry's latest models to supplant the old Lizzie, with which he has patrolled highways in this section of the county for the past three years.

Putnam high school athletic field is to be renovated, but funds must first be obtained before the work can be accomplished. The field is at present in a poor condition and is no "money maker" for the athletic association, as it is without means of concealing the games from the pedestrians who gather on the street. During the past year the school has staged several benefit performances, proceeds of which have been turned into the field fund. To overcome further financial obstacles the athletic association has arranged a series of football games to be played by the Belding Blues, the city's semi-professional team, on the present gridiron. Announcement was recently made that plans for the reconditioning of the field will be carried over until the spring of the year. It is said by school officials that the football field will, when completed, be laid diagonally across the three-acre lot. It is hoped that bleachers will be erected to provide seating arrangements for the patrons of the games.

RADIOTELEPHONE TO LINK ISLANDS WITH HONOLULU

HONOLULU—(AP)—The Hawaiian Islands are to be linked by radiotelephone.

"BULL" CAMPAIGN IN STOCK MARKET SENT 30 ISSUES TO NEW HIGH RECORDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The "bull" campaign was renewed in spectacular fashion on the stock market today. Most of the ground lost in yesterday's setback was recovered and some 30 issues broke into new high territory, many extreme gains ranging from 5 to 51 points.

Total sales piled up to 5,832,600 shares, which would have been a new record a fortnight ago, but which has a marked falling off from the enormous volume of recent days. The pace was held in check somewhat by apprehension over the total of federal reserve brokerage loans, to be announced after the close, and the announcement gave Wall street something to think about, with a gain of $176 315,000, carrying the total to the record figure of $5,157,132,000.

With a new ticker arrangement by which the machine was able to keep abreast of the market as well as it did during the 4,000 000 share days, a number of traders who had kept out of the market during the confusion of ticker delays of one to two hours, were again buying. Omitting the volume of individual sales enabled the ticker to keep up within a few minutes of trading during most of the session, but a deluge of trading in the last hour kept it busy until 3.40 o'clock.

Considerable irregularity cropped out during the early trading, but under the spectacular leadership of the high priced issues, all groups joined in the upturn during the afternoon, even the motors, which have been neglected in the recent riotous sessions. The Associated Press average price of 20 industrials jumped 4.03 points to a record level at 252.72, more than wiping out yesterday's loss of 3.88 points The average of 20 rails, however, made up but 1.37 points of the previous session's drop of 2.13 points.

The federal reserve brokers' loan compilation disclosed that the New York banks had reversed their policy of decreasing their security collateral loans and had placed more than $130 000,000 in the call money market, which accounted for the bulk of the increase. For a number of weeks the New York banks had been curtailing their loans and paying off indebtedness to the accompaniment of warnings from banking circles that the loan total was reaching the danger mark.

The call money rate held at 6 1-2 per cent. throughout the day, and until the brokerage loan total appeared as a fly in the ointment the credit future was viewed optimistically, as an anticipated rate in the Bank of England's rediscount rate failed to materialize. Another development was an announcement for the federal reserve of the earmarking of $13,000,000 in gold for foreign account, which more than offsets the recent imports. Sterling moved even farther above the gold point and the Canadian dollar advanced to a premium of about 1 3-4 cents, making loss of gold to Canada probable.

The news of the day included further increases in copper dividends, Greene Cananea raising its annual rate from $4 to $6 and Inspiration resuming dividends at the annual rate of $3, against $2 in the years of 1923-6. Some of the railroads reported good earnings for October. Two stock exchange seats were sold for $530,000, another high record price.

Wright Aero was the spectacular performer of the session, skyrocketing 51 points to a record price at 272. In contrast to the year's low of 69, it closed at 270. Montgomery Ward equalled its previous high at 428 with a spurt of 24 points, and Radio jumped 25 points to 384, about 300 points above the year's low, but lost 10 points of the gain in profit taking.

Other high fliers included Midland Steel Products preferred, with an extreme gain of about 27 points, Victor Talking Machine, which sold up 21 points to a new peak at 156 1-2 on further reports of a pending merger with Radio, Adams and American Express, Case Threshing, Curtiss Aero and International Harvester, up about 10 to 15 points each.

In the motors, Nash jumped more than 8 points to a new peak, while Pickard, Hupp, Hudson, and Chrysler gained 3 to 5 points, General Motors, old stock, lost 4 points in the morning, but rallied and closed unchanged.

Coppers again forged ahead. Kennecott and Anaconda moving up about 5 points, while Inspiration jumped nearly 8 points to a new peak at 47 1-4. In the oils, Marland and Mid-Continent went ahead about 2 and 3 points to new tops, and Sinclair improved in an enormous turnover.

Norfolk Southern led the rails with a jump about 13 points to a new top at 57 1-4. Erie pushed up more than 4 to a new top, and Pere Marquette and New Haven broke into new high ground. Steels were a strong group. Crucible and Vanadium making gains of about 6 to 7 points, while Bethlehem and U. S. improved moderately.

Dupont was a soft spot, selling about 8 points lower, and closing with a loss of 5. Westinghouse and Chicago Pneumatic Tool lost about a point each.

The commodity exchanges were irregular, cotton again forging ahead about $1 a bale on favorable trade development, while wheat and coffee eased.

Foreign exchanges were generally quiet, in contrast to the strength of sterling and Canadian dollars, yen dropped 15 points to 46 cents.

SUSAN D. WILLIAMS OF EAST Hampton, Conn., vs. Eugene R. Scranton of Colchester, Conn., the heirs, representatives and creditors of Francis W. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased, the heirs, representatives and creditors of Frank U. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased, and the heirs, representatives and creditors of Sereno A. Scranton, late of said Colchester, deceased. Order of Notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, November 21st, 1928.

Upon the complaint of the said Susan D. Williams claiming for the reasons therein set forth one thousand dollars damages, a foreclosure and the possession of certain mortgaged premises and other equitable relief returnable on the first Tuesday of December, 1928, before the Superior Court in and for said County.

It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the plaintiff's attorney has annexed to said complaint an affidavit stating that he, said attorney, believes that said Francis W. Scranton, Frank U. Scranton and Sereno A. Scranton are now deceased, that the estates of none of them have been admitted to probate so far as he knows and that neither he nor the plaintiff knows who are the heirs, representatives or creditors of any of them or where they reside except that the defendant Eugene R. Scranton is the heir at law of each of said deceased persons.

It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendants the heirs, representatives and creditors of said Francis W. Scranton, the heirs, representatives and creditors of said Frank U. Scranton and the heirs, representatives and creditors of said Sereno A. Scranton by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, three days successively commencing on or before the 22nd day of November, 1928.

GALES FERRY

LOCAL PASSENGER ON TOWNSEND CRUISER

Dudley C. Perkins accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Townsend on their cruiser, Reveille, to Fairhaven, Mass., Wednesday, returning home that evening. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, who returned last week from Morehead City, N. C., for a short visit to Mr. Townsend's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend of Uncasville, are to spend the winter in Fairhaven.

Nelson Parker attended a meeting of the Paint Salesmen's club at Hotel Taft, New Haven, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Phillips of Norwich were guests over the week-end of Mrs. Phillips' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Monett A. Lawson, of the Long Cove district.

The November business session of the Epworth league was held Monday evening at the vestry. The president, Courtland E. Colver, Jr., presided, the meeting opening with prayer by the pastor. Following reports, it was voted to pay six months' interest on the new parsonage loan and an amount was set aside for the work of the third department. Plans for winter activities were considered.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held Monday at the vestry to complete work for the annual Christmas sale in December. Eleven members were present during the afternoon.

Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, superintendent of the junior department of the church school, with Mrs. C. Alton Chapman, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Avery Main, teacher, attended the State Sunday School convention at the Central Baptist church, Norwich, Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. William D. Woodward, a former pastor of Gales Ferry M. E. church, and Mrs. Woodward, with her brother, A. P. Gray, of Manchester, accompanied their daughter, Miss Ethel V. Woodward, of Storrs on a motor trip to the village Sunday afternoon, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt at their new home on the Military highway.

An amusing program was provided by Charles Dexter Wicks of Niantic, humorist, impersonator and musician, assisted by William Maxson, also of Niantic, at an entertainment in the vestry Tuesday evening. The men's class of the local church arranged for the event.

Milo Benn, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Norton, and their young daughter, Nancy Lee, of Hartford, motored here for a visit over the week-end at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Jean B. Rogers.

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department of the Village Improvement association, and leader of the local group having instruction from the County Farm and Home bureau extension service the past year, has received notice of a reception to be held Monday, Dec. 3, from 2:30 to 4, at the County Farm bureau office in the Shannon building, Norwich. It is to be a welcome to Miss Ruth Russell, who takes up her duties Dec. 1, as home demonstration agent for the county. Any from the village planning to attend have been requested to let Mrs. Buckingham know by Saturday of this week.

IMMIGRATION OFFICIAL FINDS SPANISH STOWAWAY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Jose Batgese, a Spanish subject, was arrested here this evening by Aureat Martinez, of Hartford, United States immigration officer and is being held a prisoner at police headquarters on a charge of unlawful entry into the country. Batgese obtained passage as a stowaway on a steamer that arrived in port recently from Europe. The steamer went to the Thames shipyard, on the Thames river and there Batgese was found when Martinez went there tonight on information he had received a day or two ago relative to the stowaway being there. Batgese will probably be presented before nited States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran tomorrow.

NEW YORK SPEAKER LAUNCHES SCOUT DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Boy Scouts of this city opened a drive for $8,900 at a banquet held in the Hotel Mohican tonight. About 100 workers and 50 scout leaders attended the affair and made final plans for the campaign which will be launched tomorrow morning. The speaker was Judge James C. Cropsey, of New York who has had valuable experience in Boy Scout work. Stress was laid on putting the campaign over quickly. Three days has been set as the time limit.

William A. Emmerich who sustained among other injuries a fractured arm when struck by an auto two weeks ago, and who since then has been a patient at the private hospital, this city, has returned to his home at 205 Connecticut avenue. While not completely recovered from his injuries, he is reported as resting comfortably.

J. W. Church, Quaker Hill contractor, today requested the assistance of the police in keeping school children away from a barn he is having moved from one location to another. Church is fearful that the children will sustain injury. The barn is located now on Mercer street and at noon the pupils gather around the building.

Sergeant James McGrath, special agent in the employ of the New Haven railroad, this afternoon detected a fellow stealing a ride on a freight and arrested him. The stranger will be in court charged with trespassing.

After Thanksgiving arrangements are being made to have the main streets decorated with greens as the Yuletide season approaches. The decorations will remain in place until after Christmas. Particular attention will be given to the decoration of State, Main and Bank streets.

Over sixty members and friends of the Foremen's and Executives' club of New London, gathered at the Y. M. C. A. this week for the November meeting of the club. It was "Corticelli Night" and the whole theme of the program centered about this industry. Addresses were made by A. H. Pollack and David Lamond of the B. & A. Branch of Corticelli, and moving pictures of silk and rayon production were shown.

Thirty-seven of the members were present for supper, the balance coming for the program which followed. Six new members, John C. White, Charles J. Long, Ed Prentis, Jr., and George Bannigan, of the Corticelli Silk Co.; A. P. Furman, Thames Silk Co., and George Tormay, Max Pollack & Co., were voted into the club. Mr. Pollack traced the culture and manufacture of silk, showing how the silk worms are bred reared and their cocoons turned into raw silk for market, and then traced the work of the local plant, all in a most interesting and helpful manner. Mr. Lamond recently made a trip through Scotland, and took the members on a word-tour of that country, pointing out the places which he had visited in a most instructive way.

Bertha Piascik, 18, of Hope Valley, R. I., who disappeared Sunday night after having spent about 48 hours in the company of her cousin, Benny Haberek, 22, formerly of New London, has returned to her home. An audience of over 100 heard an interesting lecture by the Rev. Father Raymond J. O'Callaghan this week at the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service.

Father O'Callaghan said: "Christ founded His religion as an organized society and constituted an authority to preside over it. Since His religion is held necessary for salvation there must be certain discernible characters by which that society can be known unmistakably by all as Christ's own.

"These marks of the Christian church are unity, sanctity, apostolicity and universality or catholicity. Unless a church bears these four marks it cannot claim to be the one church founded by Christ Himself. Nov. 28 Father O'Callaghan will talk on finding out which church has the four marks, unity, sanctity, apostolicity and universality. Dec. 4 he will lecture on why other churches do not bear the marks, unity, sanctity, apostolicity and universality.

FREDERICK A. PARKER DIES— WAS NATIVE OF BOZRAH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Frederick A. Parker, 76, of 35 West street, died shortly after six o'clock last night after an illness of only a few days. He was the best known pattern maker and cabinet maker perhaps in this section of New England. Hundreds of families in this city and Norwich have employed him in repairing antique furniture, at which he was an adept. He was fond of music and at one time was a member of the Connecticut Third Regiment band. He is survived by his wife and by three children; Gilbert L. Parker of California; Miss Claire L. Parker of Springfield and Mrs. Edward P. Calvert of Groton. He leaves two grandchildren.

Mr. Parker was born in Bozrah, Dec. 13, 1852, the son of Samuel Parker and Fannie Herrick Parker. His early life was spent in Bozrah, where he followed in his father's trade as a carriage maker. With the passing of years he turned his labors to pattern-making. He was particularly adept at this art and among the treasures of the family are two fine violins which he made. He was active up to Sunday, having gone out automobile riding Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Parker.

He became a member of the Bozrah Congregational church as a young man and maintained his membership in that church even after he came to New London. He was a member of the John Winthrop club.

WHITE ROCK YOUTH, 19, SHOOTS HIMSELF BUT LIVES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Wilfred Catron, of White Rock, R. I., being very much in love with a 17 year old Westerly girl, kept her away from home overnight a few days ago. So fearful was he over his rash act that he shot himself. The affair was investigated by state troopers from the Groton barracks and they are inclined to believe that Catron, who is only 19, did the deed for the purpose of impressing his youthful sweetheart with his love. He was brought to the private hospital in this city where his condition was found to indicate very little danger.

REFUSES TO GIVE SAILORS INTO CUSTODY OF POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Lieut.-Comdr. H. H. Hemingway has refused to turn over to the local police two members of his crew who participated in a fight on State street Monday night. There was a third member involved and when the case came up this morning it was continued for a week in the hope that the two sailors could be secured for trial. At a conference held with the naval officer yesterday it is understood that he agreed to permit the two men to appear in court today. However, when officers went after them this morning, he refused to let them go. It is understood that a formal demand for the two men will be made to Rear Admiral F. C. Billard.

R. A. Ferguson and Griswold Morgan of this city have won scholarships for Lafayette college, Easton, Pa.

FRIEND RAISES AMOUNT, MAYNARD FREED FROM JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Andrew J. Maynard was liberated last night from New London county jail, where he had been practically the entire day because he was unable to pay back taxes to the city, the collection of which had been urged several weeks by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander and City Sheriff Lawrence Fardy. After remaining in jail a part of the morning, the entire afternoon and a part of the night, a friend of Maynard went to the jail and paid the money the city sought, about $317 back taxes due, together with interest and officer's fees.

THOUGHT WORKMAN BURIED UNDER BIG PILE OF COAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Employes in the Thames street yard of the Spicer Ice and Coal Co., this city, had a scare this morning when they feared one of their fellow workmen was buried beneath a pile containing tons of coal. They frantically began shovelling and it was only after a large mass had been dug away that they learned the man they were seeking was confined to his home on account of illness. The outlet of a large hopper had been left open last night and when workmen began filling the bin this morning, thinking the chute was closed, the coal poured through the opening and buried a conveying car. The man whom they feared might have suffered from the mistake ordinarily was in charge of the chute and they thought he might have been buried under the avalanche of coal coming from above.

MRS. R. F. SULLIVAN, NORWICH TO BE CHAIRMAN OF MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—At a meeting of the New London branch of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, to be held here tomorrow afternoon, Miss Lena Bissonette of the National Catholic Welfare council will be the principal speaker, Mrs. Roderick F. Sullivan of Norwich will act as chairman for the affair. Following the meeting tea will be served with Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, hostess. Persons interested in industrial problems will be welcome to attend the meeting. An invitation to be present has been extended the New London League of Women Voters.

Rini Maurri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maurri, 653 Bank street, who was struck by an automobile driven by Chauncey T. Dixon, Waterford, corner of Bank and Shaw streets has a fractured leg. The child is a patient at Home Memorial hospital.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against Morris Kosowsky. Earlier in the week Collector Alexander issued a warrant calling for the sale of property owned by Kosowsky because back taxes had not been paid. Since then Kosowsky has made payment.

Russell Lord, Saybrook and Miss Alice L. Chapman, Montville, attended a dance at Walpole, Mass., Tuesday night. The trip was made by automobile.

OBITUARY

Richard Cubby

Richard Cubby, about 80, died today at the residence of his stepson, Percy Fox, 41 Ocean avenue. Mr. Cubby for many years was employed as a toolmaker by the United States government at New York, but for several years had made his home in New London.

In the police court this morning, four cases were tried each the result of the indiscretion of the accused in imbibing too freely of strong drink. Two persons were given a sentence of 10 days in jail but execution of the sentences was suspended six months. In another instance a man charged with intoxication was discharged and charged with driving while under the influence of liquor was not presented, his case being continued to Monday next.

Supernumerary Patrolman Louis Tooker one of the youngest members of the police department has requested and obtained a leave of absence of four months, desiring to be employed in-doors this winter. He requested the leave of absence of Captain Charles A. Pinney. That official and City Manager William A. Holt conferred in the matter today and the request was granted. It is understood that Tooker will be employed at the plant of the J. N. Lapointe company from Dec. 1 until April 1, 1929.

New London had a variety of weather tonight. Between 8.15 and 8.45 o'clock rain fell, followed by a slight snow flurry and later by hail, the stones being about the size of marbles.

On Important Mission

Ensign H. T. Jewell commander of the offshore patrol force here, has set sail from this port with his squadron for San Frisco. This is one of the most important missions ever entrusted to a young officer and the many friends of Ensign Jewell in this city tended their congratulations to him yesterday and this morning. The patrol left here at noon today.

Members of the Eastern district women's council of Connecticut held a meeting in the Second Congregational church here today with 150 present. Both the morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to business. At noon a social hour was enjoyed during which basket lunches were eaten.

Was Native of Columbia

Mrs. Mary J. Rogers, 83, widow of Captain H. Stennet Rogers, died today at the Lawrence Memorial hospital after a brief illness with pneumonia. While she was born in Columbia, Conn., most of her life had been spent in New London and for years she maintained a dressmaking establishment on Tilley street. She was a member of the Methodist church which she attended regularly until her health failed. Besides a son, H. Addison Rogers, she leaves a granddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Wonsky, of 604 Bank street.

FUNERAL

Miss Grace M. Hallock

The funeral of Miss Grace M. Hallock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson of Waterford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her parents. The services were largely attended and were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The bearers were Harold Gates, Harold Pendleton, John Malona, Jr., Lloyd Gates, Malcolm Keeney and Thomas Horin. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

OBITUARY

John H. Brown

John H. Brown, well known Waterford resident, died at his home this morning, after an illness of about two years. He is survived by his wife. Mr. Brown was a gardener by occupation, but for many years had operated a farm.

TOWN OFFERED FOR SALE AS TIMBER INDUSTRY DIES

WEST EMINENCE, Mo.—(AP)—West Eminence is for sale.

At one time it was a thriving timber town, with a population of 2,000. Now it is almost deserted. Vacant windows stare from empty and run-down houses. Lumber mills, which once gave livelihood to most of the inhabitants, are idle and the machinery has been moved away.

Fifteen thousand acres of land, a small logging railroad and buildings are included in the sale offer. The owners ask $15,000 for the town and surrounding land.

Several towns have been obliterated by the collapse of the timber industry in the Ozark mountains. Midco a town of 1,000 a decade ago is now deserted.

What Is Going On Tonight

Columbian commandery, No. 1, K. T., meets in Masonic temple.

Norwich lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M., meets in Moose home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

First National Stores Radio

Few, if any, radio listeners who tune in on the First National Stores Polar Bears, or the Dandies of Yesterday, on stations WNAC and WEAN each Tuesday or Thursday morning or afternoon are aware of an unusual engineering and timing feat in progress which makes possible the relay of these interesting programs through the two stations wherein but one orchestra is used, but two announcers, one in each city.

Nowhere else in the country is this novelty to be seen or heard. The idea was conceived following an experiment at WNAC when an organ recital was given with music coming from two different points in the city in perfect synchronization.

This led to the development of the First National Stores broadcasts through the two stations. As a matter of fact, complicated though this idea may seem to be to the radio fan, it is in reality simple, providing there is perfect co-operation on the part of the engineering staffs of both stations with their announcers in each locale.

Let us present the picture of what happens when you are listening to the First National Stores Polar Bears or Dandies of Yesterday. Seated in WNAC's studios is a full orchestra. In a small studio is Jane Day, the announcer. At WEAN in Providence is a second Jane Day, so-called. Both have stop watches. At the exact appointed hour the program opens with a musical selection. The engineering staff in each station flashes a signal to the announcers when the number is completed, and the First National Stores brief talks begin from each station with a subdued music in the background furnished by a vibraphone during the announcement over both stations, announcements which are entirely different.

Each announcer is on their own wavelength, cut off from each other, with the exception of the music's background, and allotted exactly one minute and fifteen seconds by the stop watch to give her talk and announce the next musical number, at the completion of which the same procedure as before is invoked. A few seconds delay on either station would mean a disconnected program.

In the same manner as the Polar Bears broadcast is put on the air, so, too, is that of the Dandies of Yesterday. So when you tune in on Tuesday or Thursday on the First National Stores' interesting musical entertainment it will be with the full realization that a novelty in broadcasting, one distinctive and original, unlike any other in this or perhaps any other country, is being given the radio listener.

Broadway Theatre

At last a college picture with a new, a different approach, has been produced. At last the intriguing round of college life in the United States has been divorced from all the fanfare and slapstick of former, so-called college pictures which sickened collegiates and non-collegiates alike. At last Paramount has produced "Varsity," with Charles (Buddy) Rogers ably handling a difficult lead role and Mary Brian and Chester Conklin furnishing support.

"Varsity," which opened at the Broadway theatre last night, pictures college life as it is. It is a true and living record which any college man or woman can recognize as such and appreciate. There is none of the win-the-ball-game-for-alma-mater type of balderdash woven into its dignified and beautiful theme. "Varsity" is the kind of moving picture Princeton university, one of the oldest and most respected of the institutions of higher learning in the United States, can well afford to sponsor.

The story deals with a whimsical janitor whose aim in life is achieved when his son comes to college.

The scenes for "Varsity" were actually taken on the campus at Princeton university and were supervised in the making by a committee from the faculty of the university. The picture is splendidly conceived, ably directed, and competently acted, a true and living portrait of contemporary American college life.

Luther League Sale

A pleasant entertainment is promised with the presentation of Some Little Fixer by a complete cast taken from the Luther league of the First German Lutheran church. The scene takes place in a little apartment in a small western city occupied by three young working girls, where everything but the cooking and the bathing is done in the living room. The play has quite a plot, but—come and figure it out for yourself. Also another feature—music worth listening to, furnished by the orchestra whom you all know—Thumm's. A sale is also held by the Ladies' Aid society. Their sales are hard to beat. We wish to take this opportunity in thanking everybody who have helped to make this affair a success, especially the Gilbert Furniture company, who so kindly loaned furniture used on the stage for the play.

Breed Theatre

The most popular motion picture actor in the world.

According to a nation-wide poll of more than 1,000 independent theatres, Tom Mix, famous film cowboy, tops all the celluloid sheiks in drawing power with theatregoers.

The contestants include many of the handsomest men in the industry, but Mix, by his determination to give clean pictures, has climbed the heights after ten years of faithful service to Fox Films and theatregoers.

His screen dramas are shown in more than 1,200 theatres every day of the year, and each photoplay is a sermon to the youth of today, preaching that "a healthy body maes a clean mind."

His latest production, "Painted Post," now showing at the Breed theatre, is a story of early western life that will make the most blase audiences sit up and take notice.

The cast includes Natalie Kingston Al St. John and Fred Gamble. Gene Forde directed.

Will Give Indian Dances

On Friday evening in the Third Baptist church of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Laubin will give a program of Plains Indian dances, songs and ceremonies. The entire program will be authentic and of about an hour's duration. Mr. Laubin is a personal friend of Ralph Hubbard, who is considered the best authority on Indian lore in the country. Mr. Laubin has made appearances before audiences numbering from three to five thousand in Hartford, Waterbury and Springfield besides appearances before smaller audiences in nearby cities and towns.

This complete program has never before been witnessed by a Norwich audience, although a few of the dances have been seen here.

It is hoped that a better understanding of the Indian's life will be had after seeing this performance.

Miss Esther Goldblatt has returned to her home on North Main street after spending one week at the home of her aunt in Worcester.

Frank Riordan of Providence has returned to his home after spending a few days at the home of his brother on Prospect street. While here he attended the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Michael McDermott, held from her late residence No. 244 Summit street Wednesday morning.

The T. D. Sewing circle held its weekly meeting at the home of Miss Iola Cheney on Boswell avenue Tuesday evening with a large number attending. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing on fancy articles. Piano and vocal solos were rendered and refreshments of assorted sandwiches, fancy cakes, assorted cookies, candies, hot chocolate were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Alyce Murphy. The circle will hold its next meeting at the home of Miss Murphy on Boswell avenue.

The Ladies Guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held its weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Evans on Smith avenue Thursday afternoon with a large attendance. Business was transacted with the president, Mrs. Fitch Dolbeare, presiding. A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostess. During the business meeting the committee in charge of the Christmas sale and supper, which is to be held the first week of December, made a favorable report.

WILL CELEBRATE FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SAT.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fensley will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Saturday, November 24 at their home on Fourth street. Mr. and Mrs. Fensley were united in marriage at the Greeneville Congregational rectory, November 24, 1878, by the pastor, Rev. Robert Stanton. Mrs. Fensley was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson and Mr. Fensley was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Fensley. They have lived all of their fifty years of married life in Greeneville. Mr. Fensley has been in the employ of the United States Finishing company; also the Chelsea Paper company.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony A. Bernard of Boswell avenue are spending a few days with relatives in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryan have returned to their home in Springfield after spending a few days with relatives on Eleventh street.

TAFTVILLE

WEDDING

Gorman-Murphy

With many relatives and friends attending, the marriage of Miss Agnes Cecelia Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy of Norwich avenue, and Henry C. Gorman, son of Mrs. John Gorman of the Canterbury road, of Norwich, was solemnized Thursday morning at a nuptial high mass celebrated by Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault at Sacred Heart church.

Miss Louise Gorman, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Georgette Giguere and Miss Dorothy Lynn. The groomsman was Edward Murphy, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Francis McGraw and John Jones. The wedding march was played by Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church.

The bride, who before the marriage ceremony at the main altar, had the insignia of her membership in the Children of Mary sodality removed before the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary by Miss Julie Chappell and Miss Grace Phalen, both members of the society, wore a gown of white transparent velvet. Her bridal veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Gorman wore an attractive gown of apricot taffeta with hat to match and carried bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Giguere was attired in yellow taffeta and Miss Lynn wore green taffeta. Both carried yellow chrysanthemums.

At the offertory, Mrs. Henry Boyd of Norwich sang Ave Maria.

The bride and groom held a reception at the Wauregan hotel following the church service, and breakfast was served to the bridal party and a few invited guests. Later in the day they left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington and when they return in about two weeks, will reside in a newly furnished home on Golden street. As a traveling costume, Mrs Gorman wore brown crepe satin with hat to match. Her coat was brown, trimmed with mink.

Both young people have many friends in the village and vicinity. The groom is with the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. and the bride has been employed in the office of the Norwich Gas & Electric department. She received many useful and beautiful gifts.

The second in the series of social evenings arranged by the parishioners of Sacred Heart church was held Thursday evening at St. Theresa's hall. Music was furnished by Adams' orchestra.

A meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America, was held Thursday evening in the court rooms at Parish hall building on Merchants avenue. Chief Ranger William Smith presided and a number of routine business matters came up for consideration.

A number of Taftville friends and relatives of Joseph Raymond attended his funeral in Jewett City, Thursday morning.

NORWICH SCHOOL ENUMERATION AT HIGHEST MARK FOR ALL TIME

Enumeration of children of school age in the town of Norwich has just been completed by Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, who have been at the work since Sept 1 and the result of their painstaking canvass of the town is shown in figures which are a gain of 105 over last year and are the highest which the enumerators have ever known. Mr. Guy and Mr. Downes have regularly done this work since 1912, but the count of 7,694 school children this year between the ages of 4 and 16 years caps the climax of all their enumerations.

As the town receives from the state the sum of $2.25 for each child of school age, the enumeration this year will bring to the town about $17,000. The thoroughness with which the work is done has a direct bearing upon the amount which the town can count on receiving so that when such a fine total is reached as has been done this year, the taxpayers can record a vote of thanks to the two enumerators. The completed figures have been turned over to the school superintendent.

| Dist. | 1928 | 1927 | Gain or Loss |
|---|---|---|---|
| Central | 1,920 | 1,839 | x81 |

FORECLOSURE SUIT WITH FOUR DEFENDANTS NAMED

Four Stonington defendants, Raymond E. Sullivan and his wife Carrie B., William F. Luden and the town of Stonington, are named as defendants in a foreclosure suit brought in the superior court by the Westerly Savings Fund and Loan association, for foreclosure of a mortgage on property in Pawcatuck. The papers were filed Thursday with John H. Walker, clerk of the court.

It is claimed that the Stillmans gave a mortgage for $5,000, Luden claims a mortgage for $4,000 and the town of Stonington tax liens for $57.

NORTH STONINGTON MAN PETITIONS FOR DIVORCE

Charging against his wife, Myrtle Potter Main of North Stonington, the commission of a statutory offense, Howard E. Main of that town is seeking a divorce and the custody of a 14 year old child. Papers in the suit were filed Thursday with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court. The marriage of the couple took place Feb. 14, 1912.

Has Four D. of A. Deputies

Liberty council, D. of A., of Noank, has the distinction of having among its members four deputies, Mrs. Mary Latham, deputy over the state of Connecticut; Mrs. Ella King, national deputy over Liberty council; Mrs. Florence Tyler, national deputy over Martha Washington council of New Britain, and Mrs. Bertha Ashcroft, national deputy over Lady Buckingham council of Norwich. It is an honor which no other council in the state possesses.

Mrs. Owen S. Smith of Washington street is spending a few days in Boston. She went to attend the commission service at Pilgrim hall today (Friday), at noon, of her granddaughter, Miss Helen Huntington Smith, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Edward H. Smith, of Ingtai, China, where Miss Smith was born. Miss Smith, who has frequently visited relatives here, is to serve under the American Board of Foreign Missions in Foochow, China.

Rev. and Mrs. George Warren Potter of Norwich Town and the latter's father, John Elbert Haviland, left Wednesday for Portchester, N. Y., accompanying the body of Mr. Haviland's wife, for burial in that state. Rev. Mr. Potter is to return to Norwich Town this (Friday) evening.

It was given out Thursday that the condition of James Filburn, Jr., of Huntington avenue, a patient in a New London hospital, was critical. Mr. Filburn, a young man in the early twenties, who is manager of one of the chain stores on the West Side, was operated on about a year ago for appendicitis. Since that time he has, from time to time, had a number of sick spells. He was operated on again recently. Young Filburn is highly reputed by acquaintances and friends, who have expressed much sympathy for him at this time.

A Norwich Town resident enumerates 14 deaths during the past seven months, from Clinton avenue to Peck's Corner, mostly elderly or middle-aged people.

BEQUESTS IN WILL OF JOHN M. LEE

John D. Lee of Stafford Springs, son of the late John M. Lee, who for many years was secretary of the Porteous & Mitchell company, is made executor of the will of Mr. Lee which was filed for probate here Thursday with Judge Nelson J. Ayling in the probate court. The will was executed April 7, 1928 with Attorneys Arthur M. Brown, Telley E. Babcock and Charles V. James as witnesses.

The will makes bequests of $500 each to two sisters, Catherine M. and Ellen F. Lee, both of this city. It also makes bequests of $100 each to the following: Mrs. Thomas F. Burns of Norwich, a sister; Daniel Lee of Norwich, a brother; Charles F. Lee of Norwich, a brother; Anna M. Kelly of this city, a niece; Katherine Lee Burns of Norwich, niece; George B. Lee of this city, a nephew; Joseph F. Lee of Norwich, a nephew; John M. Kelley, of this city, a nephew; Mary J. Conroy of 41 Cliff street.

A watch, chain and charm are given to the son who is the executor, and to the widow, Catherine Lee, of this city is left the use and income during her lifetime of one-third of the residue of the estate, and upon the death of Mrs. Lee the one-third share is to go to three children, Mary F. Buckley, wife of John T. Buckley of St. Louis, Mo.; John D. Lee of Stafford Springs and Catherine Wrang, wife of Dr. William E. Wrang of Middletown, Conn., to share and share alike.

The remaining two-thirds of the residue goes to the three children also share and share alike.

FORESTERS LOSE TWO BUT KEEP THE LEAD

LONERGAN REPORTS $3,025 IN ELECTION EXPENSES

Campaign expenditures of $3,025 were reported at the office of the secretary of state Wednesday by Augustine Lonergan, democratic candidate for the United States senate, who was defeated for the place by Senator-elect Frederick C. Walcott of Norfolk.

Mr. Lonergan reported contributions of $1,525 to the democratic state committee, $500 to the Hartford town committee, $500 to the democratic national committee and $500 to David A. Wilson, treasurer of the democratic senatorial committee.

David A. Wilson filed a statement that $2,850 had been spent by his committee in an effort to secure Mr. Lonergan's election. The principal contribution to this fund was one of $1,500 from the democratic national committee.

Herman P. Kopplemann, who failed in the contest to congress from the first district expended $1,536.24, a statement filed by his political agent, Edward R. May, declared. A contribution of $500 to the Hartford town committee was the largest item of expense.

Tilson's Expense $4,620

Other congressional candidates reported considerably larger expenditures in the campaign. Thomas W. Tully, agent for Congressman John Q. Tilson, of New Haven, filed a statement showing contributions of $3,961.83 were received for the candidate and $4,620.44 expended to secure re-election. Congressman Tilson contributed $1,000 to the New Haven republican town committee and lesser sums to the chairman of the committees in the other towns of the third congressional district.

Congressman Schuyler Merritt's re-election in the fourth congressional district was accomplished with the expenditure of $3,640, according to a statement filed by his political agent, Harry Mackenzie, state labor commissioner. Congressman Merritt contributed $1,665 to this fund, while the republican state organization contributed $1,500 and $475 was received from miscellaneous sources.

Cost Fenton $514

Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, reported expenses of $514.75, of which $200 was a contribution to the democratic state organization.

David J. McCoy, treasurer of the New Haven democratic town committee, filed a statement showing contributions of $6,883.75 and expenditures of $7,170.27. In Waterbury the republican town organization collected $15,394 and spent $16,104.56, according to a statement filed by Fred A. Packard, treasurer.

Financial statements of the republican and democratic town organizations in Hartford for the recent election were filed recently by Edward N. Allen, treasurer of the republican town committee and Edward J. Daly for the democratic town committee. The republican organization expended $13,682.82 and their opponents $7,862.19, according to the statements.

Mr. Daly reported that all bills had been paid and that a small cash balance remained, while Senator Allen, republican treasurer, reported a deficit of $2,160.82. The deficit will be wiped out by a contribution from the republican state central committee.

PARSONS WILL EXECUTOR GIVES $25,000 BOND

Following a short hearing Thursday morning the will of the late George E. Parsons was admitted to probate by Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the probate court. Harold N. Christianson, Earl Sparks a brother-in-law of the deceased and Adrian Parsons, a brother, of Providence appeared at the hearing. Mr Christianson qualified as executor and trustee under the will and furnished a bond of $25,000. Harry F. Powers president of the Uncas National bank and Attorney John A. Sullivan of New London, were appointed appraisers.

ADVICE TO LIONS TO PROVIDE TOURIST CAMP

The Norwich Lions club held its weekly noon luncheon at the Wauregan hotel Thursday noon at 12.15 o'clock and President Kopian K. Markoff presented Earl G. Taggart as the presiding officer of the day. The meeting opened with the singing of America and Leon Dix was the song leader. C. E. Fitch assisted at the piano and the blessing was asked by Louis M. Crandall. Charles W. Cassity won the "silent whistler's prize" in a contest with Rudolph Henschel. Kopland K. Markoff and Frederick Bielefield.

The "guessers'" contest was won by Max Hanover. Joseph A. French was called on to report how he won the fourth prize in the first race and the second prize in the third race of the Chelsea Motorboat contest held on the Thames river September 1 and September 15. His report was received with enthusiastic applause. Edward Rich read a letter from the Lions International giving an outline of the tourist camp which the local Lions should strive to provide for this vicinity. The suggestion was taken under advisement. The Lions' roar was given and the meeting closed in the usual form.

THERMOS DIRECTORS ELECT A. E. PAYSON TO PRESIDENCY

James E Rountree, secretary and treasurer of The American Thermos Bottle company, announced Thursday that at a meeting of the directors on Tuesday of this week in Cincinnati A. E. Payson, vice president and general manager of the company was elected president and E. W. Edwards of Cincinnati, retiring president, became the chairman of the board of directors. R. S. & C. K. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., who have recently acquired an interest in the company, were elected to the board of directors. He also stated that James W. Neil general sales manager of the company had been made vice president in charge of sales and Miner P. Wetmore, vice president in charge of engineering and research.

It is believed that these changes will be of interest to Norwich as these officers are all residents of this city and by the election of Mr Payson to the presidency of the company the entire management is now concentrated here in the company's general offices.

MAKING INSPECTIONS OF DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

Attachment on Chelsea File Works

An attachment has been filed against the Chelsea File Works, Inc., of which George C. Butts is president and treasurer on a claim brought by George P. Chrest, who has been connected with the plant for 23 years. Service of the attachment papers has closed the plant down.

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that. It's a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children too; read the book that comes with it.

JURY GIVES $1,500 VERDICT FOR DEATH OF NEW LONDON MAN

Trial of the $10,000 damage suit against Maurice J. Druker of New London for the death of Benjamin F. Bradford, 70, of that city which began in the superior court here Tuesday before Judge John Richards Booth and a jury came to an end late Thursday afternoon when the jury returned a verdict for $1,500 for the plaintiff, who is Frank A. Bradford, a son of the deceased and administrator of his estate. The verdict was accepted by the court.

In returning the verdict, the jury, of which John E. Richardson of Preston was foreman, answered in the affirmative two interrogatories which Judge Booth gave them to consider when they retired to the jury room after he had made his charge. The jury answered "Yes" to the interrogatory whether the accident was the approximate cause of death and also "Yes" to the interrogatory whether the release was procured by fraud alleged in the plaintiff's reply.

Mr. Bradford who was a railroad crossing tender at John street in New London died Feb. 14, 1927 which was about a month and a half after he had been hit, Dec. 31, 1926, by Mr. Druker's automobile at the corner of Montauk avenue and Alger place.

The plaintiff claimed that the injuries sustained which it was shown were to his chest, back and leg were the cause of death. The defense made the claim that the man had recovered completely from these injuries and that the cause of death was heart trouble. The defense claimed further that Mr. Bradford had accepted $150 and signed a release in settlement of the claim against the insurance company which carried Mr. Druker's risk. The plaintiff made the claim that this release had been procured by fraud on the part of the adjuster for the insurance company. Attorney C. Hadlai Hull appeared for the plaintiff and Attorneys Bree and Minnix for the defendant.

$15,000 Suit On Trial.

Late Thursday afternoon the trial was begun in the $15,000 suit of Miss Anna McCaughey of New London against William Smiddy, a justice of the peace in Montville, whose son was driving his father's automobile when it struck Miss McCaughey on Waller street in New London about noon on January 12, 1928.

The plaintiff, who was an employe at the New England Collapsible Tube company, was crossing Waller street from the factory at the noon hour when she was struck, sustaining concussions of the brain and other injuries in various parts of the body in consequence of which she lost many weeks employment at $18 per week.

Witnesses called to the stand Thursday by Attorney G. Curtis Morgan counsel for the plaintiff were Dr. Leon F. LaPierre and Walter L. Spencer. Attorney Arthur T. Keefe is counsel for Judge Smiddy. The trial will be resumed next Tuesday morning.

AXE FALLING ON POLITICAL OFFICE-HOLDERS IN CHICAGO

Since Election Day 1,600 Political Employes Have Been Discharged—Of 3,000 Still Remaining on the Payroll of the Sanitary Board Nearly 1,000 Will Face the New Year Jobless—T. J. Crowe, President of the Board, Disclaims Responsibility For the Payroll Padding—Fifteen Ward "Healers" Convicted as Result of Lawlessness.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Trustees of the sanitary district today voted one of the largest house cleanings ever undertaken by a local governing body and ordered every unnecessary employe fired. Since election day, 1,600 political employes have found the axe. There are still 3,000 on the rolls and it was estimated that nearly 1,000 of these would face the New Year jobless.

The payrolls of the district have been under newspaper fire for a week on the ground that they are heavily overloaded with names of politician's friends and precinct workers holding the title of "inspector" who appear only on pay days and collect salaries ranging from $200 to $300 monthly.

The board yesterday passed $27,000,000 in bonds for sewerage plants. Under a new law, all bond issues hereafter will be passed by public referendum.

T. J. Crowe, democrat and president of the board, and who failed of re-election disclaimed responsibility for the payroll benefactions.

"I'm the goat," he declared. "All the trustees had the 'gimmies' and went ahead and overloaded the force without consulting me and now they are trying to unload on me."

Investigation of the rolls revealed that the legal department of the district, staffed with democratic and republican political leaders, in this year spent $1,374,380, or four times the amount expended by the legal department of the state of Illinois.

The Chicago Bar associaiton has begun an investigation of the district lawyers fees, while John A. Swanson, recently elected state's attorney on a reform platform, has announced that he will investigate the scandal."

16 WARD "HEELERS" WERE CONVICTED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Fifteen of the 16 lieutenants of Morris Eller, self-styled "boss" of the "bloody 20th ward," were convicted today by a criminal court jury on charges of conspiracy growing out of the orgy of lawlessness in the 20th ward, last primary day.

The conviction was a disappointment to both the prosecution and the defense. The state had asked that all be sent to prison and the defense had asked for acquittal. The verdict, imposing fines instead of prison terms, was a compromise reached after a night of deliberation during which one juror was reported to have held out against prison terms. Joseph Genaro, the 16th defendant, was acquitted.

The fines imposed by the jury ranged from $400 to $1,250. Both Morris Eller, city collector, and his son, Judge Emmanuel Eller, of the criminal court were indicted with the others but obtained a separate trial. The indictment on which the defendants were convicted contained 23 separate counts, including conspiracy to murder, kidnap, assault, and intimidate voters. The murder charge grew out of the slaying, just after the polls closed April 10, of Octavius Granady, Negro, opponent of Morris Eller for ward committeeman. He was shot down as he rode in an automobile.

Edwin J. Raber, special prosecutor for the state, characterized the verdict as "an outrage," while David Stansbury, special assistant state's attorney, said he could not discuss it without using "unprintable language." Frank J. Loesch, in charge of one of the six special grand juries which returned the indictment, said no fines however large, could be considered sufficient punishment for the crimes Defense attorneys said the verdict would be appealed to the supreme court.

Members of the jury, which deliberated more than 13 hours, were reluctant to talk but the foreman remarked that "the verdict we returned was better than a disagreement" and the Chicago Daily News quoted an unnamed juror as declaring that one man insisted on only a fine for the convicted defendants and the others agreed rather than reach no verdict at all.

Nearly all the defendants are facing individual charges in connection with the election day disorders, some of them being charged with the murder of Granady. Among those convicted was James B. Leonard, a state senator. He was fined $750.

Morris Eller said the verdict spoke for itself, adding that he was not on trial and had no comment to make otherwise. A defense motion for a new trial will be heard Dec. 1.

NEGRO SUSPECT HELD AS OMAHA'S "HATCHET MAN"

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 23—(AP)—Citizens of Omaha who have been terror stricken since Sunday because of the attacks of a "hatchet man" who killed three and wounded two, breathed easier tonight in hope that a Negro suspect, arrested today, is the killer.

Police said that Mrs. Harold Stribling, who was attacked by a Negro in her home early Tuesday morning, positively identified Jake Bird, 34, as the man who crushed her husband's skull with a hatchet and kidnaped her. Mrs. E. C. Henry, who was in the room at the hospital when the suspect was shown Mrs. Stribling insisted however, that Mrs. Stribling did not identify him, saying she had been nervous and excited from viewing suspects yesterday.

Bird was immediately rushed from the hospital to the state penitentiary at Lincoln, to avoid possible violence such as took place in September, 1919, when a mob burned the county court house, killed a Negro accused of attacking a white girl.

Bird was arrested at a rooming house here.

Reports from the penitentiary said Bird refused to talk and asked for an attorney. He served terms in the Utah penitentiary police said.

STATE TAX OFFICIALS RE-ELECT ALL OFFICERS

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 23—(AP)—Judge Edward L. Leahy, state tax commissioner of Rhode Island, and all other officers of the New England state tax officials association were unanimously re-elected to their respective offices at the business session this afternoon in the Stratfield hotel that closed the sixteenth annual conference under auspices of the association, which was attended by over 100 taxing officials from 11 states.

Erwin M. Harvey, tax commissioner of Vermont, was re-elected vice president, and Harold S. Lyon, of Boston, was chosen again as secretary and treasurer. The executive committee in addition to these officers, will include again Farwell Knapp, assistant commissioner of Connecticut; Edgar C. Hirst, tax commissioner of New Hampshire, Clement S. Stetson, of Greene, Me.; and Mark Graves, New York state tax commissioner, the latter as an honorary member.

COOLIDGE WITHOUT PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—President Coolidge still is without any plans as to what he will do after he leaves office.

The chief executive has seen the publication of repeated rumors of this or that position that he might take after March 4, but he feels that every one can consider these as only rumors until announcement comes from him to the contrary.

At any rate, it is probable that Mr. Coolidge will follow closely the precedent set by Woodrow Wilson who did not announce that he would take up the practice of law until a few hours before he left the presidency. The president feels that he will not definitely decide what he intends to do until after March 4.

CONDITION OF GENERAL BOOTH IS UNCHANGED

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The condition of Gen. William Bramwell Booth was reported unchanged in a bulletin from his physician tonight. He had a good day and last night was restful.

HEARING OF COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Nov. 23—(AP)—Charges of gross inefficiency and cruelty on the part of superintendents of Indian schools, and recommendations that the government get out and let each state supervise its own Indian problems, were made here today by an Omaha tribesman and a former Indian school principal. They testified at a hearing of the United States senate committee on Indian affairs composed of Senators J. Lynn Frazier of North Dakota and W. B. Pine of Oklahoma. The committee is examining conditions in California.

The men were two of six witnesses who appeared before the morning session of the committee, which adjourned its hearing here today, leaving immediately for Salt Lake City, Utah, for a resumption of its investigation.

L. J. Holzworth, an attorney of Phoenix, Arizona, who acted as principal of the Phoenix Indian school for five years, asked for abolition of the government Indian bureau within two years. For a quarter of a century, it has been "a barnacle on the advancement of Indian civilization," he testified.

WOULD REDUCE ADMISSIONS TO STATE INSANE HOSPITALS

HARTFORD, Nov. 23—(AP)—Perambulating psychiatrists, who will go from town to town to hold clinics for the mentally ill, will be proposed to the 1929 legislature as a means whereby the number of applicants for admission to the insane hospitals of the state may be greatly reduced and possibly cut in half, Edward F. Hall, commissioner of finance control said today. In order to permit the employment of the necessary experts, who will work under the mental hygiene bureau of the state department of health, an increase in the appropriation of that bureau from $6,000 to somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000 will be sought, Commissioner Hall said.

The plan, according to the prospectus of Commissioner Hall, entails the employment of a psychiatrist, a psychologist and two trained psychiatric social service workers. It may be decided, he said, to inaugurate the work with a smaller staff than this.

LEAPED FROM WINDOW OF 21ST FLOOR OF HOTEL

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Forced to relinquish her employment in the Hotel McAlpin because of failing hearing, Mrs. Nellie Daley, 48, today leaped from a window on the twenty-first floor of the hotel. Her body was found on the roof of a three-story extension at the rear of the building. Mrs. Daley came here from Bridgeport, Conn., where it is understood she has a daughter.

Fellow employes at the hotel said when she gave up her position last Wednesday she told them that if she could not obtain medical relief she would end her life.

THREE MEN DROWNED WHEN AUTO PLUNGED INTO RIVER

CANAAN, Vt., Nov. 23—(AP)—Three men were drowned tonight when their automobile skidded and plunged into the Connecticut river between this town and Beecher Falls. While the identity of the victims had not been definitely established, it was reported that one of them was Chief of Police Budreau of Coaticook, Que., another his brother and the third a Coaticook police official. Coaticook is a town 20 miles from here across the Canadian border.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, secretary of state for war, has announced his decision not to seek re-election to the house of commons at the general election next year. It is understood, however, that he will not retire entirely from political life.

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 23—(AP)—The naval department designated two Peruvian cruisers to escort the U. S. S. Maryland to Callao. The vessels, which are the Admiral Grau and the Colonel Bolognesi, will go to Talara and pick up the Maryland as soon as she enters Peruvian waters.

PARIS, Nov. 23—(AP)—The high cost of living having invaded the Elysee Palace, the home of the French presidents, parliament today took cognizance of that fact and doubled the salary and expense allowance of President Gaston Doumergue. It fixed his total stipend at 3,600,000 francs a year, raising it from 1,800,000 francs.

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 23—(AP)—A three day pilgrimage to the tombs of his fathers was begun today by Emperor Hirohito. Accompanied by the Empress Nagako and a small entourage of the higher officers of the court, Hirohito left Kyoto for Unobi, near Nara, where the first emperor of Japan Jimmu Tenno, is believed to have been buried more than 2,500 years ago.

ALBANY NEWSPAPERS CRIPPLED BY STRIKE

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 23—(AP)—With all composing room forces of Albany newspapers out tonight on a strike, the Knickerbocker Press was preparing to put out a four page morning edition, using its artists, photo engravers stereotypers and pressmen to do the work.

Other papers affected by the strike, which was called tonight, are the Albany Evening News, the Times-Union and the Sunday Telegram. The Knickerbocker Press and the News were recently purchased by Frank E. Gannett, third largest individual newspaper owner in the United States, the Times Union belongs to the Hearst chain.

Copy for the Knickerbocker's editions was type-written in two column widths, pasted on cardboard of newspaper page size by the artists, then sent to the photo engravers who made a one-page plate on each of the four pages. These plates then went to the stereotypers and a plate was made for the presses.

Under normal circumstances all news copy is sent to the composing room where linotype operators set it line by line.

The strike was called at 6 o'clock tonight, after it had been threatened for several weeks. The three-year contract between the Albany Typographical union, No. 4, and the publishers of all the papers in the city expired on May 31. Since that time negotiations have been under way seeking common ground. In August, Charles V. Howard, president of the International union was in Albany seeking a settlement of differences but failed.

Subsequently the local union issued an ultimator stating hours and wages requested and declared a strike would be called if the demand was refused. The publishers of the papers countered with another proposal, which was rejected and the strike was called.

Policemen were stationed about each of the newspaper plants tonight.

The Knickerbocker's first edition was to include a telegraph page, two double columns of sports and two columns of market quotations, and two pages of general news.

In contrast to the four page edition, which was planned, the Knickerbocker usually runs about 28 pages. No advertisements were accepted. The News and the Times-Union were planning to put out editions tomorrow by the methods used by the Knickerbocker.

INDICTMENTS IMMINENT FOR ROTHSTEIN MURDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Preparations to lay before the grand jury next week evidence on which the indictment of two men for the murder of Arnold Rothstein will be sought were under way here today.

The statements made to District Attorney Banton and the police by Mrs. Ruth Keyes, Chicago model, who was in the Park Central hotel shortly before Rothstein was shot, are to be the basis of the authorities' move in bringing the case before the grand jury, it was said.

Mrs. Keyes is understood to have identified a picture of George McManus missing since the murder, as the likeness of the man she knew as "Mac" or "Jack" when she was in Room 349 at the hotel. It was in this room that Rothstein was shot after Mrs. Keyes had left.

District Attorney Banton declined to discuss prospective grand jury action in the slaying. He said he would hold no more press conferences on the case until there was "something definite" to report, but did assert that the police were bringing in more information "moment by moment."

"They are not proclaiming what they are doing from the housetops," he added.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY NATIONAL GRANGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—A national farm relief program proposing increased tariffs on agricultural products, co-operative marketing under a federal farm board, the export debenture system to handle surplus crops and the curtailment of new farm land development was adopted today by the National Grange.

The program was approved by the organization at the concluding session of its annual convention and was drafted by its joint committee on legislation and agriculture.

The report declared that relief through the debenture plan would depend neither on appropriations nor on special taxation, but could be administered with simplicity and economical operation.

COLUMBIA WOMAN WAS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 23—(AP)—Mrs. Louis S. Duval, 50, of Columbia, Conn., was killed here tonight when struck by an automobile at a street intersection. Her body was thrown into the air and landed in the path of a trolley car which stopped a few feet from it. She was visiting a sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Tremblay, here.

COL. LINDBERGH HAS LANDED AT TAMPICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23—(AP)—The United States embassy was informed by a telegram from Tampico that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed there at 3:10 p. m. He had taken off from the Valbuena flying field here at 12:45.

Four Perish In Crash Of Airplane

Pilot of Giant Trimotored [illegible] Lost [illegible]

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 23—(AP)—When the pilot apparently lost his bearings in a heavy, fog, a giant trimotored Ford passenger airplane crashed near the Palouse highway just outside Spokane today, killing four persons and seriously injuring two others. The dead:

Lieut. William R. Williams, Spokane, pilot and an officer of the Washington National Guard flying unit stationed here.

Lieut. Louie Dee Burger, co-pilot and mechanic, former mechanic for the Ford Airplane factories, Detroit; residence, Indianapolis.

Kenneth I. Dunlop, Spokane bank employe and sergeant in the 116th Observation squadron, Washington National Guard.

Arthur G. Enorson, office manager for the Mamer Flying service, in Spokane.

The injured:

Rex Heath, business manager for the Spokane Airways, Inc.

David R. Mitchell, Standard Oil employe, Spokane.

No other passengers were in the plane.

The big monoplane was returning to Spokane from an air carnival at Colfax, Wash., when it encountered fog. Witnesses said the pilot apparently thought he was higher above the ground than he was when he prepared to land. The wheels of the plane struck the earth several hundred feet from where it finally crashed into a heap. Burger was flying with Williams on the trip because of his knowledge of Ford planes and the journey had been an uneventful one before the accident.

Mrs. Williams, wife of the pilot, was prostrated on learning of his death She had only recently flown with him

Physicians said they expected Mitchell to die.

For two hours, Lieutenant Williams who was piloting the monoplane, battled with fog, circling around the outskirts of Spokane seeking a landing place.

Details of the accident were told by Heath, who gave his broken account from a hospital cot.

"We took off from Colfax about 8 o'clock . . . flew along nicely until nearing Spokane, when the fog loomed up. We circled Spokane for a long time, hoping that a hole would open up in the fog . . .

"Pilot Jack Rose of the Mamer Flying service, Spokane, who had left Colfax in a Stearman plane, passed us and dove through down a hole. Bill said that he could get through if Rose could. . . . Just as we started through the hole it closed up in front of us. We were confronted with a dense fog. We lost all sense of direction, and weren't able to tell whether we were flying upside down or not.

"However, Bill remained calm, as did everyone else in the plane. . . . 'Swede' Enorson . . . who is always joking, leaned over me and said 'Well, Roy boy, it looks a little bad. I'll see you in hell,' . . . and then the crash came. Our left wing struck a tree and was entirely torn away . . . and that is the last I can remember until I came to on the ground."

RESENT ATTACKS UPON SWEET FOOD PRODUCTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—A group representing the sweet food industries organized today in defense against what was described as "an unfair and untruthful attack upon all sweet food products" in current advertising.

A temporary committee was appointed and empowered to organize a national defense committee.

"During the past month or six weeks," said a statement given out after a meeting of representatives of trade associations and companies in the sweet food industries, "one of the leading cigarette manufacturers has been advertising cigarettes as a substitute for 'sweets,' using alleged testimonials signed by society leaders, stage and motion picture stars and other celebrities. The company manufacturing these cigarettes makes no secret of its intention to extend this type of advertising until it covers the entire United States."

RUMANIAN GOVT. BUILDINGS SURROUNDED BY TROOPS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 23—(AP)—After an exchange of declarations, the Bulgarian government tonight dispatched troops to Petritch to attempt to capture Ivan Michailoff, leader of the belligerent faction of the Macedonian revolutionary party. In view of Michailoff's rejection of a government ultimatum it is not expected that he will allow himself to be taken without bitter fighting.

The situation had assumed an uglier aspect earlier today when the government began rushing large contingents of troops from the outlying districts in order to reinforce the Sofia garrison. Tonight, strong sentry forces were placed around all government buildings while the police guard protecting members of the cabinet was doubled.

84 Mile Wind In Southern England

Two Persons Were Killed in Liverpool—Fear [illegible] For a Number of Fishing Fleets.

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Another autumn gale bringing loss of life, distress to shipping, interference with land transport and extensive property damage raged through England today. The wind reached an official velocity of 84 miles an hour in one place. It was estimated at 100 miles an hour in Yorkshire.

Two persons were killed in Liverpool, one of them was a sandwich board man whose humble means of livelihood caused him to be blown under a motor truck. The other victim was caught under a falling tree.

Hull also reported two deaths. An aged man struggling homeward through the gale fell dead from overexertion. A school girl was killed when a chimney collapsed as the pupils were leaving the classrooms. Bricks and debris showered all of the children, but the others escaped with bruises.

At Edinburgh the barometric pressure was 28.11. This was the lowest on record since 1894.

So fierce was the blow on the channel, that railway service between Dover and Ostend was cancelled at mid-day, the afternoon airplane trips from Croydon to the continent were also called off.

In London roofs, shop windows and billboards suffered severely. The gales were accompanied by heavy rains.

A terrific gale swept the north riding in Yorkshire. Torrential rains swelled the streams to flood stage. Lincolnshire suffered similarly. At Carlyle a fallen tree blocked both of the main railroad lines to Scotland.

A number of fishing fleets, caught away from their bases by the gale were subjects for anxiety. It was believed, however, that all these small craft reached port without loss of life.

The fury of the gale was perhaps felt more strongly at sea and along the coast than in the interior. The Spanish steamer Cantabria was driven ashore at Ayre, Isle of Man.

A rocket brigade was standing by tonight and an attempt will be made to refloat the vessel at high tide. The crew of 25 was reported to be in no immediate danger.

The gale and sea had apparently taken an undetermined toll of life in the sinking of the German steamer Herrenwyk off the Irish coast. The Danish steamer Estonia rescued 13 of the German seamen but the crew of the Herrenwyk was believed to have included many more.

Fog rather than wind was blamed for the mishap to the Greek steamer Virginia, abandoned by its crew off Portugal. The crew was rescued by a Spanish trawler and after being landed at Oporto charged that their ship had been struck by an unidentified vessel which had made no attempt to aid them. The Virginia tonight was reported under tow for Oporto by those who had found her abandoned and floating.

USES FOR SOFT COAL AND ITS BY-PRODUCTS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 23—(AP)—Homes built of coal by-products and permanently tinted in any color of the rainbow; power from the sea; propulsion of automobiles by coal gas; long distance transmission of coke oven gas in Germany, and piping of natural gas from the gulf to the Great Lakes in the United States were some of the chemico-mechanical wonders visioned today at the second international conference on bituminous coal at Carnegie Institute of Technology. The world congress ends tomorrow.

"There is another use for coal or rather coal by-products, and that is building of homes" declared Dr. Gustav Egloff and Dr. J. C. Morrell, Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, in a joint paper.

"When I walk down a street and see block after block of buildings, dull brown or gray color, the thought comes to me 'why can't we build polychromatic homes' and the answer comes immediately 'we can'". Dr. Egloff continued.

SOME LIVES LOST WITH STEAMER HERRENWYK

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The loss of an undetermined number of the crew of the German steamer Herrenwyk was indicated tonight by a radio message from the Danish steamer Estonia, which had stood by for more than 24 hours in an effort to succor the distressed craft.

The message received by Lloyd's tonight relayed by the S. S. Transylvania and the Portishead Radio station read "Steamer Herrenwyk sank approximately 54.22 north 23.33 west. Terrific northwest gale. We standing by but impossible to launch boats. Seven men picked up. Total saved 13. Patrolling spot."

Earlier messages from the Estonia had been equally terse, but between the lines seamen read a story of heroic attempts to save the German crew when their ship became unmanageable about 845 miles west of Ireland.

"Enjoyed the Evening So Much!"

But what did they say on their way home? Even the most sympathetic of your friends have a way of comparing notes afterwards. The clothes you wore, the furnishings of the room, the food you served—each comes in for its share of the inevitable post-party conversation.

There is a way of keeping informed in those little things that catalogue your degree of smartness. It is through reading the advertisements, those messengers that bring news of the precise purchase to make. Advertisements lay before you the latest news in dress. They illustrate the newest decorative treatments for the home. They furnish you with unique and tempting recipes for the table.

They advise you what to buy, how much it will cost and where you can get it. They point out the pathway to saving pennies. They indicate the correct surroundings of a modern home.

Read the advertisements. They are a valuable guide to current usage.

DEATH OF THOMAS FORTUNE RYAN, A KING OF FINANCE

Starting His Career in a Dry Goods Store, Mr. Ryan, at 77, Had Accumulated an Estate Estimated as Between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000—Held Membership in a Big Traction Syndicate, Was Interested in Numerous Railroad Organizations and Had Immense Holdings in Tobacco Stocks—Was Foe of William Jennings Bryan—Mr. Ryan Was a Man of Silence and Preferred to Keep the Public at a Distance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Thomas Fortune Ryan, one of the founders of big business, died today at his Fifth avenue home, leaving wealth reputed to be between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000.

The financier, inactive in recent years after a spectacular career that embraced democratic politics as well as high finance in the utility field, was taken ill last Tuesday with acute inflammation of the bladder. He improved somewhat until last evening when he suffered a collapse. His age —77 years—and his general physical condition precluded an attempt to operate. Death came early this afternoon with members of the family at the bedside.

Word of how Mr. Ryan had disposed of his estate, apparently one of the largest ever accumulated by an individual, was awaited with interest; for it was recalled that he had been estranged from his son, Allan A. Ryan, a broker, several years ago. At the time of the younger Ryan's bankruptcy in 1922 after the famous Stutz Motor corner in Wall street, it was reported that the father had placed part of his money at the son's disposal.

The life story of this man of many millions is typical, too, of the careers of other pioneers of his period who, after struggling through boyhood and youth, found use for latent talents in the business opportunities that were opening up in this country 50 and 60 years ago.

Thomas Fortune Ryan, who was one day to be denounced by William Jennings Bryan as typical of the predatory interests which the democracy must battle, worked as a boy of 17 in dry goods houses of Baltimore. Two years later found him in Wall street as a broker's clerk and another four years saw him a member of the New York Stock exchange.

The youthful adviser to National county, Virginia, quickly developed an interest in street railways and lighting systems. William C. Whitney, himself a traction magnate, became his friend, a relationship that led to Ryan's selection as the man who was to have charge of the vast Whitney interests for a quarter of a century.

Ryan got membership in the big traction syndicate that finally took control of the New York Metropolitan Traction Co. and its subsidiaries. A group that eventually emerged as the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. In this syndicate were such men as Whitney, Anthony N. Brady, John Dolan, P. A. B. Widener and William L. Elkins of Philadelphia and the day came when the properties they controlled had a combined capitalization of a billion and a half.

Mr. Ryan was interested in numerous railway organizations in the south, in Ohio, and in West Virginia, and extended the scope of his activities by acquiring equities in rubber and diamond concessions in the Congo Free State.

The financier's place in politics was in the anti-Bryan wing of the democratic party. As a delegate to the 1904 national convention, he was largely responsible, so the story went, for the acceptance by various factions of Alton B. Parker's declaration for the gold standard plank.

Bryan's excoriation of Ryan came in the 1912 convention in Baltimore. The capitalist, however, did not let the attack diminish his enthusiasm for the party and he always contributed generously to its war chests.

Mr. Ryan was known as a man of silence who preferred to keep the public at a distance. When he did talk, especially in the earlier years of his success, it was often to extol the virtues of the country beyond the Alleghenies, which he believed was to be a land of fortune.

Part of his immense holdings were in tobacco stocks, and he was long an important figure in that industry, as well as in utilities. He was the largest stockholder in numerous large tobacco concerns.

Mr. Ryan maintained three estates —his Fifth avenue home, which was his legal residence; a 4,000-acre tract, "Oak Ridge," in the Virginia county of his birth, and "Montebello," at Suffern, N. Y. The latter, near enough for overnight sojourns, was his summer home. At Oak Ridge he kept a stable of fine horses, although unlike his old friend Whitney, he was not interested in racing.

Only two directorships were held by the financier when he died. One was in the Guaranty Trust Co., of which he was reported to have maintained a deposit of $40,000,000; the other was in the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio railway.

Mr. Ryan's first wife was Ida M. Barry, daughter of John D. Barry, proprietor of a Baltimore store in which he worked as a youth. She died 14 years ago. His second wife, who survives, was formerly Mrs. Cornelius C. Cuyler of New York. To whom he was married in 1917. She was in the family group at the deathbed.

WESTERN TRAINMEN ACCEPT WAGE INCREASE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Conductors and trainmen of western railways today accepted a 6 1-2 per cent. wage increase, retroactive to May 1, 1928, when their former agreement with the railways expired.

Announcement of the agreement was made by J. W. Higgins, chairman of the conference committee of managers of western railways, at the close of a week of secret conferences with representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen and the Order of Railway conductors.

The increase is that approved by the federal finding commission, which recommended that the employes be given a 6 1-4 per cent. increase with no change in the working rules, or a 7 1-2 per cent. raise in case of a change.

Railways had asked abolition of the double header rule. The trainmen and conductors insisted on the retention of the rule, contending that the use of two-engined freight trains was dangerous.

The wage increase affects 42,000 employes and adds $6,500,000 to the payrolls of the western railways, according to Higgins' statement. It will be in force until May 1, 1929.

NEW GOV. OF NEW YORK FEDERAL RESERVE BANK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—A young man, less than 20 years from the college campus, today became governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, the largest in the system.

He is George L. Harrison, who has been associated with the system since its organization in 1914, and since 1920 a deputy governor of the New York bank. He succeeds the late Gov. Benjamin Strong.

For some years Governor Harrison has had charge of the bank's relations with foreign banks of issue and previous to that was in charge of its cash and collection functions, giving him a wide experience both in foreign and domestic banking affairs. Since 1920 he has been secretary of the Conference of Governors of all Federal Reserve banks, held semi-annually in Washington.

Gates W. McGarrah, chairman of the New York bank's board of directors, announcing the appointment, said that as deputy governor Mr. Harrison had demonstrated his ability and thprough knowledge of all the operations of the Federal Reserve system.

TWO YOUNG MEN ADMIT PART IN BANK ROBBERY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23—(AP)—Two young men who said they were miners from Monongah, W. V., tonight according to police had admitted their part in the $15,000 holdup of the First National bank of Trafford and the kidnapping of a man who sounded an alarm today, as well as furnished the names of their two companions, who escaped.

The Monongah men, held in the state police barracks here, gave their names officers said, as Sam Ucci and Patrick Trader, and authorities revealed that they were searching for "Bill" Davis of Detroit and a man known as "Eddie" of Wheeling, W. Va.

NEPTUNE PRANKS WHEN HOOVER CROSSES EQUATOR

U. S. S. MARYLAND, en route Amapala, Honduras, Nov. 23—(AP)—"Shellbacks" on board Herbert Hoover's good-will ship bound for Central and South American ports were all set today for the program of equator crossing initiation, which probably will be Thanksgiving day.

E. C. Tear, chief torpedo man, from Washington state has been selected to rule as Neptune, the god of the sea, and H. Sears, electrician, first class, of New York state, will be his queen.

Only about 200 of the officers and crew of the Maryland have been across the mythical line, and more than 1,000, including most of the members of the Hoover party, will be initiated. The officers, or perhaps the visitors, will undergo the initiation first. Then will come the sailors turn, at the probable rate of two minutes to the man.

Davy Jones is expected to come over the bow of the Maryland the day before the equator is reached, and make proclamation that his majesty, Neptune, will come aboard with his royal attendants at the equator.

These will include the royal barber, royal whales, royal pollywogs, royal dolphins and royal sea lions. There will also be the royal doctor, who customarily prescribes a bitter pill for the initiate, after which he is shaved by the royal barber, and is cast to the royal pollywogs, dolphins and sea lions in the royal tank.

Neptune's court of 60 is expected to introduce many innovations in the ceremonies for the edification of the Hoover party.

COOLIDGE CONSIDERING A TRIP TO FLORIDA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—President Coolidge is considering a trip to Mountain Lake, Fla., about February 1 to dedicate a bird sanctuary.

All of the president's engagements for this winter are necessarily tentative because congress will be in session, but he is hopeful that he will be able to get away for the Florida trip.

The bird sanctuary is an undertaking that has been promoted by Edward Bok, Philadelphia editor, and the president is interested in the project from the standpoint of saving the nation's bird life.

OBITUARY
Rev. E. Y. Mullins

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23—(AP)—Rev. E. Y. Mullins, outstanding Baptist leader, died at his home here today, death ending a career that carried the son of a Texas preacher from printer's devil to a position of leadership and authority in national and international denominational affairs.

Death, coming just at noon today with his wife and three sisters watching at the bedside, followed a stroke of paralysis on Nov. 16 from which he was unable to rally. Dr. Mullins was nearly 69 years old and for the last 29 years had been president of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary here.

His death was a signal for cessation of activities on the seminary campus where students will hold a memorial service [illegible]

ARMY DESERTER ARRESTED AS BURGLARY SUSPECT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23 — The police took into custody early this morning, George W. Lawson, 21, of Olive Hill, Ky., a private in the U. S. army, as a suspect in connection with three overnight breaks into filling stations on West Main street. The stations entered are conducted by Morris Sussman, the Quality Tire Co. and by Merton E. Phillips, respectively.

Under questioning Lawson said that he was stationed at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, N. J., but information later was to the effect that he had been stationed at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., where he has been classed as a deserter since Oct. 25, last. Army authorities requested of local police that the young man be turned over to them but, inasmuch as it is expected that Lawson will be wanted here for the burglaries, the request was temporarily refused.

Entrance at the Quality Tire Co. station was made by breaking a window on one side of the building. A cheap ring that was in the register and half a dozen cigars were taken. The break into the Sussman station was also through a window. The loot secured here consisted of about 100 pennies and two tires worth about $20 apiece and a quantity of denatured alcohol. The pennies had been left in the cash register. At Phillips' station a number of pennies is all that a preliminary inventory disclosed as having been stolen.

JEWETT CITY

HUNTING SEASON POOR AND FOR MANY REASONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 23—It is a safe bet that the hunting season which closed this week, will hang up the smallest game record ever known since a hunting law became effective. The several dozens of pheasants which have been liberated in local covers, have been badly scattered or have left the local woods entirely. Partridges were reduced by the worms that appeared in their bodies two seasons ago, so that a sportsman might hunt for days without meeting with one. Ruffed grouse and quail are benefitting by the protection of law. A few gray squirrels have been bagged, with now and then a rabbit. That's all!

MRS. NANCY M. ESTERLY DIES AT ST. PETERSBURG

News of the death of Mrs. Nancy Maine Green Esterly at her home in St. Petersburg has just been received here. She is well remembered by a host of friends throughout the surrounding countryside as Nancy Maine, daughter of Ephraim and Mrs. Katherine Thomson Maine, who for many years occupied the home now owned by George Coats. Later Miss Maine married Rev. Benjamin Green of Lynn, Mass., and at his death she became the wife of Charles Esterly of St. Petersburg, Fla. Wherever she made her home Mrs. Esterly was a powerful influence in all circles of righteous living. For many years she was president of the Women's club of St. Petersburg and made a name for herself and the club. For the past few years Mrs. Esterly has been in failing health. Burial will be beside her first husband at the Second church cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Birdsey Palmer and family entertained at a roast lamb dinner Monday evening, Mrs. Annie M. Cook, Mrs. Byron Dawley and Miss Sarah Thomson Palmer.

Mrs. Etta Miner has left her home here to take charge of a family of four, Mr. and Mrs. Coon, son and daughter, of Ashaway.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Almy attended the funeral of Mrs. Davison in Westerly Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Davison were formerly Clark's Falls residents, where Mr. Davison conducted a felt mill, as he does now in Westerly.

Mrs. Martin Willys and infant daughter Theresa, have arrived home from Backus hospital, Norwich.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves

If you only knew—you nervous, anemic women — what new strength yourself around on great nerves — what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment. Start going to your druggist and getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. Dora Robillard of Millbury, Mass., R. F. D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing in addition to the other work.

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the last 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will put them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, you get your money back on request.

If you could watch your speeding crankshaft

—you would see why a winter oil should have richness to cushion the bearing surfaces against metal-to-metal contact, as well as fluidity to assure quick starting.

Many fluid, so-called "winter oils" lack this richness. They are extra-thin oils—made to give you quick starting on cold days. But when your engine gets hot these over-thin oils thin out still more and leave the friction surfaces in direct contact with each other. This quickly wears out your engine.

Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic is the most-used winter oil in the world's coldest countries because it has these two qualities: (1) exceptional fluidity that permits easy starting in zero weather and (2) rich, viscous "oiliness" that makes it cling to the bearing surfaces and shields them against grinding contact.

You can buy Mobiloil from most dealers who are not controlled by gasoline refiners. The Mobiloil sign is a mark of the independent dealer.

T. J. CAFFERY IS DEAD, ILL ONLY A FEW HOURS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23—A death that came as a surprise shock to all who knew him was that of Thomas J. Caffery, 38, who died at his home in Attawaugan during the early hours of this morning. Yesterday afternoon Mr Caffery, who was engaged as an automobile salesman in this territory was in Danielson and talked with numbers of people who knew him. He appeared to be in his normal good health and there was nothing about his demeanor to indicate that his end was so near. However, he became ill while riding in his car during the afternoon and died just before 2 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Caffery was a native of Warren, R. I., but had been a resident of this town for years. He leaves his mother Mrs. Mary O'Neill Caffery, with whom he made his home, and two brothers, James of Attawaugan, and Bernard of Danielson.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Dolphis Frenette

A death at the home in Moosup this morning was that of Mrs. Rosilda Marie Frenette, 69, wife of Dolphis Frenette. She had been ill for a number of weeks. Mrs. Frenette, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robideaux and a native of St. Marcel, P. Q., had been a resident of Moosup for years. She leaves her husband, four sons and four daughters—Joseph, who is at Uncas-on-Thames, Arthur of Franklin, Mass., Archie of Hartford, Deus of Sterling, Mrs. Marie Beaulieu, Mrs. Rose Taillon of Woonsocket, Mrs. Exilda Loiselle of Woonsocket and Mrs. Regina Sicard of Moosup.

Finds Old Coin

A blackened coin, thrown aside in a tool box for years by Walter Wojick of the West Side, turns out to be a token that was good money in the United States back in Andrew Jackson's day. It bears the date 1834. On a recent day the coin was taken out for examination, scoured and brightened up and proved not to be the penny that it was thought to be, but something of greater historical interest. It is of bronze and apparently was of about the value of the present day cent at the time it was in more or less common circulation. Brought to the West Side school by Stanley Wojick, a pupil and son of the owner of the coin, it attracted the attention of Mrs. A. W. Logee, one of the teachers, who has an interest in old coins. Making it particularly a curious thing and indicating something of one of the issues of public interest back in those days is the impression of a pig that it carries and the inscriptions "Down With the Bank," and "This Is My Victory."

FUNERAL

William Barlow

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home in South Killingly a funeral service for George William Barlow, Civil war veteran, was conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. Attending the service was a delegation from McGregor post, G. A. R., of Danielson. Burial was in South Killingly cemetery. The bearers were three sons of the deceased, Raymond, Hermand and Winsor Barlow, two sons-in-law, Patrick Coffey and Byron Place, and a nephew, Merrill Jacques. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Sunset tonight found many a hunter wending his way homeward through field or wood, the end of the bird shooting season of 1928 at an end. It is a matter of interest just now that the request of the commissioner of fish and game that hunters refrain from shooting partridges was respected through the past few weeks of the open season. There are reports to indicate that a considerable number of partridges remain in this territory, and if the winter does not prove to be too severe, they likely will be more plentiful in the spring. It is understood that measures will be taken to supply food to protected game birds during the winter season if storms of snow and ice cover up their ordinary sources of food.

From the various towns represented in the Quinebaug Circuit league delegates will come to Danielson next Friday evening for a meeting at the Methodist Episcopal church. Edwin Hill, secretary of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. will attend this meeting and will be the leader in the games to be played during the recreational period. The Circuit league meets periodically at various places along the Quinebaug valley.

In different churches in Danielson on Sunday there will be sufficient reference in the services of the day to the great fall festival to mark it as Thanksgiving Sunday. The holiday itself, to be observed next Thursday, will be much like a Sunday in Danielson. All manufacturing plants will be closed and all places of business except those that ordinarily serve the public as sort of an obligation, on holidays. The usual schedule for holidays will be in force at the postoffice, as to service.

Supt. Leon Farrin of the schools in Putnam came here today to renew many old friendships and acquaintances. Mr. Farrin was superintendent of schools in Killingly and Brooklyn up to four years ago, when he resigned to take up similar work in Massachusetts. It was with a great degree of cordiality that Supt. ### POLICE NOT SEARCHING FOR ARTHUR GOTHEREAU

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23—Arthur Gothereau of this city, who is the father of Arthur McDonnel Gothereau, according to a story told to Capt. of Police Jarvis by the mother of the child, Miss Anna Kelly, is not wanted by the police of this city. The child was not abandoned at the home of David Gothereau of Canal street it was later admitted by Miss Kelly, Miss Kelly with her four months old child, was taken to her home in Willimantic yesterday, by Miss Edith Gallant, Putnam probation officer, where she was placed in the care of probation officers.

The "Haven" home in Abington, an institution for aged and cripples has been incorporated under the laws of Connecticut. The incorporation of this institution was brought about by Mrs. T. Maurice Murray of Gwyn Care farm, Pomfret and Boston. Mrs. Murray, is the wife of Dr. T. Maurice Murray, and is highly interested in the accomplishments of the recently dedicated Abington institution. The incorporation was undertaken to insure perpetuation of the "Haven". Mrs. Murray is also having an artesian well sunk in the ground in the vicinity of the hospital. Announcement of the incorporation was made today by Mrs. A. G. Griggs, superintendent of the Haven.

Walter Champaigne of this city was before Justice P. P. Tourtellotte in North Grosvenordale Friday morning to answer a charge of breach of peace and assault upon John Williams, also of Putnam. Champaigne plead guilty to the charges and was fined $7.00 on each count and costs of court and will also serve 10 days in Brooklyn jail for his act. Officer Royal V. Scranton of Danielson state police barracks preferred the charges in court and also took Champaigne into custody.

Putnam public schools held no sessions today. All teachers in the educational department left this morning to attend a state teachers convention in New Haven. Schools will reopen Monday morning. The Thanksgiving recess will be observed in all the schools of the city on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 29 and 30 and will reopen again on Monday, Dec. 3, Superintendent of Schools Farrin announced today.

Six pupils enrolled in the Smith street school have answered the roll call of the local chapter of American Red Cross and have contributed six dollars to the cause. The faculty of the Smith street school lead their students in the work by sending their contributions of a dollar each to the Red Cross. The Smith street school is the only public school in the city that has supported the organization in their efforts of reaching their goal of 1,000 members.

LOCAL SCHOOL CHILD GETS LETTER FROM MR. HOOVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23—Miss Martha Shaw, a pupil in Mrs. Earl B. Kent's class in the Israel Putnam school is probably the most delighted school child in the city today, since she is the proud possessor of a personal letter from President Elect Herbert Hoover. The elated girl received her letter from the next president in response to one she wrote him during the final stages of the campaign, won by Mr. Hoover, lauding his training qualifications as a leader. Miss Shaw is eight years old and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanley Shaw of 305 School street. Following is the text of the letter received by Miss Shaw from President Elect Hoover:

Stanford University,
Calif., Nov. 15, 1928

Miss Ruth Shaw,
305 School street,
Putnam, Conn.

Dear Miss Shaw:

I have your very touching letter this morning. I deeply appreciate your kind thoughts in sending it to me and I wish to thank you for it.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT HOOVER

Supt. Harry Hill of the Putnam town farm said today that arrangements are now being made at the institution for the observance of Thanksgiving day. As in past years the inmates, 19 in number, will be provided with a real Thanksgiving dinner, consisting of chicken and other dishes.

David Bousquet died at his home on Smith street Thursday evening following a prolonged illness, at the age of 76 years. Mr. Bousquet is a native of Canada, having been born on April 2, 1852. He has lived for many years in this city and is well acquainted here, having a widespread circle of friends.

TRAIN HITS CAR STALLED ON TRACK AT GROSVENORDALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23—Mrs. Norman Price and her daughter, Mrs. Anthony LaPalme, wife of Dr. Anthony La Palme of North Grosvenordale narrowly escaped death Thursday evening when a car in which they were riding, stalled on Church's crossing in No. Grosvenordale and was struck by an oncoming train. The women were motoring to Putnam. As their car became centered in the tracks the engine stalled. Both tried in vain to move the vehicle but were unsuccessful. The warning apparatus located in the vicinity of the crossing began to inform the two women of the approaching train, and they exercised every effort to clear their automobile from the tracks.

The train, a freight, was coming apparently full steam ahead around the blind curve. The engineer was unable to see the car as he did not attempt to apply the brakes until the locomotive was but a few feet from the stranded vehicle. The car was hurled into the air by the cow catcher, landing and resting for a second on top of the engine and then crashing to the ground where it was completely demolished. Mrs. LaPalme's timely action of pulling her mother suddenly away from the car perhaps saved her life. The train stopped within a few hundred feet and an investigation was made by the train crew. The two women were taken to their homes quite shaken up by their narrow escape from injuries and possible death.

At the Second Congregational church last evening a considerable number of its members listened to an address by Dr John X Miller, well known educator who has spent many years of his life laboring among the native Hindus of India. ## PEACE PACT AND NAVY BILL

In the coming session of congress two matters are due to come up for action that threaten to conflict with each other. These are the ratification of the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war and the naval bill for the construction of 15 cruisers. They may conflict simply for the reason that there are those who carry the idea [illegible] inasmuch as there is the treaty for settling our international disputes by other means than resorting to war they feel that there ought to be no further step taken in the way of adding to our navy.

The fact is, of course, that one has nothing to do with the other. There should be a ratification of the treaty and there should be an adoption of the naval bill. We need the effort that is being made in behalf of peace but we cannot forego adequate provisions for giving protection to our varied and scattered interests. It has been estimated that we have at stake interests amounting to $50,000,000,000 which require naval vessels to insure their protection. We are far below the British in the number of cruisers and even with the proposed 15 we would still be below their cruiser strength.

We have undertaken to have a limitation placed upon other than battleships, but were not successful. We have seen how European countries have planned through secret treaty arrangements to control their naval activities and it must be apparent that while the Kellogg pact is a commendable thing, a step in the right direction, the time has not as yet come when we can totally ignore our interests and extensive coastlines.

This country has no desire of war. It has always preferred peace. It sees in the peace pact an added step in the direction of international peace. It does not desire a race in naval construction, but it does believe that the greatest safety lies in the added cruiser and an adequate navy, but not necessarily one that is bigger than any other.

Instead of the advocates of the two matters fighting each other there is good reason why they should join hands and adopt them both. They differ greatly in their objects but such action would by no means be inconsistent. Both are for peace and safety.

FLYING IN THIS COUNTRY

Progress in aviation is not to be measured solely by the number of attempts to fly across the Atlantic, the number of endurance flights or cross country trips for new records. They all have a part in demonstrating the skill and courage of the aviators and the excellence of the machine and its equipment, but aside from them there is evidence of progress of a substantial nature.

This is to be gained from the report of the aeronautical branch of the department of commerce which shows that for the fiscal year ending with June there were 2,000 aircraft manufactured in this country or 800 more than in the year previous and the value of the aircraft built this year totalled $14,250,000 or more than 60 per cent. greater than a year ago. Aircraft and parts to the value of about $1,000,000 were exported during the year and this item represents an 85 per cent. gain over the previous year.

All this gain reflects increased confidence in flying, a greater interest in actually participating and a healthy gain for the industry. But there are still other ways of noting the advancement. The report shows that up to the time it covered there had been established 11,191 miles of airways on which 27,817 miles are flown daily. Civil flying over this network does not by any means constitute all there is to it. It is estimated that it amounts to only about a tenth of the total, but it has increased considerably since the date of the report and is being added to regularly.

It is not difficult to recall when there were no airways and when airports were not thought of. They are both referred to in these days like steamship routes and ports in connection with marine operations. They are in fact going to be much more common even than they are today. It is the claim that no up to date city will be without them in a few years and from the progress being made in that direction it is evident that such a claim is by no means an exaggeration.

Interest in aviation is growing by leaps and bounds and that interest has gotten its stimulation from the performances of those who have succeeded in developing better and better machines and the skill displayed in navigating the air.

CROSSING ELIMINATION

For the purpose of getting action in regard to the removal of certain grade crossings which it has ordered eliminated, the transit commission of New York has ordered its counsel to resort to the courts. It resents the failure of the railroads to do anything and seeks to have its orders carried out.

There have been more than 40 orders issued for the removal of such crossings in the last year and a half but the crossings still exist. New York law provides that the cost of such removals must be met by the railroad, the state and the town in which the crossing is located, the railroad standing half the expense and the state and town dividing the other half. Many of these orders have to do with the rail lines on Long Island, which are known to be particularly bad.

Apparently the commission believes that the railroads are in a financial position to do the work ordered, that the crossings are in that class which really should be eliminated in the interest of public safety and that there is a disregard for its authority which amounts almost to contempt.

Long Island railroad crossings figure prominently in many fatalities. If reports are correct the responsibility to a large degree rests upon the highway users at such points for it is too often the case that motorists crash through gates or refuse to heed the warnings of watchmen when efforts to protect them are utterly disregarded. Flagmen have even been run over in the mad determination of drivers to get ahead of trains. Penalizing the railroads, and at the same time placing additional burdens upon the traveling public or the taxpaying public, because of this wilful personal negligence seems a bit hard and yet there can be no question but what there are crossings which ought to be removed in the interest of safety and for the relief of congested conditions and for the purpose of eradicating the daredevil stunts which are too often performed at such points.

Just what the plea of the railroads is in not carrying out the commission's orders is not disclosed but they are apparently only delaying the inevitable if the commission's orders are reasonable.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

In a recent statement Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the highways committee of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, declared, "There is little reason to doubt that the public will continue to vote large sums for road improvement so long as it can be assured that funds are intelligently expended."

When we stop to realize how much road building has been done because of the increasing number of automobiles, how large the contribution of the auto owner has been to such construction and maintenance and how large an increase there is from year to year in the number of new auto owners there can be little doubt but what Mr. Chapin is right.

We have not only experienced the benefits of good roads in many ways but we have found that we cannot get along without them. What we have are not enough. We need more of the modern roads, we need wider roads of a permanent character which will sustain not only the pleasure car traffic but take care of the heavy trucks and we need an improvement of those cross roads, those country roads on which live those who have contributed to the support of the highway system and who have a right to demand better accommodations in the way of highways while those who want to reach them are justified in feeling that some attention should be given to the so-called country road.

We have seen main thoroughfares established, resurfaced, replaced with permanent pavement, widened and even resurfaced. We have witnessed the expensive work of reconstructing roads, eliminating curves and rebridging streams. This means expense in which the side-road, country fellow shares proportionately with the rest, especially if he runs a machine, but during all this time he has gotten, in many instances, no benefits in his immediate vicinity. The road he uses the most is as it was before the auto came, or worse. He may have no right to expect a 40 foot cement highway but he ought to get some consideration, at least a good gravel road.

FEELING THEIR WAY

Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany feels that the Kellogg pact should enable Germany's neighbors to disarm at once so that their armies and navies will become reduced to police size.

That is a hopeful outlook on his part. It is to be hoped that he sincerely believes it. It would be even more satisfying if the other countries to which he refers were similarly minded. It is not to be inferred that the countries of Europe stand out in opposition to the Kellogg pact, or that they will not abide by its provisions in case of ratification. Yet it is to be realized that experiences of the past makes it necessary to proceed cautiously before any such throwing aside of armament can be accomplished.

The Kellogg pact gives promise of an excellent beginning. It is another step ahead in the right direction. It indicates that the countries which have had their representative affix their signatures are thinking peace more seriously than ever. It indicates a preference for law rather than war but it has become apparent that it is not going to be gained in one fell swoop. We are moving forward gradually to a desirable common goal but the best and most permanent progress is going to be accomplished through continued action of that kind.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

One reason for the continued popularity of the parable of the prodigal son is that it touches our common life at so many points. Now the life we live today, so far removed in time and space from existence in Palestine twenty centuries ago, does not differ in its major aspects from life then. There was first of all the insolent boy —exactly as we sometimes see today, saying "give me the portion of goods that falleth to me!" A demand that he had no right to make. He had no claim on his father's property as long as his father was living. Hot-headed boys are apt to be unreasonable whether living in Palestine centuries ago or in America today. When they become dissatisfied with the old home with its love and spirit of sacrifice they are apt to be impudent and make very foolish demands, and in nine cases out of ten, if they persist in their foolish demands, they will end up in the swineherd's hut.

Just how far it was wise on the part of the "prodigal's" father to grant that foolish request is a matter of conjecture. Any boy with no more brains than he had to make such a request would be very likely to squander his patrimony in "riotous living." That was the logical result of such a temperament. Possibly the father could have used restraint, but would it have been of any use as long as rebellion was in the boy's heart? If the spirit of "wild oats" is there it was bound to manifest itself in some shape whether he remained at home or went into the "far country." I sometimes wonder what sort of a home environment this prodigal boy had. Of course if it is merely a parable and has no foundation in fact, but is meant to typify our Heavenly Father's goodness—why, that is one thing. But I sometimes feel that many homes are responsible for driving boys away.

There are some trends in world relationships today that certainly seem to justify an intelligent optimism. I am careful in making this statement to use that qualifying adjective "intelligent," because so much of prevailing optimism is not intelligent. We are very apt to see in the political atmosphere and the spiritual skies the things which we would like to see. It is easier to see those things we are looking for than the things that come to us unexpectedly. But some things are looming up so big as to be visible to very weak eyes. Nothing is more apparent than a world-wide desire for universal peace among all civilized races. To be sure there is more or less fear that this is too good to be true, but the desire exists and the same. Never was there a time when the nations were more careful of their attitude one toward another. Never has there been a time when all Latin America was so willing to welcome a great American as now.

Recent world happenings certainly tend to recall that age-long question of the relation of disaster to the overrulership of a Divine Providence. It is sometimes asked if the Almighty holds the great forces of the natural world in his grasp, why does He not curb them to that extent as to prevent the destruction of valuable property and vastly more valuable human lives? What earthly father, it is asked, would allow any awful force to slay his little boy, if he had the power to prevent? That seems very plausible, at first, but back of it all may there be some larger purpose which at present our little minds cannot grasp, wherein some greater good is ultimately revealed that makes it wiser not to interfere with great natural laws without which none of us could live? Do not such calamities tend to make humanity feel their essential oneness?

There is nothing more fatal to one's success in life than to lose faith in himself. From our point of view it does seem that some people have more than their share of misfortunes, and have some reason for being despondent. They may not be at all to blame for passing through a long series of disasters until they seem to be down and out. For all this they may not be at all to blame. These troubles may have come from causes for which they were not at all responsible. Hence they are not to blame for being down and out. But they are to blame if they stay down and out; if they make no effort to rise above the deplorable condition they are in. If they have a bit of faith remaining in their own integrity they will do all that is humanly possible to get out of the fix they are in. There is hope for any man when the urge gets hold of him to get out to strike off the fetters that bind him down.

In an age where so much is done that borders on the miraculous, we are tempted to believe in almost anything that is said to have yielded to scientific research, but I do think that we balk just a bit when we are told that some daring explorer has received a message from Mars. If so we shall be fully justified in calling the churches together and joining in united prayer that this message from Mars is not a declaration of war on the part of that planet against her sister planet, the earth. We have lived together for so many hundred millions of years in perfect amity that it would have a bad effect on our attempt at world peace to have interplanetary bombardments before the Kellogg pact is ratified by the congress of the United States. If our government is on to its job it will be well to send a committee consisting of Senators Heflin, Harrison and Borah to pacify Mars.

A most striking article appears in a recent issue of a religious journal relative to American generosity in relieving want in a distant part of the globe. It is known to the world as the Near East Relief. It is all the more prominent because probably the last call is being made for benevolence along this particular direction. If America had not met the awful situation with her usual intelligence and liberality, the fatality would have been one of the most frightful in all human history. No part of the world has suffered more from the ravages of war than southeastern Europe and western Asia. In the last 12 years, 1,500,000 lives have been saved; 132,552 children have received physical, moral, vocational and religious training. Children outplaced during the last four years number 30,000. As the causes of this work have been removed, there is to be only one more great drive for $6,000,000.

We are reminded from a great multitude of sources that it is well to do your planning for Christmas early. Reader, have you followed out these suggestions? Have you put down on paper all the gifts you are going to present your wife's relatives? and to those on your side equally dear? Without keeping a memoranda of these gifts from year to year it is hard to remember what you gave last year to Aunt Martha and Uncle Jacob. If you find difficulty in recalling these gifts be consoled by the thought that many of us much younger than you are in the same box. It is not always the intrinsic value of a gift that makes it acceptable. A piano would not be prized so highly by your lame grandfather as a walking stick. Sometimes a gift is to be looked at from the standpoint of the giver. A certain little girl loved her aunt dearly, and gave her what she thought was the most wonderful thing in the world, and that was a small brass monkey.

COAL: BOTTLED SUNLIGHT OF LONG AGO.

"Discovery by French engineers of large deposits of coal in Morocco may write that country's name unexpectedly large on the future industrial maps of the world," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Africa has always been clashed with South America as the poorest of the continents in coal deposits," continues the bulletin, "and likelihood of considerable industrial development in the fields dependent on fuel seemed limited to the neighborhood of the few small coal beds in Natal and Transvaal, South Africa.

Nature Bountiful to Great Britain

"What coal means in the development of a country can best be understood perhaps by considering the case of Great Britain, but something of the importance of this fuel in the life of the entire modern world can be visualized easily enough by any American in sight of the trail of smoke left by a railway train or a steamship, or who can look upon a factory chimney or even a radiator.

"Nature's coal gifts to Great Britain were more bountiful than to any other European country; and it was in Scotland and England that Europe first saw the utilization of these 'black rocks' on a considerable scale. It is believed that the smiths of ancient Greece used small quantities of coal in their forges, but later the fuel apparently dropped from use. The Roman legions in England burned coal in their camp fires, but do not seem to have introduced the fuel into Rome.

"For the next 500 years coal was hardly mentioned in the records; but in 852 A. D. it was being used as fuel in several British monasteries. The first charter to mine coal in Great Britain was issued in Scotland in 1239, and 30 years later the fuel was being shipped to London in steady though small quantities by the monks of Tynemouth. But the use of this fuel did not spread rapidly to the rest of Europe. It was in 1295 that Marco Polo came back to Venice from China and astounded the Venetians with the assertion that the Chinese burned 'black rocks.'

Steam Engine Boomed Coal Mining

"During the next few centuries the use of coal for household heating and cooking and by smiths and other small industrialists grew steadily in England and Scotland and mine after mine was opened and worked in crude fashion. But it was not until after the invention of the steam engine in 1784 that coal mining became a great key industry. The effect of this new device was two-fold. On the one hand it made possible the pumping of water from the mines and the easy raising of coal to the surface from even the deepest workings. On the other hand it multiplied the fires to be fed with coal and so greatly stimulated the demand for the fuel, not only in Great Britain, but all over Europe and in America and Australia.

"Today, especially in the temperate zones, coal is the staff of life for industry and our particular type of civilization as truly as bread is the staff of our bodily life. Coal's contribution to transportation is apparent enough, but some of its other vital services are not so evident. As a matter of fact nothing like our life in great cities could have developed under our climatic conditions but for the warmth given by coal. It was simple enough in the log cabin, village, and manor-house days to maintain warmth in winter by burning wood; but one can hardly imagine huge modern skyscrapers and theaters as well as city homes heated solely by wood, even if our forest could supply the millions of cords of logs necessary.

"So it is with light. Modern street lighting, and the lighting of office buildings and dwellings could not be carried on but for gas or electricity, and both simply in most cases the burning of coal or a coal product.

New Chemical World From Lump of Coal

"Coal in large part makes the construction of our buildings possible. It bakes bricks, burns lime and cement, and enters into the manufacture of steel. It melts glass and smelts copper; and its pitch waterproofs our cellars and covers our roofs.

"The distillation of coal opened up a whole new chemical world. Thousands of new chemical compounds have been built up from substances distilled out of a lump of coal—all the colors of the spectrum to embellish our clothes and draperies and ornaments; powerful explosives; fertilizers; oils and fuels; a sweetener for our foods; a gas for our balloons; and invaluable substances for use by the sanitary engineer, the surgeon, and the physician.

"What is coal? It is stored up sunlight. When we burn coal to heat our homes today we are in effect 'uncorking' the warmth of the sun that streamed down on our world a million or more years ago. The sunlight became 'bottled' as it does today, by causing the growth of vegetation into woody fiber. According to the most widely accepted theory, this vegetable matter—the trunks, twigs, leaves and fruits of trees and smaller plants—fell into water and muck which preserved it from decay.

Coal Millions of Years Old

"Later the beds of vegetable material were covered by mud or sand and underwent chemical alteration under pressure, gradually changing to the substance we call coal. Under the microscope, the imprints of leaves and the existence of woody fiber can be found today in some specimens of coal. The type, or what is technically called the 'rank' of coal, depends on the amount of chemical change that has taken place. Peat is the beginning of coal, lignite or brown coal has progressed further in the concentration of carbon; in soft coal the original vegetable matter has changed still more; while in anthracite, coal of the highest 'rank' has been reached.

"The true coal that the world uses today was laid down probably millions of years ago. It was formerly believed that the vegetable matter accumulated as a result of rank growth in a hot, steamy climate. More recently the view has been advanced that climatic conditions during the deposit of coal materials were only a little milder than at present. This mild climate was probably world wide, as the presence of large coal beds in the polar regions seems to indicate. Coal materials are accumulating today in every peat-bog and in many swamps. Many of the peat-bogs are in relatively high latitudes.

U. S. Leads World in Coal Supplies

"In total known coal deposits, the United States leads all the world. It is probable, in fact, that this country has more than half of the world's coal. It also leads all other countries in the amounts mined and consumed annually. China ranks next in coal supplies, but her vast stores of potential energy have not yet been utilized to any great extent. Great Britain has large supplies of coal, especially in relation to her area.

"One important economic factor that has served to give Great Britain an almost unbreakable hold on the overseas coal trade is that her mines lie within a few miles of salt water. Another factor is that Great Britain's export are chiefly of relatively light manufactured goods which makes it profitable for the same ships to carry coal as ballast. On return trips the ships carry relatively heavy raw materials. As a result Great Britain has long held the coal trade of the coasts of the Baltic, France, Spain and many of the Mediterranean countries, and also supplies much of the coal imported into South America."

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

By WILLIAM MILLER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ATHENS—(AP)—The Greeks eat remarkably little.

The average Greek's breakfast consists of a cup of black Turkish coffee, served with the grounds, and a glass of water.

Traveling in the country during "the Great Week," as the week before Easter is called when the fast ordained by the Orthodox church is severe, a muleteer has been known to walk for 12 hours on a cup of black coffee, a handful of olives and a glass of resinated wine.

But when the Greeks eat a hearty meal their chief and almost sole meat is lamb in one form or another but never with mint-sauce. Indeed so great is the consumption of lamb, especially at Easter when the great fast is over that one wonders if there can ever be such a thing as mutton in Greece.

The most picturesque form of serving lamb is "on the soit;" a group of peasants sit down on the ground and roast a lamb whole transfixed by a spit the whole length of its body with a handle at the end which one of the party turns. This is the historic 'Klephtic' lamb which was the favorite meal of the Klephts in the mountains when they fought against the Turks. Of other common dishes there are bits of chopped meat wrapped in vine-leaves; moussaka a species of Yorkshire pudding with mince-meat inside of it had little "Kabobs" of meat which small boys offer on wooden spits at the railway stations.

Sweets are abundant. When a call is made at a Greek house the etiquet is to offer the visitor a cup of black coffee, a glass of water and a piece of "Turkish Delight" (the Greeks call it loukoumi) or a spoonful of jam. After drinking the coffee and a sip of water the visitor puts his jammy spoon into the mass.

Bowls of yiaourti, solidified sour milk, served with sugar, are a heritage of the Turkish times in Greece, as in Bulgaria, and are said to conduce to the longevity of the Balkan peasantry. The etiquet is to leave the bottom of the bowl untouched. As for bread, a peculiarity of Greece is the sale of huge rolls, strung on sticks, or even on the arm of the seller.

THANKS EVERY DAY

"O, give thinks unto the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy endureth forever." Psalm 107, 1.

"O, give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good." It is all we can give Him, and the least we can give; therefore, let us diligently render to Him our thanksgiving. The psalmist is in earnest in the exhortation, hence he uses the interjection "O" to intensify his words; let us be at all times thoroughly fervent in our thanksgiving, and also in our thanksgiving, that our daily lives may be filled with thanksgiving to the Giver of all our many blessings in all past years, for blessings that seemingly have been unnoticed by us. If an earthly friend should be so free with so many gifts and they were unnoticed, should not we seem very ungrateful? But when the Father of all is showing so much love and kindness, should not our hearts turn to Him on this Thanksgiving day in deepest gratitude? If we just will look for the blessings we can find them, many of them, even if there has been some severe trials which we cannot understand. There are shadows as well as sunshine, and always we can look for the rainbow in the cloud which tells us God is over all.

The greatest thing to be thankful for is, as David says, "to the Lord, for He is good; for His mercy endureth forever; He is not our friend for today only, but forever. No matter what our need or condition, He is always our friend; if in trouble, He is there to comfort and cheer. At all times we may call and He will hear and help. There is no friend like the lowly Jesus. He gave His life for us. What can each one of us do in return for such love? If an earthly friend gave his life for us, we should always revere his memory or be oh, so ungrateful! Let us henceforth render thanks unto the Lord from day to day, "for He is good."

A Troublesome Affliction—Colds—How to Cope With Them

By Joseph W. Miller, D. D., New York City

One of the most frequent, annoying and troublesome afflictions affecting man is no doubt acute coryza; commonly but wrongly termed a "cold." It attacks more persons than all other diseases combined. It is more frequent and severe at some times than at others, and is by far more prevalent in the temperate zones where human beings are most plentiful.

The causes of this malady are various. In most cases infection is brought about by external conditions either through virulent germs ever present in the atmosphere or less frequently through mechanical or chemical irritants. Formerly it was the opinion of many that "catching cold" was due mainly to sudden variations in atmospheric temperature and pressure. Today most physicians agree that exposure to cold and damp acts only as a predisposing factor; inasmuch as it may bring about changes in the circulation of the mucous lining of the nasal chambers and so prepare a fertile soil for bacteria to grow and multiply, giving rise to acute nasal catarrh.

Factory workers exposed to dust, smoke, gases and other chemical irritants are frequently attacked by acute rhinitis that later on may become chronic.

The symptoms of rhinitis before the free flow of secretion sets in are most marked, and are characterized by dull pain between the eyes and in the region of the forehead. Other symptoms are a feeling of fatigue and a sensation of burning, itching or tickling in the nose, most frequently extending backwards and downwards into the throat. Just about when the sneezing attacks subside, the flow of secretion sets in.

The lining membrane of the nose is frequently so swollen that the sufferer is forced to breathe through his mouth. This condition may often bring about secondary changes in the lower air passages. Usually the sense of smell is either diminished or entirely lost.

Due to the fact that the nasolachrymal duct, whose function it is to carry off the tears into the nose, runs through the inflammatory area it frequently becomes involved with consequent tearing from the eyes. The infection may also involve the nasal accessory sinuses, those hollow bony chambers located above, to the sides and in the back of the nose. Also, it may descend downwards, involving the larynx, trachea, bronchi and bronchioles, names given to the various divisions and ramifications of the lower air passages. Frequent attacks of acute rhinitis may result in chronic rhinitis with its varied complications.

The treatment of this frequent affliction should therefore be calculated to prevent future attacks. This is best accomplished by raising the body resistance to the disease by means of daily cool showers, moderate and regular exercise, light clothing, a well-balanced diet, sleeping in well ventilated rooms and vaccine injections. Nasal obstruction, malformations, new growths and other surgical conditions should, of course, be treated surgically.

To break up the "cold" we still use the age-old sweat producers, such as hot footbaths, hot drinks, certain powders, and then to bed between woolen blankets. There the patient is kept for about two hours, rubbed dry and changed to a freshly prepared bed. Fever reducing drugs are sometimes of value. But before resorting to drugs, a brisk cathartic and a high cleansing enema will surely help a great deal. And last but not least, consult your family physician ere it goes too far and prior to development of complications.

Little Talks on Thrift

Thrift Source of Greatest Happiness.

"The thought suddenly came to me one day that I was just drifting along from year to year without anything to show for my hard work."

How many people there are in the world who have had this same thought! Some of them have been brought to their senses by these reflections; others have just continued to drift.

Here are the words of one drifter who came to a realization of his plight and, while his fruitful years were still upon him, turned to the pathway of thrift.

"I read an article in a newspaper which set me thinking," he said. "I was confronted with the terrible thought that I was wasting the best years of my life without making any provision whatever for the future—without getting ahead. So I determined then and there to begin saving money. I found it hard at first. It is always difficult to change fixed habits in life. But after my savings began to grow I found it easier to deny myself the things I had grown accustomed to.

"It took my wife and I three years to save $1,000. Out of this we bought a lot and built a home. While we had to go in debt we were able to manage the payments and, owing to the growth of our little city, the land was constantly enhancing in value.

"My practices of thrift have revolutionized my life. I feel more self-respect, more self-confidence, and I am happier than ever was the case before I began saving money. Furthermore, I realize that I have a different mental viewpoint. I feel myself in harmony with my employers. I am more ambitious to serve them to the utmost of my ability, for I fully realize that after all is said and done we are all partners in our work."

That is a very simple story. It is not at all unusual yet it is the dramatization of one of the great principles of personal success.

If you are a drifter, stop immediately; learn the ways of thrift and practice them. It will bring you the greatest happiness there is in life, namely, that which comes from rightful progress and success.—By S. W. STRAUS President American Society for Thrift.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—It's a rare thing, judging by long experience in Washington, to find a man entitled to wear a high sounding military or naval handle to his name who deliberately soft pedals its use.

Such being the case in a city full of generals and admirals, active, retired and reserve, the Bystander was again edified when he called on an old friend who happens to be the first naval officer on whom congress conferred the rank of admiral of the staff in his own right and found him at work behind an office door that bears the simple legend, "D. W. Taylor, Vice Chairman."

He is, in fact, Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, retired, war-time chief of the bureau of construction, who since his retirement has been continuously active in the direction of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics. He was one of the original presidential appointees to the committee and could not be spared from that work on his retirement for age some years ago from the active list of the navy.

Navy's Ship Expert

The Bystander has no hesitation in saying that Admiral Taylor, or rather Dr. Taylor, since that is the handle he has preferred ever since his retirement, is the most distinguished naval constructor America has produced and among the foremost in the world. A casual glance over his record and personal accomplishments in furthering the art of scientific ship building will more than justify that assertion.

But what most impressed the Bystander was the breadth and scope of the explorative research work this man of nearly 70 has been guiding and directing ever since his retirement, and all with the smiling assertion that he is just dabbling a little, between visits to his Virginia farm.

That recalls a story told of him when, as a young officer stationed at Mare Island navy yard, he appeared to be devoted wholly to tennis, football, social diversions and the like. In the midst of this seemingly busy but not very studious life there appeared without warning Taylor's first book on ship skin friction, a new science virtually. It took all the guesswork out of warship speed ultimately and did away with the old navy speed bonus contract. That science, and the use of a model basin as a first aid to scientific ship building, were Taylor's contribution to the world.

Busy With Aviation

As of this day, with his active career supposedly behind him, the Bystander found Dr. Taylor buried beneath hundreds of suggested aviation inventions which must have his endorsement to get government financial support; delving also into possibilities of submarine safety devices of the future as active head of the board appointed as a result of the S-4 disaster; responsible for the ship hull change details of the project on which the shipping board is spending millions in an effort to add three or four knots to the speed of slow and uneconomic war-built freighters, and intimately in touch with details of work at the huge aviation research laboratory at Langley field operated by the advisory committee. There are stirringly promising things for the future of aviation in the works there.

And that is Dave Taylor's idea of the way to retire and take life easy.

IN DAY'S NEWS

THE PAPUANS.

"Recent reports from New Guinea that Papuans use dog teeth as a medium of exchange, is but one of the odd customs of these natives," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"A few Papuans who have mingled with Dutch and English settlers and missionaries have been taught that the skulls of neighboring tribesmen are not attractive ornaments for their huts, and in the coast settlements European clothes have displaced the loin cloth and string of shell beads, but Papuans in the forests still destroy one another at sight. Many of them have never seen a white man.

"Papuans are pagans. The Papuan cautiously approaches the rocks on the shore of the ocean and inland streams lest a spirit that abides there stir up a storm. A spirit in the clouds destroys their children, but the strongest spirit lurks in the forest. For this reason tribesmen seldom venture out at night.

"Papuan villages are built more for protection than comfort. Near the sea coast and rivers many of them are built over the water while in the interior they occupy the hills where the tribesmen can survey the neighborhood for enemy invaders. If a village is in a valley, it is usually protected by a high stockade or the huts are in the tree tops. Tree platforms are the tribal watch-towers.

"Constant fighting among the Papuans has caused a shortage of men so the women do the courting. When a tribesman is captivated by a Papuan lass he gives his prospective father-in-law a pig or dog and takes his bride to his hut. The wedding ceremony over, the bride joins the other wives in taking care of the hunt and working the garden while the husband goes fighting, hunting and fishing.

"Yams, sweet potatoes, birds, lizards, fish, and all kinds of insects are eaten by the natives. Turtles are a luxury to them but the favorite tidbit is a fat grub about three inches long.

"Papuans differ as to the disposal of their dead. They believe that each tribesman has two spirits. One flies with the body while the other remains with it to haunt the relatives. Sometimes a body is buried for a short time. Later it is disinterred, the bones cleaned and taken to the village.

"Some tribes dry the body on a platform and keep it a few years. Then it is buried and a house built over the grave for the spirit. A path is cut from the hut to the nearest stream so that the spirit may bathe and food is brought to the dead for a time so that the journey to the spirit world will not be made on an empty stomach. Papuan women keep their husbands alive as long as possible for when one tribesman dies, all his wives are tabu. Wearing 'widow's weeds' in New Guinea is literally true for Papuan widows doff their short knee-length grass dresses and strings of beads for grass 'gowns' that cover their bodies from their shoulders to their feet.

"The complete everyday wardrobe of a Papuan tribe of three to four hundred men could be packed in a good sized trunk or two. The loin cloth, a string of shells or beads and a few bone armlets are a Papuan's clothing.

"In some regions the tribesmen make themselves 'handsome' by piercing their noses with quills or bones. While their bodies are a mass of welts or are covered with tattooing. With these decorations and their clay-smeared hair dangling in long plaits, they are ready for a hunt—man or animal. They are expert marksmen, armed with their barbed spears, bows and arrows and beheading clubs."

ALABAMA RADISH CROP AT HEIGHT OF HARVEST

GREENVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The radish season is on in the Butler county section of Alabama and shipments are going to northern cities, in many instances to decide whether local farmers will make money, break even, or lose for the season.

Here radishes are a supplement to cotton, corn, and cane. Often they are a determining factor in the farmers' profits, particularly if the prevailing market price is good. They are sent to the north in iced barrels, and this year the shipments are large.

Fifteen miles to the north, in the Fort Deposit section, farmers are looking to their pecan crop for additional income. To the south, nearer Mobile, farmers have the Satsuma orange. In the Castleberry region, strawberries will be a prime crop by spring. Here, if the moisture and general climatic conditions favor, the radish season may continue through the winter months.

RACE HORSES ARE FED NEVADA HAY AS "TONIC"

RENO, Nev., (AP)—Each year thousands of tons of Carson valley hay are shipped to the east as an exclusive feed for race horses. Shipments now are going to racing stables in New York, New Orleans, Kentucky, Florida and other places in the east and south.

Racing experts say the Nevada climate puts elements into the hay that make it more a tonic than regular feed. It is three-quarters timothy and one-quarter alfalfa. Ranchers receive $18 to $20 a ton for it, but the delivery price is approximately $30 a ton.

Mission Centennial.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The one hundredth anniversary of American missions in Siam will be observed by a centennial in Bangkok during the first week in December, and the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions announces that a coincident celebration will be conducted from its headquarters in New York. The board reports that the Presbyterian church is the only protestant denomination operating in Siam.

Recipe for fried ham

A famous cook gives these simple directions

It is sometimes so simple to improve the flavor of foods. For example, a certain household is noted for its delicious fried ham which is a specialty for Sunday morning breakfast and other "occasions." The cook was asked for the recipe, and here it is:

Take a slice of smoked ham one-half inch or more thick. Sear each side to a golden brown, then reduce the flame and sprinkle two teaspoons of granulated sugar on the exposed side, keeping the flame low so that the sugar does not burn. Then turn the ham and sprinkle two teaspoons of sugar on the other side, keeping the flame low until the sugar is thoroughly dissolved and absorbed into the ham. When it is finished, you will have a delicious ham flavor such as you never found before.

The use of sugar in bringing out and improving the flavors of foods are practically unlimited. Sweeten cereals and note how much more children enjoy them. Add sugar to grapefruit or any other health-giving fruit that may be harsh to the taste. Sugar does not injure the beneficial acids and vitamins in any way.

A sweet dessert adds a feeling of satisfaction to the meal. Baked fruits, or fruit or berry pies, are especially delicious.

Eat nourishing foods and enjoy them. A famous food authority recommends one raw and one cooked fruit and vegetable a day, sweetened to taste. Sugar is Nature's perfect flavor. The Sugar Institute.

AUTOS CAUSED 30 PER CENT. OF ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Automobile accidents accounted for 30 per cent of the total number of deaths caused by accidental means in Connecticut last year.

While there was a substantial decrease in the death rate from disease as well as a decline in the rate from other accidental causes, there was an increase in the rate from automobile accidents, when figures for last year are compared with those for the preceding year.

The total number of deaths in Connecticut last year was 16,757, as against 18,318 in 1926. The mortality population of 1,636,000 as of July 1, 1927, was 1,024 per 100,000 of population. The rate for 1926, based upon a population of 1,606,000, was 1,140 per 100,000 of population. The decrease in the rate, therefore, was 116.

This decrease in 1927 was largely due to diseases in death rates from pneumonia, measles, nephritis, tuberculosis, diarrhea and enteritis, and whooping cough. Slight increases in death rates from cancer were reported.

Pneumonia in all its form took a toll of 1,348 lives, or 76.5 per 100,000 of population, last year, as compared with 1,629 lives, or 101.4 per 100,000 of population, in 1926. Deaths from influenza numbered 238, or 14.2 per 100,000 of population, last year as against 486, of 30.3, the year before. The largest proportionate decrease was shown in deaths from measles, the number of deaths dropping from 103 in 1926 to 24 last year. The total number of deaths from tuberculosis in all forms dropped from 1,222 in 1926 to 1,073 last year, representing a decrease in the rate from 76.1 to 65.6 per 100,000 of population. Nephritis caused 1,507 deaths, or 93.8 per 100,000, in 1926 and 1,362 or 83.2 per 100,000 in 1927.

Heart disease was the greatest single cause of death in Connecticut, causing 3,585 deaths last year or 62 more than in the preceding year. There was an increase also in the number of deaths from cancer, the total being 1,719 in 1927 and 1,663 the year before. Decreases in the number of deaths were reported for typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria, dysentery, rheumatism, diabetes, paralysis, bronchitis, appendicitis and congenital malformations and diseases of early infancy.

No deaths were reported from smallpox in the state for either 1926 or 1927, and only one death resulted from malaria as compared with two the year before.

Suicides accounted for 186 deaths or 11.44 per 100,000 of population, last year as against 216, or 13.4 per 100,000, in 1926. There were 35 homicides in 1927 and 44 the year the before.

Deaths from all accidental causes last year totaled 1,092, or 66.7 per 100,000 of population, as compared with 1,123, or 69.6 per 100,000, in 1926. Automobile accidents were responsible for 327 deaths last year, or 29 more than in 1926. Deaths from burns decreased from 87 to 72; accidental shooting, from 20 to 15; accidental falls, from 282 to 212; railroad accidents, from 51 to 41; excessive heat, from eight to seven; and airplane balloon and motorcycle accidents, from 24 to 22.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DELEGATES HAVE GOOD WORDS FOR HOSPITALITY HERE

A stirring address on The Dynamic of Religious Educational Ideals by Prof. Halford E. Luccock of Yale Divinity school, New Haven, brought to a close Friday evening the annual Connecticut State Sunday school convention at the Central Baptist church. Most of the 270 registered delegates were present at the final session which comprised a period of worship led by Prof. William C. Willoughby of the Hartford Seminary foundation, followed by Prof. Luccock's address. A number of the delegates left for home immediately following the close of the convention, about 9.15 o'clock Friday evening, the others remaining in the city over night.

The last session of the three day convention was assembled at 7.30 o'clock with Rev. William D. Beach, D. D., of New Haven, vice president of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, as the presiding officer. Dr. Beach presided at all of the general sessions of the convention. Prof. Willoughby was the leader of the worship period the theme of which was Appreciation of Youth's Quest of the Higher Value of Life.

Following the period of worship, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, spoke briefly asking the gathering of men, women, boys and girls from all sections of the state, to give a generous free will offering. We are coming now to the close of three very delightful and helpful days he said We have been able to see the holiness of beauty in worship. We have been led into the inner sanctuary of Truth. We have had new a wonderful fellowship with the state council and with you. We hope to see you come back to Norwich.

The offering was then taken after which Rev. Dr. Beach expressed his gratitude to those "who made everything so pleasant for the presiding officer" He also expressed his gratitude to the committee on arrangements and spoke with commendation of the music provided at the convention.

Introduced New President

Rev. Dr. Beach announced that the incoming president, Rev. Theodore A Greene of New Britain, will take office on January 1st. He then introduced the new president to the assemblage.

Rev. Mr. Greene expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him by the convention in electing him state president. I will do my best, he said, because I believe in religious education with all my heart and soul It is a pleasure to be here tonight.

Dr Beach then called on Rev A. Burkhart, associate director of Young People's work International Council o Religious Education, Chicago for a final word to the young people. Mr Burkhart who addressed the convention Thursday evening, and who was the leader of the young people's division all three days of the convention spoke briefly to the young people. During the course of his remarks Mr Burkhart said "Prayer gives power and unity to life Around the world youth are trying to find God Youth are searching around the world to find Truth.

Address by Yale Professor

The speaker of the evening, Prof Halford E. Luccock, professor of homilectics at Yale Divinity school, was introduced by Dr. Beach. Prof. Luccock delivered a masterly address on the subject, The Dynamic of Religious Educational Ideals. During his address, Prof. Luccock said: Our ideals in themselves, though a power, are not an adequate power to reach all that we want to do. It is a great thing to accomplish when we know just what we are trying to do.

He told an interesting story of a boy who received a new rifle as a gift from his father. The boy called his father into the yard to watch him shoot. "But what are you shooting at?" asked the father. "Oh, nothing" answere dthe boy, "but wasn't it a big bang?"

Very often, said Prof. Luccock, the Sunday schools have been shooting at nothing in particular. The professor said that real criticism can be leveled at a great many men's Bible classes along just that line.

The primary part of achieving religious ideals is the developing of a real experience with God, he said. As you face the task of successfully launching a life it seems almost impossible, it is accomplished by something that comes down and raises that life to a new level on the voyage of service, just as water raises a ship in a canal lock to a new level on its voyage.

What matters the whole world in religious equipment if we have lost our own life? The business we are all in is the business of making Jesus Christ live in the minds of boys and girls. The power of religious education will only come through a desperate belief in the necessity for it. When you let Jesus Christ drop out of a nation's life or out of the world's life, you let the sun drop out of the world's life. You can't order character, for spring delivery like you can order merchandise for spring delivery, F. O. B. Detroit.

The only way you can get anywhere is to get some fun out of your task. One of the greatest services Jesus Christ does for a man when He enters his life, is to take him out for a walk around the block and show him what kind of a place he lives in.

You can't think your way into Christ. You can't walk your way into Christ. You can only live your way into Christ.

The singing of a hymn by the assemblage and the benediction, pronounced by the new state president, Rev. Mr. Greene, brought the convention to a close about 9.15.

Endorses Peace Pact

At the morning session the convention adopted a resolution endorsing the Kellogg peace pact and urging the United States senate to ratify the treaty. The convention also went on record as heartily endorsing the fine work of the local committee in charge of the convention arrangements and also thanked The Norwich Bulletin and The Norwich Evening Record for the generous newspaper space devoted to the convention activities.

Later in the morning there was a symposium on young people's work in which Roy A. Burkhart, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Finn, director of Young People's work, American Baptist Publication society, and Rev. Harry T. Stock, secretary of the department Young People and Student Life, Congregational Educational society, Boston, were the participants. They took the place on the program allotted to Mr. Burkhart, associate director of Young People's Work, International Council of Religious Education, Chicago.

Afternoon Session

At the afternoon general session in the auditorium of the Central Baptist church, which began at 2 o'clock, Professor Willoughby conducted the worship with the theme, Appreciation of the Spirit of Unity, which was followed by the sixth in the Bible series by Professor Bacon. He spoke upon "How To Use the Parables in Teaching."

The address of the afternoon was by Rev. Robert M. Hopkins, D. D., of New York, general secretary of the World Sunday School association, who spoke upon "The General Educational Task of the Church."

Calling attention to Jesus teaching his disciples when he withdrew them into a mountain in sight of the multitude, Rev. Dr. Hopkins said that he gave us the lesson to follow the method of Jesus, the teaching method, the most powerful method He knew, a simple method but how remarkably powerful. This was a work of religious education and we are seeking to carry out the work which he would have us do.

The speaker referred to the development and growth of the Sunday school idea since it was started 150 years ago by Robert Hakes, a newspaper man, and declared that there is now greater activity in the work of religious education than has ever been seen before It is to be seen in Sunday schools, among laymen, among churches and among the church colleges. The method of the Master to teach the masses is the method for us to use.

Dr. Hopkins spoke also of the fine spirit of cooperation as indicated that there are 39 organizations which appoint their delegates to the international council of religious education. The outreach of the work is into the world field and we cannot stop at anything less than the religious education of the world.

Other meetings of the afternoon included the children's division programme, the young people's division programme and the administration division programme.

Luncheons were served at 12:30 at the Community house to three separate groups, children's division superintendents, committee on young people's work and summer school alumni At 6:15 a supper was served there to Sunday school workers of all grades

Delegates from other cities who were attending the convention were cordially expressive of the hospitality shown them by the local committees and in the local homes where they were entertained. They also spoke of the fine appointments and places for the meetings and of the efficient management of the many details as shown by the Norwich committees.

The state convention arrangements were carried out under the officers of the Norwich Council of Religious Education, whose organization is as follows:

President, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey; vice president, J. B. Stanton; secretary, Mrs. Emery H. Davis; treasurer, Rev Alexander H. Abbott. Standing committees— Chairman, Leadership Training, Mrs. Robert W. Otis; chairman, Week-Day Religious Education, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D.; chairman, Vacation Church School, Mrs. Robert W. Otis. Committee on arrangements—Chairman, Rev. Gurdon F. ### WET DRIVERS MAYP HAVE TICKET RIGHTS REVOKED

As a result of a considerable number of complaints received by the department of motor vehicles in connection with drinking and drunkenness at the football games in New Haven, it may be possible that a request will be made of the ticket department of Yale university to revoke the ticket rights of those persons found guilty of this offense. The request has not been made yet but the practicability of it is being considered and if complied with may mean the suspension of ticket privileges for a considerable number of fans. Between twenty and thirty cars were reported by number to the motor vehicle department in this respect at the Yale-Army and Yale-Dartmouth games. Investigations by the department are now in progress and in each case any person whose car was so identied has had his attention called to the complaint by letter of the department. A differentiation necessarily has to be made between plain intoxication and operating while intoxicated. Proof of guilt of the latter means suspension, either of license or privileges.

Offenders listed, besides those from Connecticut, represent three states, New York, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Whether revocation of ticket rights will be made retroactive to include past offenders, or will consist of penalties for the future, if the plan is adopted, rests upon future decision.

Commissioner Stoeckel's intended request is a part of the widespread activity inaugurated by the motor vehicle department, and state and local police to curb drunken driving during the heavy traffic on the days of the big games at the bowl.

The police are not only watching the entrances and exits of the bowl and the regular traffic lanes, but include restaurants and other gathering places after the games in the search for offenders. No attempt is made, with the sanction of any of the authorities interested, to interfere with enjoyment plans of the fans. The single intention of the watch, the department announces, is to keep intoxicated persons from driving cars.

That his must be done in the interests of safety is the firm conviction of the traffic supervisors

It is pointed out that the normal traffic in the state, which in itself is a problem for efficient handling, is increased by one-fifth in comparatively limited areas, during big game days. To insure safety and celerity with efficiency which with inconvenience the smallest possible number the police insist they must have the co-operation of all drivers.

The motor vehicle department maintains that it has been proven sufficiently and often that the driver who has been drinking is abnormal and can not give this desired co-operation

Failing this in the opinion of officials such a driver constitutes a menace to other users of the highway and to himself and other occupants of his automobile.

PRETTY CHRISTMAS BAZAAR BY LARA BARTON TENT

A pretty two-day Christmas bazaar was opened Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial by Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, with patronage that promises to make the bazaar an encouraging success.

A variety of attractive articles was offered at the different booths which were arranged in the parlors in charge of the following: Children's booth with bride doll, Miss Gladys Newbury; flowers, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church; Larkin booth, Mrs. Lillian Brewster; aprons Mrs. Lucy MacDougall; candy, Mrs. Bessie Thompson; fancy work, Mrs. Ethel MacDougall; mystery, Miss Lola Bell Roath. The Daughters of Veterans post office was a special novelty which was in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Cobb.

A Japanese tea garden was effectively arranged in the smoking room and was in charge of Mrs. Annie Turner assisted by Mrs. Alice Brinkman, Mrs. Cora Botham and Mrs. Carrie Prentice.

The bazaar is to continue through this (Saturday) afternoon with supper served in the evening.

LIFE-SAVING MEDALS TO TWO AT NEW LONDON

Lieut. Comdr. Henry H. Hemingway, commander of the coast guard destroyer Ericsson, residing at 545 Montauk Avenue, New London, was presented a gold life-saving medal of hono and Wenis of the coast guard patrol boat Motor Machinist's Mate Thomas J. CG-268 was presented a silver life-saving medal of honor by Capt H. H. Wolf, commander of the destroyer force, at a general muster at the state pier at New London Friday morning.

Lieutenant Commander Hemingway was given the gold medal in recognition of exceptionally brave and meritorious service in rescuing the crew of the burning steamship Nika off the west coast on Feb. 14, 1923 with great danger to himself and his men while in command of the Snohomish.

Motor Machinist's Mate Wenis was awarded his medal for heroic action in saving the life of five-year-old John Crosthwaite of South Ferry, R. I., at that place on June 1, of this year. The boy fell through a hole in a wharf and had gone down for the second time when rescued.

CONNECTICUT HAS LEAD IN SPINDLE ACTIVITY

Connecticut leads all the New England states in spindle activity for each spindle in place during October according to the report just made public by the United States commerce department. In the Connecticut mills there were 226,735,760 active spindle hours for October with an average of 210 active spindle hours for each spindle in place which is higher than the New England average of 154 active spindle hours per spindle in place.

The active spindle activity for each spindle in place in October for the other New England states was as follows: Massachusetts, 139 active spindle hours; New Hampshire, 146; Maine 135; and Rhode Island 198.

In Connecticut mills during the month there were 1126388 spinning spindles in place of which 1,054,126 were active, as compared with 15,319,454 in place in all of the New England states and of which 11,204,956 were active.

FENWICK HALL BARNS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire which destroyed the Fenwick Hall company's two old barns at Savbrook Point Thursday night did about $7,500 damage, according to Houghton Bulkeley, president of the company, who explained that the damage was to the contents and not to the barns themselves which were about ready to be torn down.

Fourteen small sailboats constituting an entire class of racing craft were destroyed with the exception of one, Mr. Bulkeley's own, which was stored in his mother's garage, the only building in the group which was saved by the Savbrook firemen. There was about $1,500 worth of equipment in the barns lost, two horses, one old automobile in storage, a farm tractor and the club's $400 gang lawn mower.

The sailboats were the only thing insured Mr. Bulkeley said.

Golden Picture in Nati. Academy

Mr. Selden has also a group of new watercolors in the annual watercolor exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts now in progress in Philadelphia, as well as one watercolor, shown last year in New York, now included in a selected group arranged by the Toledo museum of Toledo, O.

TESTIMONY AT INQUIRY OF THE VESTRIS DISASTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Out of two inquiries into the sinking of the liner Vestris came testimony today that refusal of Negro stokers to obey orders shortly before the ship went down contributed to the disaster, and that fear-stricken passengers were left to shift for themselves by a confused and disorganized ship personnel.

At the same time Superintendent Harry Wheeler of the Lamport and Holt line, owner of the lost liner, testified the ranking survivor officer had not yet officially reported on the disaster to his employers although Wheeler said the usual practice of the sea is that such accounts are promptly submitted.

The testimony regarding the stokehold difficulty came from James Avard Adams, chief engineer of the Vestris, who appeared before a department of commerce board of inquiry at the customs house. Testimony by Wheeler, and H. C. W. Johnstone, a survivor, and an affidavit by Edward Miles Wolcott, another survivor, telling of the confusion accompanying the sinking and the last minutes of Captain Williams Carey, who went down with his command, were offered in the hearing being conducted by U. S. Commissioner O'Neill in the federal building.

At variance with testimony from some of the stokers that they had remained at their posts until water reached their armpits a few minutes before the ship went down, the story told by Adams related that about four hours before the Vestris sank with a loss of more than 100 lives, the black gang bolted their positions, leaving 11 engineers to work deep in the ship.

"Don't you think the mutiny of that black gang contributed materially to the disaster of the Vestris," Adams was asked by Assistant District Attorney Todaro'll, who is aiding in the inquiry.

"Yes, it certainly did," Adams replied.

Asked if he had any firearms in his possession, Adams answered: "I had a gun in my cabin, but I had no ammunition."

GREEK STEAMER WAS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 23—(AP)—Dispatches from Oporto, where the rescued crew of the Greek steamer Virginia were landed today, state that their ship was damaged in collision with a large unidentified vessel which continued its voyage without ascertaining whether help was needed.

The first ships to reach the position of the Virginia near the Portuguese coast reported no trace of the ship and it was believed to have sunk. Later word was received that it had been found still afloat and that it was being towed toward Oporto tonight.

The Greek crew, who were rescued by a Spanish trawler, said that they were unable to identify the ship which struck their own because of the thick fog prevailing at the time. The Virginia sent out an SOS yesterday which brought Portuguese gunboats and an English warship to her aid beside the trawler.

CHANGE IN DIRECTOR OF SAFETY IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23—(AP)—The investigation of police corruption, bootlegging and general racketeering in Philadelphia today resulted in the resignation of the director of the department of public safety and the appointment as his successor of one of the principal prosecutors of corrupt policemen.

The director who quit is Harry C. Davis, long identified with the police bureau. His successor, who will assume his new duties December 1, is Lemuel B. Schofield, first assistant district attorney under District Attorney John Monaghan.

Davis' resignation had been reported ever since Judge Edwin O. Lewis more than a month ago, expressed the opinion from the common pleas court bench that he ought to resign because of conditions found in his department.

The resignation was announced by Mayor Harry A. Mackey who at the same time named the successor.

SEC'Y DAVIS ADDRESSED A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23—(AP)—A man who hoboed his way to New Orleans 36 years ago to get a dollar a day job driving a mule tram, delivered the principal speech here today at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

He was James J. Davis, secretary of labor.

"Thirty-six years ago I happened to be in New Orleans with a little labor matter on my mind," he said. "I was a youngster very much in need of a job and anxiously hunting one."

Secretary Davis explained he had been an iron puddler in Birmingham but a dispute had closed the mill.

"A number of us came by way of a side door Pullman to New Orleans where we got jobs working on the levee. I was driving a pair of mules that dragged a dirt scraper. Never before had I driven mules but I had to have a job and was willing to try anything."

Turning to the settlement of industrial disputes, Secretary Davis said his eight years in office had taught him that "force will never work."

"We must arrive at our industrial conclusions in a peaceful and harmonious way," he added. "All our problems can be solved without resort to violence if we but sit about the council table and think in terms of what is best for all concerned, the people as well as ourselves."

BULLETIN SAYS KING GEORGE HAD QUIET DAY

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—A reassuring bulletin came from King George's physicians at 8:45 p. m., tonight. It said: "The king had a quieter day. His temperature is lower and there was no further extension of the mischief in the lung."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson.

Official information given at Buckingham palace just before midnight was that the king continues to make satisfactory progress.

The Duke of York left the palace shortly before 11 p. m. and drove to his home in Piccadilly where he will spend the night. Throughout the evening persons in formal evening dress stopped their cars at the palace gates to inquire as to the condition of the king. They were given reassuring replies.

Game starts at 2:15 p. m.

Referee, Parker, New Britain; Umpire, O'Hara, Waterbury; Linesman, Managhan, Bristol; Field Judge, Mahoney, New Britain.

Nowich Free Academy, the Wildcats, and Bulkeley High of New London, the Tigers, probably the oldest high school rivals in New England, if not in these whole United States, meet on the gridiron for the 65th time this afternoon at the campus with the Academy a slight favorite. A capacity crowd of upwards of 5,000, probably 1,500 or more of them from New London is expected to jam the campus for this clash between bitter rivals.

The Academy is favored by practically everyone this season, only because the Wildcats' record shows five victories and three defeats against but two victories, one tie and six losses. However, Bulkeley followers hope for a rise to the heights by their eleven, such as has frequently happened in past Academy-Bulkeley contests. The chance of overconfidence on the part of the Academy is also giving Bulkeley men a ray of hope.

Records Go for Naught

It has been an idle thought in many past games to figure season's records as these two teams prepare for their conflicts. The dope bucket has been spilled on a record number of times and that the underdog always has a chance in this series is probably what has helped make it so great.

Both teams conclude their schedules today, Bulkeley's, which has been one game longer than the Wildcats, has suffered both from injuries and inexperience. Coach W. R. Canty was forced to mould almost a new team at the start of this campaign, as he also did in 1927. Bulkeley has lost practically all of the six games by narrow margins and in all of these tussels Lady Luck has not favored the Orange and Black.

Bulkeley Loses Close Ones

Bulkeley has not received a "bad" beating from the Academy since way back at the start of the century, when side whickers were the custom for performers on the contesting teams. Bulkeley has always managed to show plenty of fight once they see Red—and White and today even the team that has walked over the field beaten more than its share of times in the past few years may upset the calculations of all Norwich.

Each team, according to announcements by the respective coaches Friday night, is at full strength and ready for the fray. Aneo Tombari has won the starting choice at left end over Hoyt Taylor and the diminutive Shereshevsky will open the game at righ halfback in place of Red Fagan, according to announcements by Coach Courtland C. Whitney while the Bulkeley lineup finds all the minor injuries to star players healed with Capt. Jim Watterson sure to start at his old right tackle berth.

Style of Play a Secret

No inkling of either plan of attack has come out of the rival camps. The Academy has been gaining much ground lately with Jack Marks smashing the line and the famed LaCroix to Berghinzo forward passing act but whether the local mentor has devised an entirely new system for the Tigers is not known. Dame Rumor has it, however, that the Wildcats have a few tricks up their sleeves, a couple of which were let out for an instant in the Stonington slaughter.

Bulkeley may turn toward the aerial game today after a season consisting chiefly of running plays. Coach Canty spent the early part of this week stressing interference but in the secret sessions the last day or two he may have taught his charges something new.

Should a muddy field be the order of things this afternoon, then all of the dope and other things will be turned upside down. Neither team is a good "mudder," as proved by past performances this campaign and it is a safe bet that both camps are hoping for a little help from Old Jupe Pluvius.

"Fight", "Fight", "Fight"

With all the glamour, tradition and rivalry that surrounds an Academy-Bulkeley game, it usually is that these games narrow down to one word, "Fight", and that's probably what the cheering multitude will get this afternoon.

Friday, the annual student rallies, were held at both schools with enthusiasm at a high pitch. At Slater hall immediately after school, the entire N. F. A. student body rehearsed their school songs and cheers while speeches by Coach Whitney, Physical Director Herbert Moberg, Capt. Aime LaCroix and others were heard, urging the students to come out and cheer their team on to victory for the annual classic. At New London Coach Canty, Capt. Watterson and others were speakers.

Bulkeley's New Band

A new angle to the series today will be Bulkeley's new 30-piece band, which makes its first appearance at the Academy game. Nattily attired, the student-musicians make a fine appearance. The Academy also may have a band for the day, although this was not settled Friday evening.

The campus has been put in good shape for the game while the bleachers have been arranged to care for both factions. The Academy, as usual occupies the west, or first base side while the Whalers will cheer from the east or third base side.

The officials for the game have been selected from other parts of the state and are Central Board men.

The start of the fray is set for 2:15 but long before that will start the stream towards the scene of hostilities.

CARNEGIE FAVORITE TO WIN OVER NEW YORK

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23—(AP)—Like water in a boiler guage, blood pressures rose all over Pittsburgh tonight as the rabid devotees of king football gathered to predict with appropriate gestures what would happen tomorrow when the power and punch of New York university collided with the hitherto unstopable speed and versatility of Carnegie Tech.

In hotel lobbies and on street corners, knots of pigskin worshippers fought out the battle that two of the greatest teams in the east—and possibly in the nation—will wage before 40,000 spectators on Forbes field, in the balance hung an invitation to compete against the cream of the west in the annual tournament of roses game at Pasadena, Cal.

The Skilos of Carnegie were ten to seven favorites.

The violent Violents of New York, headed by "Mike" Strong, highest scoring back in the country and with a line bolstered by such pugnacious giant tackles as "Al" Lassman, former intercollegiate boxing champion, and present titleholder, Galahad Grant, were in perfect trim. There was not a bruise or mark on the eleven that has overwhelmed every foe on a rugged schedule except Georgetown.

Things were not quite as rosy in the camp of the Scotchmen who have swept everything before them, climaxing victories over Washington and Jefferson, Pittsburgh and Georgetown with a stunning 27 to 7 contest last Saturday of Notre Dame. There are still traces of purple around some of the linemen's eyes and bruises adorn the nether portions of the fleetest Carnegie backs.

But for all of that, Pittsburgh has unlimited faith in the ability of Howard Harpster, the coal center's idea of a perfect All-American quarterback and the line ramming ability of John "Carcass" Karcis, the 223 pound fullback, to rip and punch the violent Violent line to tatters. Ted Rosenzweig, the end who carries the ball like a halfback, is bruised but ready for action along with Cyril Letzelter and Glenn Moorhead, two of the east's crack open field runners.

With confidence oozes from the Carnegie camp, pitched for the day in a quiet retreat 100 miles from the battleground, the New Yorkers feel that tomorrow is their day to wipe out the strain of the Georgetown defeat and win the tournament of roses invitation that already has been offered the Tech boys unofficially.

Old man weather appeared to be lining up on the side of the Tartan plaid. Instead of the crispy cold of the past two days the official forecast was for warmer breezes and light rain. The Violets lost their one game to Georgetown in the rain and mud at New York. The Skibos seem equally as fast in rain or fair weather.

BETTING ODDS RATED AT EVEN MONEY FOR GAME

Betting on the Academy-Bulkeley game Friday night about the city was confined chiefly to small wagers, but there were a considerable number of these. Strange to say, in most of the cases, the bets were at even money, in spite of the Academy's better season's record.

Bulkeley money was more numerous than would be supposed with the Tigers having won but two games this year. Fans were evidently figuring on a heretofore lacking "punch" in the Orange and Black team.

"Beat Bulkeley" signs made their appearance on automobiles throughout the city Thursday and Friday and this morning will see many more of these signs.

The first arrivals from colleges and prep schools for the Thanksgiving recess will be on hand for the day.

For the first time in many years the West Side leads the list of having boys on the starting Academy team. Hertz, Sherry, Tombari and Berghinzo hail from across the bridges.

Greeneville is not represented this year from reports, a big and noisy delegation is coming just the same.

Tommy Monaghan, linesman today, is the Bristol High coach, who has coached two state championship basketball teams in the past two years.

Lubchansky, Bulkeley left guard, is said to be the largest player in Connecticut high school football.

Broad St. Beats Morrow's Juniors

The Broad St. school eleven won its third victory Friday afternoon by beating the Morrow Juniors 12 to 0. Fidrych and Turner were the punting experts while Johnson and Williams made touchdowns. Tromitozzi played a brilliant defensive game. The lineup for the winners was: Crandall and Spane, ends; Parmalee and Tromitozzi, tackles; Lane and Bosia, guards; Copolizzi, center; Johnson, quarterback; Williams and Turner, halfbacks; Fidrych, fullback. Terry, Irslich, Schwartz and Abbott, subs.

Accept Challenge

The Elisabeth street sixth grade football team accepts the challenge of the St. Patrick's sixth grade and would like to play at the Lucas lot gridiron Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. If challenge is accepted call 2275-3 at nine o'clock and ask for Alfred Pecheeni.

AGGIES TO MAKE USE OF AERIAL GAME TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 23—Twenty-two players, coaches and managers left here this afternoon for Boston where the Connecticut Aggies will draw the curtain on the 1928 football season with the Boston college eleven at Fenway park Saturday afternoon. The contest will be the eighth and final one on the Nutmeggers already successful year.

The State college eleven will enter the fray steeped with confidence over being undefeated and unscored upon while the Boston Eagles will be in a similar frame of mind, being one of the few remaining elevens with a clean slate. Head Coach Sumner A. Dole will plan on using every bit of available material to carry the Blue and White colors in the Hub city. It is not the final game for the Boston college eleven and next week they are facing their objective contest which will mean that they will try to save some of the varsity for the Holy Cross meeting. With the Aggies it is a different matter. They have nothing to lose and much to gain.

Last year in the first meeting of the two, the Nutmeggers dropped the contest by a 19-0 score at Hartford. It was the first attempt by the Aggies to step out of the ranks of the smaller New England colleges and tackle one higher up. Despite the final score, the Aggies made a favorable showing against the Eagles and this year finds them with a much stronger aggregation especially on the defense.

Head Coach Sumner A. Dole is sure to give the starting eleven instructions to make use of the overhead attack which should do some damage against the secondary defensive of the Eagles. The ball carrying of Leo Fisher and Ray Ryan coupled with the line plunging of Rhoar Flydal should be the other attributes of the Nutmeg offensive machine Saturday. The latter has been doing some highly effective line bucking all year and the work of Fisher and Ryan has not been of a poor type. Fisher is the high scorer for the Blue and White.

Wilson and Tombari, ends; Captain Sayers and Hawkins, tackles; Gilman and Colacurcio, guards; Knaut, center; Ryan, quarterback; McCombe and Fisher, halfbacks; and Flydal, fullback. The reserves who have completed the squad of twenty-two men making the trip are as follows: John Stangle, center; Roderick Root, tackle; Aschenbach, back; Chubbuck, tackle; Haversat, back; Lamoureux, quarterback; Murphy, end; Goebel, end; Powers, back; Harger, fullback; and Ruffkess, guard.

WESTERLY HARRIERS RUN AT PROVIDENCE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 23—Westerly High's great cross-country team contests for the Rhode Island state title at Providence tomorrow. Six teams have been entered for the run with a probability of more entries before the starting time this morning.

BIG GRANDSTAND AT RECREATION PARK BURNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23—The grandstand at Recreation park owned by the American Thread company in Lower village was destroyed by fire of an undetermined origin in a spectacular blaze, which broke out about 9:15 o'clock tonight and drew a crowd of several hundred people. The grandstand, which was built some ten years ago was insured according to Agent Don J. Curtis of the Thread company, who also stated that considerable of the parts supplies were involved in the loss as well as a quantity of lumber stored in the grandstand. A still alarm followed by a bell alarm from box 73 brought out the night platoon of Engine Co. No. 1 and call members, but little could be done, however, owing to a defect in the hydrant at the park, which allowed, but a weak flow of water. The park had been locked for the night and the firemen used a bar to gain entrance to the main street gate. Reconstruction value of the stand, which had a seating of 650, was estimated at about $4,000. The fire may have been caused by live wires running to the stand.

KAPLAN LOSES BOUT ON FOUL TO EBBETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—A foul blow by K. O. Phil Kaplan veteran New York lightweight, ended his fight with Harry Ebbets of Freeport, N. Y., in the ten round main bout at Madison Square Garden. Kaplan was disqualified for the low punch after 1 minute, 54 seconds of the fourth round. Ebbets weighed 168; Kaplan 164 1-2.

Kaplan vigorously protested the decision but Ebbets, evidently badly hurt, had to be helped from the ring. Making his first appearance in the garden, the Long Island youngster appeared somewhat bewildered at the start and did not get going until the latter part of the third round. The first three frames were Kaplan's but in the fourth Ebbets began to unleach some of his hard right hand wallops and the final blow came in the midst of a furious melee.

In the third round Ebbets used his left with some effect on Kaplan's eye which was damaged early in the fight.

The first American appearance of Johnnie Widd, Swedish heavyweight, in the semi-final scheduled to go ten rounds lasted only 2 minutes, 30 seconds before he was technically knocked out by Arthur De Kuh, of Italy. Widd came out punching wildly and went down twice in the short time the bout lasted. The referee stopped the one sided bout. De Kuh weighed 209 1-2; Widd 203.

Max Schmelling of Germany, another foreign heavyweight invader, made a more impressive debut by knocking out Joe Monte of Boston in the eighth round of another ten rounder. Schmelling showed plenty of speed and punching ability, putting the tough Bostonian on the floor in the fifth round. The knockout came in 1:15 of the eighth. Monte weighed 185 1-2; Schmelling 183.

Joe Cavalier, 166 1-4, of New Jersey won over Joe Barlow, 173, of Boston on a foul in the third round of their six rounder.

DARTMOUTH FRESHMEN SWAMP LAKE FOREST

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Dartmouth college's big freshmen football eleven swamped the heretofore undefeated Lake Forest academy team 44 to 0 before 10,000 spectators at Soldier field otday.

The easterners scored almost at will and at the half had piled up a 24 to 0 lead. Its backfield was far too shifty for its opponents and McCall and Porter picked up yardage from scrimmage with ease. Three thousand Dartmouth alumni, here for tomorrow's contest between Dartmouth's varsity and Northwestern, watched the game.

Football Finals

At Chicago—Dartmouth freshmen 44; Lake Forest 0.

At Lawrence, Kansas—Haskell Indians 60; Nebraska Wesleyan 0.

At Grinnell, Iowa—Creighton 20; Grinnell 19.

High School Football

At Stratford: Fairfield, 18; Stratford, 0.

WORCESTER AND NEW BRITAIN TEAMS SIGNED FOR DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS

Worcester and New Britain will provide the main attraction for the first of the Duwell indoor amateur boxing shows to be presented at the state armory Tuesday night according to an announcement that was made by the boxing committee of the local athletic organization last night. The appearance of the New Britain team will be its first in Norwich, in fact, Eastern Conn., while that of the Massachusetts aggregation will be its third in Norwich. Twice during the past summer teams from the Codfish state city showed at the outdoor shows over at the Duwell field and on each occasion made a showing that drew favor of the boxing following.

The decision to bring back the Worcester boys was made last night after several other teams from Massachusetts that have never shown here had been considered. The ability of the Worcester boxers is known both to the local club and to the fight followers while that of other teams would be a matter of speculation. Jimmy Villa, handler of the Worcester outfit agreed to bring the same boys that appeared here in the past or an entirely new team. In all probability several new faces will be seen in his lineup which will include boxers ranging in weight from 118 to 150 pounds.

The New Britain team, five in number includes boxers of about the same weights although probably not as well heeled in experience. The members of the Connecticut attraction will in all probability be matched with boys from Norwich and vicinity. In addition to the boxers from Worcester, New Britain and Norwich the registration committee of the local organization reports entries from Westerly, Danielson, Jewett City and Stafford.

The work of erecting the arena at the armory will begin this afternoon with the moving of the Duwell equipmen from the Duwell field to the drill shed. Although the bleachers, ring and other accessories will be brought to the armory this afternoon, actual setting up work will not begin until after the Battery B. drill session Monday night. The entry list for the show Tuesday night will be brought to a close tonight and only those registered at that time will be given an opportunity to box.

A block of 300 reserved seats will go on sale today and may be secured upon application at Jack's Sport shop, Our Smoke shop at the West Side or at the Duwell club.

WESTERLY AND CHAPMAN BATTLE TO 6 TO 6 TIE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Westerly High and Chapman Tech battled to a 6-6 tie here this afternoon in the next to the last game in the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league. The game was stubbornly contested. Chapman scored first on a blocked punt while Westerly made her score on a straight march down the field. Both teams failed to kick the extra point.

Westerly went over the goal line on two other occasions but rather weird decisions by the officials called them back.

The league standing follows:

| | W | L | T | Pts. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Stonington | 2 | 0 | 2 | 6 | 1.000 |
| N. F. A. | 2 | 1 | 0 | 4 | .667 |
| Westerly | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 | .500 |
| Windham | 1 | 2 | 1 | 3 | .333 |
| Bulkeley | 1 | 2 | 0 | 2 | .333 |
| Chapman Tech | 0 | 1 | 3 | 3 | .000 |

Today's Academy-Bulkeley game closes the league season, its first with six teams.

E. C. SOCCER LEAGUE ORGANIZED WITH 6 TEAMS

A meeting was held Thursday night at the home of Fred Laycock, 374 Central avenue, for the purpose of organizing the Eastern Connecticut and Southern Rhode Island Soccer league, which will be comprised of six teams, as follows: Bradford, Cottrells, J. B. Martins, Jewett City, Plainfield, Goodyear. They mean to put on first class football in an effort to revive interest in this sport in these parts. They plan to play the first league games on Sunday, Dec. 2. After the business session, refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Laycock, assisted by her daughter, Elsie.

YALE-HARVARD GAME TODAY IS MOST COLORFUL ON SPORT MENU

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sport Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—They will all be there tomorrow when the gridiron afternoon grapple whether you happen to be referring to the traditional tussle, the championship clash or the international imbroglio.

They are easier to identify than they are to pick on a day that brings the main battle to a decisive climax in the east, middle west and on the Pacific coast, while something of a lull exists in the south and southwest.

From the spectacular viewpoint nothing else in the broad expanse of the college football world matches the color, tradition and rivalry surrounding the affairs at Berkeley and New Haven. Close to 90,000 will see California and Stanford in the "big game" on the Pacific slope. More than 75,000 will jam the bowl to see thrice beaten Yale play twice beaten Harvard.

The Stanford-California game is of a double-barreled interest for its traditional importance is no more vital than its effect upon the Pacific coast conference championship hopes of the Golden Bears, now deadlocked in the lead with Southern California. Not since the late Andy Smith was at California's helm have the Bears been contenders for the title as late in the season as this. The "dope" may favor Stanford a trifle but it seems no more than guesswork to pick the winner where two teams are so well matched.

The same thing goes for the Yale-Harvard game, where these ancient foes after about equally mixed fortunes up to date, go into the fray with all past performances tossed out of the reckoning.

If there is anything in the law of averages, Harvard and California are due to win. The Crimson hasn't beaten the Blue since 1922, while the Bears haven't triumphed over the Cardinals since 1923.

At least four other games claim tomorrow's spotlight for various reasons. Carnegie's Tartans battle to keep their unbeaten record clean against the formidable attack of New York university. Nebraska journeys to the home fort of West Point, the Navy steams out against the somewhat ferocious Tiger of Princeton in the neutral port of Philadelphia, while Wisconsin seeks to stop Minnesota and clinch the "big ten" title.

There is perhaps a better chance here to name favorites, for the majority of critics, if pinned down, will admit preferences for Carnegie, Army, Princeton and Wisconsin, at least old John Dope favors these four.

Nebraska, its record spotted only by a scoreless tie with Pittsburgh, still has quite a voice in any debate for national honors and will have more to say if victorious over the Cadets. They must stop Red Cagle to do so, however, and Harvard, Yale and Notre Dame haven't found that easy. Two smashing lines will be pitted against each other in this battle, with Nebraska matching Clair Sloan and Blue Howell against the scoring threats of Cagle and Murrell.

Carnegie will have as strong a claim to national honors as any team, east, west or south, if the Tartan terrors turn back the charge of Ken Strong and the rest of the N. Y. U. Violets. They are far from decided favorites to do it, however, despite the fact they beat the team that beat the New Yorkers—Georgetown. Both have powerful lines, with Carnegie boasting one of the country's outstanding ends in Rosenzweig. Both have versatile backfields but where Strong dominates the N. Y. U. attack at every turn, Carnegie has a trio of great carriers in Captain Harpster, Letzelter and Carcis.

Princeton, on the form displayed in trouncing Yale a week ago, figures to beat the Navy but the Middies may win though the sheer fierceness of determination to offset the sting of previous disasters. If the sailors can reproduce the form that enabled them to upset Pennsylvania a few weeks ago, it will take all the Tiger resourcefulness to stop them.

Wisconsin, if able to sustain the fast pace, that has beaten Michigan, Alabama, Chicago and Iowa in succession, may take Minnesota into camp. It can be figured on the other hand, that the Badgers are due for the type of upset that has bowled over one "big ten" conference contender after another.

Missouri plays Kansas in the "big six" classic, where Nebraska's sweep thus far has left little to be fought for, but there is a lull tomorrow in the southern and southwestern conference championship scrambles.

A Challenge

The St. Patrick's sixth grade team issues a challenge to the Broad St. fifth or sixth graders for a game on Wednesday afternoon at the Academy campus. This will be the deciding game between these two teams. If challenge is accepted answer through this paper or call at 16 Broadway.

Light-Jones Fight Off

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—The ten round fight between Billy Light, St. Paul welterweight, and Gorilla Jones, Negro, Akron, Ohio, puncher, scheduled for tonight, was called off. Promoter Jim Mullen, admitting lack of interest in the match, said he might stage it at a later date.

RUSSIA BIGGEST BUYER OF PLANES MADE IN U. S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) —Russia has been the chief European market for America's aircraft products in the last four years, buying more than $500,000 worth of airplanes, engines and parts during that period, figures compiled by the department of commerce show.

With the United Kingdom standing second in the list of importers of American air products in each of the four years, Russia bought $105,770 worth of aircraft products made in the United States during the first eight months of this year alone. In 1925 the union of socialist soviet republics bought only $821 worth of American air products, but in 1926 the trade jumped to $270,739 and fell back to $175,528 in 1927.

Aircraft export trade with Russia for the first eight months of this year was in excess of trade for the same period in 1927, when goods valued at $101,929 were exported. During 1925 1926 and 1927 Canada and Peru were the only countries in the world exceeding Russia's purchases.

Canada led as an importer of United States air products with goods valued at $373,000 bought in the three years, while Peru's American imports were set at $468,871 and Russia's at $447,088.

U. S. VISITORS IN EUROPE TAKE OWN MOTOR CARS

PARIS—(AP)—That American visitors to Europe are bringing their own cars in vastly increasing numbers every season was evidenced by records on file at the Paris 1928 automobile salon.

Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the Automobile Association of America, who was here attending the salon, said in an address before the Anglo-American Press club that enormous interest was being evidenced by American motorists in the idea of traveling abroad in their own cars.

"The number of Americans motoring abroad during the first six months of this year was 200 per cent greater than that of the entire year of 1927."

Mr. Smith said that the association wishes to facilitate the motor tours of Americans in Europe in every possible way.

"To this end we are issuing tour coupon-books honored by all countries, complete road maps of Europe, prearranged customs passes and a catalog of road signs and symbols."

Fabric Replaces Paint

LONDON—(AP)—Fabric-covered passenger coaches are being tested by the Southern Railway of England to determine qualities as compared with those of painted and varnished vehicles. The chief advantage is said to lie in fabric's speed of application which is greater than that of the required 16 coats of size, paint and varnish.

HOME BUILDING COSTS VARY IN U. S. CITIES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Comparison of home construction costs in 1928 in 14 cities having a population of 500,000 or more shows that St. Louis had the lowest average cost $5,619, for one-family dwellings while Washington had the highest average cost, $9,534. The figures were obtained by the bureau of labor in a building permit survey.

Permits were issued in the 14 cities for 29,338 one-family dwellings, the average cost of these homes, as stated in the permits, being $6,168. The average cost in Baltimore, 40 miles from Washington was $4,001, yet the average single-family dwelling cost more than 100 per cent more in Washington than in St. Louis or Baltimore.

There is also a contrast between the costs as shown for two Pennsylvania cities listed. Philadelphia being $4,878, while Pittsburgh was $6,198. The average cost of New York's one-family dwellings was $5,752 and of Chicago's $6,398.

The average cost in other cities was: Los Angeles, $5,647; San Francisco, $4,446; Buffalo, $4,543; Detroit, $5,291; Boston, $5,566; Cleveland, $5,967; and Milwaukee, $6,044.

It's In The Cards

NEW YORK—(AP)—Greeting card dealers say the business of guessing the public taste is a tough proposition. Last year they laid in stocks of Christmas cards decorated with pictures of stage coaches and the public suddenly turned its favors to pictures of ships. This year they put in ship cards and the public, while still "shipminded," has disclosed a fondness for airplanes.

Opel Is German Ford

RUEDESHEIM AN RHEIN, Germany—(AP)—Adam Opel, leading German producer of automobiles, is expected to build about half the German 1928 output of 85,000 motor vehicles. Rate of production in the Opel plant is about 125 cars a day. Opel was the first firm to attempt mass production, inaugurateing the system after officials had visited American plants and equipped the Opel factory with American machinery and tools.

Parades Hurt Business

NEW YORK—(AP)—Welcoming parades for popular heroes have the same depressing effect as rain upon sales, New York department store proprietors say. Thousands of shoppers who entered the stores to buy rush to the street when they hear the bands and cheers and in the post-parade excitement forget to make their intended purchases. One large department store estimates such losses at $40,000 to $50,000 each parade.

Stock Markets Busy

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock markets, experiencing the busiest days in history, apparently are reaping a harvest grown from the seeds of education planted by employe stock ownership. Even as nation-wide sales of government bonds during the World war taught people how to invest, it is believed that the policy of many corporations in selling their stock to their workers has taught millions more how to speculate.

Ticker Interest Spreads

NEW YORK—(AP)—Expansion of the stock exchange ticker system southward and westward has produced greater business in Wall street. Commission houses say that whereas a few years ago 95 per cent of their clients were residents of the metropolitan area, today 50 per cent or more live more than 1,000 miles away.

Glass Motor Hoods.

LEIPSIG—(AP)—A local automobile firm has had special hoods of glass built for its cars, so that the mechanism may be seen working in every detail while the car is running.

"May St. Christopher patron saint of motorists, preserve many a flivver we wot of from having its internals thus exposed," is the comment of one paper.

Quick Workers

That women can work faster and often more accurately than men, but that men have better powers of judgment, is stated as the result of a series of experiments recently made by Isable Stewart at the psychological laboratory of John Hopkins university. Similar tests were given to school children, and the girls were found superior to the boys in speed and accuracy of performance, but the boys outdid them in judging weights and distances.

DO GOOD AND THEN DO IT AGAIN

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

The Inquiry.

Tell me ye winged winds, that round my pathway roar,
Do ye not know some spot where mortals weep no more?
Some lone and pleasant dell, some valley in the west,
Where free from toil and pain, the weary soul may rest?
The loud wind dwindled to a whisper low,
And sighed for pity as it answered—"No."

Tell me, thou mighty deep, whose billows round me play,
Knowest thou some favored spot, some island far away,
Where weary man may find the bliss for which he sighs,
Where sorrow never lives, and friendship never dies?
The loud waves rolling in perpetual flow,
Stopped for awhile, and sighed to answer—"No."

And thou, serenest moon, that, with such lonely face,
Dost look upon the earth, asleep in night's embrace,
Tell me, in all thy round, hast thou not seen some spot
Where miserable man might find a happier lot?
Behind a cloud the moon withdrew in woe,
And a voice, sweet, but sad, responded—"No."

Tell me, my secret soul—oh, tell me, Hope and Faith,
Is there no resting place from sorrow, sin and death?
Is there no happy spot where mortals may be blest,
Where grief may find a balm, and weariness a rest?
Faith, Hope, and Love, best boons to mortals given,
Waved their bright wings, and whispered, "Yes, in Heaven!"

Grandmother's Quilt

Blocks of yellow and red and blue,
And brown and checkered and figured too;
Pieced in a pattern prim and straight,
Section to section, a perfect mate.
Never a seam with a slighted space,
Never a rough or a gathered place,
Carefully wrought, and fair to see—
Grandmother's quilt, come down to me.

Stitches even and short and fine,
Set in a straight, unbroken line;
Each thread knotted with zealous care,
Each seam fastened to hold and wear.
Work of a wrinkled, trembling hand,
But carefully fashioned, as first was planned,
Fraught with a message, may it be,
Grandmother's quilt, that comes to me.

Just a whisper of quiet days,
Of humble duties and lowly ways;
Of life as swerveless and fine and true
As those wondrous blocks of brown and blue,
Of something better than social guilt,
The quiet hours in a well-kept home;
Of lasting worth may thy teachings be—
Grandmother's quilt, come down to me.

THANKSGIVING RECIPES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is quite a while since I sent my last letter to you, but I have been so busy this summer that I couldn't find time to write to you or my dearest friends.

Thanksgiving will soon be here and I guess everyone is thinking of their Thanksgiving dinner. Here are a few recipes of the things I make for the dinner:

Chicken Pie: Dress clean and cut up fowl. Put in a stewpan with onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Cover with boiling water, and cook slowly until tender. Thicken this with flour and add with enough cold water to pour easily. Cover the chicken mixture with crust. Bake in a moderate oven until crust is well risen and browned.

Cranberries: Use ¾ as much water as cranberries. Add 1-3 as much sugar as cranberries such as 1 quart of cranberries to 1 cup of water to 1¾ cups of sugar.

Have water boiling. Add berries, cover and cook till berries have burst outer skin. Add sugar and boil few minutes longer. Eat it hot or as desired.

Squash or Pumpkin Pie: Mix ¼ cup of squash, ½ teaspoon salt ¾teaspoon of mixed spices and 1¾cups of steamed and strained squash or pumpkin. Add 2 egg well beaten, and ¾ cup of milk gradually. Start in hot oven to set rim, then decrease heat. Test as you would custard pie with a knife.

English Plum Pudding: Soak ¼ lb of bread crumbs in 1 cup of scalded milk, let stand til cool. Add 1 lb of sugar, beaten yolks of 2 eggs, ¾ lb. seeded raisins, ¾ lb. currents 2 ounces finely cut citron; then ¼ lb. suet, and cream by using the hand. Combine mixtures then add ¾ grated nutmeg, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon cloves and the whites of the 2 eggs beaten stiffly. Cover and steam for 6 hours. Serve with a sauce.

Chocolate Fudge: Mix 3 cups of sugar, 2 squares or chocolate, ¼ cup milk, butter size of an egg and 2 tablespoons of molasses together. Boil for about 10 minutes and test in a glass of water. If done add 1 teaspoon of vanilla and pour in buttered tins and cut in squares.

Vanilla Ice Cream: Mix 1 cup of sugar, 2 scant tablespoons of flour and 1-3 teaspoon of salt together. Beat 2 eggs until light and ¼ pint of milk and combine with first mixture. Heat remainder of milk which is 1 pint less ¾ of a cup to boiling point and add to mixture. Cook in double boiler 20 minutes, stirring constantly until smooth. Strain, cool; add 1 pint of cream and 1½ teaspoons of vanilla and freeze using 1 part salt to 8 parts ice. This amount will serve 6 persons.

TALK ON TRIP TO EUROPE.

To our Editor and Social Corner Friends: As we have been advised to write short letters I will try and make mine brief. Club No. 1 met in the chamber of commerce No. 14 with just Jill and Frances as hostesses. With their assistants they served a fine dinner of salads, baked beans, rolls and butter, pickles, olives, cheese, cakes, fruit and coffee. The doxology was sung before the members sat down to dine. In the afternoon we were entertained by Everett Lincoln on his European trip, speaking mostly about Venice, Italy some of its history and treasures and showing some handsome views of that city. Mr. Peck gave a reading on his trip to Florida. It was very interesting to hear about both sides of the globe. I was sorry to hear some of our members are on the sick list. We sincerely hope they will soon recover.

Aunt Sarah: Yes I still live back of the church. I hope you will call and we will have a visit some time.

Nema: We have been sampling your nuts. They are fine.

Marigold: I love when Bob White comes to visit you I may see her.

Betty Bray: I saw the latest book out was Herbert Hoover.

Irva Lynn: Have you been to Europe or where? Your pen has been missed. We would like to hear from you.

With best wishes for our Corner.
MARY FRANCE.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Here are two ways of cooking cranberries: Take four cups of cranberries, two cups of sugar and two or three cups of water. Boil for 10 minutes, then let stand covered for 10 minutes on cool part of stove, or with the heat turned off. Use a large kettle with cover that sets down in or watch carefully all the time, or it will boil over.

Second way: Boil four cups of berries with two or three cups of water for 10 minutes; sift through strainer, put back on the stove with three cups of sugar and stir and watch it carefully or it will burn on. Boil for five minutes or until it jells when you put a drop on a cold plate.

When using the large coal and wood cooking range we are apt to cook vegetables, etc., in separate kettles or pans; but when cooking with gas or oil, we think it much easier and more economical to cook several kinds over one burner.

We use a large kettle with a strainer and a pan that fits the kettle. By covering the strainer with a deep pan or basin that fits tightly we can steam several kinds of vegetables in the strainer while boiling meat or something requiring long boiling in the kettle. Be sure the kettle does not boil dry, as kettles have an exasperating way of doing before one realizes it can be possible.

When using the gas or oil oven we plan to fill the oven with various kinds of foods.

Vegetables are delicious baked or can be cooked in water in the oven. If too much heat, leave them wholly or partly uncovered as we would on the top of the stove; for if too hot they will boil over in the oven.

Pork and beef can be cooked together and without extra trouble or expense. Pleases those who eat only one kind as well as those who enjoy both.

We like cakes and doughnuts made with yeast. Use one yeast cake in place of baking powder and let rise to three times the bulk. Stir down and shape as you wish. Let rise to twice the size and bake or fry as usual.

A handy emergency dress form can be made by fastening a good fitting corset over a pillow of the right size, then put on it a tight fitting, high-necked waist lining and a plain tight-fitting dress. Hang your form in a doorway or arch and you will find it a handy help in planning and fitting the new dress.

When planning Christmas gifts, be quite sure that the purchased gift will give more pleasure than the money would.

Many children save up their small earnings or allowances or gifts for something most desired by them, and the cash is welcomed with great joy, while an expensive gift may be wholly uncared for, because not what they most want at this time. My friend used to say: "We give something we like, the receiver does not care for it and we receive something we do not care for." We do enjoy selecting or making the pretty gifts, so someone gets pleasure out of it after all, even if the receiver does not care so much for it.

But the child cares intensely for the few things he wants, and should have them all.

A happy childhood means a happy habit of taking life and trials and troubles, and making the best of them cheerfully.

A good and easy to prepare Thanksgiving dinner, as everything but the vegetables can be prepared and cooked a day or two before hand, if we prefer to make the day an easy one for everybody, is the following:

Escalloped Oysters
Roast Pork and Beef
Mashed Potatoes and Turnips
Boiled Buttered Onions Cabbage Salad
Brown Bread
Cranberry Sauce
Chocolate Cake
Grapes
Apple Pie and Cheese
Coffee and Milk

MARJORY.

RADIO AS AGENT OF PEACE

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: I wonder if any of you have ever thought what a world this would be without music? I think the radio will bring more peace to the world than any one thing. For you do here all kinds of music to suit the fancy of each and every one. I haven't one but I often go out of an evening and hear one.

The Christian Herald tells of Walter Damrosch and how much he is doing for the younger people for better music. On the cover of the Herald is the picture of a man and his wife listening to a church organ played by a young lady.

Do we realize how bad it must seem to be blind or can't hear anything? I have wondered sometimes what I had to be thankful for, and then I realize there is lot to be thankful for.

When the music sounds the past seems sweet, and bright the future
gleams,
And youth faces forth, while middle age is lost in lovely dreams.

From ROSALUND.

BELIEVES IN EARLY SHOPPING.

Dear Social Corner People: Every week some one joins the Corner and then forgets to write. If we didn't have some good old standbys that write every week the page would not be very interesting. I reckon that I am nearly a slacker myself.

At the Wequetequock meeting in October, someone left a linen hemstitched square and I have it. Will be glad to return it to owner.

We have had such wonderful weather this fall that doesn't seem possible that winter is so near. Have been trying to do some garden work, but don't get along very fast as there so many inside things to do.

Have my Christmas shopping done and all wrapped and cards all ready for the mail, so I am out of the last minute rush. There is always enough to do as the holidays get near when the family is large and young. We send our sympathy to Callie in her loss. And to any others who have lost those near to them. MILKY WAY (Club 6).

TWO WEEKS IN "THE AND OF THE SKY"—Continued

Editor and Social Corner Readers: While waiting for the mist to clear, which had risen during our breakfast hour, we took a stroll about the well-tilled farm, of 120 acres, of Mr. Tilden's, half being planted to corn, rye and oats, and one-half acre to each, white and sweet potatoes; besides a well-cared for vegetable garden near the cabin.

Neither were the flowers forgotten. The honeysuckle shaded the two porches; a most beautiful Marechal Neil rose covered a trellis 12 or 15 feet high and nearly the same in width.

Roses and other flowers filled in every corner and a rock mound was completely hidden by flowering vines of various colors, and clinging to the slats of the poultry yard were the vines of the gourd with ornamental foliage and singular shaped fruit.

The mist was fast being driven away by the sun, which was but a short time above the crest of the black mountain range. While the guide was saddling and examining the feet and shoes of the horses and adjusting our luggage, we again stepped into the weave room to watch the weaving and spinning process. Mr. Blakeslee suggested to the girls that they seemed to occupy their time profitably, and no doubt had never seen much of the country beyond the mountain region; never had been far away from home.

"Yes, I hev," said Phyllis. "I an' sister sometimes go tew Sevierville with dad, an onced went tew Knoxville tew federal court an las spring I wor down tew Tuckaleechee Cove morne three weeks. Granny bein old an ther boys at the still, I had tew spin an weave an cook an sew an plow some, an I had tew learn my brother's darter heow tew cook vittles, an tew spin sum, till I wor plum tired eout." "Yes (says the other girl) an fur all uv that, yeou didn't git much er nothin fur it." "Wol, but want I holpin Granny?" "Wol, if ye expect tew vien the Craggies an old Rocky Face in the next few days ye cant rule any more time away with puttin yer up north ideas inter them gals hed." says Trew. Now don't you get jealous, Trew, for we haven't seen two as nice looking girls since we left the north as Phyllis and Philura are, and we liked to talk with them.

"What do you do with so much grain?" Mr. Tilden was asked. "O, wol, dont yer see this passel uv hawgs round heyr? They hev tew be fed, an then I send a right smart uv hit up tew my tew boys, Andrew and Tom. One wor named arter Old Hickory an tother arter Tom Jefferson, tew uv tha likeliest presidents, sept Honest Abe, weuns ever had. Them tew boys air duin a smashin bizness up on the Wautauga. Tew stills turnin eout 6 er 8 barels er day, more er less. As ye air going up that er way, Jim, jest stop an see them. The revenuers dont pester them, fur they can't find the stills; they hev em hid in a cavern.

"Uv corse ye nowed em, Jim. The other tew boys, Fremont an Grant, air over on the Tennessee side uv the mountings, on the Chucky (Nolichucky), in Embreeville cove, an hev a rite smart uv a farm, 150 acres just under the shadder uv ole Roan; got putty ni 100 acres uv corn. Andrew an Tom use all they raise in ther bizness."

The sun had reached the summit of the balsams and was lighting the valley far below us, driving away the mist that had isolated the balsams Pisgah Ridge from the rest of the world. "Wal, boys, I air ready fur a start," said Trew. "fur ef we git tew Jake Estes' fur the nite we must be on ther way." I hev the blades all loaded fur the horses' dinner an Mrs. Tilden hev filled our saddlebags with sum uv that air chicken an rye an injun bisket an sich, an Bill hev opened his heart an put in a bottle uv his best liker, jest tew keep spring water frum hurtin us."

To ahun the almost insurmountable knobs and crags, we dropped into the valley and followed up the north branch of the Big Pigeon that rises on the slope if Pisgah ridge, from a spring or lake, many acres in area, 5,848 feet above the sea. Flowing north for a few miles, it then breaks through the balsams at Canton.

Leaving the traveled road we take the bridle path down the valley until we reach the gorge, less than 60 feet wide, walled in by perpendicular cliffs of several hundred feet in height. We make an ascent of 200 feet above the gorge and pass along a narrow path overlooking the turbulent water as it roars and whirls through the narrow flume. As the path leads us still higher up, we are out of hearing of the rush and roar of the mountain stream.

Solitude is again with us; we are in the darkness of an undergrowth of laurel, rhododendron and rhodolea, overshadowed by the virgin growth of monstrous trees. No sound of the woodman's axe or the fall of the mighty oak was ever heard here.

Now we make a sharp descent for a mile or more, and again enter the valley of the mountain torrent. The trail is quite on a level along the stream and we make good headway. Midway between Mt. Grey and Mt. Sterling, the river breaks through the "Great Smokies." The gorge is deeper and more wild than that at Canton; broad in places, then again it is very narrow. Huge cliffs rise on either side of the channel, giving a narrow view of the far-away blue mountains as through a gate.

Was there water ever more uneasy? The roar is almost deafening, as it turns and twists between and over monstrous boulders in this narrow gorge. On it goes, whirling, whipped into foam as it tumbles and glides over ledge and boulder, to find for a moment apparent rest before taking another plunge into a whirling pool. Then away it goes again until it finds a less precipitous plain, where for nearly a mile it is placid, deep and still, then on it goes over another steep and rocky bed until it leaps into the arms of the French Broad near Newport, 1,057 feet above tidewater. From the source of the Big Pigeon to the French Broad it makes a fall of more than 100 feet to the mile.

It is now mid-afternoon and we are on the Tennessee side of the Smokies making good headway toward the cabin of Jake Estes, on the bank of the Nolichucky, where we arrived just as the sun gilded the dome of the towering Roan (6,313 feet high) on its way to sink from view behind the distant mountains. From a sharp bend in the road the cabin of this old man is seen up on a cliff overlooking the river. By making several turns to avoid cliffs and boulders, we are soon on a beautiful plateau of many acres. Up a lone 15 rods from the road, stands the cabin of Jake Estes. Sitting in a very old arm chair is this old man.

Instead of his having a rifle, with which many of the mountaineers welcome strangers, he has in his hands a well-thumbed and soiled Bible. Knowing Jim Trew, he says: "Wal, Jim, I air right glad tew see ye again; bit air sum years since I hev seen ye. Lite an hitch an set. I wor thinkin uv ye only a few days ago an wonderin ef ye wor alive. How air things down tew Tates Springs? an who air them gentlemeh with ye?" Trew introduces us; he grasps us by the hand, saying "bit air a long time since I hev seen sech fine dressed gentlemen. When air we frum?" Telling him, he takes our hands again and asks us if we will have supper and spend the night with him. Trew says, "Uf course we will, as these gentlemen want tew visit the oldes man livin, ez bit wor." "Is ole unt Tabitha hayr yit, tew cook an dew yer housework an sich?" "Yes, an injun Jim air hare tew, couldn't live without em." "Hayer, Jim, take keer uv these horses an see thet they hev a good bed an pick out the best corn an blades fur em."

Beside the spring house we found conveniences for washing and a span clean towel for each of us. Darkness prevented sightseeing and the chill mountain air made the inside of the cabin more agreeable. Unlike most of the cabins, this was very roomy and convenient. The room in which we sat was well furnished with very, very old and substantial furnishings.

The smell of meat cooking told us that our appetites would soon be satisfied. Supper was announced by Aunt Tabitha by striking on a triangle of iron with the large portion of a deer's horn. Spotless white was the table cover; ancient indeed were the utensils on the table; the few pieces of crockery were of ancient design and and color; the well cooked venison steak was served on a pewter platter; the plates were of the same material; pewter mugs held the coffee, and the sweetening was the long kind—molasses.

Jake Estes was as ancient as the table service. His family history, and how he told his age, the beautiful view and surroundings of his mountain home, I will tell you of in my next article. QUID NUNC.

TASTY SANDWICHES

Dear Corner Members: For savory sandwiches here are some novel fillings:

Spread slices of bread with whipped cream; cover one piece with cold chicken which has been freed from skin and bone and passed through a food chopper; sprinkle a little celery salt over the meat and cover it with another slice; make as many sandwiches as required and trim the edges with a sharp knife.

Spread slices of bread with cream cheese and sprinkle a little paprika (Hungarian pepper) over the cheese. Use a little mustard and finely shredded lettuce as a filling and trim the sandwiches in the usual way.

Chop finely a dozen leaves of mint and work into this 1-4 pound of fresh butter. Work in also a little salt and white pepper and a few drops of lemon juice. Spread the bread with the green butter and use cold lamb that has been passed through the food chopper for filling.

Separate the yolks from the whites for as many hard boiled eggs as required. Place the yolks in a basin with an equal quantity of fresh butter and a seasoning of pepper and salt.

Mix the yolks and the butter together and spread slices of bread with it. Chop the whites fine and sprinkle them over the bread. Sprinkle over these some finely chopped nasturtium leaves or seeds and close the sandwich.

Spread slices of bread with mayonnaise and use slices of cucumber or tomato as filling.

Spread slices of bread with cream cheese and add a filling of finely shredded lettuce. Use a seasoning of a few drops of lemon juice and a few grains of cayenne.

Ribbon sandwiches are made as follows: Cut one-half inch slices of both brown and white bread. Spread these slices with butter or cream cheese as preferred. Place four of these thick slices one on top of the other, alternating the dark colored bread with the white. When well pressed together, slice through the four layers, cutting them into as thin slices, not allowing the slices to break. When neatly done, the effect is very attractive.

Meat sandwiches taste better with a little cranberry sauce or chopped pickle.

For a sweet sandwich try breaking up a square of sweet chocolate into small pieces and spread between buttered slices of bread. Maple sugar may be used in the same way.

BUSY WITH CHURCH WORK

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: November 17th. As I am alone again this warm afternoon, I will try and write a few lines for the Social Corner page and tell you that I left the land of my golden dreams a week ago. One of my kind neighbors sent in a very nice cooked dinner, which I greatly enjoyed, before leaving my home town.

I have also enjoyed a week of rest and the beautiful Indian summer weather with the mercury reaching 68 and the doors and windows open. I have heard Gov. Smith's political (disappointment) address, also President Coolidge's talk at Washington to the National State grange, and many other good things. We have kept busy doing church work for the sale which is scheduled for Dec. 7th. I believe Thanksgiving will soon be with us with plenty to do as usual, and many things to be thankful for. I can only say

To the Giver of all blessings
Let our voices raise in praise,
For the joys and countless mercies
He hath sent to crown our days;
For the homes of peace and plenty,
And the land so fair and wide,
And the labor of the noonday,
And the rest of eventide.

For the wealth of golden harvests
For the sunlight and the rain,
For the grandeur of the ocean,
For the mountain and the plain;
For the ever-changing seasons,
And the comforts that they bring,
For the love so grand, eternal,
We would thank Thee, Our King.

Thanksgiving greetings to all.
ANN TENNA.

WANTS MACARONI RECIPE.

Dear Editor and Sisters: What a nice day we had for the meeting last Tuesday. Laurette and her helpers served such a nice dinner. We had some macaroni on our table that was very good. I wish the sister who brought it would send in the recipe. I want to thank all who took part in the program. It was very kind of them to do it on such short notice. We missed the smiling faces of Bess, Winter Robin, Loma, Tish, Topsy, Powaget and a lot of others that we usually see at the Social Corner meeting.

Interested Reader I see you made it. I meant to have gotten over to speak to you.

Clarabee I hope the sick one is feeling better by this time.

When shoes have passed the stage where they can be used no longer for footwear, before throwing away cut out all the good pieces of leather in the top part. There are many uses this can be put to. The extra nice looking piece may be cut into a flower or butterfly, decorated with sealing wax paint and worn as a shoulder decoration or used to top several pieces of wool or felt cut from the same pattern to be used for a pen wiper, would make a useful gift. Cut small circles from a heavier quality to put on the underside when sewing buttons on cloth that would be likely to pull out. I patched a pair of leather gloves for friend husband that he used for handling wood at the sawing machine and prolonged their usefulness for several weeks. I keep a roll of this in the sewing machine drawer and find many other uses for it besides those named. Best wishes to every one and don't eat too much Thanksgiving dinner. May it be a pleasant day. SUMAC.

USES FOR OLD WEARING APPAREL

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Sometimes we are perplexed to decide what to do with some discarded pieces of wearing apparel or household belongings. We all have our ideas sooner or later what shall be done; the attic many times is the receptive place till the final result. Circumstances alter cases in every home. Where there are little children, the garments of the grown-ups can be cut over, if the material is worth the labor. I had a very good summer dress of cotton goods. The sleeves and under the arms became so worn it was beyond wearing, so I cut out sleeves and also around the neck and then shortened the skirt part with a small tuck. I had a very good slip which will do service for a long time for everyday wear.

In regard to thin muslin curtains that have done their duty at the windows but too good for the rag bag, they can yet be useful as protectors from dust, as covers over your dresses that hang in the closet. Take two curtains, cut the right length, sew up each side and across one end like a large bag. Make about an inch wide hem around the open end in which to put a draw string. After your dress is encased in its protector and upheld by the hanger, draw the string closely around the hook and tie. This makes a useful and inexpensive method of dust-proof.

We hope the Hoover administration may be successful. I did my "bit."

The annual Thanksgiving day is near at hand. We have many things to be grateful for. I heard a prominent minister declare from the pulpit: "One of our greatest blessings—we are living in America." Hope all our sisters and families may enjoy a very happy day. I think it means much for children, and in future years, if they live, can look back with pleasant memories of Thanksgiving day, with an extra good dinner.

THE KEY TO CONTENTMENT

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I think this week if you get a letter it will be one originated by a deeper thinker than myself, as I do not feel equal to the emergency.

Bruce Barton says: "Sitting on the train the other day, I got to watching a man whose condition was really pathetic. He had forgotten to bring a magazine or a book to read. There was no one in the car he could talk to. For only a few times in his life he was really alone; yes, utterly alone in the world, and utterly miserable. He was thrown unexpectedly on his own resources, and he bored himself terribly. He was not an exceptional case; on the contrary, he was rather typical of the ordinary modern man. In olden days, when towns were more scattered, distances greater, and life less complex, men were accustomed to be alone for hours, and even days, and could stand it. The modern man must be talking, or he must be playing, or anything, lest by accident he be left alone for a little time and compelled to think."

"The world," as Woodworth says, 'is too much with us.' I would not have any man unsocial. He who withdraws himself from his fellow men is unsocial; lessens his services and impoverishes his life, no matter what work of art may come out of his solitude. But it would do the world good if every man in it would compel himself occasionally to be absolutely alone. Most of the world's progress has come out of periods of such loneliness.

"Moses was a social being, a political leader whose success was in his power to handle an unruly crowd. But Moses' great contribution to the world—the Ten Commandments—came down from the mountain top where he had climbed alone.

"It was out of the silence that Samuel's call came; and Mohammed's; and Joan of Arc's.

"To Lincoln, poor struggling lawyer, there once came a great offer from a great railroad to become its general counsel at $10,000 a year. He did not seek advice, though friends offered it freely. One day he appeared at his office an hour later than usual and announced that he had made his decision. He had risen early, walked out to the little grove over the edge of Springfield where most of his decisions were made, and there had wrestled the thing out alone."

"How do you wish to be shaved, sir?" said the barber of Daniel Webster to him. To which the great man replied: "In silence, sir!"

John C. Calhoun once told his friend he had early subjected his mind to such a rigid course of discipline, and had persisted without faltering, until he had acquired a perfect control over it; that he could now confine it to any subject as long as he pleased without wandering even for a moment; that was his habit, and when he set out alone for a walk or a ride to select a subject for reflection, and he never suered his attention to wander from it until he was satisfied with its examination.

There is no great success without concentration, and no concentration in minds that have not been disciplined to long - continued, self - reliant thought.

Store your mind with thoughts worth while; be independent of the world of chatter—yes, even occasionally of the world of books. For in this lies the secret of a virile personality and the key to contentment.

KITTY LOU.

LUNCHES FOR ACTIVE WOMEN

Dear Social Corner Members: In view of the fact that restaurant lunches are not very high in price, but far from satisfactory in quality, the business woman finds herself confronted with the problem of preparing her luncheon at home and taking it with her. The novice along this line does not always realize that the lunch is really a midday meal, and as such must be very carefully planned so that the required amount of nourishment is furnished; that in attractive and appetizing form, if her physical efficiency is to be maintained.

For active women lunches can be prepared as follows:

Chopped loaf or beef loaf sandwich, potato salad, pickle, ginger cookies and tea; salmon salad, celery with cream cheese, oatmeal cookies and coffee; egg and ham sandwiches, apple sauce, gingerbread and tea; Huntington sandwiches, baked apples, honey cake and coffee; stuffed eggs, rye bread with butter, marguerites and tea. The filling for Huntington sandwich is made as follows: Mash one cream cheese and add to it one tablespoon of peanut butter. Season to taste with salt and paprika.

BENEFITS FROM CHEERIO

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Here I am trying to write a line, for I think it about time.

I was glad to read last week about someone else finding such good use for an old pair of shears. I have some that came across the big pond, and that is what I use them for—bacon, fish and lots other things. Should miss them very much.

Sorry I have not been able to go to the last few meetings, for I always enjoy myself, and have missed seeing all the folks.

How are you, Butterfly, Pep, Hollyhock and Twice Twenty? Glad you keep the good work going. If we were more like you, we should have a full page every week.

While I have been writing this, I have been listening in on the radio. Isn't it wonderful? When I have time in the morning I get the morning service and then through to Cheerio. Think he is doing a great work. Don't you? Makes you feel better all day. We shall soon have Thanksgiving, and hope you all have a good time. Best wishes to one and all.

IN SIGN SAGITTORIUS

Dear Editor and Members: We now find ourselves enjoying Indian summer. These warm days are fine; just like a farewell kiss—a happy memory. The earth is now entering the sign Sagittorius (the archer and deliverer), which is the ninth sign of the zodiac and the negative pole of the fire attraction. This sign begins Nov. 22nd and ends Dec. 20th, and corresponds to the thighs and motor nerves in the physical body, and success in new enterprises in the astral vibration. The ruling planet is Jupiter; the colors are red, green and gold; the gems are carbuncles, turquoises and diamonds. The tribe is Love—meaning "those who are joined or bound." People born in this sign are usually strong and graceful; natural salesmen; loyal and self-reliant, with great executive ability. They are quick of wit and their shafts are unanswerable.

Sigattorius people are more fortunate during their own sign period than at any other time of the year. They should use care from June 27th to July 5th, every year.

Of his house to give proof
That storms didn't bother him any.

Would fill up a bucket
With water and chuck it
Until he'd extinguished the blaze.

For his whiskers would tickle
Till one day a sickle
She purchased and lopped off the same.

Poor lonesome ex-Carpenter Wrenn
For his carpent'ring days had a yearn,
So he sewed up his house
And next day, when his spouse
Objected, he fixed it again.

When others are peevish and snappish
She doesn't complain, for whatever may come
Mrs. Smith is unspeakably happy.

But her sister who's watching her thinks it a sight.

But on investigation I discover this is true—
I cannot wear the old suit, nor can I buy a new!

Riddle: What is it the dead and the living do at the same time? Of course you have guessed it. They go around with the world together. ARIES.

TIME BRINGS CHANGES

Dear Editor and Friends: Hello and good morning. It sure is a gloomy day, but the sun is always behind the storm clouds. This weather makes one feel sad and blue. Well, we must cheer up. I was looking from my window at the landscape, dark, black and dreary, where only a few weeks ago my pretty flowers were in full bloom. Every day brings its changes.

I was looking down the valley, where 40 years ago it was all bustle. There were five mills sending out the sweet tunes of their machinery. There are only two now in operation there. Once pretty little homes were gay with childish laughter and fun. Now many of them have passed on, only a few are left in the dear old valley, and most of the homes have gone to decay. If they had been kept up many families would have been glad to live there. It is so pleasant, but many of them have gone beyond repair.

Once there was a man lived here and one could get a horse and buggy from him to go anywhere you like. Well, the trolley took the place of the dear old horse, a faithful friend. There are only a few horses here now. Then they took off the trolley. Now, there is not much accommodation.

Looking out at the old smithy across the road, where only a few years ago the old billows were heard early and late; we don't hear th song of the anvil more than once a week, sometimes not that often.

Yes, there have been great changes in the past few years. They say each year brings its changes. It is said to watch these changes year by year and watch things going to decay instead of growing better. I was thinking what the changes would be in the next 40 years.

Ma of Green Gables: Awful sorry of your loss. I heard of it Saturday. Glad you saved the dear old home.

Rural Delivery: Glad to see your letter.

Kochis: Take your Ma and come up Sunday to the fiddlers convention. It will be held in sight of my house. Hope the sick ones are better.

Peggy Alder: Glad you are back. Hope you are much improved.

Wishing you all a jolly Thanksgiving.

ALWAYS READS CORNER LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is a long time since I have written, but am always glad to read the letters in the Corner.

E. M. M.: Was glad to see you and Mr. even though we were both in a hurry. Was'nt David Lee a dear Sonny Boy? Read in a paper where Mrs. Coolidge went to the same picture in Washington and said she took several handkerchiefs.

True Blue: Hope you will write all about your trip to Washington, D. C.

Necia: I miss you. Want to go to Atlantic Beach again?

Clarinda: Have heard nothing from you for a long time.

F. L. M. (Club No. 5.)

GREETINGS FROM ICAVILLA.

Dear Editor and All the Folks: It is a long time since I have written, but I am still floating around.

Providence Rose: I will soon be up to see you. Hope Mr. Rose and Rosebud are fine.

Velvie: I would like to see you and will sometime.

Nonesopretty: I will soon take a spin over the hills to the flower cottage. Hope your eyes are better.

Peggy Alder: Glad to hear you are home. There is no place like one's own home. Hoping all are fine.

ICAVILLA.

HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Dear Friends: I want to correct an error in last week's letter in my recipe for Home Made Bread. It read add dark sugar, which meant two large tablespoons of granulated sugar instead. Hope the sisters have saved the recipe, which I think they will like if they try it.

Nonesopretty: Well, you surely did explain something about the good old times we used to have. Do you remember that you asked Hattie Bentley if she had the sneezes? You spoke right out in school time. I never forgot it, it pleased me so at the time. Where do you expect to spend Thanksgiving? I didn't know but you would have an invitation down Voluntown way.

Primrose: Suppose you got my letter, but I don't know for sure if I can get up to see you right away as Clara is expecting to move and I don't know as it will be convenient for her to bring me up. Will try and see you some time.

Here are a few household helps: I want to tell the sisters if they have not a stool to sit down on in their kitchen the best thing to do is to buy one as it rests one so much in lots of ways. I sit down to iron and pare vegetables and lots of other work as washing and wiping dishes, etc. See how much it saves your back.

Lay newspapers in the sink before putting kettles that are black on the bottom and see how much it saves work.

A good way to mend oilcloth if you accidentally slit your new figured oilcloth table cover. Cut a piece of white court plaster a little longer and wider than the cut, wet it and paste it down on the wrong side over the cut and you have your oilcloth mended. It keeps the oilcloth from tearing more or fraying out.

When setting a mouse trap always scald the trap after a mouse has been caught as they will not step into it if they smell where their kind has been.

When ironing soft collars put under four thicknesses of Turkish towel. The collars will iron much easier. They will be smoother and shine like new.

When cutting quilt blocks make a pattern out of a good ink blotter. It will stick to the goods and will not slide around as common paper does.

Hope to see more letters this week. Good luck to all.

RURAL AUNTY (Club No. 4.)

TRIP OVER MOHAWK TRAIL

Dear Editor and All the Friends: What a fine Indian summer we are having. Well, I have returned home from my trip over the Mohawk Trail. It was a fine trip. We took in all the sights. We had a fine view from Mt. Tom over a large tract of country over hills and valleys. I think it would be much nicer in mid-summer, but it was fine now. We were gone ten days.

We had no trouble until about one-half mile from home. Our old ark was sailing along fine. All at once a large old battleship came around the corner and took us amidships. Say, in two seconds we were a sight. One front turned around to see if her mate was there. Yes, she was. "All right, our the left mudguard drying to see if it was on the top deck. Well, I had to walk the half mile home. Hubby said "Gol durn the luck, but it is better here than on Mt. Tom. My sakes, yes." Well, he left the old boat at anchor beside the road. The next morning he got a friend to tow her into drydock in the back yard.

Well, Ephraim, the cat, was so glad we got home and Catchum, the dog was too. We got a neighbor to look after them while we were gone. I surely am glad to be home again.

Nonesopretty: Wish you had been with us. You are such a lover of natural scenes. It was just grand. I took some pictures. I am coming up to see you when the old boat is out of drydock and all rigged up to sail over the hills once more.

Providence Rose: I passed by your house and all I saw was Rosebud with his fists full of candy.

Icavilla: Would like to see you. Hope you don't freeze up this winter.

Well, goodbye to all the friends.

VELVIE.

POINTERS ON MANY THINGS

Dear Editor and Members: Thanks very much for the yellow slip. It will come in very handy at this time of the year.

Today is like a spring day. It is so warm. We have no cause to complain, this fall has been wonderful, so far.

In these days of overheated homes the bowl of water containing growing bulbs or plants is beneficial as well as pretty. The evaporation of the water takes some of the dryness out of the atmosphere. This is a good time of the year to start bulbs. It gives you quite a little cheer through some of the winter months. Try putting them in the dark for a week when you first start them. That gives them a good firm root hold that you will not get if they are started in the light.

Do you find that the marshmallows often stick to the fork when toasting them? The next time have ready a cube of butter. Thrust the fork or stick into it before putting on your marshmallow. It will not stick.

For stormy days and Sunday afternoons, keep a pile of old magazines, blunt scissors, colored crayons and make some paste and let the children cut, paste and color. They will be delighted. It is educational as well as letting the kiddies do something they really like to do.

Have you ever found it difficult to find a bed for a visiting baby? The next time you need a tiny bed, remove one of your bureau drawers and place a folded blanket or a flat pillow in the bottom. Put it across two chairs and you will have a safe and comfortable bed.

Some women were left with long-armed gloves on hand after long gloves went out of style. They can be made usable by cutting off the extra length and hemming them at the cuff. If they are faded or turned yellow, dye them a dark color.

Brickton: Thanks for goitahs; also to the others that sent them in.

BELLA DEE.

DISGRACING OUR CITY COUSINS

Dear Corner Sisters: I am sending in a few words about disgracing our city cousins. By rights this article should be read by city folks. I am writing this because a party from the city was here a while ago and got off a big speel about folks in the country on the farm, and the clothes they wear. Though no longer backswoodsy, farm people cannot keep up to the minute in styles, so now and then we hear something about our country cousins afflicting themselves upon their high-toned city relatives. We farm folks can sympathize with those city relations, for we too have suffered with them.

A while back a party came to visit me from one of our large cities. I had often visited her in her home and know she has an abundance of pretty clothes. When she came to my home she wore a pretty outing suit and hat, but that was the extent of her visible wardrobe. The next morning she asked to borrow a dress to lounge in and I offered her a kimona. She said she just wanted something that I never wore. I took her at her word and gave her a cast-off dress that I had discarded. It was clean but full of snags. She lounged in that dress all the time she was here. But imagine my dismay when some friends came from the city to visit me. If she ever feels as ashamed of me as I did her of that lovely June morning I'll treat.

A friend of mine has a wealthy Chicago cousin who last summer deigned to visit her. My first meeting with this "high class" (?) cousin was one long to be remembered. She was sitting with the family group under the trees. She had on a faded dressing sacque a mile too long for her and a dingy sport sk

MYSTIC SPEEDER FINED FIFTY DOLLARS AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 23—Before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third District court Friday, Joseph S. Santin, 29, of Mystic, was charged with the operation of a Studebaker car on the morning of Wednesday, November 14th, at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper, on Franklin street. He pleaded guilty. Judge Williams fined him $50 and costs.

Other court business was disposed of as follows: Complaint and search warrant served, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly vs. Angelo Sposato. An appearance was entered by Attorney Clarence E. Roche for the liquors and vessels seized in a raid on the premises on Pierce street. Case continued one week.

Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T. of Westerly, David A. Lowry commander, is in receipt of a communication from the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar from the office of the committee on Christmas observance, dated Hamilton, Ohio, October 20th, the sentiment prepared for William L. Sharp, most eminent grand master, of Chicago, and his response. By direction of Eminent Sir Clarence E. Burleigh, grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar and the appendant orders of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the fifty-three subordinate commanderies, including Narragansett, are directed to hold their Christmas observance Tuesday, December 25, at some convenient hour, preferably at noon.

Automobile traffic through Westerly Friday afternoon and evening continued with increasing volume of cars headed for New Haven and attendance at the Harvard-Yale football game. The early hours of this (Saturday) morning are expected to show an even larger number of westbound auto parties. State troopers, on the Nooseneck road, and the Westerly police on through Westerly streets will be on the alert in an effort to prevent accidents. Railroad officials and members of the railroad traffic and maintenance departments have gone over preliminary plans to safeguard and protect the heavy through traffic in special football trains. At Westerly the usual force of railroad employes is augmented by an extra trainmaster, car inspectors, plumbers, electricians and section men. Regular through expresses are also operated in sections.

PLUMBER WAS INJURED WORKING AT CHARLESTOWN

Walter Thorp, a Pawcatuck plumbing contractor, is a patient at his West Side home, suffering from injuries received Thursday morning while employed at his business in Charlestown, R. I. He fell through an open register hole and among injuries received, was a bad cut on the leg. Dr. L. H. Johnson was called and took several stitches to close the wound. His condition was reported as more comfortable Friday afternoon.

VILLAGE DOG WILL SING TO PIANO ACCOMPANIMENT

Lester Smith has the only singing bulldog in the village, named Niffey. Whenever a piano starts playing, the dog will sing. This week he drew a crowd of 20 to hear him. His master, Smith, said, "What do you say, old boy? Shake a leg for the crowd," and the dog will do a fox trot and make a bow. The crowd gave the dog applause and cheers. He will speak for his meat and potatoes. When it is time to close the waiting room Niffey will be in the back room, but when Master Smith will get the change ready, even if the dog is asleep, he will hear it and will be at his master's feet, ready to go home. If Mrs. Smith will say, "Get me my sewing basket," the dog will bring it. It has taken several months to train Niffey. Mr. Smith says he has been offered $200 for the Boston bulldog, but he has been with them for a good many years and money cannot buy him. Mr. Smith's brother, Ira, got the puppy when only a week old and took it home in his pocket from Eastern Point. Now Niffey is getting on to his 14th year and knows many tricks.

FUNERAL

Edgar Ashbey

Funeral services for Edgar Ashbey were held at his home Thursday afternoon, many friends and relatives being present. Rev. E. E. Weise of the Baptist church conducted the services. The fire company sent a large and beautiful floral pillow, as Mr. Ashbey had been steward of the company for a number of years. Prayer was offered at the grave by Rev. Mr. Weise. Floral pieces from many friends were laid on the grave. The bearers were Leo Shandeor, Lester Smith, Edward Morgan, Neil Morrison, Fred Fitzpatrick and Walter Palmer.

Herman Fowler has returned to Hartford after attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, Edgar Ashbey.

Taftville Loses to Noank

Taftville Whirlwinds' basketball team came by automobile to the Fishing Village to play the fast-going Cod Chasers' five, under the watchful eye of Coach Hurry Up Ebbetts. The game took place before about 125 fans at the Town hall, Thursday evening. Noank came out on the floor, wearing new suits, Capt. Radio W. Buddington leading. Their colors are blue and white with a large W on the jerseys. The fans cheered them for several minutes. Then came the Taftville five in their red and blue suits. They were in charge of Captain Duerr. The Mill Town boys got a big hand for those two teams are rivals like Yale and Harvard and both captains were claiming that they were going to win. Noank was on the east basket, Taftville on the west. Cannon Ball Marks made a long shot the length of the floor for the first score for Noank Whirlwinds. The Mill Town evened it up with a one-hand throw by Flash Duerr. Taftville showed the fans some clever pass work that had Noank guessing for a few minutes; but the Cod Chasers got going and were soon passing the ball at a fast clip. The first quarter ended with Noank in front, 9 to 8. After two minutes' rest, Timer Rathbun's whistle started them on the second quarter. Again Cannon Ball Marks got three baskets in a row. The Mill Town tossers could not find the hoop and the ball would go around and drop off the basket. The first half ended, Noank 22, Taftville 12. Coach Hurry Up Ebbetts gave a tip to his players and showed where the spots were, weak on the team, while Coach Billie MacCann for Whirlwinds was letting his sharpshooters have the rest. Again the sound of the whistle of Timer E. Rathbun was heard for the third quarter and Lanky Chesebro found the hoop for two pretty shots. String Bean Clark also had his good right eye for the Cod Chasers and made a few long shots. Cannon Ball Marks had to leave the game, for Noank had four fouls. His place was taken by Deer Butson. The third quarter was over, Noank still showing the way—33 to 22. Radio Buddington, left guard for Noank, played a great floor game and kept down Flash Duerr. That told the story—Noank 42, Taftville 29. Lanky Chesebro and Radio Buddington were the stars for the Cod Chasers. Taftville's stars were Duerr and Adams.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 13, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hope, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's favor."—ARTHUR SKILES, 335 N. Keeler Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MAKING A GOOD THING BETTER

Five years ago we created a balanced Ration which, when submitted to Dairy Specialists, received complete approval.

We marketed this feed under the name:

Big (Y) Dairy Ration

Practical results from every standpoint bore out the theoretic approval of the specialists.

Today the status of:

BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION

has reached the enviable point of being unquestionably the

STANDARD OF COMPARISON

of all Dairy feeds sold in Eastern Connecticut.

To meet the idea now established that MOLASSES added to a good feed increases its palatability, we are adding MOLASSES to

BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION

In doing so we are in no way sacrificing any qualities which have given to the feed the popularity it has justly earned.

The particular advantage of added palatability will assure keener desire among your cows to clean up the feed—act as a conditioner—and show decided sleekness in their appearance.

Uncas Dairy Feed

(With Molasses)

is the 20% protein feed made of exactly the same ingredients as BIG (Y) DAIRY RATION, and, with good clover hay or alfalfa hay, is the proper feed.

Like the remainder of our plant, the Molasses unit is modern in every way. In point of size, thoroughness and efficiency, it is first in this state and among the best in New England.

Make us a visit. You will be pleased to see the efficient up-to-date methods, the cleanliness and the care, which assure the safety of feeding feeds made in our plant.

NORWICH, CONN.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week, announcement was made that the Norwich Aurora would resume publication. The Aurora ceased publication shortly before that time and was subsequently taken over by Charles Wilbertowe Denison. The resumption of publication was scheduled to take place Thanksgiving week of that year. Following interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of November 1878:

Monday, Nov. 18, 1878—The town of Colchester, which voted license by a small majority, elected two democratic selectmen, who promptly refuse to license dealers in intoxicants. Can it be that the party is going back on its record? Only two persons have been granted licenses in Franklin and it is said that no more will be granted.

The ladies of the Greeneville Congregational church give a tea party both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, in order to raise funds for the payment of the debt incurred in furnishing the church. A bountiful supper will be served each evening. A very low admission charge is charged.

There was a rumor, Saturday, that the Hon. Mr. Montgomery was horsewhipped by enemies while on his way from a railroad train. As Mr. Montgomery was absent from the city on Saturday, and knew nothing of the occurrence, it is safe to assume that the story is unwarranted.

Tuesday, Nov. 19, 1878—The first social will be next Friday evening the 22d. Enough names have been procured to guarantee success. Mr. George A. Davis, with Noyes and Davis, has the book and takes the names. Members wishing to join will leave their names with him and be on hand at Steiner's hall at eight o'clock p. m.

A "faithful few" only of the Provident society gathered in the mayor's office, in City hall, last evening, in their annual meeting, the severe storm preventing a full attendance. The session was accordingly adjourned until next Monday night.

The Hook and Ladder Co. decided, at a meeting last evening, to hold their masquerade ball on the 13th of December.

The Central M. E. church give an old fashioned supper in the rooms of the Reform club, tomorrow evening, for the benefit of the Sunday school.

Wednesday, Nov. 20, 1878 — Mr. Charles Wilberforce Denison has purchased the Norwich Aurora Printing establishment of th e Hon. William L. Brewer, and is to continue the publication of the newspaper.

We learn that it was the town of Columbia and not Colchester which selectmen refuse to grant licenses to liquor dealers.

The ship General McClellan, Charles A. Wheeler of this city, master, arrived at San Francisco, Monday.

We are glad to announce that the diphtheria has almost entirely disappeared from the city.

The Rev. O. S. Seymour will deliver the second lecture in the Otis Library series this evening on "Sunday Reading". Let this room be filled.

The shop windows betoken the approach of the holidays.

Thursday, Nov. 21, 1878—The Uncas Ribbon company of Preston, which made an assignment last week in favor of its creditors, has liabilities to the amount of $45,000. Its assets consist of machinery nominally valued at $40,000 and real estate mortgaged for $5,000, to equity and open accounts.

Through the commendable efforts of the Hon. John T. Wait, the oil portraits of Edmund Perkins, Sheriff George Bliss and Henry Strong are soon to be placed in the room of the superior court. Sheriff Bliss' painting is to occupy the middle wall, opposite the judge's desk and the other pictures are to occupy the side walls.

The daring house-breaker who broke into the dwelling of Mrs. Rebecca W. Lester of Bean Hill, on Sunday morning last, has not been detected. It was believed that the man was a resident of the neighborhood, but the traces of the crime are so slight, that it is feared he will escape.

Friday, Nov. 22, 1878—The Norwich Banner of this city made its farewell appearance, last Saturday. It perished in the same frost that froze the petals of Benjamin F. Butler.

Mr. George G. Bottom recently sold his fine house on Laurel Hill to Mr. George Kies.

Will someone analyze our city water and determine whether it intoxicates or otherwise? An up-town man discovered a worm in his drinking cup, the other morning and is anxious to know what his condition really is.

Saturday, Nov. 23, 1878—In the event of the appointment of General S. R. Smith to the adjutant general's office, Colonel W. H. Tubbs, a native of this city, and member of the Third Regiment, is the lineal successor to the command of the First Brigade, C. N. G., he being its senior colonel.

The publication of the Norwich Aurora is to be resumed at once and the first issue will be published on the day preceding Thanksgiving, next week.

The market stalls are filling up with poultry. The Thanksgiving display is unusually fine this season.

It is predicted that severe cold weather will immediately succeed the present storm—that is, if the storm breaks up before the summer equinox.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Unfair Hunter

True sportsmen take the utmost care That what they do be not unfair.
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

Up in his home tree Rusty the Fox Squirrel was peering down at a barking dog and a hunter with a terrible gun. The hunter was looking up in the tree. He had not yet discovered Rusty. He was looking for him, for he knew that he was up in that tree. Rusty was clinging close to the other side of the trunk and peeping around. Presently the hunter began to walk in a circle around the tree, so that he could see all sides of it. Then Rusty had to move. He had to keep that tree between him and the hunter. The hunter caught a glimpse of him.

"Ha!" he exclaimed. "A Fox Squirrel, and a fat one! He will make a good squirrel stew." He held his gun in readiness to shoot and continued to walk around the tree. By moving quickly he caught a glimpse of Rusty long enough to throw his gun up and shoot. Fortunately, Rusty dodged at that very instant. But the shot tore the bark of the tree and the bang of the gun gave Rusty a terrible fright. "Missed you that time, old fellow," exclaimed the hunter, "but I'll get you next time!"

But there wasn't to be a next time. Rusty watched his chance and when he had the tree between himself and the hunter he darted down and into his home. The hunter caught just a glimpse of Rusty's big plume of a tail as it disappeared in the entrance hole.

The hunter knew now that he had no chance of shooting Rusty unless he could get him out of that hole. He examined the tree carefully. He discovered that down near the bottom of it was a hole, and that the hollow seemed to extend up.

"Ha!" he exclaimed. "A Fox Squirrel, and a fat one."

"The chances are," said the hunter, talking to his dog, "that if this hollow doesn't go clear up to where that Squirrel is, it at least connects with it. I think we'll try smoking him out."

So the hunter made a little fire in the hollow at the foot of the tree, and on this he put damp leaves, which made a great smoke. Then he stood back to watch the hole where Rusty had disappeared, holding his gun in readiness to shoot Rusty the instant he came out. Can you think of anything more unfair? Rusty had been smart enough to escape that hunter and it was only fair that he should be allowed the safety he had been smart enough to win. But there are some people who haven't the least idea of fairness. This is true of many of those who hunt. These hunters are not sportsmen. Sportsmen are always fair. A real sportsman would have gone awya to hunt for some one else and left Rusty alone. But this hunter was not a sportsman.

By and by the smoke began to creep out from knotholes and little cracks higher up in the tree. But, so far, there was no smoke coming out of the hole into which Rusty had gone. The hunter waited and waited. No Rusty appeared. At last the hunter knew that there was no connection between that hollow where Rusty was and the hollow where the fire was. The smoke hadn't reached Rusty at all. There was no way of getting him out of that tree excepting to cut the tree down, and this was too much of a job. So finally the unfair hunter put out the fire at the foot of the tree, called off his dog and went to hunt for some one else.

hand and described the many ancient methods and modes that still exist among the inhabitants. He also spoke along the lines of the wonderful progress that is being made among the Indians of India. Relating the interesting facts as to their original ideas and their adoption of the American and European inventions to speed production. Dr. Miller devoted a portion of his address to the education of the Hindu and the amount of money being devoted to this human necessity. While in India Dr. Miller is head of the Pasuma high, training and normal schools, all operating for the interests of the Indian boys and girls under the same name. Dr. Miller is now touring America, he being home from India on his third furlough and is highly in demand as a speaker, especially on the subject of India, its life and customs.

According to Chief of Police James M. Hetherman of Webster, the town has a "bobbed haired" bandit of 12 years of age who was responsible for engineering a break at a Webster home on Armistice day when the entire community was admiring the parade in observance of the day. The 12 year old girl, with two confederates, a boy of six and another of 8 entered the home and stole belongings valued at about $50. Officer Roy Burns of the Webster police obtained a clue that led to the apprehension of the desperate trio. Questioning by Chief Hetherman led the children to return the articles. The bobbed haired "queen" will be arraigned before a juvenile court, police said today.

The engineers engaged in the repair of the Providence street bridge, are now able to rush their project and place the bridge in a strong and durable condition, since the much awaited iron material, especially manufactured for this type of service has arrived. The engineers and their gangs were working on the north side of the span this morning making ready for the new beams that will soon supplant the rusted material which is now unsafe. The structure has been closed to traffic since August, and many are handicapped by the long detour route down Main street that must be made by autoists in order to reach the north end of the city. The contractor feels that about a month and a half will be needed to complete the work of repairs.

Friends of Thomas Caffery of Attawaugan, who for the past decade has been employed in Putnam, were shocked to learn of his sudden death Thursday evening, when he suffered a fatal attack and passed away shortly after. For the past three years, Mr. Caffery has been employed at the Bruce Chevrolet company on Front street as an automobile salesman. Previous to his automobile experience Mr. Caffery was employed as a clerk in the yard office of the New Haven railroad in this city. Mr. Caffery, during his long term of years spent in Putnam, became widely known and has scores of friends and acquaintances in Putnam the northern part of Windham county where he has worked.

IN 6,942,300 SHARES MARKET PRICES ENDED ABOUT WHERE THEY STARTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(AP)—The stock market cavorted about wildly as the pace of trading was quickened to another new speed record today, and ended up about where it started. Total sales touched 6,942,300 shares, nearer the 7,000,000 mark than ever before. Some two score issues were driven to new high levels in gains running to a maximum of 30 points, but some of the wide gains were more than wiped out, and the close found a wide sprinkling of net losses of 1 to 15 points.

The "bull" campaign went forward at a terrific pace during the forenoon, but shied at a phantom at midday and turned a complete somersault, only to recover its footing and push forward in powerful fashion in the late trading. At the close scores of issues registered net gains of 1 to 20 points. Despite the emergency measure of omitting the volume of sales, the ticker fell nearly an hour behind the trading.

When it was announced before midday, however, that the Federal Reserve bank would make an important announcement at 1 o'clock, many traders had visions of a warning of credit inflation, took fright and began to liquidate their holdings. Added to this was the decision of the exchange to close tomorrow to give the overworked brokerage houses a chance to dig their way out of the confusion of the two weeks of frenzied trading. This caused an abnormally large volume of week end profit taking.

When the federal reserve statement proved to be only the announcement that George L. Harrison had been chosen governor to succeed the late Benjamin Strong, a number of traders who had sold out in the flurry hastened to buy back. In the final reckoning, the Associated Press average price of 20 industrials was depressed less than a point, and the average of 20 rails made about a quarter point gain.

The day's news was largely favorable, including a number of extra dividends and the announcement that an exchange seat had been sold at the record price of $550,000, which was $20,000 above the last sale.

The wild tossing about of Wright Aero is an extreme example of what the more volatile issues went through. It rushed up 19 points to 289 at the early trading, then fell back at midday to 261, down 9 points net. During the afternoon it jumped back to 271, up 1 net, but in the closing sales it fell to 226 for a net loss of 15. Case Threshing soared about 30 points to 515, but lost all except 3 points of the gain. Radio fluctuated between a net gain of 6 and a net loss of 13 and closed 6 points down. Curtiss Aero went through a similar performance and closed with a small gain.

American Railway Express mounted 20 points to a new peak. Canadian Pacific advanced about 10 points to 251, the highest price in years, but lost about half the gain. New Haven stepped up about 4 points to 77 3-8, the highest price in years, and ere Marquette also broke into new high ground.

General Motors was again in demand, the old stock making an extreme gain of nearly 7 points to 215 1-2 and the new stock stepping up 2 points. Chandler Cleveland touched a new peak at 24 on reports that it would be acquired by Hupp, but Hupp easted a fraction, Chrysler and Packard turned heavy. Nash forged ahead nearly 5 points to a new peak at 106 7-8.

Some of the coppers again were in heavy demand, Andes ennecott and Nevada touching new tops.

International Nickel bounded up 14 1-2 points to a new peak at 205 1-2, and closed at 203. Gold Dust and Coty made extreme gains of about 8 to 10 points in heavy demand, and Mohawk Carpet touched a new top at 69.

Standard of California was the strong spot in the oil group, mounting more than 3 points to another new high. Detroit Edison led the utilities with an extreme gain of 11 points.

Steel shares generally sagged, although Bethlehem approached its praevious high and made a small gain.

Allied Chemical, American Can, International Telephone, Johns Manville and International Harvester were among issues selling off 1 to 5 points. Victor Talking Machine sold up more than 6 points to a new peak, then fell back 12.

In the commodity markets cotton was again strong, but gains were reduced in realizing toward the close. Grains were inclined to sag.

Foreign exchanges were quiet. Yen rallied slightly, and the Canadian dollar lost a little of its premium as result of the gold movement from New York.

NEW CATHOLIC PASTOR ORDAINED IN BELGIUM

This week's Catholic Transcript says: Bishop Nilan announced Thursday the appointment of Rev. William F. O'Brien as pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, Baltic. Father O'Brien has been assistant at St. Brendan's church, New Haven, for the past five years. He succeeds his namesake, Rev. William T. O'Brien, whose mortal remains were laid to rest October 24.

A native of New Britain, Father O'Brien received his early education at St. Mary's parochial school in that city, passing thence for his classical studies to St. Thomas' seminary, at Hartford. He made his course in philosophy and theology at the American College, Louvain, Belgium, and was ordained there July 9, 1911.

His first assignment was to St John's, Watertown, in September 1911. Two years later he was transferred to St Thomas', Waterbury, and the following year to St. Patrick's Thompsonville. After spending nine years at Thompsonville, he was appointed in September, 1923, to St. Brendan's, New Haven, which he now leaves to assume his first pastorate.

Throughout his priestly career Father O'Brien has distinguished himself for his zeal, breadth of vision and superb kindliness. Not the least of his accomplishments is his mastery of the art of wit and flashing repartee. He goes to his first pastoral assignment well equipped by temperament and training to carry on the burden laid down by his well-beloved predecessor.

OLD MARRIAGE CUSTOM FOUNDED ON IRISH ROCKS

VALENCIA, Ireland (AP)—The Skelligs list is at once the dread and the joy of unmarried Irish youths and maidens in this westernmost point of Europe.

The list is nothing more than a succession of names of such young men and women, but it is supposed to bring them a wife or a husband within a year if their name is upon it.

The Skelligs list is the survival of an ancient custom founded on the Skelligs rocks, two huge rocks, 650 feet high, which protrude from the ocean 14 miles from the coast. When young men and women, so ran the legend, refused to marry, they were taken to the rocks and left there for a week. At the end of the week they were forced to marry other obstinate young eligibles.

The great Skelling rock was once the site of a religious foundation dedicated to the archangel, St. Michael. The remains of the cells and chapel of the monastery are still well preserved. They are mostly of conical shape, and are built of uncemented stones.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, held its regular meeting, which was also its annual inspection, in Buckingham Memorial, Tuesday, at 8 p. m. with the president, Mrs. Lillian B. Newbury, presiding. Previous to the meeting a turkey supper was served. Seventeen new members were initiated into the tent. The department inspector, Mrs. Mary E. Yale, of Bridgeport, commended the tent very highly for its efficient work. Guests were present from all over the state, Dept. Comdr. George A. Tucker and staff of the Grand Army of the Republic, Dept. President Mrs. Jennie S. Newbury of the D. of U. V. of Norwich, and the following members of her staff were also present, all speaking in the highest terms of the splendid work of Clara Barton tent: Mrs. Minnie E. Mathieu, senior vice-president, of Willimantic; First Council Member Mrs. Augusta Ranney, of Hartford; Second Council Member Mrs. Lucy G. MacDougall, of Norwich; Patriotic Instructor Mrs. Minnie E. Tyrell, of Hartford; Department Secretary Mrs. Lillian E. Brewster, of Norwich; Guide Miss Gladys B. Newbury, of Norwich; Assistant Guide Mrs. Marion Withe of Middletown; Department Musician Mrs. Edith Milliren, of Hartford; Department Color Bearer, No. 1, Miss Lois Wakefield, of New Britain; No. 2, Mrs. Harriette Davis, of Hartford, and Department Chief of Staff Mrs. Annie B. Turner, of Norwich.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, is anticipating a meeting of unusual interest for its gathering next Wednesday evening in Steiner hall, when the programme is for a musical evening which will be in charge of Mrs. Helena M. T. Church.

Bozrah grange, No. 141, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening in the Town hall there with Worthy Master Charles E. Davis in the chair. Roll call of officers found all present with the exception of the secretary and assistant steward.

Instruction in the third and fourth degrees was given to five candidates by the Mystic degree team. During the entire ceremony, beautiful tableaux were given, which were very impressive.

Worthy Deputy Halldwell and Master Maine assisted in exemplifying the degree work. After the degree work a very attractive floor drill was given by Mystic grange.

There were grange members present from the neighboring towns, Mystic, Norwich, Franklin, Ledyard and North Stonington; total in attendance 102. George Brooks of Mystic presented $5 to Bozrale grange which was accepted with appreciation.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Mystic degree team for their very fine work.

WOMAN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION

Ten members of the Norwich review, Woman's Benefit association, attended the rally of the South Manchester review Tuesday night. The trip was made by automobiles. A very fine turkey supper was served by the review of South Manchester at the Sheridan hotel. There were all kinds of noise-making horns, and many pretty favors and whistles. Speeches and toasts were a feature of the banquet. A special guest of the evening was Supreme Musical Director Jackson of Illinois, who had many witty toasts to present. After the banquet a meeting was held at Odd Fellows' hall. The degree teams of the N. B. Stowe review of Hartford and of Mystic review of South Manchester won much applause for their fine drill work. A large class of candidates was initiated, among them two members from Norwich review. The members returned home at a late hour, having had a most enjoyable evening.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The social meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 12, was held in the assembly rooms Tuesday evening; Miss Mary Hamill, presiding. During the business session, the following announcements were made: The annual mass for deceased members will be celebrated by the assembly chaplain, Rev. William A. Keefe, at St. Mary's Memorial church next Tuesday morning at 7:30. Every member is urged to attend this mass. Plans have been made for a public whist, bridge and pinochle to be held in the rooms by the members of the drill team. A public whist is also to be held in the rooms in the near future by members of the assembly for the benefit of a Christmas fund for the children who are patients at the Seaside sanatorium. There is to be a meeting of the drill team in the rooms Monday evening at 7:30. At the first meeting in December election of officers for the year 1929 will be held. A Christmas party has been planned for the December social meeting and everyone who attends will be required to bring a present hut to cost more than ten cents. Miss James Stanley has been appointed chairman of the Christmas committee for the year. Five committees plan to repeat what was done the 1928 time last year, namely to raise by popular subscription of the members cash contributions enough to send baskets of Christmas cheer to the worst of veterans in the Norwich hospitals. Every member is urged to cooperate with the committee in order that the assembly may do a little bit for those who did so much for us. During the social hour that followed the business session, a social time was had, prizes for bridge and whist were awarded to Miss Helen Hamilton, who attained the high score at bridge, and to Miss Germaine Dachette, who attained the high score at whist.

The Wandering Minstrels under the direction of Miss Helen Twomey, were successfully presented in South Manchester on Wednesday evening for the benefit of St. James' church. Gibbon's assembly, C. L. of C., served the minstrel troupe a very delicious supper, following the performance.

A shower was held in the rooms Thursday evening, by members of the degree team for Miss Mae Riley, who is soon to be married. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white, and the favors of the same color were distributed to all present. A delicious supper was served by members of the team, and the evening was very enjoyable. Miss Riley is a popular member of the assembly. She has held office several times and was also a member of the degree team.

EAGLES

Norwich aerie, No. 367, is preparing for the class initiation which is to be the feature of its annual Thanksgiving eve turkey supper, tonight. Prominent speakers from other cities in the state are expected to be here as speakers.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 14, will hold a class initiation in Steiner hall on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. It is expected that about 100 candidates will be prepared to take the degrees at that time. Buckingham Council will be favored with the presence of some of the national officers and state officers. As it is very hard to get the National officers to come to Norwich for such an occasion it is expected that a large percentage of the local brothers will be present to welcome them. The initiation will be followed by a baked bean and salad supper prepared by the social committee.

The council is planning to run a barn dance at which both square and round dances will be featured by the orchestra. The officers ask the members to show their loyalty to the Order by being on hand this (Saturday) evening to welcome the visiting officials.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Sedgwick Women's Relief corps, No. 12, met in the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Inez N. Hill in the chair. The regular reports were read and approved. The report of the supper and sale showed a profit of $85. It was voted to send donations to the Red Cross, The Rutland Heights Cromwell Home, the nurses fund and the child welfare. A good delegation from Norwich corps attended the meeting of the Department of Long Corps in Willimantic last Wednesday evening. Everyone reported a good time. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and sing "America."

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

At the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H. No. 54, Mrs. Mary V. O'Neil was appointed chairman of a whist and pinochle to be held soon. The assisting committee comprises Mrs. Mary Cox, Mrs. Nellie O'Neil, Miss Catherine Coughlin and Mrs. Annie Brooks. An interesting attraction of the evening will be the giving away of a pair of live broilers.

Mrs. Annie Connelly reported a pleasing sum was realized from the recent whist and pinochle of which she was chairman.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening, with Senior Regent Minnie Smith presiding. For the good of the order Past Regent Teresa Watters announced a bazaar to be held in December.

Under new business, Legionnaire Nora Willett was installed as junior regent, by Past Regent Vera Sterry as installing officer. The following officers were nominated for the coming year: Senior regent, Nora Willett; Emma Beaver, Evelyn Kane; junior regent, Marie LaValle, Vera Sterry; chaplain, Irene Burns; recorder, Ethel Hosier; treasurer, Mary Edwards; Annie Heibel. At the first meeting in December there will be election of officers. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the lounging suite boy, Alfred Burns.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre

The hard-boiled Sergeant Quirt of "What Price Glory" has become a naive immaculately clad young man about town.

For Edmund Lowe who achieved unusual prominence through his forceful portrayal of the tough, wo-fisted soldier of this war story is now appearing in a drastically different characterization in support of Colleen Moore in "Happiness Ahead," which opens an engagement of four days at the Bread theatre tomorrow night.

Not only does Lowe's character in "Happiness Ahead" contrast sharply with the type of his previous best portrayal, but as sophisticated city man he provided an interesting foil for Miss Moore's characterization as a guileless country girl. It is convincing evidence of his ability that Lowe gives a performance quite as finished in "Happiness Ahead" as he did as Sergeant Quirt.

Edmund Goulding wrote "Happiness Ahead," which William A. Seiter directed from a scenario by Benjamin Glazer. The cast appearing in support of Colleen Moore in this screen story, which John McCormick produced for First National, includes Lilyan Tashman, Blythe Chapman, Charles Sellon, Arthur Housman, Robert Elliott and Virginia Sale in prominent roles.

Strand Theatre

"The Wise Wife," Arthur Somers Roache story produced by Cecil B. DeMille and starring Phyllis Haver will head the double feature bill at the Strand theatre tomorrow night.

A marital comedy, somewhat spicy, is served up as the blonde Phyllis Haver's initial starring vehicle. This young lady, whose forte is a vampish role, has the dizzy part of a young wife who arouses her spouse's waning interest by flirting with another man. The title refers to her wife and strategies employed against the other woman, Jacqueline Logan.

This type of entertainment will be especially enjoyed by married folk, we imagine, as there are satire and parodies on the intricacies of married life. With a plot like this many interesting and comical situations can arise. It is a piquant mixture of hate incredulity, feminine fickleness and impetuously casting what is beyond their reach.

"Roaring Broncos," starring Buffalo Bill Jr., is the added feature. Other features on this bill include the first chapter of "The Masked Menace," Pathe's new mystery chapter play, Aesop's Fable and a News Reel.

Next Week at United Church

The regular meeting of the Sodalitas will be held in the Junior department rooms of the church school at 7:30 on Monday evening. Members are to come prepared to help with work for Christmas and to bring with them a toy, game or book to send in the box to Ellis Island.

The executive council will meet in the pastor's study at 7:30.

Charitable circle of King's Daughters will meet in the junior department rooms of the church school on Tuesday evening.

Vacuum Oil Co.

Although winter today does not cut down motoring to any great extent it does present certain problems of car upkeep which either are unknown during the summer or are less severe. Chief among these is the problem of dilution of the crankcase oil by unburned fuel.

Engineers of the Vacuum Oil company, makers of Gargoyle Mobiloil, who have gone carefully into this problem, point out that thinned, diluted oil may cause a number of lubrication difficulties. Among these are scored pistons, cylinders and bearings and rapid abrasion and wear of moving parts, due to failure of the thin oil completely to separate these parts.

In winter driving judicious use of the choke and correct carburetor adjustment are essential in order to assure complete vaporization of the fuel, the Mobiloil engineers emphasize. An over-rich carburetor adjustment will cause incomplete combustion of the fuel and the remaining unburned fuel will go toward diluting the crankcase oil. The flood of raw gasoline caused by "choke" will have the same effect in diluting the oil.

Use of an incorrect oil also may be responsible for dilution, the engineers declare. Should the oil not provide a proper piston ring seal, excessive blow by will result, carrying with its abnormal dilution.

It is pointed out that attention to carburetor adjustment, moderate use of the carburetor choke, proper control of cooling water temperatures and dependence upon a high grade lubricant made from crudes especially selected to secure an oil that thoroughly lubricates under hard driving conditions, as well as circulates, at zero temperatures will, provided the mechanical features of the car are up to standard, prevent excessive and rapid dilution of the crankcase oil.

Winter puts a heavy load on lubrication. The engine oil must flow freely at zero to get a quick start and yet be heavy enough in body to cushion the moving parts against wear.

The Mobiloil chart of automotive recommendations, recognized among motorists everywhere as an authoritative guide to proper lubrication, gives Mobiloil Arctic as the correct winter oil for more than 90 per cent of all car makes and models. Rigid tests conducted by the Mobiloil engineers show that whereas many oils flow at zero Mobiloil Arctic not only flows freely but provides thorough lubrication at zero.

LINCOLN'S GRANDDAUGHTER GIVES BELLS TO MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A chime of bronze bells, the gift of Abraham Lincoln's granddaughter, will be placed in restored spire of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church here, which is to be a memorial to Lincoln.

The bells are the gift of Mary Lincoln Isham and the company which is making them was headed for many years by Clinton Hanks Meneely, who was related to Lincoln through his mother, Philena Hanks Meneely.

Announcing—

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History . . . a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet achievements have been in the past . . . notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations! The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete detailed information about this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.
